HAGUE COMPROMISE LIKELY TO SATISFY BRITISH CLAIMS; SNOWDEN NOW FOR DELAY

CONCESSIONS ARE DISCUSSED

France May Give Some of Unconditional Payments.

German Delegate Maintains Deliveries in Kind Are an Economic Necessity.

RHINELAND ISSUE TAKEN UP

Britain Declares for Evacuation as Briand Spars for Time—Experts Discuss It Today.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Aug. 12.—Chancellor of the Exchequer Snowden, who last Friday had no time to wait for an answer to his demands, proposed today that the financial commission adjourn until Wednesday.

This gives a good indication of the developments here. The fiery Chancellor of the Exchequer has apparently seen that he is going too strong and he now shows a willingness to go more slowly. But behind his evident change in disposition there lies something more important.

Between the British and French experts there is going on a series of conversations in an effort to reach a compromise which would partly meet the British effort to get more money out of the Young plan. It is possible that Mr. Snowden has seen that it would be an almost impossible task to attempt an official revision in the distribution of percentages under the Young plan and that he is willing to accept Premier Briand's idea of seeing what could be done toward satisfying the English without undertaking the formidable task of revising the experts' work.

Anyhow, that is how it looks tonight and the general expectation is that on Wednesday Louis Loucher, French Minister of Labor, will make formal overtures to the British at the meeting of the financial commission.

MacDonald's Telegram Read.

The English made public today Premier Ramsay MacDonald's telegram to Mr. Snowden. It read:

"The financial commission will make a most serious mistake and it may wreck the immediate prospects of a settlement unless they understand, quite finally, that the experts' report requires readjustment to meet the just claims of this country. Irrespective of party or section, the country supports the case you have made. Every newspaper, so far as I have seen, supports you. I hope most sincerely that your colleagues on the financial commission will see that they have to face the position when the most elementary considerations of fair play, as between country and country, compel reconsideration of some of the recommendations of the report. Our action hitherto in promoting a settlement of Europe on the basis of good-will is proof that we wish this conference to succeed, both on its political and financial sides, but we have reached the limit of inequitable burden-bearing."

The opinion persists among the other delegations that Mr. Snowden must have received another message from Mr. MacDonald advising a compromise.

One Solution Suggested.

What appears to be the situation is that if Mr. Snowden would be content with 48,000,000 marks (about $11,520,000) annually, which England loses, if one figures on the differences caused by the shifting of the tipa percentages, and with certain changes to her advantage in the plan for deliveries in kind, and if he will agree to reach such a settlement in the due process of the negotiations, the conference may go on to a success. If he insists on a committee to alter the Young plan and insists in getting back considerable part of the $1,000,000,000 England has paid to America over what she has received from her debtors, it is difficult to see how the conference can continue successfully. Certainly today's developments indicate he is ready to give up ultimatum procedure after having heavily impressed his case on the conference.

In the concessions suggested, the burden falls most largely on France. Since France gets nearly all of the unconditional payments under the Young plan, it is evident that the giving to England of a larger share in these payments affects France. But, both with respect to cash and with respect to giving up the advan-

20,000 Yards of Earth Slide Into Canal at Cucaracha

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BALBOA, Aug. 12.—The first movement in a number of years in the famous Cucuracha slide took place today when a shelf, ten feet above the water, broke. Approximately 20,000 cubic yards of earth pushed slowly into the canal.

Traffic was not interfered with and it is expected that dredges will be able to clean up in four or five days.

The shelf on the east side of the Cucuracha Gaillard cut has an area of 100 square yards and is holding together satisfactorily.

The slide today was not considered serious by the superintendent of the dredging division.

Cucuracha, the largest slide on the Panama Canal, was once the despair of the engineers. At one time it moved across the entire cut, burying steam shovels, railroad tracks and trains. It has caused little trouble in many years and is believed to be so well under control that it is not likely to cause serious difficulty in the future.

SNOWDEN EXCEEDED CABINET'S DIRECTION

All Britain Still Backs Him, but Feeling Is Evident He Was Too Aggressive.

LONDON RELIEVED BY DELAY

MacDonald Believed to Have Advised Him—Lamont Unlikely to Attend Hague.

By CHARLES A. SELDEN.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—Despite the chorus of approval in the press and from Prime Minister MacDonald and the leaders of all the political parties in England on Philip Snowden's attitude at The Hague, there is ample authentic testimony in London that the doughty Chancellor of the Exchequer has gone further in his aggressiveness than was authorized, or even desired, by the MacDonald Cabinet.

The whole matter of what England's policy should be toward the Young plan was thoroughly discussed by the Cabinet before Mr. Snowden's departure for The Hague, but he was not tied down by any specific instructions as to what he should demand or what he might yield. On the contrary, he was simply told to get what concessions he could in the way of modification of the Young plan to bring it more into accord with the British views as to what is fair and equitable to this country.

Backed to Limit.

Although the British Government believes that all the demands since made by Mr. Snowden at The Hague are justified by facts, there is no unanimity of feeling in the Cabinet that Mr. Snowden should reject the Young plan altogether as the only alternative to getting everything he demands.

However, Mr. Snowden has taken an aggressive line and there is no chance of his colleagues not backing him to the limit, as was plainly indicated today by the open telegram of endorsement sent him by Prime Minister MacDonald.

The telegram was not sent in cypher and was plainly for the public, even more than for Mr. Snowden, but there is good authority in assuming that other telegrams, not for publication, had been sent by Mr. MacDonald to his Chancellor of

WORLD ADVERTISERS ASSEMBLE IN BERLIN; PEACE THEIR KEYNOTE

Ambassador Schurman, Guest, Urges Them to Interpret Nations to Each Other.

RIDDELL HITS OUR TARIFF

Says High American Duties and Money Rates Constitute Great Danger to the World.

MANY AMERICANS SPEAK

Addresses at Day Sessions and at Banquet Stress Aiding Amity—Younggreen Presides.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 12.—The promotion of international amity through the medium of organized advertising provided the recurring motif for a score of formal and informal speeches which today inaugurated the general sessions of the World Advertising Congress, while the speakers at tonight's "International Night" banquet expressed themselves as equally hopeful of the ultimate rôle to be played by advertising in the interrelationship of nations.

That advertising, today viewed primarily as an institution for the promotion of business, is also destined ultimately to play a decisive rôle as a leveler of international, social and political barriers was frankly included in the realm of possibility by various speakers from America, England, France and Germany.

"Who of us sitting here today would twelve years ago have predicted that Americans, Frenchmen and Englishmen would meet in Berlin to discuss advertising methods?" Lord Riddell, head of the British delegation, declared in the course of his address on international trade.

"Advertising and World Peace."

And Dr. Marcel Knecht, secretary general of Le Matin, Paris, speaking on "Advertising and World Peace," contended that if the European States ever succeeded in forming a "United States of Europe," it would not be to work against the United States of America but to collaborate harmoniously with them.

"Instead of worrying and complaining, Europe, the mother of America, should improve certain of her products and should try to understand that collaborators in the manufacture of a commodity are no longer impersonal employes but associates, who are disciplined and enthusiastic," he asserted.

"America, which honors George Washington as the image of equipoise, of justice and of common sense, will easily see that one cannot only export but must also import, that a mutual exchange forms the basis for friendship among free nations."

Schurman Speaks at Banquet.

The diplomatic functions of advertising were presented from the angle of the diplomatist by Jacob Gould Schurman, American Ambassador at Berlin, at tonight's banquet, which packed the large assembly halls of the Zoological Gardens.

"I am far from believing that there is no place for the advertiser in the field of international relations," Dr. Schurman said, adding: "On the contrary, I think that particular field offers scope for the exercise of his highest skill, his largest knowledge and his ripest experience.

"Here the problem is nothing less than the interpretation of the nations of the world to one another. This problem has not yet been solved, or solved only very inadequately, by diplomatists, even with the help of the journalist. Now, if the advertisers can beat us at our own job we shall most heartily welcome them into the arena."

True View Hard to Get.

Continuing, Mr. Schurman said: "The central difficulty is this: It is almost impossible for any nation

Filibusters Attack Cumana City, Venezuela; Routed by Sucre Governor, Who Dies in Fight

By The Associated Press.

CARACAS, Venezuela, Aug. 12.—An attempt today by revolutionists and filibusters to take the city of Cumana resulted in their complete defeat, according to a government announcement, although General Emilio Fernandez, President of the State of Sucre, "died gloriously at the head of the government forces."

Two of the leaders of the attacking force were killed and all others captured except General Francisco Linares Alcantara, the first Minister of the Interior of the republic, who had been in exile for some years. The government captured a large quantity of arms and ammunition.

The raid bore a striking resemblance to the dramatic events of last June, when Venezuelan filibusters kidnapped the Governor of Curacao, looted the police arsenal at Willemstad, the capital, forced an American steamship to carry them to the Venezuelan coast and then attacked the town of Coro, capital of the State of Falcon. These raiders also were defeated in their assault on the town.

According to the government announcement, similar tactics were pursued in the attack on Cumana, a city of about 17,000 population and the capital of Sucre. The filibusters seized an old German merchant steamer named Falke, loaded their arms and sailed into the Manzanares River, near the mouth of which Cumana is located.

The government statement said:

"A group of Venezuelans living abroad, with the purpose of violating the peace of Venezuela, armed the old German merchant steamer Falke and yesterday attacked the city of Cumana. The vessel is not licensed by any nation and lacks authority to navigate, and therefore the steamer Falke, armed to make war and without a legitimate flag, will be considered and punished as a pirate."

This portion of the statement had the force of a Presidential decree.

An accompanying official statement said:

"General Emilio Fernandez, President of the State of Sucre, died gloriously at the head of the government forces opposing the group of revolutionists. They were completely defeated, leaving in the hands of the government a great quantity of arms and ammunition.

"The leaders were General Roman Delgado Chalbaud, General Rafael Maria Carabano and General Francisco Linares Alcantara. Delgado Chalbaud and his adjutant, Armando Zuloaga Blanco, were killed and the following were wounded and taken prisoners: General Carabano, Pancho Angarito Arvelo, Luis Lopez Mendez, Carlos Junio Rojas, Roseliano Perez and others."

FRENCH PLAN CENTRE ON THE CENTURY SITE

65-Story Skyscraper, Costing $50,000,000, to Cover Block Surrounding Theatre.

WILL CONTAIN BIG HOTEL

As Trade Clearing House, It Will Also Have Consular Offices, Banks, Stores.

As an innovation in international relations and trade, the French Government will erect a $50,000,000 sixty-five-story office and hotel building on the Century Theatre site.

The building will house the French consulate, commercial attaché and other official agencies devoted to the promotion of French thought, art, industry and commerce in this country. It will also contain a 1,200-room hotel, exhibition rooms and two large banks.

Announcement of the project, the largest of the year in the west midtown section, was made yesterday by the Chanin Construction Company, Inc., through Henry I. Chanin, secretary and treasurer. Negotiations for the sale of the site and the construction of the skyscraper were concluded recently in Paris by Irwin S. Chanin, who was accompanied by S. W. Straus, president of S. W. Straus & Co., investment bankers.

The new building will cover an entire city block. Its boundaries will be Central Park West, Broadway, Sixty-second and Sixty-third Streets. Besides the Century Theatre, ill-starred since it opened in 1909, the structure will replace Daly's Theatre on Sixty-third Street, an apartment house and two buildings fronting on Broadway now used as garages and automobile showrooms.

Demolition is scheduled to start Oct. 1. Plans for the skyscraper have been prepared by the architectural department of the Chanin corporation and will be announced in detail shortly. The property was purchased by the Chanin brothers last May, the reported price being about $12,000,000. The legal aspects of the deal were handled by Samuel Kramer of Kramer & Kleinfeld, attorneys, 122 East Forty-second Street.

Style to Be Modern French.

The architecture of the Palais de France will be modern French, adapted to the exigencies of American skyscraper construction. The hotel part of the building will contain 1,200 rooms on the studio apartment hotel order. This will rise thirty stories. The office or commercial part of the building will tower thirty-five additional stories over Central Park.

The first three floors of the building will be used for permanent exhibitions of French manufacturers. This will be open to the general public. Representatives of leading French industrial concerns will have wholesale offices in the upper stories.

French retail merchants will open stores on the street floor and in the arcade and foyer.

Three floors will be devoted to a permanent international automobile exhibition which will seek to include the cars of the entire world. Opening off this will be an exhibition of automotive accessories. Two floors will be devoted to airplane exhibits. Boats and small yachts will have a place on two additional floors.

To Be Commercial Clearing House.

"Under government patronage," said the Chanin announcement, "the Palais de France will be a great commercial clearing house for quality wares and merchandise.

"It will be a permanent exhibit of monumental proportions for the exhibitation of the world's finest creations of everything appertaining to that culture, beauty and luxury wherein France has established herself supreme.

"In a general way, outside of that portion of the building which will be used for American industries, the

BAMBERGER TO GIVE EMPLOYES $1,000,000

Donation Marks Farewell of Head of Newark Store, Who Retires Sept. 15.

300 TO SHARE FUNDS

Employes of 15 Years to Get Sums as High as $10,000 in Cash or Annuities.

A gift of $1,000,000 in cash or annuities to approximately 300 of his 4,300 employes who have been in the service of L. Bamberger & Co., Newark, department store, for fifteen years or more, was announced yesterday by Louis Bamberger, founder of the store. Mr. Bamberger, who is in his seventy-fourth year, at the same time announced that he would retire on Sept. 15.

He will continue his connection with and interest in the store which he bought as a bankrupt business and developed until it did an annual business of $35,000,000 in 1928, by serving as honorary chairman of its board of directors. He will also serve on the directorate of R. H. Macy & Co., to which he was elected following the purchase of L. Bamberger & Co. by R. H. Macy & Co., on June 29.

In announcing the $1,000,000 gift Mr. Bamberger made it clear the gift was a personal one. The employes eligible for the gratuity may receive their share in cash or in annuities. At the Bamberger store yesterday, it was disclosed that most of the employes would prefer to have cash.

Mr. Bamberger was born in Baltimore. He founded the department store bearing his name in 1893. His first job was sweeping and running errands in a Baltimore store for $4 a week. From his small earnings he saved a regular pittance and developed the habit of thrift.

Still a young man he came to New York in search of a suitable place to open a store. For two years he was unable to make up his mind, but in that time his choice gradually settled upon Newark. He went to Newark, walking the streets, studying locations and counting the crowds.

Buys Bankrupt Store.

He selected a favorable location at 147 Market Street, but because he was handicapped by slim finances two other men got ahead of him and acquired the site. Four months later they went into bankruptcy. In the meantime Mr. Bamberger had strengthened his finances, and he bought the bankrupt store.

The story of the modest beginning of L. Bamberger & Co. is told in an old and yellow copy of the store's first advertisement, framed and displayed on the walls of the directors' room. The advertisement is of the sale of "the bankrupt stock of Hill & Cragg which will be sold out regardless of cost beginning Tuesday, Dec. 13, 1892." The merchandise included "holiday goods, cloth, trimmings, ladies' and gents' furnishings, dry goods, linens and embroideries, jewelry, handkerchiefs." The store was not formally incorporated until the following year.

The co-founders with Mr. Bamberger of the store, which originally occupied only two floors, were Louis M. Frank, who died in 1910, and Felix Fuld, who died recently. When the sale of L. Bamberger & Co. to R. H. Macy & Co. was announced Mr. Bamberger made this personal explanation:

"I am getting old and I want to be relieved of the active management and responsibility of the business which I founded. It is a big business. When this offer came, coming as it did from such a responsible store, I decided to accept it."

Gifts Take Place of Pensions.

Following the bare announcement of his $1,000,000 gift to his employes, Mr. Bamberger declined to be inter-

REPUBLICANS PICK F. R. COUDERT JR. TO OPPOSE CRAIN

New York County Committee Designates 31-Year-Old Lawyer for Prosecutor.

FAY UP FOR BOROUGH HEAD

Dr. Israel Feinberg Chosen for Sheriff and Mrs. Grace D. Vanamee for Register.

C. W. FERRY COUNTY CLERK

Richmond Picks Fusion Slate, With M. W. Allen as Head of the Ticket.

The New York County Republican executive committee designated yesterday Frederic R. Coudert Jr., 31 years old, for the nomination for District Attorney to run against Supreme Court Justice Thomas C. T. Crain, the Tammany designee, who is 69 years old.

Some objection was made by members of the committee to the selection of Mr. Coudert, scion of a famous line of lawyers, because of his youth, but the majority were of the opinion that his designation was "a master stroke" and that the contrast of youth and age in the contest for District Attorney would be all in his favor.

With Mr. Coudert, the committee picked what was regarded as a strong, fighting ticket to support the city designees, headed by Clarence H. Fay, leader of the Tenth Assembly District, for Borough President.

The selection of Mark W. Allen, former Democratic State Senator, for the Republican nomination for Borough President of Richmond was announced by County Chairman Clinton J. Sharrett, who thus brought about the only real fusion on any of the Republican borough and county tickets.

New Names on the Ticket.

The New York County Republican designations follow:

Borough President—CLARENCE H. FAY.
District Attorney—FREDERIC R. COUDERT JR.
Sheriff—Dr. ISRAEL FEINBERG.
County Clerk—CHARLES W. FERRY.
Register—Mrs. GRACE D. VANAMEE.
Justice of the City Court—LOUIS WENDEL and IRWIN KURTZ.

It is the expectation of the Manhattan Republican leaders that Mr. Coudert will bear the brunt of the speaking campaign in this borough, although Mrs. Vanamee, who is regarded as one of the best woman speakers in this part of the State, and Mr. Fay will have a large part in it. The candidacy of Mr. Coudert is expected to help materially the candidacy of Representative F. H. LaGuardia, designee for Mayor, by bringing to the support of the entire ticket many conservative Republicans who have not approved the designation of Mr. LaGuardia.

Coudert in Father's Firm.

Mr. Coudert is a member of the law firm of Coudert Brothers, of which his father is the head. Both his father and his grandfather, who bore the same name, won distinction as international lawyers. Mr. Coudert is a graduate of Columbia University and Columbia Law School. He served as Assistant United States Attorney under Emory R. Buckner in 1925 and 1926 and was in charge of the prosecution of the "Dandy Phil" Kastel and Morosco mail fraud cases. Recently he became chairman of the committee of lawyers organized to defend persons arrested under the Jones law as a protest against the five-year prison sentence as the maximum penalty for persons convicted of the sale or transportation of liquor.

Mr. Coudert served overseas in the World War as a First Lieutenant in the Twenty-seventh Division. He married Miss Mary K. Callery last

EARTH TREMORS IN 5 STATES; MOST SEVERE IN NEW YORK; WALLS OF HOUSES CRACKED

New York City Seismographs Fail to Record Earth Shocks

Seismographs in New York City failed to record the earth tremors felt in Buffalo yesterday. The instrument at Fordham University, attaches at the university said, showed no measurement of an earthquake at 7 or 7:30 A. M.

As the seismograph at the Museum of Natural History was not properly adjusted at the time, no record was made there. It was said at the museum that the needle had run off the chart at 2 A. M. yesterday and was not readjusted until 9 A. M., too late to measure the shocks felt in the Great Lakes region.

ATTICA IS HARDEST HIT

Factory Damaged, Church Partly Wrecked in New York Village.

BUFFALO FEELS TREMORS

Rochester, Syracuse, Binghamton and Nearby Towns Are Awakened by Shocks.

FELT IN CONNECTICUT

Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Ontario Also Are Shaken.

By The Associated Press.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Earth shocks varying in intensity from mild tremors to sharp disturbances in some localities in New York and Pennsylvania were felt over an area embracing five Eastern States and the Province of Ontario early today.

When the last tremor died away it was found that while the shocks were felt from Massachusetts to Ohio and from Pennsylvania to the Province of Ontario, the resultant damage was slight. Residents of a score of cities resumed their daily tasks and left to the scientists the work of determining the extent, intensity and location of the quakes.

Observers in various laboratories announced that the tremors had moved in a north and south direction through the Central and Western part of New York State, and that the centre of the disturbance probably was somewhere near Bellefonte, Pa.

Greatest Damage Done at Attica.

The greatest damage was reported from Attica, where one industrial plant was forced to suspend operations because of damage to its machinery, throwing 300 men out of work. One wall of the Attica Methodist Episcopal Church was cracked and the roof damaged by falling chimneys. A smokestack on the electric light plant at Warsaw collapsed.

One woman in Elmira said her bed broke down from the force of the shock.

The earliest manifestations of the temblor were at Binghamton, where residents reported feeling the shocks between 1 and 3 A. M. The majority of the reports from other sections, however, fixed the time approximately at 7:30 A. M., the seismograph at Canisius College in Buffalo giving it as exactly 24 minutes 55 seconds past 7 A. M. East Daylight Saving Time.

The Rev. John P. Delaney, S. J., in charge of the laboratory, reported that the principal shock lasted twelve seconds and was followed by minor tremors at intervals during the next six minutes. He fixed the centre of the quake at a point at least 200 miles south of Buffalo.

The Canisius College seismograph failed to record the intensity of the temblor, the amplitude of the vibrations being so great that the needle ran off the recording paper.

Sayre (Pa.) Postoffice Damaged.

At Sayre, Pa., the walls of the postoffice were wrecked. At Erie windows were broken and in dozens of places dishes rattled in cupboards and pictures swayed on the walls. In large apartment houses those living on the upper floors reported that the entire building seemed to sway gently.

Reports from New Haven, Conn.; Springfield, Mass.; Ashtabula, Ohio, and other points indicated those places were on the fringe of the quake zone, the shocks being very slight. Albany also experienced only a slight shock.

Northward from Erie and Sayre, Pa., through the western part of New York State the shocks were more severe. Syracuse, Rochester and Buffalo were directly in the path of the temblor, which reached as far north as Brantford, Ont., and was felt with considerable force in Toronto. Seismographs at Ottawa, Ont., registered the presence of the quake, although it was not felt there with any degree of intensity.

Guests at Adirondack Mountain hotels hurriedly left the buildings when fixtures rattled and pictures swung to and fro.

According to scientists, the quake was the first recorded in the Lake Erie district since the St. Lawrence temblor of 1925.

Buffalo Reports No Damage.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 12 (AP.)—Buffalo was shaken this morning by an earthquake which was felt in varying degrees of intensity from Toronto, Ont., to Erie, Pa. While

2 NEW YORK WOMEN BEG WAY IN RUSSIA

Mrs. Mabel Ingalls, Morgan's Niece, and Mary Cogswell Are Robbed on Train.

TRAVELED CAUCASUS ALONE

Reach Moscow on Borrowed Money After an Adventurous Trip Through the Wilds.

By WALTER DURANTY.
Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Aug. 12.—Two wealthy young women from New York arrived in Moscow today with mingled tears and smiles after a daring trip through the Caucasus Mountains, alone except for an Armenian guide.

The young women are Miss Mary Van Rensselaer Cogswell and Mrs. Mabel Satterlee Ingalls, a niece of J. P. Morgan. The tears were for some bracelets Miss Cogswell lost when they were robbed on a train yesterday and the smiles for their adventures, particularly after they found themselves without money, tickets or knowledge of the language of the country and had to begin borrowing money right and left from strangers who could not understand them.

"I don't mind about the passport—I hope they keep me here for months—and I don't mind about the money, but I wept all yesterday for my bracelets, not for their value but because I liked them so much," lamented Miss Cogswell.

If Miss Cogswell's adventure with her companion does not set half of New York's younger set a-travel through the Caucasus next year it will not be for lack of interest in its telling. She possesses inimitable nerve and the true storyteller's gift of drawing word pictures. One sees her sitting in a third-class Russian coach, weeping like a Niobe and surrounded by sympathetic Bolsheviki proffering their handkerchiefs—"the thief took mine with the pocketbook and bracelets and Mabel was asleep in the compartment all the time, with her pocketbook under her pillow, and I had stepped out to look at a station," she explains.

Another picture—Miss Cogswell coaxing a station agent at Vladikavkas, before the robbery, to sell them tickets to Moscow:

"They said at the window all the seats were reserved already and we could not change our travelers' checks—we only had 50 kopecks over the price of 'hard' [third-class] seats to Moscow, so we had to leave the guide behind, but we took our mattresses lent by the Near East Relief in Tiflis. So I went in and talked to him and he gave us seats."

"What did you talk?" asked some one.

"Oh, we talked German," was the reply, and Mrs. Ingalls put in a smiling: "Molly's idea of German is mostly tacking German endings on

Reds and Workers Battle in Paris Subway; 3 Shot, 12 Others Hurt Resisting Communists

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 12.—Police and troops of the Republican Guard were patrolling the Paris subway system tonight in an effort to prevent a recurrence of violent incidents which took place this morning when Communists and workmen engaged in an underground battle in the dimly lighted passages of a new subway line under construction, in which blows with pickaxes and revolver shots were exchanged in two different encounters participated in by more than 100 men.

Three men were wounded by revolver bullets and a dozen others were treated at hospitals for other types of injuries. Police, who in the course of the morning engaged in a clash with one group of Communists seeking to penetrate the galleries under construction, made arrests of three disturbers, and tonight a large number of others were taken into custody for questioning.

Early this morning a group of about thirty Communists succeeded, in the guise of laborers, in gaining entrance at the Place de la République to the new cross-town subway tunnel, in whose galleries some 150 laborers were at work in several groups. The Communists advanced, carrying torches and calling upon the workers to quit their jobs as a protest against police "Fascism." The workmen replied with a refusal, and after an exchange of threats a general melée took place. Both the Communists and the workers seized picks and shovels for weapons and soon a number of shots were fired.

This battle was interrupted when the police arrived in strong force, but most of the Communists made an easy escape, covered by the darkness of some of the passages.

At about 10:30 there occurred another less serious clash when a band of Communists made another attempt to force entry into the tunnels, but they were dispersed by the police, who had been called out in large force.

Lindbergh Horseshoe Champion of Rapidan; Hoover Sees Him Defeat All Others at Camp

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh returned from President Hoover's Summer camp at the headwaters of the Rapidan River in Virginia today acclaimed as the horseshoe champion of the group of friends whom Mr. and Mrs. Hoover entertained in the country over the week-end. Colonel Lindbergh denied that he had had any preliminary practice or that he had indulged in the sport in recent years.

Secretary of Agriculture Hyde captured second honors and Herbert Hoover Jr. and Lieut. Commander Joel T. Boone, the White House physician, were tied for third place, according to the gossip this morning after the return of the Presidential party to the city.

President Hoover himself did not play, but stood on the sidelines and encouraged all concerned without exhibiting any partiality. Some of the players attributed their ill luck to the fatigue that overcame them as a result of the hard work they were required to do in collecting boulders and other material for the dam which the President is building near the camp.

Colonel Lindbergh showed his skill as an automobile driver today on the trip from the Blue Ridge Mountains. Taking the chauffeur's seat in one of the White House cars, he left camp twenty minutes after the main party had departed, but arrived at the White House twenty minutes ahead of it.

Mrs. Lindbergh and Herbert Hoover Jr. rode with the Colonel. Colonel Lindbergh managed to arrive ahead of the main party by taking a road on which there is little traffic in the early hours. The President and the members of the party traveling with him left camp this morning a little before 8 o'clock and reached the White House about 3:40.

When you think of writing, Think of Whiting —Advt.

there was no known damage here, Batavia, Attica and surrounding villages in Wyoming County reported that chimneys were shaken down and the walls of dwelling houses cracked.

The seismograph at Canisius College here showed that the temblor began at 7:24:55, Daylight Saving Time, and that the first shock continued for twelve seconds. Minor shocks were recorded for the next six minutes.

Scores of persons were awakened by the shock, and windows and breakfast dishes were rattled.

The centre of the quake was placed by the Rev. John P. Delaney, S. J., head of the seismographic laboratory at Canisius College, at least 200 miles south of Buffalo, probably near Bellefonte, Pa. The seismograph failed to record the intensity of the shocks because of the closeness of the temblor. The amplitude of the tremors was so great that the recording pencil ran off the sheet.

James H. Spencer, meteorologist at the United States Weather Bureau here, said the Great Lakes region was the least active in the United States and there was little likelihood of another more severe shock being felt here.

In Lockport, in Niagara County, no damage was done, but the quake was reported felt in communities between there and Olcott and Lake Ontario. Jamestown, Westfield, Dunkirk and Fredonia, in Chatauqua County, experienced the quake, but no damage was reported. Slight shocks occurred in Olean lasting for about twenty seconds, but no damage was reported.

Rochester Shaken From Sleep.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Shaken from sleep at 6:20 o'clock this morning by earth shocks of varying intensity and lasting three full minutes, this city today is checking up for possible damage and examining lofty chimneys believed to have been jarred by the temblor, virtually the entire city felt the shocks.

Employes of the West Side gas station of the Rochester Gas and Electric Corporation late today were checking up on seven towering chimneys, the tallest of which is 275 feet. All were reported to have been swayed by the temblor, as was the Coast Guard lookout tower on Lake Ontario at East Summerville.

Cottagers along the lake shore reported the water had been whipped into foam by the first shock. At the end of three minutes, however, the lake subsided in low, even swells.

Pictures were swung to dizzy angles, mirrors were cracked and dishes shaken from the tables in Rochester. Golfers on the Durand-Eastman Park municipal links on the lake shore ran for the clubhouse when the first shock shook the landscape.

Houses Sway in Syracuse.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 12 (AP).—Central New York generally was shaken by earth tremors around 6:30 o'clock, Standard Time, this morning. Many persons reported beds shaken, but little damage was reported. In Syracuse, sleepers were aroused by the swaying of houses and in one instance windows were shattered.

Rome, Oswego, Auburn and Utica also reported tremors. Ithaca felt the shocks, and mortar on a construction project was showered into the street.

Island Park, located in Owasco Lake, near Auburn, was shaken slightly. Campers said they were awakened when their cottages trembled.

The seismograph at Cornell University at Ithaca was out of commission and did not record the quake.

The shocks were felt as far north as Watertown, reports from that section being similar to those of others.

Owego, in Tioga County, reported shocks about 6:25 this morning which shook houses but did no damage.

The tremors varied in number from one to three. In most sections the first and third shocks were severe, while the second was light.

Neither telephone nor telegraph communications were disturbed by the quakes, although telephone poles were seen to sway in many sections.

Binghamton Shaken Early.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Aug. 12 (AP).—Binghamton and its vicinity were shaken between 1 and 3 A. M. this morning by a series of earth tremors which old-timers declare resembled those felt at the time of an earthquake in the Adirondack region about forty years ago. Pictures swayed on walls, dishes rattled in pantry shelves and beds tilted, but so far as could be learned no damage was done.

The first tremors were reported here as early as 1:30 A. M., with recurrence at varying intervals until 6 A. M. The most severe apparently occurred around 5:45 A. M.

Tremor at Niagara Falls.

Special to The New York Times.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 12.—An earthquake tremor was felt on both sides of the Niagara border about 7:25 o'clock this morning. The shock was from ten to fifteen seconds in duration and was of sufficient intensity to shake houses and rattle windows and dishes, causing some people to become so frightened that they ran from their homes.

Minor shocks followed at intervals for a period of five or six minutes.

People who were arising at the time of the quake report that they were almost thrown from their beds. Pictures were shaken from walls in some homes.

In the vicinity of Lasalle, a city section, the disturbance was not very noticeable. Near Wilson, thirty miles from here, on the farm of John H. Leggett of Great Neck, the brick house shook so that dishes and windows rattled. All eyes were turned to Lake Ontario, which borders on the farm, in expectation that a tidal wave might follow, but there was no disturbance. Lockport, Middleport and other Niagara County places felt the shock.

In the home of Mayor William Laughlin of this city the tremor caused in window to fall. A member of the family of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Lauer is reported to have been thrown from a chair as breakfast was being served.

Adirondacks Shaken.

Special to The New York Times.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 12.—A violent earthquake rocked the Adirondacks at 7:25 o'clock this morning, but as far as can be learned caused no damage. Reports of the shock were received from Chestertown, Lake George and other Adirondack resorts.

First reports of the shock were received from Summer visitors at the Fairing House, Chestertown, where it was reported that the shock caused dishes to rattle and resulted in patrons of the hotel leaving their beds. In Lake George the shock lasted approximately one minute.

Cooperstown Shaken.

Special to The New York Times.

COOPERSTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Three distinct earth shocks were felt here this morning. The first, about 4 o'clock, resulted in only slight tremors. The second was more severe, beginning at 6:30 and lasting forty or fifty seconds. It was sufficient to awaken sound sleepers through the swaying of beds and rattling of window weights.

Later several residents found picture frames awry on walls and in a few instances vases and chinaware overturned. The third tremor was very slight, coming at about 7:30. There was no material damage.

Slight Vibrations in Suffern.

SUFFERN, N. Y., Aug. 12.—A few residents here reported slight vibrations and tremors early this morning, although at the time they did not connect the disturbances with an earthquake, but supposed them to be caused by distant blasting.

Postoffice Walls Wrecked.

SAYRE, Pa., Aug. 12 (AP).—The walls of the postoffice here were wrecked by an earth tremor, which shook this place early today, rattling dishes and awakening residents. The temblor was felt throughout this section.

Sharp Quake in Erie.

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 12 (AP).—A sharp earthquake was felt along the lake front at 7:20 o'clock this morning. Windows were broken, but no other damage was reported.

The tremor lasted about thirty second, according to the Coast Guard station here. There was no water disturbance.

Slight Tremors in Pittsburgh.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 12 (AP).—Slight earth tremors were reported today. Faint shocks were felt in the eastern section of the city but were not severe enough to cause damage.

Felt in Ashtabula, Ohio.

ASHTABULA, Ohio, Aug. 12 (AP).—A slight earth tremor was felt here at 5:16 Eastern Standard Time this morning. Buildings trembled and several reported that the shock was so distinct that they were awakened. No damage had been reported.

Ontario Feels Shocks.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 12 (Canadian Press)—An earth disturbance of comparatively mild intensity was felt early today throughout Southern Ontario and at other points in the Province. The tremors occurred at 6:25 o'clock Eastern Standard Time.

In Ontario the tremors were accompanied by a rumbling which in many cases awakened persons from sleep. No damage was done.

Early risers were treated to the novel thrill of seeing pictures swing, and windows and crockery rattle.

AREA HAS HAD SERIES OF QUAKES SINCE 1857

Earth's Adjustment in Northeastern States Nearly Complete, Geologist Believes.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Two earthquake shocks were recorded on the seismograph at Georgetown University here this morning, according to Father Tondorf, who estimated that they occurred at a distance of about 250 miles from Washington in a northeasterly direction. He described the intensity as "approximately strong."

The initial shock was at 6:25:55 o'clock, Eastern Standard Time, and the second was 1 minute and 16 seconds later, or at 6:27:11 o'clock.

Commander N. H. Heck, chief of the division of terrestrial magnetism and seismology of the Coast and Geodetic Survey, estimated that the earthquake was of an intensity known as "force 6," which does not cause great damage. Earthquakes of this intensity are described as: "Fairly strong shocks. General awakening of those asleep. General ringing of bells. Stopping of clocks. Visible agitation of trees and shrubs. Some startled persons leaving their homes."

The region affected has had an earthquake history known to extend back as far as 1857. On Oct. 23, 1857, there was a quake of a little stronger intensity than the one which occurred today, being of "force 7" and having its epicentre around Buffalo.

The next one occurred July 6, 1875, and was centered near Buffalo. It was notable for the rumbling that accompanied it, but was not serious.

In 1879 there was another centred at St. Catherine, west of Buffalo. It was heavy enough to ring the church bells. There may have been smaller ones, but none of importance, Commander Heck said.

The general understanding is, he said, that the earthquakes of that region are related to the last glacial period. He stated that they were caused by adjustment of the earth after its settling following the shifting of the ice. This adjustment, he believed, is now pretty nearly complete.

Commander Heck pointed out that the region affected is fairly well stabilized today, the mountains not growing and there being no general changes of the ground.

DAWES ASKED TO THANK KING

Ambassador Will Convey Hoover's Appreciation of Birthday Message.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Joseph P. Cotton, Acting Secretary of State, announced this morning that he had instructed Ambassador Dawes to transmit to King George the appreciation of President Hoover for his Majesty's congratulations upon the President's birthday on Saturday. Mr. Cotton telegraphed General Dawes as follows:

"Please extend to his Majesty the King, through the marshal of the diplomatic corps, an expression of the President's deep appreciation of the King's message of congratulation upon the occasion of his birthday."

TWO DIE, SIX FELLED AS CITY SWELTERS

One Drowning Reported as Heat Sends Large Crowds to Beaches for Relief.

FERRIES COLLIDE IN FOG

Municipal Boat Reaches St. George Pier After Crash—Liners Are Delayed for Hours.

A day of sweltering heat accompanied by unusually high humidity sent the biggest Monday crowds of the season seeking relief yesterday to New Jersey and Long Island seacoast resorts. At 8 A. M. the thermometer reading was only 69, the day's lowest, but the hygrometer which records the percentage of relative humidity in the Weather Bureau office atop the Whitehall Building read 95.

The humidity lowered as the day progressed and when the thermometer reached 88 degrees, the day's maximum, at 1:20 P. M., the hygrometer had dropped to 52. The heat caused two deaths and six prostrations.

The heat casualties follow:

Dead.

BREDEMEYER, Mrs. MAY, 35 years old, of 85-11 Lefferts Avenue, Kew Gardens; stricken by heat while bathing off Beach Sixteenth Street, Far Rockaway; died before the arrival of medical aid.

ROSENTHAL, Mrs. SARAH, 46, of 39-28 Edgemere Avenue, Edgemere, L. I.; stricken while sitting on beach at Far Rockaway late Sunday afternoon; died yesterday in St. Joseph's Hospital, Far Rockaway.

Prostrated.

FONDINER, MEYER, 26, of 108 East Eleventh Street; overcome at 2,031 La Fontaine Avenue, the Bronx; treated by an ambulance surgeon and sent home.

GICERT, PAUL, 38, of 1,671 Nelson Avenue, the Bronx, a city fireman attached to Truck 33 at 2,283 Jerome Avenue; overcome at Jerome Avenue and 183d Street; treated by an ambulance surgeon and sent home.

HUECKUNE, GEORGE, 52, of 426 East 167th Street, the Bronx; overcome at Webster Avenue and 181st Street; treated by an ambulance surgeon and sent home.

PEARL, SAM, 19, of 155 Bowery; overcome in Central Park, near Fifty-ninth Street; treated by an ambulance surgeon and sent home.

WALSH, EDWARD, 29, of the York Hotel; overcome at Fordham Road and Grand Concourse, the Bronx; sent to Fordham Hospital.

WEINSTEIN, IRVING, 28, of 192 Lafayette Avenue, Brooklyn; overcome at 414 Broadway; treated by an ambulance surgeon and sent home.

One drowning was reported. John Dardis, 19 years old, of 344 Manhattan Avenue, Manhattan, who had gone with his aunt, Mrs. Peter Carroll, to spend the day at Rockaway Park, was bathing off Beach 105th Street when he got beyond his depth. Mrs. Carroll saw him struggling and notified Richard Randall, city lifeguard, but before Randall could get to his side Dardis had disappeared. His body was recovered half an hour later.

Fog Delays Shipping.

Early in the morning a heavy Summer fog blanketed Long Island Sound and the lower bay, holding up ships entering and leaving the port until after 8 A. M. At that hour the beams of the sun dissipated the low-lying haze, and half a dozen steamships which were anchored off Quarantine were able to proceed to their piers.

The Leviathan, with 2,048 passengers aboard, missed her tide through the fog and did not dock until 6 P. M.

There was one accident in the harbor shortly after 6 A. M., when the haze was densest, but no one was hurt. The President Roosevelt, a municipal ferryboat, was leaving St. George for South Ferry with a large crowd of early commuters and weekenders and was about 100 yards out when the ferryboat John English of the Brooklyn and Richmond Ferry Company hit her on the starboard quarter, tearing a long rent in the women's cabin.

The municipal ferryboat returned to her slip at St. George and, after landing her passengers, was laid up for repairs. By nine o'clock the ferry services in the harbor had become normal again.

Some Creep Through Fog.

The Minnetonka, American Farmer and Hamburg lost from two to three hours in reaching their piers because of the fog and their passengers missed their train connections for the West and South. The Samaria and the Pennland crawled up early to their piers, but the Cristobal Colon and the Cristobal of the Panama Railroad Company were delayed for some time.

The Aconcagua, Fort Victoria, Coamo and Yoro, from Southern ports, also managed to creep through the fog to their piers early in the forenoon.

On Long Island Sound the Boston of the Eastern Steamship Company was forced to make fast at Whitestone Landing and send passengers to New York over the Long Island Railroad. The Evangeline, from Nova Scotia, and the Commonwealth, Plymouth, New Hampshire and Providence, all New England steamboats, arrived on schedule.

The municipal ferry services were not more than 6 to 8 minutes behind their schedule when the fog was at its worst.

Crowds Start for Beaches Early.

The exodus to the beaches began early in the morning. The crowd at Coney Island was estimated at more than 300,000, while the Rockaways reported 200,000. Excursion boats to the New Jersey resorts did an unusually heavy Monday business and the number of arrivals by automobiles at those resorts was said to be exceptionally large for so early in the week.

The official record of temperatures given out by the Weather Bureau was:

7 A. M.	72	3 P. M.	86
8 A. M.	79	4 P. M.	85
9 A. M.	80	5 P. M.	80
6 A. M.	80	6 P. M.	80
10 A. M.	74	7 P. M.	78
11 A. M.	77	8 P. M.	77
12 Noon	83	9 P. M.	77
1 P. M.	86	10 P. M.	77
2 P. M.	86

Robert Duffy, 33, of 160 New Brunswick Avenue, Rahway, N. J., had a narrow escape from drowning when he dived into a small stream there. Duffy's head stuck in the mud. When he did not return to the surface other swimmers dived in and brought him up. First aid treatment was used and after fifteen minutes he was resuscitated.

Duke Schiller Found by Searching Plane; He and Party Safe, Fly to Canadian Base

TORONTO, Aug. 12.—C. A. (Duke) Schiller, ace of the Northern Aerial Mineral Exploration Company, and his companions, Jack Humble, mechanic, and Tom Creighton, prospector, were located at Wager Inlet Saturday, according to a message received here today by Jack Hammell, president of the Northern Aerial Mineral Exploration Company.

"Located Schiller party 10th. All safe and well at Wager Inlet," said the message, which was dispatched to Hammell by T. M. Reid, one of the pilots engaged in the search for Schiller and his companions.

Hammell ordered one of the planes to go to Wager Inlet last week, believing that the trio would be found there.

Location of the men ends a search of New Ontario entering on its third week. The party started out on a prospecting flight about a month ago.

Schiller, who was the first pilot to fly to Greenely Island in April, 1928, to the rescue of the Bremen fliers, took off from Baker Lake on a prospecting flight two weeks ago, with his mechanic, Jack Humble, and Tom Creighton, a prospector. Schiller is employed by the Northern Aerial Minerals Exploration Company as a pilot.

First word that Schiller was missing came Saturday, when it was reported that airplanes had been searching for the party for several days.

THE PAS, Man., Aug. 12 (Canadian Press).—The safe arrival of C. A. (Duke) Schiller and his party at Baker Lake, Man., was reported today in a message from Tom Creighton, mining man, a member of the party.

The message from Mr. Creighton was a formal business communication addressed to his secretary, Miss May Beltes, here. It contained no explanation of the plane's delay in reaching Baker Lake.

SAYS STUNT FLIGHTS AIDED DEAF PERSONS

Society for Promotion of Aviation Disputes With Physicians in Report on Tests.

The American Society for the Promotion of Aviation made public yesterday a list of six persons who, according to the organization's statement, had derived some benefit to their hearing from airplane flights.

The society's announcement follows closely upon the published statements of physicians that stunt flights at high altitudes were of little or no help in restoring the hearing to deaf persons.

The tests, made under the auspices of the A. S. P. A., took place at the Newark Airport some time ago, and two physicians, according to the society's announcement, selected six candidates from among a hundred or more applicants. The plane used was lent by Mrs. George F. Kunz, wife of Dr. George F. Kunz of Tiffany & Co. Captain John Donaldson, head of the Newark Flying Service, and one of his pilots took the patients aloft and put them through a series of stunts.

Yesterday the society made public excerpts from letters from those who flew, indicating for the most part that they believed their hearing had been aided to some extent.

However, so far as could be learned, those who went through the experiment have not been examined by specialists since the flight.

Physicians of the Medical Society of the County of New York and the New York League for the Hard of Hearing, Inc., have found no indication in the results of the tests that the flights have aided those who made them.

Dr. William J. Francis of New York and Dr. M. Weinstock Bergman of Newark helped pick the six who made the flights. Dr. Bergman, who is a nerve specialist, said that in his opinion stunt flying could only aid persons who were suffering from what he characterized as "hysterical deafness."

"Of the six who flew, the two girls, Miss Mary Weldon and Miss Gladys Morley, said that they thought they had been benefited," Dr. Bergman said.

Persons suffering from an injury to the ear, Dr. Bergman said, would not be helped by such treatment.

"The only way such a test should be carried out is under the auspices of the American Medical Society or some other body equally well qualified to examine the patients both before and after the flights," Dr. Bergman declared.

PARACHUTE JUMPER BROADCASTS IN DROP

10,000 Feet in Air When He Begins His Story Over Minute Radio Transmitter.

Special to The New York Times.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, L. I., Aug. 12.—A novelty in radio broadcasting was put into practice on this field this evening when Henry Bushmeyer, a professional parachute jumper, leaped from 10,000 feet with a special radio transmitter strapped to his chest through which he described his sensations to the listeners of stations of the National Broadcasting Company.

The minute broadcaster, known as station W2XBF and sending its messages over a wave length of 26.68 meters, was the same set which gave out the running story of the flight of the Graf Zeppelin as it traveled toward Lakehurst last week. It is said to be the smallest transmitter ever used, has a range of more than a mile and is a complete unit in itself.

Captain J. Nelson Kelley, chief of operations at the field, took off in a Wright-powered New Standard biplane with Bushmeyer as his passenger, saying that the winds were not very favorable and the ceiling low so that he would have to drop his jumper off to the southeast beyond Mitchel Field. Taken with the high altitude, it was thought that this would carry the jumper beyond the range of his set.

At exactly 6:37, however, the ground station picked up the faint signals from Bushmeyer, then up 10,000 feet and about a mile to the southeast. Neither Bushmeyer nor the plane was visible as there was a low, hanging bank of cloud beneath them. As the sounds increased in volume and the faint outline of the parachute with its swinging load appeared high in the air, Bushmeyer's voice was relayed through the local station and to the standard equipment of WEAF and WJZ in New York. The most distinct part of the jumper's monologue said:

"Clouds are floating below—breath a little short, but everything O. K. This is Buddy Bushmeyer, over Roosevelt Field—can see people around—wonderful sensation."

It was said that the NBC may carry out another such experiment in conjunction with the Irving Chute Company this week.

PELHAM MANOR BARS AIRPORTS AND HANGARS

Ordinance Also Forbids Use of Land in Village for Plane Factories.

Special to The New York Times.

PELHAM MANOR, N. Y., Aug. 12.—The Board of Trustees of this village took a firm position tonight about flying machines, those newfangled contraptions which seem to have supplanted the bicycle in the esteem of the young bloods of the day. The board passed an ordinance prohibiting the use of any village acreage for airplane landing fields, factories or hangars.

"The construction on or use of any property in the village for an airport, aviation field or other similar project or for the commercial development of airplanes, seaplanes, dirigibles or other flying devices is prohibited," the ordinance reads in part.

The objection is said to be based on the report that an airplane corporation is planning to set out a Zeppelin landing field within the limits of the village, across the Boston Post Road from a flying field which is already contemplated. The flying field at that point would be within the borders of the Bronx, and Bronx business men already have "enthusiastically endorsed" the project, it is understood.

For Bronx business men to assume that Pelham Manor would be equally enthusiastic for its share in the proposal is "presumptuous," Mayor Green said tonight. Contrary to reports in recent circulation, the village does not welcome the idea, trustees said last night, and they passed the resolution to make that plain.

AKRON FLIER KILLED.

His Plane Strikes Road Near Pittsburgh and Hits Two Autos.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 12.—Pilot Harry Smith, aged 26, of Akron, was killed and his body burned when a cabin plane crashed in the fog today near Bettys Field, where fifteen minutes before he had taken off.

His motor was roaring at full speed, observers said, when it struck the telephone wires along the road. The wings fell off and the fuselage, which burst into flame, shot 700 feet along the road, striking two automobiles.

One of the cars proceeding in the same direction and driven by C. A. Peat escaped with a dented fender. The other, a coupe driven by a woman, had to be towed away. The motor of the plane has not yet been found.

The plane was owned by the Middle States Air Line and was in service on the Pittsburgh-Akron Line, opened a few weeks ago.

Flies From Vancouver to Mexico.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 12 (AP).—Tex Rankin, Portland (Ore.) aviator, who left Vancouver, B. C., at 4:30 A. M. today in his airplane Three Flags for a non-stop flight over the entire Pacific Coast section of the United States, landed at Agua Caliente, Mexico, at 5:48:30 P. M. today.

CABIN CRUISER HITS MAINE ROCKS IN FOG

Coast Guardsmen Rescue Mrs. W. C. Robinson and 5 Guests —Cutter Stands by Craft.

FOUR VESSELS FLOATED

Salana Driven on the Rocks by Heavy Swell Which Threatened to Break Her.

Special to The New York Times.

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 12.—The 106-foot cabin cruiser Salana, owned by W. C. Robinson of Pittsburgh, Pa., went aground on Watts Ledge, Richmond Island, a few miles to the west of Portland Harbor tonight, and Mrs. Robinson and five women guests were taken off by Coast Guardsmen of the Cape Elizabeth Life Saving Station. The guests were Mrs. O. Loughlin Jr., Miss Winnifred Galvin, Miss Mary Robinson, Miss Althea Robinson and Miss Amelia Overall. Mr. Robinson was not aboard.

The Salana hit the ledge in a heavy fog which had rolled in just after sundown. The Coast Guardsmen returned, after taking off the Robinson party, to stand by the cruiser, which had the crew of nine men aboard. A heavy swell threatened to break up the cruiser.

Late tonight the Salana was still fast on the ledge, and her chances of holding together until morning were considered fair.

The Coast Guard cutter Chicopee and a 75-foot Gloucester Coast Guard boat have been ordered to stand by the Salana at daybreak tomorrow morning, when an attempt will be made to pull her off the rocks.

BOSTON, Aug. 12 (AP).—Four vessels that went aground during a "pea soup" fog here today were floated just before high water tonight. The fog, the worst of the year, obscured buoys and other channel markers and delayed inbound shipping.

The steamer Farnorth of the Farquhar Line, from St. John's, N. F., and Halifax, N. S., went aground off Nix's Mate while entering the harbor. She rested on a sandbar until late afternoon, when three tugs pulled her off.

While the steamer was grounded there was no excitement among the eighty-seven passengers. They remained on board and immigration officers boarded the ship and when it docked the passengers immediately left.

The Betty Alden, an excursion steamer, was taking 250 children on a charity outing when it struck a mud bank. The children were transferred to another boat and went to the scene of their picnic. The steamer was released in time for her to pick up her youthful cargo and bring it back to Boston.

TWO HELD IN BOSTON FOR BANK SHORTAGE

Officer of Beacon Trust and Produce Man Charged With $40,000 Manipulation.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 12.—John W. Perry of Auburndale, assistant treasurer of the Beacon Trust Company, was arrested tonight and charged with the larceny of $40,000 of the bank's funds, the alleged defalcations covering a period of two years.

Shortly afterward John P. Given, of Watertown, president of the John P. Given Fruit and Produce Company, also was arrested and charged with larceny and receiving $40,000 from the trust company.

According to the police, Perry, at Police Headquarters, confessed. A conspiracy, it was charged, existed whereby Given's checks were honored at the trust company. Although on the books Given still had a balance in his account, a check-up showed that it was overdrawn by about $40,000.

The discovery of the loss was made by Vice President Frank N. Lawlor while Perry was on his vacation.

WHALEN OUSTS POLICEMAN.

Patrolman Struck at Superior—Four Detectives Reduced.

Patrolman Daniel L. Smith, attached to Traffic N, Queensboro Bridge, was dismissed from the Police Department yesterday by Commissioner Whalen. Smith was convicted of striking at a superior officer.

Commissioner Whalen also reduced four third-grade detectives to the rank of patrolmen. These are Frank Gilmillan, Robert R. Regan, John H. Boyle and Michael J. Carney.

FRENCH PLAN CENTRE ON THE CENTURY SITE

Palais de France will be administered in five principal sections:

1.—Official agencies of the French Republic.
2.—Industry and commerce.
3.—Fine arts, including, of course, the contemporary arts.
4.—Tourists.
5.—Hotel, restaurant, apartments de luxe.

The grouping of the various French governmental agencies there, the statement asserted, besides making for greater efficiency, will cause the new building to become "a cradle of culture and the centre of permanent relations and economic exchange between France and the United States."

An advisory committee will preside over the building, the chairman of which will be Pierre Mongendre, French Consul. He said yesterday that he had nothing to add to the Chanin announcement.

"The Palais de France," the announcement declared, "will be the centre of French influence in North America. It will be the liaison between the French producers and the consumers of the United States, Canada, Mexico and Central America; the products of French national manufacturers, Gobelins, Beauvais, Sèvres, &c., will be found side by side with the finest products of French general industries.

"In addition to space requested by innumerable French enterprises that are aware of the importance of the American market, substantial quarters will be allotted to French and American banks, French commercial and industrial enterprises already doing business in the United States, railway and navigation companies, express and freight forwarders, the French National Tourist Agency and others.

Plan "Academie des Beaux Arts."

"The directors plan to establish in the Palais de France an 'Académie des Beaux Arts,' where, through meetings and conferences, will be taught language, history, literature and contemporary French art, together with authentic courses in modern business procedure. It will be the purpose of the academy, on the one hand, to inculcate in the younger American generation some knowledge of French thought and, on the other hand, to give to young French students of the academy a knowledge of modern business technique as it is practiced in the United States.

"The academy will be a powerful factor in cementing Franco-American culture and friendship. The directors further intend to create a conservatory of music and dramatic art, where the principal works of French composers and authors will be presented and taught. There also will be a department of choreographic art, the French ballet, in charge of the most renowned ballet masters of Europe.

"Large quarters will be at the disposal of the National Tourist Bureau. It is planned to inaugurate a wide and well-organized plan of campaign to advertise French resorts. The campaign committee will have correspondents in the principal cities of the United States, will issue letters of credit and travelers' checks, arrange passports, provide itineraries to suit each pocket; make hotel, steamship, sleeping car and other reservations and in general assist the American tourists to find the best facilities for comfortable travel.

"The hotel part of the building, facing Central Park, will be operated by one of the most famous hostelries in Paris. The apartments de luxe portion will be available for long-term leases. Here will be found all the luxuries of the modern apartment, with furnishings and decorations by the finest French and American artists and craftsmen."

The negotiations for the property and the construction of the French skyscraper were concluded at a luncheon to Mr. Straus and Irwin Chanin by the French Chamber of Commerce upon their arrival in Paris last week. Norman Armour, Chargé d'Affaires and acting American Ambassador, one of the speakers at the luncheon, praised the project as a contribution to the cordial relations between France and the United States.

The Century Theatre was opened as the New Theatre in November, 1909. Misfortune seemed to haunt it, the great size of the showhouse, for one thing, precluding its use for anything but spectacular productions.

Russia Gives Permission to Eckener to Choose Course for Tokio Flight.

WEATHER IS CHIEF FACTOR

Commander Says All Depends on It, in Discussing Routes —To Cross Ural Mountains.

MAY SKIRT THE POLAR SEA

American, British, Japanese, Russian, German and Spanish Experts to Be Aboard.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Aug. 12.—"All depends on weather conditions," explained Dr. Hugo Eckener today when he was asked by your correspondent as to what route to Tokio he had decided upon. "We have received from Russia permission clothed in most friendly terms," continued Dr. Eckener, "to choose any route we like."

With that Dr. Eckener placed a large globe before the writer and began to indicate what line he would follow if weather conditions remained as they are today.

"We shall probably start in a northeasterly direction, leaving Berlin to the left and proceeding toward Danzig," he said. "Having reached the Baltic Sea, we shall continue as far as Leningrad and then turn directly east, crossing the Ural Mountains at a convenient spot, which has not yet been finally decided upon.

"From there we may take a northern route via Jakutsk or a southern route via Irkutsk. Again weather conditions will dictate which of the two routes must be chosen. There will be no weather reports in the vast solitudes of Siberia and I must be guided solely by conditions as I find them on the spot.

May Fly Near the Polar Sea.

"I may take a still more northerly course, skirt the Polar Sea and turn south again, making for the Amur River and Manchuria. But all that is still in the lap of the gods. We can merely wait and see.

"If I take the southern route I shall probably proceed from Friedrichshafen and then continue in whichever direction I find favorable winds. If I strike such favorable winds I may decide to continue the voyage with four motors, thus saving fuel, of which we shall have enough but none to spare. We shall not have more than the usual amount of elevating gas aboard, which will be quite sufficient because we shall avoid any high mountains, but the blue gas cells will be filled to their fullest capacity and, besides, benzine will be taken. That is fuel enough to last to Tokio.

"In how many days will your trip around the world be finished?" Dr. Eckener was asked.

"From Lakehurst to Europe, we will say four days and a half," Dr. Eckener figured; "from Friedrichshafen to Tokio five, across the Pacific Ocean four days, half way across the American continent back to Lakehurst, two to three days—altogether about seventeen days, not counting days of rest at various stopping places.

"As I see from these cables"—Dr. Eckener pointed to a large bunch lying on his desk—"Tokio is planning a wonderful welcome for us that may keep us there for five or more days longer than I reckoned. However, if we start, as most likely, Wednesday night or Thursday, I hope to be back at Lakehurst in twenty-six or seven days.

Prepared for Emergencies.

"Don't you reckon at all," Dr. Eckener was asked, "with the possibility of having to defend yourselves against Asiatic hordes should you be compelled to descend to make repairs or for some other reason, which seems not at all impossible? Heretofore you have traveled only on the most frequented routes of the world, while in lonely Siberia you must necessarily attract attention of wild Kirnucks and other bandits."

"We are prepared even for such eventualities," he replied, "but I learn from books of Nansen and other travelers of the Far East that inhabitants of those countries are not so bad as they are painted."

It is not unlikely that a twenty-first passenger may be added to the list in the person of Miss Kitamura, journalist, whose small weight will mean no danger to the airship.

Following certain complaints, Dr. Eckener has decided that on this voyage bulletins shall be issued every four hours giving the exact location of the Graf Zeppelin.

Huenefeld Bust to Be Taken.

It was stated at the Zeppelin works that the airship would carry about 70,000 cubic meters of elevating gas, 30,000 cubic meters of blue gas and a large quantity of benzine. As the radius of action will have to be strained as much as possible, the airship will carry no freight except a bust of the late Baron Huenefeld, who with Captain Koehl and Major Fitzmaurice made the first eastward transatlantic flight.

The bust is the work of Lemcki, well-known sculptor of Berlin, and will be presented to the Japanese Flying League. At the request of the League of German Wounded Soldiers, the airship will also take a wreath bearing the inscription "To German Heroes Buried in Siberia," which is to be dropped somewhere in the heart of Asia.

Start Before Thursday Unlikely.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Aug. 12 (AP).—Although the dirigible Graf Zeppelin today was ordered "cleared for sailing" early Wednesday morning, weather reports from Russia tonight made it almost certain that it would be Thursday morning before it starts on the longest flight ever attempted by an airship.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the ship, will await another weather report tomorrow before making public announcement of his plans for the flight to Tokio.

Reports sent him tonight by Russian meteorologists indicated that there was a widespread low pressure area over Northern Russia which would probably make it impossible for him to enter over Soviet territory from Koenigsberg.

Over steppes and mountains, many of which have never been mapped, Dr. Eckener faces a flight estimated by Zeppelin officials at between 6,250 and 7,500 miles.

With her new motors tuned up and broken in, an engineer from the Maybach works said they were good for 1,000 hours of flying.

When the Zeppelin takes off she will have aboard a greater aggregation of experts on different subjects connected with airship navigation than on any previous voyage. In addition to her own tried and trusted officers and crew there will be enough reserves among the passengers for almost any emergency.

Air Commanders to Be Aboard.

The positions of Dr. Eckener and Captain Lehmann could at any time be taken by the Americans, Commander Charles E. Rosendahl and Lieutenant J. C. Richardson, or by Commander Nashiro Fujiyoshi of the Japanese Navy, who has often navigated the airship at Friedrichshafen.

Captain Flemming, the Zeppelin's navigation expert, this time will have the excellent voluntary assistance of the German Weather Bureau expert, Dr. Seilkopf, and the Russian geographer, Professor Karklin. Captain Sir Hubert Wilkins could in a pinch qualify for almost any position—commander, executive, navigation officer or even chief engineer.

Should any one fall sick, Dr. Heronimo Megias of Madrid, reputed to be one of the best physicians in Spain, will be there to attend, and should legal difficulties arise Joachim Rickard of Boston and Madrid is a specialist on American, Roman and international law. Even financial difficulties are provided for by the presence of William B. Leeds of New York.

Dr. Eckener thus far has limited the number of passengers to twenty. Among them are: Lady Drummond Hay, Karl von Wiegand, Sir Hubert Wilkins, Robert Hartmann, Gustav Kauder, Heintz von Eschwege-Lichbert, Yoshimatsu Enti, Kichinai Kitano, Captain Fujiyoshi, William B. Leeds, Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, Lieutenant J. C. Richardson, Max Geisenheimer, Leo Gerville-Reache, Dr. Geronimo Megias, Professor Karklin, Russian geographer; Professor Seilkopf, German meteorologist; Heinz von Perkhammer and a Swiss citizen who desires to remain unnamed.

This enumeration does not take into account the other half of the passengers, which is entirely composed of journalists.

NEW BRITISH PLANE FOR CUP RACE SHOWN

Supermarine Craft Embodying Many New Features Tested on the Solent.

TAKES TO AIR WITH EASE

No Decision Reached, However, on Machines to Be Placed in Schneider Competition.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CALSHOT, England, Aug. 12.—Under bright, cloudless skies the first of the new type seaplanes with which Britain will attempt to retain the Schneider Cup in the world's greatest air race roared up from the Solent off Calshot today. This is the first time a public inspection has been allowed by the British Air Ministry of any of the high-speed planes which have been specially designed and built to compete for the trophy Sept. 7.

A group of British and American newspaper correspondents, air experts, representatives of the Air Ministry and cooperating constructing firms arrived here today from London.

Only one of the new-type planes was tried out—a supermarine-Rolls-Royce S-6 flowing all-metal monoplane. An S-4 plane of this type captured the world's speed record for seaplanes in 1925, and supermarine—Napier S-5 planes finished first and second in the last Schneider race.

His Second Flight in Plane.

It was the second flight of Squadron Leader A. H. Orlebar of the British Royal Air Force team in the S-6, his first having been Saturday. It was the third time, however, that he had been in the machine, as earlier last week he taxied about the Solent, getting the "feel" of the new plane, but at that time he did not go aloft.

After warming up the engine on the runway it was let down into the water and towed out. Soon afterward it rose gracefully from the sparkling blue waters and headed across to the Isle of Wight over part of the course of the Schneider race, remaining in the air almost an hour.

While no figures on the speed of today's test were given out, it was believed that Orlebar had not let the plane out fully. Certainly to your correspondent and other observers at Calshot the S-6 did not appear to be going as the S-5 when flown earlier in the morning by Flying Officer Waghorn. It was estimated that the S-5 did between 310 and 320 miles an hour today—very close to her world speed record when flown by Flight Lieutenant Greig at Calshot last October at an average speed of 319.57 miles an hour.

A communiqué issued by the Air Ministry today stated that a decision as to the three machines for representing Great Britain in the race would not be taken until "the merits of the respective aircraft have been thoroughly tested by actual flying experience." There is even a possibility, your correspondent learned today, that the S-5 may again be used in an effort to maintain the record. The S-5 still holds the speed record for 100 kilometers and also made the fastest time over a three-kilometer course.

Engine of Larger Type.

The S-6 was built by the Supermarine Aviation Works, Ltd., at Southampton. It was designed by the R. J. Mitchell Company's chief designer, who was here today to witness the trial. The engine is of a much larger type and has considerably increased horsepower, as compared with the Napier Lion engine in the S-5.

The S-6 is consequently heavier than the S-5, although overall dimensions have not been seriously increased. The designer feels that the slightly larger dimensions in the present machine should result in greater seaworthiness without mitigating flying qualities or general manoeuvrability. Moreover, the weight per horsepower ratio of the S-6 is appreciably better than the S-5.

Among new features in the S-6 is the wing-surface radiator, made as wing covering, taking torsional loads consisting of two thicknesses of duraluminum with very thin waterway between, with perfectly flat outer service and adding no resistance to the machine, thus saving considerable weight. Fuel is carried in the floats, the tanks being constructed in sections of the floats and the fuel carried to the engine by engine-driven pumps.

The fuselage is all metal, the skin taking practically all stresses. The skin of the engine mounting takes all engine loads in place of cantilevered engine mounting, used in the S-5, the front float struts have been moved forward to provide support and also to make a substantial saving in weight. Bracing wires of special streamline in a section of the S-6 are being used at present as an additional safeguard in the trial practice and will be removed after the speed tests and the race.

The oil tank is in the fin of the seaplane and thus in direct contact with the air slipstream. The problem of cooling is greatly eased.

Power Greatly Increased.

The Rolls-Royce engine of type R, direct design, Dante H, which attracted widespread attention at the recent Olympia show, has twelve cylinders, water cooled, with cylinders in two banks at an angle of 60 degrees to each other. While the H engine represents the highest degree of efficiency as far as weight and brake horsepower in ratio to the size of the engine is concerned, this power, of normal output of 830 horsepower, has been considerably increased in the racing engine. It is stated that this result has been achieved by methods which must remain secret at present. A special supercharger of entirely novel design also has been fitted on the engine. It is felt that the fuselage shape adopted, with the power output of the motor, promises greatly lessened resistance in the passage of the plane through the air, as compared with previous racing types. The engine was designed by F. H. Royce, Rolls-Royce chief designer.

It was expected that one of two Gloster-Napier six monoplanes, built by the Gloster Aircraft Company, with Napier Lion VII-D racing engines, built for this year's contest, would be seen under test today, but announcement was made that they were unable to arrive from the plant at Cheltenham in time, but would probably be here Friday.

The S-6 also was taken up this afternoon by Flight Lieut. Grieg, record holder. Throughout the day during the testing of the seaplanes, racing back and forth over Calshot, they seemed to swoop down perilously near the Royal Air Force base buildings.

Although Grieg's is the fastest recorded time achieved by man, it unfortunately does not exceed the existing record by five miles, and hence, according to regulations, Bernard's previous record of 318.62 miles an hour stands.

Among the many air experts here today were F. V. Holt, air commodore and director of technical development in the Air Ministry, and Major J. S. Buchanan, Assistant Director of Aircraft, who is responsible for these new British speed developments. The Royal Aero Club is assisting in preparations for the race and arrangements to accommodate visitors. At least 100,000 are expected. Hotel accommodations will be the most difficult problem of all, as everything available is already taken.

SWISS PLAN OCEAN HOP NEAR END OF THE WEEK

Kaeser and Luescher, 22 and 21, Test Plane for Lisbon-New York Non-Stop Flight.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LISBON, Aug. 12.—The Swiss aviator, Oscar Kaeser, is waiting here for favorable weather to hop off for New York. He will attempt a non-stop flight via the Azores to Newfoundland and New York, he announced today, and never intended to land at the Azores, as was incorrectly reported.

On the trip here by way of Paris very stormy weather was encountered, but Kaeser says his machine functioned perfectly. He was accompanied by two companions.

LISBON, Aug. 12 (AP).—A spotless white airplane with the name Jung Schweizerland (Young Switzerland) painted on the forward part of the fuselage received careful tests today at the Alverca airfield to prepare it for a transatlantic flight near the end of the week.

Three young Swiss aviators worked over it, but only two will be aboard when it heads out over the ocean. They are Oscar Kaeser, pilot, 22, and Kurt Luescher, backer and mechanic, 21. Alfred Tschopp, a mechanic, who accompanied them here from Zurich, will remain behind to permit additional fuel to be carried.

Besides its name, the French Farman monoplane bears the number CH 245. A supply of 650 gallons of petrol and 195 gallons of oil will be taken for the single motor of 230 horsepower. The plane carries no wireless, but is equipped with a pneumatic boat and rubber suits to enable the men to float if forced down.

The airmen flew here Saturday from Cazaux, France, making the 621 miles in six hours. The previous night they had spent at Escoblac, on the southwestern coast of Brittany, and previously had flown from Zurich to Le Bourget. They left Le Bourget Thursday and much concern was felt when no word was received of them for three days.

HAIL GUATEMALA AIR LINK.

Hoover and President Chacon Exchange Greetings on New Line.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The inauguration of aerial service last week between Guatemala City and Los Angeles by the Pickwick Latin-American Airways was the subject of an exchange of telegrams between President Chacon of Guatemala and President Hoover emphasizing the growing relations between the two countries.

The texts of the messages were given out today by the State Department. That from President Chacon read as follows:

Aug. 9, 1929.

His Excellency, Mr. Herbert Hoover, President of the United States of America, Washington, D. C.:

On the occasion of the inauguration of the aerial service between this capital and Los Angeles by the Pickwick Latin-American Airways, I have the honor to send to your Excellency my respectful greetings and to express to you my deepest satisfaction for the institution of that new and speedy way of communication between Guatemala and the United States, which must powerfully contribute to the growth of the relations of friendship and all others which happily and traditionally bind our peoples and governments.

LAZARO CHACON,
President of Guatemala.

In reply, President Hoover sent the following message:

Aug. 10, 1929.

His Excellency, Lazaro Chacon, President of Guatemala, Guatemala City:

I wish to thank you for your gracious message transmitted on the occasion of the inauguration of an airplane service between Guatemala City and Los Angeles, Cal. I trust that this new and rapid mode of communication may bind more closely together the peoples of our two countries, between whom such friendly relations so happily exist.

HERBERT HOOVER.

AIR-RAIL LINE CARRIED 433 SINCE JULY 8

Planes of New Service to Coast Have Been Filled to 38 Per Cent of Capacity.

The planes of the Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc., the air-rail system operating between New York and Los Angeles and San Francisco, have averaged a 38 per cent capacity load since the start of the service July 8.

Figures compiled by Donald M. Bartlett, assistant general manager, and made public here yesterday show that the Eastern division of the line between Columbus and Waynoka, Okla., has been operating at 43 per cent of capacity, while the Western air division between Clovis, N. M., and Los Angeles and San Francisco has carried 33 per cent of the capacity load.

During July 483 paying passengers used the line, besides a number of guests of the operating company. Of this number 153 made the through trip, traveling by day in the air and by night on the trains of the Pennsylvania and the Santa Fe.

The operating ratio of miles scheduled to miles flown was 99.4 per cent, according to the figures. A total of 432,264 passenger miles was flown.

The passenger lists included salesmen, bankers, manufacturers, oil operators, professional men and women and tourists.

PLANS ZEPPELIN FINANCING.

Hamburg American Line Likely to Back New Ships, Director Says.

HAMBURG, Germany, Aug. 12 (AP).—Dr. Leisler Keip, a director of the Hamburg American Line, who was a round-trip passenger on the recent flight of the Graf Zeppelin to the United States, said in an interview here tonight that the steamship company would probably participate in financing the next new Zeppelins.

These, he said, would be equipped with more powerful motors that would enable an average speed of nearly 95 miles an hour, and be capable of providing regular transoceanic service regardless of the weather. He predicted that in a few years the fare between Germany and the United States would be reduced from $2,000 to $1,000.

Thanks Walker for Zeppelin Note.

BERLIN, Aug. 12 (AP).—Burgomaster Boess today cabled Mayor James J. Walker of New York hearty thanks for the latter's letter extolling the Graf Zeppelin as a messenger of good-will between the two nations. Mr. Walker's message was delivered by William Weber and Nathan Wexler, who were passengers on the recent flight from Lakehurst, N. J.

AIRWAYS BREAK RECORD.

Colonial Carries 180 Passengers in Week Between New York-Boston.

Colonial Airways announced yesterday that during the first week in August all previous records for passenger air transport between New York and Boston were broken. Passengers numbering 180 made the trip in that time. Of this number ninety-four flew from Boston to New York and eighty-six made the trip northbound.

Two planes a day leave Newark Airport for Boston, the first at 11:45 in the morning and the second at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The southbound planes leave the Boston airport at the same hour. The schedule of one hour and forty-five minutes was maintained throughout the week on all trips.

The best previous week since the line was opened April 15 was in June, when 149 passengers were carried. A total of 620 passengers have made the trip in the Wasp-motored Fords since the line started its service.

MERCURY'S SPEED TO BE TRIED TODAY

Naval Racing Plane Is Changed in Control and Stability to Meet Crucial Test.

34 ½-MILE MARK EXPECTED

Lieut. Williams Consults Adams and Navy Chiefs on Schneider Cup Contest Plans.

From a Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 12.—Last-minute refinements in the controls and in the balance of the fleet Mercury, Schneider Cup racer, were completed today, and the crucial speed test of the plane will be made tomorrow over a measured course off Kent Island on the Maryland eastern shore of Chesapeake Bay if weather conditions permit.

This announcement was made tonight by Lieutenant Alford J. Williams, naval aviator, after his return from Washington, where he went to lay before Secretary Adams and his aides plans for the attempt to win the speed record for the United States at the Schneider Cup race for seaplanes at Cowes, Sept. 6 and 7.

At the conference were Assistant Secretary Ernest L. Jahnke, Rear Admiral Charles Hughes, Chief of Naval Operations, and Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, Chief of the Naval Bureau of Aeronautics.

Both Admiral Moffett and Lieutenant Williams denied rumors that opposition to entering the Mercury in the international race had developed.

Veteran Arrives to Advise Pilot.

Captain H. C. Richardson, retired naval constructor, who designed the NC boats which crossed the Atlantic in 1919 and who was largely responsible for the design of the floats on the Mercury, reached here tonight after a rail-and-plane dash from Cleveland, Ohio.

Captain Richardson will advise Lieutenant Williams on handling the racer in take-offs and landings and will witness the speed test. He flew from Washington with Lieutenant E. W. Rounds, who is to have charge of the timing of the racer during the speed trials.

Changes Made to Meet Strain.

Mechanics under supervision of John H. Kean, chief engineer of the naval aircraft factory, Philadelphia, who designed and supervised construction of the plane, worked all day to effect changes in the controls and in the lateral stability of the Mercury.

The control changes were to enable a wider range of operations of the ailerons, elevators and rudder, found necessary in the taxiing tests last week.

Lieutenant Williams also found that the tremendous torque of the racer's powerful motor had the effect of depressing the tiny right wing of the plane. This was compensated by a shifting of weights in the pontoons which carry the gasoline load and part of the radiators for cooling the engine. This change is expected to give the plane complete lateral stability when the crucial speed test is run.

Details of Trials Arranged.

Elaborate arrangements for the speed tests have been made by Lieutenant Williams and his aides and by Rear Admiral S. S. Robison, the Superintendent, and other officials of the Naval Academy.

The racer will be ferried across Chesapeake Bay to the course on the after deck of the aircraft tender Sandpiper, which will tow the float carrying the mechanism for starting the racer's motor.

A sub chaser will leave the Naval Academy wharf at 9:30 A. M., taking Lieutenant Rounds and his crew of timers to the two posts on the island at either end of the three-kilometer course where the photo-electric timing gear will be operated.

A fleet of fast navy craft will patrol the racing course, carrying a life saving crew to guard against accidents.

More than a score of photographers and the press correspondents will use naval launches through the courtesy of Admiral Robison.

World Record Is Expected.

Every one here, including Lieutenant Williams himself, appears confident that a new world speed record will be made during the tests.

The record now is held by Major de Bernardi of Italy, with a speed of 318 miles an hour. Engineers who are responsible for the Mercury believe that she can set a mark of at least 341 miles an hour.

Admiral Moffett, speaking over the telephone from Washington, said that he would come here to witness the tests.

Both Admiral Moffett and Lieutenant Williams are looking for the performance of the racer to point the way for the development of new military fighting planes with far greater speeds than those now in service.

As for rumors regarding the plane's fitness, Admiral Moffett said:

"There is no significance to be attached to the delay, except that every precaution is to be taken to be sure that the tests are run without danger of accident.

"We are standing behind Lieutenant Williams and we are certain that he will not attempt the speed tests until he is confident that the plane is fully ready."

Lieutenant Williams, saying that he would run the tests tomorrow, weather permitting, or by Wednesday at the latest, added:

"There is always danger in flying at such speeds and you can be sure that I will not make the attempt until everything is ready. I am not in the habit of taking long chances."

Falls 2 Miles, Opens Parachute.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12 (AP).—Jack Cope, veteran Chicago flier and stunt pilot, today jumped from a plane 15,000 feet above the municipal airport. Airport officials believed it was one of the longest-delayed parachute leaps on record. Cope dropped an estimated 10,000 feet before pulling the cord of his parachute and drifted safely to earth five miles away. He said he waited twenty-one seconds before pulling the release cord on the parachute, his entire descent from the time he left the plane until he landed consuming eight minutes.

LAGUARDIA PLANS TO 'SMOKE OUT' FOE

Declares He Will Force Walker to Talk Before Campaign Gets Very Far.

EXPLAINS HIS DRY VIEWS

Holds Law Should Be Enforced, but Puts It Up to Federal Government.

Confidence that he would "smoke out" Mayor Walker and force him to abandon his policy of silence before the campaign had progressed very far was expressed yesterday by Representative F. H. LaGuardia, Republican designee for Mayor.

"The first skirmish of the campaign will be won by our side when we force the Tammany generals to abandon their campaign plans," said Mr. LaGuardia, who continued his speaking campaign at the Progress Republican Club, 103 Second Avenue, and the Twenty-third Assembly District Republican Club, 1,108 Herkimer Street, Brooklyn. "When we get going, the policy of a certain so-called campaign of silence and an assumed, artificial air of dignity will be abandoned and they will be called upon to explain several matters to the voters of this city. There is no doubt about that."

It was called to Mr. LaGuardia's attention by a reporter that former Governor Smith's attempt in the Presidential campaign last year to draw President Hoover into a campaign debate failed signally.

"Mayor Walker isn't Hoover and Tammany is Tammany," Mr. LaGuardia replied.

Explains Dry Stand.

He was asked regarding his position on prohibition.

"My position on this question is contained in the Congressional Record," he said, pointing to a pile of bound volumes of this publication in his office at 220 Broadway. "I am opposed to prohibition and always have been opposed to prohibition. I won't change for political expediency.

"So far as enforcement is concerned, my position is much like that of former Governor Smith, who declared that so long as the prohibition law was on the statute books it must be enforced honestly. The fact is that New York or any other community can have as much enforcement as it is willing to pay for. If I were Secretary of the Treasury I would ask for $30,000,000 for enforcement, if necessary."

Mr. LaGuardia was asked if he, as Mayor, would have the Police Department conduct wholesale raids on speakeasies, as Police Commissioner Whalen directed.

"No, certainly not," he replied. "That is a question of Federal enforcement. Of course, if there is a speakeasy or poolroom or other den where gangsters have their headquarters and crooks hang out, that place must be closed. But the police should not take over the law-enforcement activities of the Federal Government. I do not approve of smashing up places merely on the report that liquor is on the premises."

To Have One Headquarters.

Mr. LaGuardia said that he, Harold G. Aron, designee for Controller, and Bird S. Coler, designee for President of the Board of Aldermen, would have one campaign headquarters and one campaign committee. "We have no intention of repeating the mistakes of 1925 and of last year," he said, referring to the 1925 city campaign, when each candidate had a separate committee, and to the State campaign last year, when Albert Ottinger, nominee for Governor, ran his campaign separately.

He added that he expected several independent committees to be formed to aid him and his associates. Mr. LaGuardia refused to confirm the report that he was seeking Keyes Winter, Republican leader of the Fifteenth Manhattan Assembly District, for campaign manager, but indicated that Mr. Winter was under consideration and would have the place if he would take it.

Mr. LaGuardia said that Mr. Coudert, Mr. Fay and the other candidates named by the New York County Republican Executive Committee were very acceptable to him. He also announced that he had added to his speaking dates for the week an appearance at the John Hay Republican Club, 1,257 Gerard Avenue, the Bronx, on Thursday evening.

Mr. LaGuardia said that President Hoover's stand in opposing the light cruiser building program was very pleasing to him. Mr. LaGuardia more than a year ago became an outspoken opponent of the program.

"The same group who criticized me as a radical for my cruiser stand are criticizing me now as a radical," he said. "I am gratified that President Hoover agrees with me."

Denies He Is Radical.

In his speech at the Progress Club, where he was well received by an audience which filled the hall, Mr. LaGuardia repeated his prediction that he would force Tammany to abandon its campaign of silence.

"They will have to answer our questions," he said, "or stand on the constitutional ground that to reply would tend to incriminate and degrade them."

Mr. LaGuardia denied that he was a radical. "The Evening Post calls me a radical," he said. "The Communists call me a conservative. I guess I must be a pretty good progressive."

In repeating his predictions of victory, Mr. LaGuardia recalled that his first political battle for election as Representative from the Fourteenth Congressional District was fought in the territory in which he was speaking. They told me then that I could not win, but I did, he said. They said it was a hopeless fight when I was nominated for President of the Board of Aldermen, but I was elected. I am going to be elected this year. There are more people in New York City who believe in good government than who believe in bad government."

June. His home is at 56 East Fifty-second Street.

Mr. Fay, who has been in law practice in this city for twenty years, came originally from Bath, N. Y. He is a graduate of Cornell University and New York Law School. He was formerly secretary of the New York County Committee, Deputy Fire Commissioner in the Mitchel Administration, attorney for the liquidation bureau of the State Insurance Department and Commissioner of Public Works when Henry H. Curran was Borough President of Manhattan. Because of his experience as second in command of the Borough President's office, Mr. Fay is regarded as well qualified for the office of Borough President.

Dr. Feinberg is a well-known physician and was president of the Manhattan Board of Coroners, holding that post until the office of Coroner was abolished. Mr. Ferry is leader of the Fourteenth Assembly District. Justice Wendel, a Democrat, is completing a term on the City Court bench and was endorsed on his record. Mr. Kurtz, who has been active in Republican politics for the last ten years, is a member of the law firm of Kurtz & Ruby, 271 Madison Avenue. He is chairman of the speakers' bureau of the Republican County Committee and occupied a similar position with the State Hoover campaign committee last year.

Worked for Woman Suffrage.

Mrs. Vanamee is the widow of William Vanamee of Newburgh and Middletown, who for years was one of the leading lawyers of Orange County. Since Mr. Vanamee's death in 1914 she has been associated with the American Academy of Arts and Letters and is now assistant to its president, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler.

Mrs. Vanamee was born in North Adams, Mass. She is a graduate of Drury High School and the Bliss Business College of that city and the Emerson College of Oratory in Boston. She was active in the campaign for woman suffrage and joined the Republican party when women received the vote in this State. In 1919 she managed the women's evening street meetings for Mr. LaGuardia in his campaign for election as president of the Board of Aldermen and since has been an active speaker in every campaign. She is one of the founders of the Women's National Republican Club and is a member of the Republican State and county committees. During the World War she was secretary of the American Posts Ambulances in Italy and secretary of the Italian Relief Committee.

For this work she received the gold medal of the Italian Red Cross. Mrs. Vanamee is know widely as a lecturer and in addition has had many poems and articles published in magazines.

Upon receiving notice of her designation, Mrs. Vanamee sent the following telegram of acceptance to Miss Helen Varick Boswell, vice chairman of the county committee:

"I accept the designation of the Republican County Committee as a candidate for the office of Register of New York County and shall do my best to win. I consider it an honor and a privilege to run with LaGuardia, Aron and Coler. LaGuardia swept Greater New York ten years ago. He is far stronger today. Aron in my opinion is the ablest candidate for Controller named in many years. LaGuardia, Aron and Coler aggressive, fearless candidates who have the facts and the courage to use them, make a well balanced ticket and will, I believe, sweep the whole Republican ticket to a decisive victory. If nominated, I shall campaign with energy and enthusiasm. I foresee beautiful fighting along the whole line."

Fusion in Richmond.

A complete fusion of anti-Tammany elements, the only one in the city, was brought about in Richmond at a meeting of the Republican County Committee, the Independent Business Men's Association and the Better City Government League, the organization which was organized to support John F. Hylan for Mayor, at a meeting at Republican county headquarters at St. George. Three Democrats were designated for nominations on the Republican ticket, including Mark W. Allen, candidate for Borough President. The designations follow:

Borough President—MARK W. ALLEN, Democrat.

County Judge—JOHN F. KAVANAGH, Republican.

County Judge and Surrogate—THOMAS F. COSGROVE, Democrat.

Assembly—First District, CLARENCE C. JACOBSON, Democrat; Second District, EDWARD J. LOVETT, Republican.

Alderman—Sixty-third District, WILLIAM J. ROACH, Republican; Sixty-fourth District, WILLIAM VOLKHARDT, Republican; Sixty-fifth District, CHARLES A. WINANT, Republican.

Municipal Court Justice—Second District, ERNEST V. FRERICHS, Republican.

Mr. Allen is president of the Staten Island Chamber of Commerce and his selection was urged by the Business Men's Association. He at first declined to be a candidate, and to meet the objection of his partners in the Allen-Wheeler Lumber Company purchased their interest in the business.

Mr. Cosgrove was formerly an Assemblyman from the First District. He was wounded in the World War. Mr. Jabobson was the Richmond County chairman of the Better City Government League.

E. L. Sutton, a Republican, who was a supporter of Mr. Hylan, sought the nomination for Municipal Court justice. He announced that he would be a candidate in the Republican primary against Mr. Frerichs and his designating petitions have been placed in circulation.

QUEENS SLATE BREAK PRESAGES BRISK FIGHT

Adams, Supporting Patten, Declines to Run on Democratic Committee's Ticket.

Probability of a fight against the ticket designated by the Queens Democratic executive committee at the meeting of the Democratic County Committee tomorrow night increased yesterday, when county committee members belonging to the factions headed by Transportation Commissioner Frank X. Sullivan and former Borough President Bernard M. Patten received letters urging them to attend the meeting.

The executive committee's ticket is headed by County Clerk Edward W. Cox as a candidate for Borough President. Mr. Patten is a candidate for nomination to the same office and the Sullivan faction has named Representative William F. Brunner.

With Leonard C. L. Smith, former president of the Queensborough Chamber of Commerce, likely to be brought forward as a compromise, the prospect for a lively fight at the county committee was probable.

The first break in the executive committee's designations came when John Adams, named for member of the Assembly in the First District, declined to run. Mr. Adams, who is supporting Mr. Patten, said:

"I believe a grave mistake was made in not selecting Patten for the head of the ticket. I believe him the strongest candidate the party could name. In view of the fact that I and my friends will support him actively I have declined a place on the regular ticket."

That the members of the executive committee, headed by Chairman John Theofel, realize that there is a storm brewing was shown by the fact that thirty of them met at Democratic headquarters in Long Island City for a conference.

It was learned that the possibility of obtaining an injunction to prevent the county committee meeting was broached. This move, however, was said to be unlikely as James Butler, chairman of the county committee, has followed precedent in calling a meeting of its 2,000 members to act on the executive committee's designations.

Harry Bijur Picked for Justice.

Harry Bijur, son of Supreme Court Justice Nathan Bijur, was designated last night for the nomination for municipal court justice of the Fifth District at a meeting of the Seventh Assembly District Republican Club, Broadway and Eightieth Street. The designation was unanimous. It is concurred in, it was announced, by the Ninth and Eleventh Assembly District Republican clubs.

HYLAN LEAGUE NAMES ENRIGHT FOR MAYOR

Former Police Commissioner Accepts Post Abandoned by His One-Time Chief.

Richard E. Enright, who was Police Commissioner during the administration of Mayor John F. Hylan, was nominated for Mayor last night by a remnant of Mr. Hylan's Better City Government League. He immediately accepted. The sponsors of the meeting announced that they would place an entire ticket in the field within the next few days.

The nomination was the result of a meeting held in the home of Frank A. Dalton, 251 De Kalb Avenue, Brooklyn, an undertaker and former Hylan champion. Approximately forty persons participated.

Cornelius M. Sheehan, former Commissioner of Water Supply and local friend of Mr. Hylan, was compelled to leave the meeting because he persisted in calling for a vote on his motion that Mr. Hylan be nominated instead of Mr. Enright.

"Mr. Sheehan's conduct was highly objectionable and he was warned repeatedly that he would have to leave if he did not stop mentioning Mr. Hylan's name," said Mr. Dalton. "He did leave just as we had decided to have him forcibly removed." No force was required, he added.

As soon as the nomination of Mr. Enright had been unanimously approved, Mr. Dalton led a delegation to the Enright home at 97 St. Mark's Avenue, Brooklyn, and notified him of the decision.

"Gentlemen," said Mr. Enright, "I am willing to accept the nomination and I promise you that I will go out and do my best to win. If I do win I will give the people honest city government."

ACCUSED OF FORGING PRESIDENT'S NAME

TOLEDO, Ohio, Aug. 12 (AP).—Dwight Pugh, 35, formerly of the United States Navy, who is under arrest in Marion, Ohio, charged with passing a worthless check, will be brought to Toledo to answer a charge of having forged President Hoover's name to a West Point appointment certificate.

Action was taken today by Lee N. Murlin, United States Assistant Attorney here, to have Pugh removed to Toledo. Pugh is said to have confessed the forgery to Marion police following his arrest on the bad check charge.

MAGER STRIKES BACK AT REPUBLICAN CHARGE

Harvey Adviser Says Committee Falsified in Comparing Him to 'Sewer Pipe Czar.'

Martin Mager, Democratic adviser of Borough President George U. Harvey of Queens, replied yesterday to the charge of the Queens Republican Executive Committee that he had succeeded the late "Jack" Phillips, so-called "sewer pipe czar," as the man to "see" in the borough president's office. The executive committee mentioned Mr. Mager's connection with Mr. Harvey as one of the reasons for denying him the organization designation for renomination.

Mr. Mager declares that the committee statement comparing him with Phillips was too obvious a falsehood for him to bother to deny it. In refutation he cited his own record in public office and the records of Commissioner of Public Works John J. Halleran and the other Democratic members of Mr. Harvey's cabinet.

Mr. Mager asserted that the reason for the opposition of Joseph H. De Bragga, Republican County Chairman, to Mr. Harvey was due to Mr. De Bragga's inability to get patronage and favors from the Borough President. He said he had seen Mr. De Bragga recently with a view to making peace between him and Mr. Harvey and quoted Mr. De Bragga as having said:

"Let Harvey restore the plums back to the tree and hand the tree over to me.

"In other words," Mr. Mager continued, "De Bragga does not want a Borough President who will run the government honestly, openly and from his office in Borough Hall, giving the people of Queens the sort of government they were denied until Harvey went into office. De Bragga wants to move the seat of government from the place where it belongs to his office in the Appelate Term, from which he directs his political manoeuvres."

Mr. Mager added that behind Mr. De Bragga were members of the clique that mulcted the taxpayers during the Connolly administration.

The Republican executive committee issued another statement, asserting that Mr. Harvey was loyal to no party, was responsible to no party and was accountable to Mr. Mager. It was recalled the conviction of Frank H. Berg on a charge of offering a bribe to Mr. Harvey and asked why Mr. Harvey did not cause the arrest of Berg, who had been his campaign manager, at the time the bribe was offered. The statement also declared that Mr. De Bragga supported Mr. Harvey for election last Fall and made a personal contribution of $500 to his campaign.

A demand that Mrs. Ebbe Winslow, who succeeded Mr. Harvey as Alderman, withdraw as a candidate for renomination because she voted against Mr. Harvey's designation as a member of the executive committee, was made by Mrs. Adele Schulz, a member of the county committee. In her letter Mrs. Schulz declared that Mrs. Winslow was not a courageous representative of the district.

ROCKEFELLER 3D IN SPAIN.

John D"s Grandson Sees Bullfight With Primo de Rivera.

MONDARIZ, Spain, Aug. 12 (AP).—John D. Rockefeller 3d, grandson of the great capitalist, had luncheon and saw a bullfight with Primo De Rivera, Dictator of Spain, here yesterday.

Mr. Rockefeller came to visit the Spanish Premier from Santander, where he had been received by King Alfonso. He had a long talk with Primo de Rivera and was invited to luncheon.

The Spanish Premier took the young American and a companion named MacDonald to see a bullfight in the afternoon.

The Americans returned today to Santander.

NEW RED ULTIMATUM TO CHINA REPORTED

Moscow Threatens Invasion of Harbin by Nine Gunboats Thursday, Tokio Hears.

Two Chinese Killed at Manchuli —Soong Withdraws His Resignation From Cabinet.

BANDITS KIDNAP AMERICAN

Shantung Troops Pursue Captors of Henry C. Wesche of Wisconsin, a Holiness Missionary.

By The Associated Press.

TOKIO, Aug. 12.—A dispatch from Harbin, Manchuria, to the Rengo News Agency says that, according to information received there from the eastern frontier of Russia, the Soviet Government has threatened to send nine river gunboats from the Amur to Harbin if the dispute over the Chinese Eastern Railway is not settled by Thursday.

A Manchuli message to the Rengo says the Dalbank, an agency of the Soviet Government, has been closed because of Chinese pressure.

Two Chinese were killed and several wounded early yesterday in a clash between Russian and Chinese outposts, according to a Rengo message from Manchuli. The clash is reported to have occurred near a place called Adagaitouevsky.

Another collision between Chinese cavalry forces and Soviet troops with machine guns in action, was reported today. It was stated there were considerable casualties on both sides.

Soviet Tells of Refusing Offers.

MOSCOW, Aug. 12 (AP).—M. Karakhan, the Assistant Commissar of Foreign Affairs, issued a statement tonight that Chinese offers of negotiations for settlement of the Chinese Eastern Railway dispute in Manchuria had been declined after the Chinese representative refused to submit an offer in writing.

On Aug. 7, according to the statement, Chu Shao-yang, Chinese Minister to Finland, telegraphed from Manchuli a request that Mr. Karakhan send a Soviet representative to the frontier to discuss the situation, which Mr. Chu said he was authorized by the Nanking government to solve.

The next day M. Karakhan replied that as previous negotiations had showed that Chinese authorities lightly renounced their oral offers it would be best for Minister Chu to convey by cable or post any answer he might have to the Soviet notes already delivered. The Chinese Minister was said to have replied that he hesitated to submit a written offer because he was not sufficiently informed regarding previous negotiations and therefore asked either that an authorized Soviet representative be sent to negotiate with him or that he be permitted to come to Moscow for a personal conference with M. Karakhan.

The statement concluded with, "As Mr. Chu's reply offers nothing new, the Foreign Office refrained from answering," believing that its first reply was sufficient.

Tension Grows in Harbin.

LONDON, Aug. 12 (AP).—Further dispatches to The Daily Mail tonight from Harbin, Manchuria, told of a growing tenseness in that city and other parts of Manchuria with alleged Russian sabotage along the Chinese Eastern Railway and Chinese retaliations.

The correspondent did not attempt to say whether the Chinese were actuated by fear or a desire for revenge, but he described parties of Russians bound with ropes and with faces bleeding who were marched through the streets of the city on Sunday. He estimated that 2,000 Soviet nationals had been arrested in the past two days and sentenced either to imprisonment or deportation.

While the military forces of the Soviet Union remained quietly beyond the frontiers, it was said that attempts to intimidate the Chinese into yielding to the Russian demand for restoration of the status of the railway had led to a calculated policy of arson and sabotage whereby $10,000,000 damage had already been done. It was said that police and fire brigades could not cope with the situation.

Chinese authorities were described as alarmed by discovery of attempts to dynamite the Sungaru bridge, city waterworks and the railway workshops.

Soviet recruits at the border point of Pogranichnaya were said to have been so excited by reports of the arrest of relatives in Harbin that they attempted to cross the frontier in defiance of orders, but were disarmed by other Soviet troops after a struggle in which shots were fired.

Soong Withdraws Resignation.

By HALLETT ABEND.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 12.—Dr. T. V. Soong, Nanking's Finance Minister, who resigned last week because he said it was impossible to raise adequate funds when enormous armies eat up 56 per cent of the government revenues, agreed tonight to return to office under conditions which score him a personal victory.

In withdrawing his resignation Dr. Soong, in a statement to the government, announced that he did so only under certain definite understandings, including one for quick disbandment of half the standing armies, the adoption of a rigid budget system and the concession that in the future the Finance Ministry, besides having to raise money, shall have a voice in the expenditure. He also opposes adoption of schemes for expending money without the cooperation and approval of representatives of the bankers and merchants, who, as a class, have given him unqualified support in his insistence on lightening the military burden and adoption of a budget.

Troops Hunt Kidnapped American.

TSINAN, Shantung, Aug. 12 (AP).—Henry C. Wesche, an American missionary, who has been captured by Chinese bandits, is being sought by special military detachments of the Nationalist Government.

The American authorities have received assurances that every effort is being made to rescue the American. Mr. Wesche was captured at Tung Chang-fu, Shantung, where the missionary colony numbers fourteen, including Mr. Wesche's wife and daughter.

Authorities Seek Wesche's Release.

PEKING, Aug. 12 (AP).—Mr. Wesche, representative of the National Holiness Mission, whose headquarters are in Chicago, was captured by bandits on July 6.

It is understood here that his release is contingent upon the bandits being incorporated in the Nationalist military forces. The American authorities at Tsinan are attempting to effect Mr. Wesche's release, while the chairman of the Shantung Provincial Government has ordered troops to pursue the kidnappers.

The bandits, with Mr. Wesche, are retreating into the mountains to the west.

Kidnapping Reported to Washington.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The capture by Chinese bandits Friday of Mr. Wesche of Ashland, Wis., was reported to the State Department today by John Van A. MacMurray, the American Minister at Peking. The bandits were led by Wane Chin Ha and took the missionary with them when they were driven out of Tungchang in the direction of Kwanhsien.

Lewis Clark, the American Vice Consul in charge at Tsinanfu, notified the local authorities of the incident and the Provisional Governor issued instructions to his military forces to suppress the bandits and make every effort to obtain the release of Mr. Wesche. Mr. MacMurray also has made representations to the Chinese Foreign Minister at Nanking through Ernest B. Price, the American Consul at that city.

TEJEDA ANSWERS CHARGES.

Vera Cruz Governor Says Politics Motivates Foes.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 12 (AP).—Reports of the permanent congressional committee studying complaints lodged against Governor Adalberto Tejeda of Vera Cruz, as a result of which Señor Tejeda is to be ousted from office, have evoked a statement to the press from Señor Tejeda.

He declared the action against him unjustified and due to ambitious politicians. He said it would be an "attempt on the sovereignty of the State of Vera Cruz," and serious consequences would result.

Señor Tejeda expressed the belief that President Portes Gil would disapprove of the conduct of those who, Señor Tejeda declared, are dragging the country to a new internal strife which, he said, the Vera Cruz Government did not desire to provoke.

CALLS SEA AIR LINE IMPRACTICAL NOW

Commander of British R-100 Says Dirigibles Must Fly Faster to Vie With Steamers.

LINKS SIZE AND SPEED

New Method of Landing Is Declared Necessary to Handle Airships Large Enough for Atlantic.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—Transatlantic airship lines are not practical at present, according to Commander Sir Charles D. Burney, in charge of the British dirigible R-100, which is to make its first test flights this month.

"Ninety miles an hour cruising is required to make an Atlantic crossing pay," Sir Charles said, "and this means doubling the size of the ship. A dirigible must have at least ten million cubic feet capacity [the Graf Zeppelin has about 3,500,000] with 300 tons displacement instead of the 130 tons of present-day ships.

"While building and sailing such dirigibles is practical, it is almost impossible to land them. Therefore the first consideration in building larger and faster airships is the development of landing facilities. Man-power is insufficient; a new method of handling at landing must be worked out.

Sir Charles refused to suggest ideas for landing fields. He said, however:

"As soon as the problem of an airship's arrival is solved there is no reason to prevent regular transatlantic services."

The R-100 is about one-third larger than the Graf Zeppelin. It has a top speed of eighty miles an hour and a cruising speed of seventy. The Graf Zeppelin averaged sixty-three on its westbound trip, which Sir Charles states is more important than the passage east, which is much easier, as witnessed by the Zeppelin's homeward trip in fifty-five and one-half hours.

While the R-100 was built for Egyptian service and not designed for speed, Sir Charles says it could easily cross the Atlantic without passengers. Its ordinary range is 2,000 miles, carrying 100 passengers.

"When an airship can cross the Atlantic westbound in two and a half days with fifty passengers the steamship lines will have to consider the competition," Sir Charles said. "Until then the Graf Zeppelin's flights are interesting scientifically only—not as of practical interest to travelers. An airship cannot attain this speed until the size is doubled, which means overcoming landing difficulties. There is the situation in a nutshell. There is nothing more to say about it."

The utmost secrecy surrounds the R-100. The Air Ministry and Sir Charles refuse information, adopting a "wait and see" attitude. Whether the ship, which is being built for the navy, will enter commercial service is still undecided.

Only one thing is definite—it is generally admitted that the R-100 is one of the most important moves to develop commercial aviation yet made.

"Commercial airplanes will never rival dirigibles, unless a revolutionary principle in aviation is discovered," said Sir Charles.

PACT NOT YET REGISTERED.

League Receives First Copy of Kellogg Treaty.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Aug. 12.—It is a curious fact that the Kellogg-Briand pact for the renunciation of war, whose enforcement President Hoover recently proclaimed, is still not as technically binding on the signatores who are members of the League of Nations as it is between the United States and Russia. This was brought out today by the arrival here of a copy of the pact. It had been forwarded by the American Government.

This first official copy was received by the Secretariat. The covenant of the League of Nations, in order to prevent secret treaties, provides that a treaty is not binding on the League members unless it has been registered with the Secretariat.

Washington's move does not constitute registration, since the United States, being a non-member, merely notifies the Secretariat of treaties, this for its information. Fifteen, so far, have been forwarded in the past year.

The juridical point involved, however, is not considered important here since any treaty is naturally in force as long as the signatores consider it valid, and no one imagines any power would challenge, openly, the peace pact on the ground it was not registered. Moreover, the registration of the pact is expected at any time now from France, which agreed, when the treaty was signed, to amend this detail on behalf of members of the League.

QUIT SNOW-BOUND TRAIN.

Passengers Make Difficult Climb Down Andes to Safety.

LOS ANDES, Chile, Aug. 12 (AP).—Passengers on a trans-Andean train from Buenos Aires which became snow-bound last Friday in a tunnel high in the mountains, made their way on foot today to Juncl. A special train brought them here.

The hike was very difficult owing to the depth of the snow and the lack of a path.

CLEVELAND ON LAST TRIP.

28-Year-Old Cruiser Leaves Panama for Boston.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COLON, Canal Zone, Aug. 12.—The cruiser Cleveland sailed from Cristobal today on her last voyage after more than a quarter century of service in the United States Navy, bound for Boston, where she will be decommissioned.

The United States ship Asheville, returned from duty as flagship of the fleet in China, will replace the Cleveland in the special service squadron based at the Panama Canal. The Cleveland is one of the ships criticized by Admiral McGregor as useless and obsolete, and it is understood that the flagship Rochester will be the next ship of this squadron to be retired from service.

The Cleveland will call at Mobile to participate in the State convention of the American Legion of Alabama, then will proceed to Port Arthur to attend the State convention of the Texas Legion, after which it will sail for the Boston Navy Yard.

The Cleveland, built at the Bath Iron Works, was launched on Sept. 28, 1901, and commissioned on Nov. 2, 1903, at which time she carried a schooner rig. The Cleveland landed the first marines at Bluefields on May 7, 1926, at the beginning of the Nicaraguan disorders which resulted in intervention by the United States.

By WALTER DURANTY.

English words—sometimes it worked, sometimes it did not. One whiskered Russian said to me, seriously, 'You talk better, but your young comrade talks more.'"

A third ableau, Miss Cogswell tipping a Red Army General who, as they found later, was all puffed up, not on account of his rank, but because he had just climbed Mount Elbrus in record time.

"I thought he was the porter, and he was most helpful. He wore no marks of rank, in fact, nothing save a pair of breeches and long moustaches and an openwork undershirt. I think he thought I was trying to pay him back—we borrowed from every one—and had mistaken him for some one else. He lent me handkerchiefs, too."

Benefactor Also Robbed.

Then there was a sad story of a young Communist—"a nice young man who shared our compartment the first night from Vladikavkas. We borrowed some money from him in order to move to a 'soft' car, and when we next saw him he had been robbed too."

As a matter of fact, pilfering on trains here is so common—except on the International Wagonlit cars, which are carefully watched, and even their travelers are warned to keep windows shut lest thieves fish out their bags on the ends of curved poles—that experienced Russians chain themselves to their baggage when they retire.

Picture next the all-powerful Gaypayoo [secret police] being consulted after the robbery:

"He took down the details and seemed quite interested, but showed real excitement when he found we had paid a ruble instead of twenty-five kopecks for a cake of chocolate and dragged us along to the woman who sold it at the station and made her pay us back and raised hell with her."

Mistaken for Ossetians.

And Miss Cogswell riding a lame Georgian pony in the mountains, wearing camel-hair breeches, a white linen coat and a huge cowboy hat of white felt—bought second-handed in Tiflis.

"They thought we were Ossetians because we had come from Ossetia and did not speak their lingo any more than Ossetians did, but I was so tired after thirteen hours of riding I just lay down and went to sleep. Next time I go to the Caucasus I will take my own saddle. Theirs has a wooden pommel in front and another behind and a ridge in the middle—talk about riding up mountains!"

The young women hired an entire autobus from Tiflis for the first day's journey and nearly paid for it by picking up passengers en route. Then they had a "marvelous time" in an Ostian village:

"We slept in a schoolroom with thirteen other people and the food was terrible, especially the butter. But we had a tin of cocoa and mixed it with sugar and water and lived on that."

Somewhere along the route they were arrested for taking photographs, but the New York Miss Marco Polo dismisses the incident briefly with:

"They let us go after two hours, and asked us to share their auto on the next stage, but there wasn't enough room."

Both girls, in the best of health and spirits, now propose to see the crown jewels and the Kremlin, but they admit the Soviet capital is restful after the Caucasian saddles.

Mrs. Ingalls spoke strongly for Russian honesty. She forgot $80 in gold wrapped up in a piece of paper in a special train but the conductor had it waiting for her when she went back for it.

Planned to Climb Mt. Ararat.

MOSCOW, Aug. 12 (AP).—Miss Cogswell was in borrowed clothing on her arrival here tonight. She and Mrs. Ingalls, who entered Russia with the recently concluded American tour of the Soviet Union, left the delegation at Tiflis, Georgia, and made their way into Armenia with the intention of becoming the first of their sex to climb Mount Ararat, a 7,000-foot peak that few men have succeeded in mounting. However, the Turkish and Persian governments refused to permit them to try it.

Visiting Card Was Passport.

Mrs. Ingalls and Miss Cogswell have been traveling in Russia with a party of Americans touring under the auspices of the Russian-American Chamber of Commerce. They left the party for a tour of the Caucasus region.

Mrs. Ingalls lives at 21 Beekman Place. Miss Cogswell is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cullen Van Rensselaer Cogswell of 1,020 Fifth Avenue.

Mrs. Ingalls and Miss Cogswell did not enter Russia with the touring party, but went separately by train from Berlin. Miss Cogswell had neglected to obtain a passport visa, but on arrival at the Russian border, she not only persuaded the officials to let her enter with her visiting card as her only credential, but they even remitted the customary $11 fee. She was the first woman since the war to enter Russia without a passport.

WHITE—THE LOVELIEST AND SMARTEST COLOR FOR EVENING

A distinguished collection of white evening gowns from 29.50 to 110.00

EVERY Paris cable mentions the importance of white for evening wear—white chiffon, white satin, white moire and the new glittering metal lames—and the smartest women here are showing a decided preference for evening gowns in white—so flattering to their golden suntanned complexions. Best's is featuring white frocks, from the palest ivory to the deep creamy shade so often called "Antique", and in every type from the fluffy, floating chiffon to the stately satin.

The frock shown is a copy of Augustabernard with uneven paneling, following the princess line of the figure. Misses' sizes — 89.50.

FACTIONS BATTLE IN VIENNA WOODS

Many Casualties Before Police Quell Heimwehr-Socialist Clashes in Villages.

ONE OFFICIAL IN HOSPITAL

Heimwehr, Jeered At, Storm Inn in Which Foes Take Refuge—Beer Mugs, Clubs, Whips, Guns Used.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Aug. 12.—"All Unquiet on the Western Front" is the way one of the newspapers today describes a series of encounters between the Heimwehr and the Socialists in a number of villages along the western railway through the Vienna Forest yesterday.

The Deputy Mayor of Purkersdorf was knocked senseless by a Heimwehr participant and taken to a hospital, a member of the Heimwehr was seriously wounded and there were a score of lesser casualties on both sides. The conflicts were quelled by the dispatch of alarm-commands of gendarmes equipped with steel helmets, rifles and bayonets to the various battlefronts.

Although Dr. Ernst Buresch, Governor of Lower Austria, had forbidden military marches until further notice, the Heimwehr obtained police permission to hold a banner dedication service yesterday in the village of Tullnerbach. The local forces were reinforced by 200 of the Vienna Heimwehr. Marching from the church, they encountered Socialist opposition in the village of Purkersdorf.

As usual, each side declares the other began the trouble. Apparently the Socialists first jeered, whereupon the Heimwehr halted and attacked their tormentors, who took refuge in the Purkersdorf Inn. The Heimwehr then stormed the building. Beer mugs were used as missiles and clubs, horsewhips and truncheons as weapons and a number of shots were fired.

As Friedrich Spalt, the Deputy Mayor, was appealing for peace, he was felled by a Heimwehr truncheon. Gendarmes rushed to the scene in motor trucks, formed a cordon of bayonets around the Heimwehr and the latter were escorted home. A similar incident took place at Hadersdorf, where the Heimwehr attacked a Socialist club and there, as elsewhere, gendarmes were rushed to the scene.

Despite the small casualty list, public alarm is considerable in view of the belief that the Heimwehr intend this Autumn to combine their much-advertised eventual march on Vienna with a series of small disturbances on the outskirts of the city in order to divert the attention of the police while the main provincial Heimwehr force marches into Vienna. Panic-stricken excursionists to the Vienna Forest, believing their homes to be in danger, streamed back to the city.

At the trial at Moehling today of Edmund Kornfeld, accidentally discovered on July 4 in possession of two machine guns and a stock of ammunition hidden in a loft, the court was cleared and the judge announced the case would be heard in Camera. He probably desired not to reveal the circumstances whereby this military property passed into the hands of Kornfeld, who is a member of the Socialist army, the Republicanischen Schutzbund.

The cases detained at Linz on Saturday, addressed to Prince Ernst Ruedinger von Starhemberg, commander of the Upper Austrian Heimwehr, were opened in the presence of a representative of the Prince today and found to contain military equipment for his Heimwehr regiment. As there were no arms or ammunition, they probably will be released by the police.

POPE HONORS CLERGY AND LAITY OF NEWARK

Unusual Number of Decorations Conferred Through Bishop Walsh, Now in Rome.

VATICAN CITY, Aug. 12 (AP).—Pope Pius has conferred an unusual number of honors and decorations upon clergy and laity of the Diocese of Newark through the Right Rev. Thomas J. Walsh, Bishop of Newark, who is now in Rome.

Ten priests were elevated to the rank of domestic prelates, with the title of Right Reverend Monsignor, while four priests were made Papal Chamberlains, with the title of Very Reverend Monsignor. Seven lay persons receive papal decorations.

The vicar general of the diocese, the Right Rev. Mgr. John A. Duffy, permanent rector of St. Joseph's, was named apostolic protonotary.

The ten new domestic prelates are as follows:

The Rev. JOHN C. McCLARY, Chancellor of the Diocese of Newark.
The Rev. PATRICK W. SMITH, Jersey City.
The Rev. PAUL R. CAREW, Orange.
The Rev. MATTHEW S. CALLAN, Jersey City.
The Rev. BERNARD M. BOGAN, Plainfield.
The Rev. TIMOTHY M. DONOVAN, Bloomfield.
The Rev. HUBERT J. BEHR, Elizabeth.
The Rev. JULIUS MANTEUFFEL, Passaic.
The Rev. VITUS J. MASNICKI, Elizabeth.
The Rev. EDWARD J. ELLARD, Morristown.

The new Papal Chamberlains are as follows:

Dr. WILLIAM LAWLER, Superintendent of Schools, Bayonne.
Dr. WILLIAM A. GRIFFITH, diocesan director of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith, Jersey City.
The Rev. MICHAEL J. WHALEN, spiritual director of the Diocesan Seminary at Darlington.
Dr. JOHN J. DAUENHAUER, Madison.
THOMAS J. MALONEY of Saddle River, already a Knight of St. Gregory, was decorated with the Grand Cross of the Order of St. Gregory and also was made a private chamberlain of the cape and sword.
Mrs. MARIE C. MALONEY was decorated with the Distinguished Merit Cross pro ecclesia et pontifice.
Mrs. JULIA D. SHANLEY of Newark was decorated pro ecclesia et pontifice.
ROBERT E. JENNINGS of Montclair, already a Knight of St. Gregory, and PETER J. CAREY of Montclair were made Knight Commanders of the same order.
ANTHONY J. BOTTI, Jersey City, president of the Diocesan Federation of Holy Names Societies, was made a Knight of St. Gregory.
WILLIAM T. GRIFFIN of New York and Pequack, N. J., Diocese of Trenton, already a Knight Commander of the Order of St. Gregory, was made a private chamberlain of the cape and sword.

ITALIANS EXTRADITE NOTORIOUS BANDIT

Pollastro, Slayer of Policemen, Brought Back From France After Two-Year Fight.

MILAN, Aug. 12 (AP).—Chained, handcuffed and surrounded by a whole squadron of police, Sante Pollastro, Italy's most notorious bandit of post-war years, arrived here today after a two years' fight against extradition from France.

Pollastro will be tried on Oct. 7 and will have to answer for a score of crimes, including the killing of five policemen. Pollastro maintains he killed only two of the policemen.

The Italian robber, who has a keen mind and an unusual education, was the leader of a band which first became notorious in 1922. He has confessed numerous felonies and has defended his killings.

"I wished only to preserve my liberty; I would have killed ten persons rather than have lost that," he said.

Among his accusers is an anarchist named De Rosa, a former member of his band. Pollastro says that De Rosa, came from America to begin a reign of terrorism and betrayed him for a reward of $500.

Pollastro's arrival at the Milan prison caused a near-riot when the other prisoners rushed to get a glimpse of the notorious bandit. They were beaten back by the prison guards.

REVEAL POISONERS AS 'WIDOW MAKERS'

Police Find Two Hungarian Women Murdered Fifteen With Arsenic.

TRAPPED, THEY KILL SELVES

Majority of Victims Husbands, Who, Through Age or Sickness, Had Become Dependents.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUDAPEST, Aug. 12.—The cemeteries in two little Hungarian villages, Nagyren and Tiszackurt, were the scene daily in the last fortnight of exhumations in connection with what is probably the biggest poisoning case of the century. Already fifteen cases of poisoning have been proved and a further twenty-five are expected to be established. Thirty-four persons have been arrested and more than 100 are being detained in connection with the cases.

The series of murders are traceable to two persons, Juliana Fasekas and Jeanne Papai, local midwives. Both committed suicide when gendarmes went to arrest them, using arsenic, the poison they gave their victims. The majority of these victims were husbands who because of age or sickness were further unable to support their families.

The "Widow Makers of the Trans-Danube," as these two women gradually became known to discontented wives, started their operations as long ago as 1911. Their notorious fame as disposers of persons who had become a burden to their families seems to have spread by word of mouth.

There has been little difficulty in proving the cases. Examinations made disclose enough arsenic to kill ten men in each body. Also, the bottle from which the arsenic was taken was placed superstitiously in the coffins by the slayers, who thus sought to hide all evidence of the crime.

The greed of Iuliana Fasekas brought the story to light. Indiscreet blackmailing of widows attracted the attention of the police. Many of these belonged to wealthy families.

A Calvinist clergyman, Ladislas Tots of Nagyren, attributes the crimes to the land hunger of the peasantry and post-war laxity, which, he said, is leading women to regard husbands purely as a source of income.

The gendarmes are overwhelmed with applications from widows to exhume their husbands and prove them innocent.

TROOPERS HAD NO WARRANT

Raid on Inn Near Glens Falls Challenged by One Defendant.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 12 (AP).—A raid on the Half-Way House, a resort between here and Lake George, on Saturday night, in which thirty-one men were arrested and $3,000 in cash and large quantities of gambling equipment confiscated by State troopers, was made without a search warrant, it was disclosed in court today.

Alexander J. Patnoade was charged before a justice of the peace at Queensbury with operating a gambling house.

Lieutenant Merritt E. Doescher, who led the raid, testified that the troopers did not have a search warrant and that he did not see any of the gambling apparatus in operation.

Patnoade's attorney asked for dismissal of the charge, and the court took the application under advisement until tomorrow.

The thirty others were each fined $10 by a justice of the peace who held court at the inn following the raid.

BADEN-POWELL GETS GIFT HE WANTED MOST

Irish Scouts Present Pair of Suspenders to Him as the World Jamboree Ends.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—The Boy Scouts' world jamboree ended today amid a roar of laughter. In the midst of brigade after brigade of the 50,000 Scouts from seventy-one countries who had been at Arrowe Park, near Liverpool, for two weeks, the Irish Free State troops came marching. As they passed the Chief Scout, Lord Baden-Powell, of Gilwell, Commissioner Childs, the curly-haired Irishman in charge of them, sprang from the line and handed a small box to "B. P."

"Chief, I've found what you said yesterday was the one thing in the world you most wanted," he declared. "Here it is."

It was a pair of suspenders, and "B. P." burst into laughter and immediately hung the suspenders around his neck like a British Mayor's chain.

"This is splendid!" he said. "Only an Irishman could have thought of this."

The gift came as the result of a wish expressed by the Chief Scout Saturday when he was asked what he most wanted. "Suspenders," chaffed "B. P.," and a beautiful Rolls-Royce car was given to him, bought by the contribution of a penny from every Boy Scout. The Irish have now made the gift complete.

LIECHTENSTEIN PRINCE 'ENTERS' HIS CAPITAL

Franz Also Introduces Bride at Ceremony of Feudal Pomp and Glitter.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Aug. 12.—Vaduz, the snow-encircled capital of Liechtenstein, the tiniest of the forty-four old German principalities, is the only one today capable of furnishing the imposing spectacle of a ruler's formal entry into the capital with all its pomp and feudal trappings unimpaired by modern republican restrictions.

Prince Franz of Liechtenstein, who recently succeeded his brother, Johann II, combined his first public appearance as ruler of the last German principality with the presentation of his bride to his subjects. Although the capital, Vaduz, is merely a village set amid the snow-capped Alps, without a railway, where only the tinkle of goat bells and of waterfalls is heard on its main street, there was no difficulty in finding room for "every Liechtensteiner," whom the Prince's proclamation summoned to "appear to welcome the new mother of the country, Princess Else." For if every Liechtensteiner really appeared Vaduz only needed to accommodate barely 11,000 persons.

Prince Franz recently married secretly Princess Else, formerly known by the less picturesque title of Baroness Gutmann, by moonlight at the Lainz church, near Vienna. The bride belongs to one of the richest families in Austria but the Liechtensteins themselves are among the richest families of European aristocracy.

ETON VICE PROVOST MISSING

Hugh Macnaghten Well Known as British Scholar and Poet.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—Hugh Macnaghten, vice provost of Eton College, a well-known scolastic figure in England, has disappeared from the Eton Country Club, where he was staying with his sister.

He went for a stroll on the club grounds Saturday night and later a steward saw a man fall into the Thames River, but the body of that person has not been recovered.

Mr. Macnaghten, a fine classical scholar and a poet, wrote "Fifty Years at Eton," which was published in 1924.

RIOT ALARM IN NICARAGUA.

Shot at Fugitive Frightens Promenaders in Park Into Uproar.

By Tropical Radio to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Aug. 12.—In endeavoring to capture a fugitive tonight a Nicaraguan enlisted man of the National Guard fired a shot in the air near the city pary, where several hundred persons were enjoying the cool of the evening. The shot created such a disturbance that nearby National Guard and United States Marine officers and men mistook it for a general riot and rushed to the scene to disperse the crowd. A few individual fights took place but the affair was soon over and the throng in the park returned to peaceful promenading.

Indian Editor Sentenced to Jail.

CALCUTTA, India, Aug. 12 (AP).—The editor and printer concerned in the publication of the book, "India in Bondage," by the American, D. T. Sutherland, have been sentenced to three months in prison and a fine of 1,000 rupees on a charge of sedition. The men are Ramananda Chatterjee and Sajinkanta Das, who edit and print The Modern Review.

Peru to Re-Enter League.

LIMA, Peru, Aug. 12 (AP).—Peru today decided to resume full participation in the League of Nations. Peru withdrew from official participation in League activities in 1921 in protest against the election of Augustin Edwards of Chile to the League Council, on which Peru was not represented.

GIVE $1,000,000 TO AID PALESTINE MOVEMENT

Felix M. Warburg and Lord Melchett Each Donate $500,000 to Start Finance Concern.

ZURICH, Switzerland, Aug. 12 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—One million dollars toward the Palestine reconstruction work under the provisions of the Palestine mandate for the establishment of a Jewish national home there was placed at the disposal of the newly created council of the Jewish Agency for Palestine at its second session here today.

Felix M. Warburg of New York and Lord Melchett of London subscribed $500,000 each toward a Palestine finance corporation through which the Jewish agency is to carry on its construction work. Announcement of these subscriptions was made this morning by Dr. Lee K. Frankel of New York, who is one of the forty-four American non-Zionist delegates attending the session.

Dr. Frankel stated in his report that the finance corporation would require an amount exceeding $15,000,000 to place the Palestine work on a purely business instead of philanthropic basis, which it has had until now, he said. Dr. Frankel urged the acquisition of a great land reserve and intensive industrial development, especially in textile and orange industries.

At the first business session of the Jewish agency council this morning, Louis Marshall, leader of the American delegation, was unanimously chosen president of the session. Lord Melchett was chosen vice-president. Twelve other members of the Praesidium were elected.

COLOMBIA CHECKS DISORDER

Only Minor Disturbances Continue in Isolated Regions.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BALBOA, Aug. 12.—The disturbances in Colombia appear to be controlled successfully, as reports coming here say only slight disorders are continuing in isolated regions and prisoners at Libano will be taken to Ibague for trial.

It is reported that the citizens of Bucaramanga are raising a popular subscription as a reward to the police for their valiant resistance to an attack of 200 alleged Communists at La Gomez. The Diario Nacional of Bogota recommends that the Cross of Boyaca be awarded to the policemen.

Much unrest is appearing as the result of unemployment due to the discontinuance of public works, and reports from Medellin declare that 7,000 unemployed are in that department and the wages of laborers on the railway and road construction have been reduced to 80 cents a day.

Golf's greatest hazard . . as a woman sees it

It is not the yawning sandtrap she must chip over nor the water hole forever inviting golf balls to dive . . .

"How do I look?" is vastly more important to her than "which club shall I use?"—as it should be. For a woman in the right clothes against the background of rolling green fairways is seen at her lovely best.

Unless her mind is at ease about her clothes, stockings and shoes, her golf efforts are of little avail.

Whether you play close to women's par or just for the love of the game and outdoors, you may wear the season's smartest and most authoritative golf clothes.

We suggest that the A & F label has never been questioned as to style and quality in sport clothes.

WOMAN HOLDS OWN IN FEDERAL JOBS

Scientists, Economists and Specialists in Many Fields Compete on Equality With Men.

HIGHEST SALARY IS $9,000

Stenographers and Clerks Maintain Ratio of Equal Pay for Equal Work.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP).—With steady persistence woman is holding her place in government employ, and the standard of her salary is advancing.

The woman scientist, the woman economist, the woman specialist in many fields, is invited to compete for Federal positions that offer increasing opportunity.

Moreover, the great army of women stenographers and clerks maintain their ratio on a basis of "equal compensation for equal work." For several years that ratio has remained substantially the same, with women occupying about two-fifths of the departmental positions in Washington, and about 35,000 scattered jobs throughout the country.

Though the scattered jobs for men number 450,000, the Civil Service Commission declares that women fill more than half of all the positions for which men and women are equally suited. The preponderance of men merely means that women are not ranging the forests, carrying the mail from door to door, nor inspecting cattle.

Salaries Advance in Three Years.

Three years ago William C. Beuling, president of the United States Civil Service Commission, proudly quoted high Federal salaries for women as follows:

Jessie Dell, Civil Service Commissioner, $7,500.

Bessie Parker Brueggeman, chairman United States Employees Compensation Commission, $5,200.

Adelaide S. Baylor, chief of the Home Economics Education Service, Federal Board for Vocational Education, $5,400.

Grace Abbott, chief of Children's Bureau, Department of Labor, $6,000.

Katherine F. Lenroot, assistant chief, Children's Bureau, $5,200.

Mrs. Katherine M. Cook, chief Rural Education Division, Bureau of Education, $5,200.

This year Jessie Dell is receiving $9,000; Bessie Parker Brueggeman, $8,500; Adelaide S. Baylor, $6,000; Grace Abbott, $7,500; Katherine F. Lenroot, $6,200, and Katherine M. Cook, $5,800.

In the three years the salary of Dr. Louise Stanley, chief of the Bureau of Home Economics in the Department of Agriculture, has advanced from $6,000 to $7,000, and that of Hildegarde Kneeland, chief of the Economics Division of that bureau, from $5,200 to $5,600.

Treasury Employs the Most Women.

The Civil Service Commission, which set forth a tenet of sex equality in its first report forty-six years ago, now employs 210 women, as compared to 148 men, and pays the highest salary to any woman in departmental service, that of $9,000 to Miss Dell.

Latest statistics show that the Treasury tops the list numerically, with 7,749 women workers and but 6,107 men. The Veterans' Bureau, with its voluminous correspondence, has the greatest feminine preponderance, with 3,270 women and 1,528 men.

The Departments of Labor and of Agriculture strike a close balance, the former having 941 women and 932 men, the latter 2,036 women and 2,899 men. The Federal Radio Commission employs fifty-four women as compared to thirty men, and the new field of Federal advice for aviation requires the services of seventeen women and but sixteen men.

The total of 82,140 government workers in the District of Columbia shows a masculine majority with 67,404, but woman may content themselves with their achievement of a 24,736 minority when they consider that the name of a woman did not appear on the Federal payroll in Washington until 1862. In that year Miss Jennie Douglass, started trimming currency.

FINDS FORBES ESTATE WIPED OUT BY DEBTS

Appraiser Decides Publisher's Death Made His Magazine Stock Worthless.

Arthur Holland Forbes, who died Dec. 22, 1927, and was publisher of The Architect, a magazine, left a gross estate consisting of $2,064 in personal effects but had debts of $2,446, making his estate insolvent. He named his wife, Jessie Livermore Forbes, of 277 Park Avenue, sole legatee. The appraiser found no value for the stock of the Forbes Publishing Company, because while the company made a profit of $16,530 in the two years before Mr. Forbes died, the loss of his services left the stock worthless. The company had lost $21,833 between 1922 and 1925 in the first three years of its existence.

Although the wide acquaintance of Mr. Forbes with architects made his magazine a success, he was equally noted years ago as a balloonist, and was formerly vice president of the Aero Club of America. He and former Mayor Fleischmann of Cincinnati won the Lahm Cup offered by the Aero Club in 1909 for the longest flight made by balloons that year when they sailed 731 miles in 19½ hours into New York. He narrowly escaped death in flights the year before and the year after.

Clarence Shepard Day, retired stockbroker, who died Jan. 7, 1927, left an estate appraised yesterday at $823,848 gross and $787,531 net, on which $352,796 was in real estate, including the property at 418-420 Madison Avenue, appraised at $350,000 in which his equity was $148,378, and his country place at Harrison, N. Y., worth $150,000. A trust fund established for the benefit of himself and wife several years ago was valued at $100,611, while real estate transferred to his son Clarence was valued at $178,000. He held notes amounting to $188,226, with interest of $37,500, of the 420 Madison Avenue Corporation.

Mr. Day gave personal effects worth $3,601 to his wife, Lavinia S. Day, and left her a life interest in the residue, $549,325. Because of her death on Jan. 19 last, the principal goes to their sons, George Parmly Day, treasurer of Yale, Major Julian Day, Harold C. Day and Clarence S. Day Jr., writer. Major Day, who lives in Sussex, England, is a banker.

In a codicil Mr. Day gave $10,000 to his business associate, William H. Radigan. His father was Benjamin H. Day, founder of The New York Sun.

Refuses to Indict Jose Ruben.

The grand jury refused to vote an indictment yesterday against Jose Ruben, the actor, who was arraigned in the West Side Court last June and pleaded not guilty to the charge of Spencer Bettelheim, treasurer of the Music Box Theatre, that a month before the actor had given him a $250 check which was returned from the bank marked "insufficient funds." Assistant District Attorney Hastings said that before the case was submitted to the grand jury he was informed that the matter had been adjusted between Ruben and the complainant.

CHICAGO THUG SLAIN AFTER HOLD-UP HERE

Robs Brooklyn Cafeteria a Few Hours After Arrival From West and Leads Chase 3 Miles.

PURSUED ON ELEVATED

Runs on Track Ahead of Train Bearing Policeman, Who Shoots Him as He Climbs Platform.

Jack Shea, Chicago gangster, dropped off a fast Chicago train early yesterday morning, took the subway to Brooklyn, got $150 at pistol-point from a restaurant cashier and a half hour later was carried into Cumberland Street Hospital with two bullet wounds in his body. He died in a few hours.

It was about 2 A. M. when Shea walked into Bickford's Cafeteria at 353 Fulton Street, just opposite the Brooklyn Borough Hall, a few doors down from Myrtle Avenue. Bickford's at 2 A. M. is crowded with cab drivers, postoffice workers and others who do their sleeping in the daytime.

Apparently Jack Shea had heard legends about the ease with which gunmen flout the watchfulness of Commissioner Whalen's bluecoats and plain-clothes men. He walked calmly to the cashier's desk and poked the muzzle of an automatic at Irving Spaulding, the night cashier. It worked out all right up to that point. Spaulding turned over $150 in bank-notes and Jack Shea walked out into Fulton Street. At the curb was a taxicab with Bernard Dillon of 107 Franklin Avenue behind the wheel. Shea climbed in, put the muzzle of his pistol against Dillon's neck and told him to drive. As the gears crashed hastily into speed Spaulding organized a pursuing party.

The chase led toward Myrtle Avenue.

At Tillary and Adams Streets Patrolman Edward J. Murphy swung aboard the foremost of the pursuing cabs and followed Dillon's machine for three miles.

Dillon's car stopped at the Franklin Avenue station of the Myrtle Avenue elevated line. Shea jumped out and ran up the stairs, with Murphy after him.

Shea dropped from the platform to the track and started running up the catwalk. Murphy almost lost sight of him in the fog and mist, but he, too, kept running.

A short way out of the station a train caught up with Murphy. He swung aboard, drew his pistol and standing on the front platform peered into the murk for the fugitive.

Shea was out on the ties, now, picking his way carefully at the dark spots to save himself from plunging into the street. Once or twice the slow-moving train almost caught up with him, but he put on a fresh burst of speed and drew out of range.

At the Nostrand Avenue station the Chicago gangster pulled himself up on the platform and dodged behind a pillar. Murphy, sensing that the fugitive was about to draw his pistol, opened fire. Four bullets caught Shea and he dropped.

Shea remained conscious long enough to say that he had lived at 411 Canal Street in Chicago.

FEDERAL AGENT FOUND SHOT

Body of Narcotics Investigator in Canal Near Phoenix, Ariz.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Aug. 12 (AP).—The body of Paul Edward Reynolds, United States Department of Justice agent, with headquarters at Albuquerque, N. M., was found floating in an irrigation canal several miles north of here today. Police said Reynolds had been shot through the heart.

Reynolds disappeared last Friday night, following his rental of an automobile from an agency here. He told the automobile man he was going swimming and would be gone "a couple of hours."

Search was begun for the rented automobile. Officers said a pearl-handled pistol Reynolds was known to have carried also was missing.

District Attorney John Gust at Tucson, Ariz., said Federal authorities told him Reynolds was investigating activities of a suspected narcotic ring near Nogales, Ariz.

Police were inclined to believe the men Reynolds was following trailed him here and shot him.

Reynolds was 31 years of age and was a graduate of the University of Idaho.

ASSERTS FARM NEED IS MARKETING AID

Jardine Stresses Cooperative Selling Plan in Address at Virginia Institute.

TRADE CONTROL DEFENDED

Hurley Says the Best Producers Seek It—General McCoy Tells of Nicaraguan Elections.

From a Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Aug. 12.—"All the farmer wants or needs is to be shown how to make more money and he will do the rest," William F. Jardine, former Secretary of Agriculture, told the Institute of Public Affairs of the University of Virginia today, adding that this is "the specific objective of the new farm marketing act and the Federal farm board."

"If the men on that board, with their combined experience and the money at their command, cannot do something toward a solution of the farm problem," he said, "then no one can."

The trouble has been, he said, that agriculture is the only important industry that has paid little, if any, attention to the marketing of its products. The government has decided that the next step and the way to help the farmer most quickly and effectively is to build up a strong marketing system to help him handle the crops he is producing.

"For years," he said, "the government has been spending time and money showing the farmers how to produce more efficiently, and the farmer is producing more efficiently, so efficiently that overproduction is resulting despite the fact that fewer acres are under cultivation than in 1917 and there are 15,000,000 more mouths to feed. At the same time we have too many farmers and too many acres of land producing altogether too little to make farming profitable, unless the government gives them a bounty.

Would Cease Reclamation.

"Instead of reclaiming vast expanses of land, it would be better for the government to cease this work and to take back some of the marginal acres not producing enough to keep the farmer going and put them into forest, game reserves and bird sanctuaries.

"We want fewer and larger farms which can profitably be cultivated and farmed with modern machinery capable of handling these large areas efficiently.

"With reference to marketing, we find that the consumers are paying about all they can afford to pay for their meats, vegetables and fruits. This is readily evident to any who live in the city. Yet, a large number of the farmers are going broke. I have said that part of the reason is because his costs of production are too high, but until we develop a more efficient and less wasteful method of marketing of produce we will still find the same condition.

"Today out of the consumer's dollar the farmer receives, on an average, one third. To any one that follows a box of grapefruit or a box of apples from Florida or Oregon to the consumer's table and observes the number of hands through which it passes, each exacting its toll and which, under our present system seems necessary, it is readily apparent that there are many opportunities to effect substantial savings through the substitution of modern business methods.

"A marketing system must be developed which will be farmer owned and controlled so that they will retain possession of that which they produce until it gets closer up to the point of consumption. They will have to market their products in large volumes and in more orderly fashion through fewer agencies.

"Thus, if they are going to get farm relief under this marketing act it is right in this field that it is going to come, and the extent to which they will get more relief will depend largely upon the extent to which they are willing to get together and work with the Farm Board. Recently, a large grain corporation was organized at the suggestion of the board to be a central marketing agency for the wheat producers of America."

The address of Mr. Jardine at the open forum, following the round-table discussions this morning, was preceded by a talk on government and business by Edward N. Hurley of Chicago, former chairman of the Federal Trade Commission.

Declaring that the only successful examples of socialism in action to day are to be found "where a vigorous capitalism is at hand to pay the bills," Mr. Hurley pointed out that it was becoming increasingly apparent that "modern forms of business cannot thrive without a great deal of government supervision.

"The old rule of 'let the buyer beware,'" he said, "is less and less workable as the distance between the producer and the ultimate consumer increases with the complexities of a highly mechanized civilization. The New York buyer of California apricots is not in a position to protect himself by personal inspection of fruit or processes against impostures in the transaction, and it comes about that the California banner of a high-grade product is as much interested in government-administered pure food laws as the consumer."

Business is such a field, Mr. Hurley said, not only welcomes but invites government supervision. He predicted that the next field for expansion of government regulation will be exercised in limiting the production of oil and coal.

Present-day diffusion of ownership of corporation stocks and bonds, he said, is bringing about a democratization of industry, and the one-time professional "corporation baiter" no longer can rely on the widespread delusion that business done by corporations is different from business done by individuals.

Attacks Sugar Tariff Increase.

Tariffs and neighbors was Dr. Henry Kittredge Norton's text in opening the round-table discussion of Latin American relations, and Dr. Thomas E. Benner, former Chancellor of the University of Porto Rico and now Professor of Education at Columbia University, followed with an address on Porto Rico and the sugar tariff.

In spite of the fact that the tariff is held to be a domestic affair, Dr. Norton said, its international effect is such that between twenty-five and thirty-five countries have filed objections to our pending tariff bill. He discussed the proposed sugar tariff and its effect on Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines.

"The only apparent result of such an increase would be to ruin a large number of Cuban producers, including some of our own fellow-citizens, and to create a few more Porto Rican, Hawaiian and Filipino producers," he declared.

Judge F. C. Fisher, former Justice of the Supreme Court of the Philippine Islands, protested against the Timberlake resolution, proposing to limit the importation of sugar from the Philippines to 500,000 tons a year.

Dr. Victor Belaunde, Peruvian Professor of History at the University of Miami, said the moral effect of the proposed tariffs would be bad in Latin America.

Nicaraguan Elections Described.

Major Gen. Frank R. McCoy asked if it was not true that Latin-American countries also had tariffs, and Professor Maring of Princeton, in charge of the round-table discussion, agreed that they had, adding that this did not prevent protest when "the shoe pinched."

The Nicaraguan elections of 1928, which he supervised, were described at the mass meeting tonight by General McCoy, who reviewed the revolutionary situation in Nicaragua leading up to the appointment by President Coolidge of Colonel Henry L. Stimson, and told of the Stimson mission which resulted in the agreements of May, 1927, to which President Diaz, General Moncada, the American Minister and Colonel Stimson were parties.

"The agreements were never quite formally and officially drawn up and executed," General McCoy said, "but were accepted by all concerned in good faith and acted upon with such mutual confidence that these agreements were binding on all parties."

Sherwood Anderson tonight told of editing two small weekly newspapers at a Virginia country seat, one a Republican and the other a Democratic paper.

"The problem," he said, "was not difficult to solve. I simply appointed two political editors and gave each of them so much space."

"Why, do you know, when I was a boy in an Ohio town there were a dozen men in that town who could have told you offhand the name of the editor of any one of a dozen great national dailies.

"Who could tell you now? Who cares?

"The newspaper in Los Angeles is exactly like the newspaper in Detroit; the St. Paul newspaper is exactly like the one published in Atlanta, Ga.

"Individuality has simply been swamped; sectionalism and localism have been swamped. There isn't any provincialism any more, except perhaps in New York City.

"Everything is standardized now—our cigarettes, our clothes, our houses, our thoughts.

"The machine has triumphed. It is going to triumph even more. Newspaper publishing, like magazine publishing, has become a great individual enterprise.

"Magazines with circulations of millions—dozens of magazines all owned by the same great magazine-manufacturing company—are common nowadays.

"Newspapers, too. The newspapers are being owned in groups, machines getting larger, more efficient, more magnificent and wonderful.

"We have got each in his own way to begin to fight to make ourselves figures with at least some of the dignity modern men have built into their machines."

FREE SLAIN CHILD'S FATHER

Milford (Conn.) Police Seek Former Boarder in Boy's Home.

MILFORD, Conn., Aug. 12 (AP).—Deputy Coroner James J. Corrigan late today ordered the release of Peter Mikenas, father of 3-year-old Albert Mikenas, whose decomposed body bearing marks of violence was found in a marsh here yesterday. Police Chief James H. Maher said that Mikenas had been cleared of suspicion in connection with the child's death.

The Police Chief declared that a "fiend slayer" had killed the child.

The body of the boy, at first believed a drowning victim, had been sought since July 29, the day he disappeared on a visit with his mother, who was separated from her husband.

REVOKES BAIL CUT FOR WEINBERGER

Vice Chancellor Bentley Rules He Granted Habeas Corpus Writs Too Soon.

HE WILL ISSUE OTHERS

But Two Accused in Hobart Trust Case Must Surrender First—To Be Called for Hearing Today.

Vice Chancellor John Bentley in Jersey City dismissed yesterday the writs of habeas corpus whereby Harry H. Weinberger and Frank Campbell, two of the three men thus far indicted as an outgrowth of the crash of the Hobart Trust Company of Passaic three weeks ago, obtained a considerable reduction in the amount of bail, pending their trial on Sept. 3.

The Vice Chancellor admitted that he had been in error in granting Weinberger and Campbell writs of habeas corpus before they had appeared at the Passaic County Court House for arraignment on Aug. 3. At that arraignment Acting Prosecutor James M. Dunn had asked bail of $250,000 from Weinberger on two indictments, one of which charged him with fraudulent appropriation of funds of the New Jersey Bankers' Securities Company, the Hobart bank's holding concern, of which Weinberger is the founder and former head. Another indictment charged him, his brother, Joseph J. Weinberger, City Counsel of Passaic, and Campbell with conspiracy in connection with funds of one of the two branches of the Hobart bank. The State sought $100,000 bail from Campbell. However, through the writs of habeas corpus, Weinberger obtained bail totaling $50,000, $25,000 on each count, and Campbell got bail of $25,000. Joseph J. Weinberger surrendered the day before the other two defendants and was held in bail of $100,000 on the conspiracy charge.

Rearraignment Today Indicated.

It was indicated last night that Harry H. Weinberger and Campbell would be arraigned again some time today in Paterson, where Common Pleas Judge William B. Harley again will be called upon to fix bail for the two men. Sheriff Thomas Carless said late last night that he would send for Weinberger and Campbell this morning.

In the decision handed down in Jersey City yesterday Vice Chancellor Bentley directed that the order for the discharge of the habeas corpus writs should not be made except upon notice to the attorneys for both sides.

Asserting that he still felt that the bail requested by the State is "unjustified in amount," Vice Chancellor Bentley would limit his order, if the writs for the discharge of the writs is carried out and the two men have actually surrendered to the Sheriff of Passaic County, "I will upon proper application instantly allow another writ under which the reasonableness of the bail may be discussed."

The vice chancellor conceded that when he granted the writs of habeas corpus there was not at the moment any imprisonment of Weinberger.

"I must technically decide," the decision stated, "that he was not restrained of his liberty upon the issuing of the writ and therefore it must be dismissed."

The decision continued in part: "While I have just said that I still think that bail was fixed at a figure too great, I realize that this much of the proceeding still remains partly unargued and I neither finally so decide nor will I foreclose counsel for the respondent from presenting such arguments as may be designed to change my mind in this respect."

Prosecutor Barnitt Returns.

Prosecutor J. Vincent Barnitt, who left for a vacation in Europe on June 13, returned yesterday on the Leviathan. At his home in Paterson last night he declared that the investigation of the New Jersey Bankers' Securities Company would be continued by his assistant, James M. Dunn, unless Supreme Court Justice Black directs otherwise.

Mr. Barnitt denied a report that he had gone to Europe to dodge the investigation. Such a report, he said, is "absolutely absurd." He said that he had purchased 500 shares of the New Jersey Bankers' Securities Company stock at $10 per share in September, 1927, but that he was not a stockholder in the Hobart bank.

TRANSPORT RATE STRESSED

Railroad Building Held Better Than Our Paying for Two-thirds of St. Lawrence Project.

By LOUIS STARK.

Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 12.—The American and Canadian points of view on the proposed St. Lawrence deep waterway project clashed at the Institute of Politics today. The difference came in the discussion of the cost of the navigation project, the allocation of expense to the two countries and the feasibility of the plan.

Lesslie R. Thomson, member of the engineering faculty of McGill University, one of the foremost Canadian authorities on the St. Lawrence project, summed up his presentation of the subject by declaring that the deep waterway would help Canada in maintaining her existence independent of the United States, for, he said, Canadian nationality had been built up around the system of east and west transportation.

When Christopher Nixon of New York seized upon this remark by saying that Mr. Thomson had inadvertently "let the cat out of the bag," the Canadian authority replied that his reference to Canadian independence was merely in reply to what was being said in Canada concerning the danger that the St. Lawrence project might "convert Canada into a Canal Zone or another Nicaragua."

American View Criticized.

The American point of view ranged itself on the side of the report on the St. Lawrence project just issued by the Brookings Institute at Washington, which report was criticized by Dean P. E. Corbett of McGill University, who conducted the general conference.

In effect, the American opinion was that the United States would be asked to do all the work in the International Rapids section and pay a disproportionate share of the entire undertaking; also that the United States would gain more by building railroads than by sharing the St. Lawrence plan and that the United States would be spending $240,000,000 to help Canada develop 4,000,000 horsepower as against 1,000,000 for the United States.

In the view of Mr. Thomson, a waterway of 27-foot depth from Lake Superior to Montreal was feasible as an engineering project and its saving in traffic would more than pay for the cost of building. Among the primary benefits, he said, the deepened waterway would save about 3 1-3 cents a bushel on wheat from Fort William to Montreal. It now costs about 9 cents to move a bushel of wheat that distance.

In addition, Mr. Thomson saw a whole range of secondary benefits resulting from the improvement, part of which would be a lowering of rail rates. Other secondary benefits included the advantages to many little industries by the opening up of cheaper routes to the sea as well as the stimulation of new traffic.

Issue of Canada's "Independence."

While Mercator's projection seemed to show that Canada was a very large area, with the United States a small rectangle at the bottom, Mr. Thomson asserted that economically Canada was really a strip 3,000 miles long and 100 to 200 miles wide "sitting on top of the richest country the world has ever seen."

The problem of Canada, he declared, was to maintain its independence of the United States and to hold this strip together. Already three transcontinental lines had been built for that purpose, and the existence of Canada depended on east and west transportation. The St. Lawrence project, coming as another and cheaper method of east and west communication, would therefore be of the greatest importance.

Wants Us to Pay Two-thirds of Cost.

After explaining the engineering details of the proposed scheme as agreed upon jointly by Canadian and American Government engineers, Mr. Thomson gave figures to show approximately what the cost would be. The navigation enterprise (apart from the cost of developing 5,000,000 horsepower on the St. Lawrence from Lake Ontario to Montreal, which would pay for itself) would cost $360,000,000.

Mr. Thomson suggested that, as a fair division of this cost between Canada and the United States, Canada should pay one-third of this and the United States two-thirds. This would make the Canadian expenditure $120,000,000, and he estimated that the annual carrying charges, to include interest, upkeep, &c., on this would be $10,000,000.

Estimating the predictable savings on traffic in the waterway, he found that on the Canadian traffic these would come to about the same sum, so that the project would pay for itself, even without the additional new traffic that might be attracted to the waterway when it was in full working order.

Dean Corbett, who followed, dissented from the conclusions drawn in the Brookings Institute report, saying that the estimated cost of $614,000,000 in the American report included $250,000,000 for the improvement of harbor facilities. He would deduct the latter amount and then, he said, the estimate would be within $6,000,000 of Mr. Thomson's figure.

Meeker Objects to Rail Rate Plea.

Royal Meeker, economist and statistician, said that the Brookings report had increased his skepticism concerning the feasibility of the St. Lawrence undertaking. He questioned the desirability of building waterways as a means of regularizing rail rates, one of the advantages which Mr. Thomson had given for the project.

In Mr. Meeker's opinion eight parallel railroad tracks could be built between New York and Chicago for the cost of the St. Lawrence project, and these lines, operating 365 days in the year, would be more efficacious than the water routes.

He regarded waterways as "inefficient and abominably unfair as a method of regulating rail rates." Investors had placed their funds in the railroads with the hope of a fair return and he inquired whether it was fair to ask the governments to establish water rates in order to depress railroad rates below the reasonable cost of operation.

R. E. Lambert, former lecturer on transportation at New York University, said that the United States would be expected to do all the work in the International Rapids section. He pointed out that if the project were built the New York State Barge Canal would be useless, and that if the State wished to turn the barge canal into a ship canal it would cost $500,000,000.

Rappard Deplores Tariff "War."

The contradictory nature of the argument was summed up by Dr. William E. Rappard of Geneva, who presented the viewpoint of the "bewildered" spectator.

Dr. Rappard, a member of the Permanent Mandates Commission of the League of Nations and a prominent figure at Geneva, where he is vice regent of the University of Geneva, in an address tonight on cooperation in Europe outside the framework of the League of Nations, said that the varied protectionist policies of post-war Europe had resulted in commercial negotiations resembling international war more than international pacific cooperation.

While the world economic conference hoped to restore economic peace, he said, the high-tariff policy of the world was a stumbling block.

In this connection Dr. Rappard said:

"That it is contrary to the economic interest of Europe as a whole and contrary both to the economic interest of each its twenty-seven constituent national units that most, if not all of them, should be carrying on an ill-disguised commercial war with each other in the vain hope to attain every day a more impossible state of self-sufficiency, even the most dogmatic of American producers will readily recognize.

Doubt of European Union.

"The growing realization of this truth in Europe, especially in the light of America's prosperity, internal free trade and external sky-scraping tariffs, explains the increasing demand for some sort of European customs union.

"That such a demand will receive some measure of attention in the near future is uncertain, and, in my opinion, unlikely. I deem it unlikely, especially in view of the growth of intercontinental trade, and in view of the imperial connections of the United Kingdom on the one hand and of the uncooperative policy of the Soviet Union on the other.

"But, uncertain and unlikely as it may appear, it is highly significant as a reaction both against what is often referred to in Europe as America's growing economic imperialism and against Europe's internecine commercial warfare."

The final step in the progress of reconciliation which began when Germany in 1923 gave up passive resistance cannot entirely be completed, according to Dr. Rappard, until "some equality in armaments will have been re-established, if possible, on or near the plane of the vanquished; until all German territory has been evacuated, which, according to the treaty of Versailles, will not be before 1935; nor until all reparation payments will have ceased, which will be when the United States says the word."

Anti-Trust Laws Discussed.

At the round tables on trade relations conducted by Dr. Harrison E. Howe of Washington, D. C., Bethuel M. Webster Jr., former Assistant United States Attorney in New York and now chief counsel for the Federal Radio Commission, said that he did not regard the anti-trust laws as "ordained by God to govern the development of American business." He was of the opinion that they had provided "a measure of security against the ruthless advance of predatory enterprises."

In order to do away with the uncertainty in the minds of business men as to what they might or might not be allowed to do under the anti-trust laws, Mr. Webster suggested the establishment of a court or a commission which would have the power to issue declaratory judgments.

Corporations could go to such a court before taking action desired, he explained. He favored a correlation of all anti-trust laws into a coherent body, and also proposed that the powers of the Federal Trade Commission be enlarged and made more specific so that it could adjudicate the validity of a law in addition to functioning as an investigator of unfair competition.

Uphold Snowden on Reparations.

At the round table on inter-ally debts Professor Herbert Heaton of the University of Minnesota, speaking on Philip Snowden's attitude at The Hague, said:

"The uproar about Snowden's outspokenness at the conference is largely journalistic in its origin. American newspaper reports tend to favor the French point of view, as opposed to the British, and one means of opposing a man's position is to attack his manner of presenting it."

Professor Heaton considered that Britain was justified in its objection concerning the Spa percentages. He pointed out that Britain had long maintained that under the Balfour principle she would collect from her debtors only as much as she had to pay to the United States. From the end of the war to the present time she had paid out almost one billion dollars more than she had collected. He minimized the importance of payment in kind to Britain.

Professor T. E. Gregory of London held that Mr. Snowden was justified in his attitude as against France and the Allies, but he said that the interests of world stability were likely to be overlooked by the supporters of Mr. Snowden.

He anticipated serious results from a breakdown of The Hague conference, as a blow to the moral authority of experts. He feared that the laboriously built up tradition of referring economic matters to experts rather than to politicians would be shattered.

Scouts German Dictatorship.

Despite the fact that since the German Revolution there has been more than one Ministry a year with long intervals of none at all "and a general tendency towards reaction," there is no immediate risk of a Fascist coup d'état in Germany, according to George Young, British Laborite.

Mr. Young declared at his round table on postwar constitutional changes that "any such dictatorship would be stopped by a Socialist general strike in support of the Constitution as in 1920."

"The new German Constitution," he said, "is a working compromise between the driving forces of socialism and nationalism—of revolution and reaction—that are at work in all countries.

"The Economic Council and the Workers' Council form an embryo of an industrial parliament based on occupational suffrage such as all progressive peoples, including the British, are developing. Parliamentary party government based on proportional representation, is not working well in Germany. It does not produce strong and stable ministries."

QUIMBY AND CUTLER STILL FACE INQUIRY

Tuttle Says They May Yet Be Prosecuted in Failure of Clarke Bank.

BANKERS LIABLE FOR DEBTS

Garnishees May Be Filed Against Clarkes After Release From Prison, Prosecutor Declares.

The government's investigation of the $5,000,000 failure of the private banking house of Clarke Brothers will not be concluded until there has been a complete check-up on the activities of Milton C. Quimby, through whom the firm lost large sums of money, and of John W. Cutler, former secretary of the Private Bankers' Association of New York State, United States Attorney Tuttle said yesterday.

"If we find facts that justify the assumption that the Federal law has been violated," added Mr. Tuttle, "indictments will be asked for before the Federal grand jury. If, on the other hand, crime against the laws of the State of New York should be indicated, we shall turn over whatever evidence we may have to the State authorities."

"Does that mean that, as yet, the testimony involving Cutler and Quimby has indicated no crime against the Federal law?" he was asked.

Tuttle Undecided on His Course.

"It does not," Mr. Tuttle replied. "It means simply that I have not reached a conclusion as to the facts concerning Quimby and Cutler. The investigation is certainly not closed. There will be further checking up as to Quimby and Cutler and possibly others."

Should the investigation warrant such a procedure, it was said, James Rae Clarke, Philip L. Clarke and John F. Bouker, under sentence to Atlanta Penitentiary for mail frauds and conspiracy, would be called before the Federal grand jury again. James Rae Clarke has testified he continued to let Cutler have money at the rate of about $8,000 a year because he was "afraid he might turn yellow" and say things to "discredit" the bank. Cutler himself testified that the State Banking Department stopped its attempted examination into the affairs of Clarke Brothers after he had taken the examiner into his office and given him his interpretation of the law.

Thus far Cutler has refused to say why Clarke Brothers let him have so much money on unsecured notes. He may be questioned further on Friday, however. The next hearing in the case, before John L. Lyttle, referee in bankruptcy, is set for Friday morning, and it is understood that Cutler will be a witness. Quimby also may be questioned. He has said on one or two occasions that he expected to be able to pay his debt to Clarke Brothers, and also his debts to other persons, within sixty days.

Face Garnishees After Release.

James Rae Clarke, Philip Clarke and Bouker are in the Federal House of Detention at Eleventh and West Streets awaiting transportation to Atlanta. Mr. Tuttle said that when they are taken to the Federal penitentiary, probably in the next week, their custodian would carry with him a letter urging that no parole be granted at any time to any of the three.

Mr. Tuttle said further that after their release from the penitentiary garnishee proceedings might be brought against the salary that any one of them might earn. This was said to apply also to Hudson Clarke Jr., who received a suspended sentence and was placed on probation for two years with instructions to do what he could toward the support of his paralytic father and other destitute relatives.

"These men," declared Mr. Tuttle, "pleaded guilty to charges of mail frauds and I do not see how they can secure a discharge from bankruptcy in view of that fact. Without such a discharge each one would be subject to garnishee proceedings to attach 10 per cent of any sum in excess of $12 a week which he might earn. This could continue until the entire indebtedness of the bankrupt concern was paid."

Strauss Fund Gets $12,000.

Mr. Tuttle announced last night that the Manny Strauss committee for the relief of needy savings account depositors of Clarke Brothers had received yesterday $12,000 in donations. Of this, $5,000 was donated by Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, $1,000 each by Ralph Pulitzer, E. F. Albee, Mrs. Ruth Pratt and William H. Todd, and $5,000 came in in smaller donations.

Referee Lyttle again warned depositors of Clarke Brothers that his office, at 299 Broadway, and "nowhere else," was the proper place to file proofs of claims. Those who do not file such proofs before Dec. 27, he added, will not be included in the distribution of assets. The law requires that such proofs be filed within six months after the filing of the petition in bankruptcy.

About 1,000 claims have been filed to date with the referee. This includes 158 which were turned over to him by the executive committee of the Clarke Brothers Depositors' Protective Association. From these proofs a clause giving the committee the right to collect dividends for the depositors has been struck out.

The Clarkes and Bouker were visited yesterday by their wives. The prisoners are permitted to see only one caller at a time, therefore children and other relatives gave way to the wives, who were told they might call again on Friday.

Depositors, through counsel, will ask for a temporary stay this morning in Federal Judge Coleman's court in the motion to dispossess, brought by the Metropolitan Museum estate, as landlord, against the Clarke Brothers' Bank property at 154 Nassau Street. This was decided upon at a meeting of the depositors' executive committee last night.

According to Charles Sonnenreich, one of the attorneys for the depositors' committee, in the event a stay is granted an effort will be made to induce some other bank to take over the property. In this way, Mr. Sonnenreich said, the depositors will realize more from the fixtures of the defunct bank.

A letter addressed to Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, was read by Louis Plitt, committee secretary, and approved by the committee. The letter relates events leading up to the crash and says "the money paid by the Clarke brothers in income taxes during the past several years was stolen from depositors." Mr. Mellon is asked to inform the committee if there is any possibility of this tax money being turned back to depositors.

A general meeting of depositors will be held tonight in Room 235 of the Federal Building.

TWO KILLED IN FAMILY FEUD

Girl Is Shot in Encounter on North Carolina Mountain Road.

MARSHALL, N. C., Aug. 12 (AP).—In the flare-up of a family feud on a narrow mountain road yesterday two men were killed and a girl wounded.

Arthur Stanton, aged 36; his daughter Agnes, 12; his brother Hubert, and Albert King, aged 35, were riding down the road in King's car when they met Arnold and Sampson Landers in a truck.

The machines stopped and Arthur Stanton got out. Hubert told county officers the Landers boys started shooting, but a tourist whose car was struck by several bullets said Arthur Stanton fired the first shot.

He and King were killed and Agnes was shot in the head. She is in an Asheville hospital in a serious condition.

Sheriff R. R. Ramsay arrested the Landerses at home. He also took Hubert Stanton into custody, pending an investigation. All are in the county jail here.

Mountaineers of the section said there had been "bad blood" between the Landerses and the Stantons for some time.

DEVICE TO HEAR LARVA WARS ON THE FRUIT FLY

Tiny Worm's Gnawing at Its Dinner Is Amplified on a Special Stethoscope.

An instrument which in time may prove as embarrassing to larvae of the Mediterranean fruit fly as burglar alarms are intended to be to burglars is being developed by experts of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company's experimental laboratory, The Associated Press reported yesterday.

The instrument might be described as a stethoscope. It bears as close a relation to the kind physicians use for listening to patients' hearts, however, as the Lick Observatory telescopes bear to the binoculars rented for a nickel by concessionaires at the Battery.

In its present state of development, it was said, the instrument, which is composed of a conglomeration of batteries, microphones, vacuum tube amplifiers, wires and telephone receivers, will "broadcast" the sound a larva makes when it feeds by tearing off morsels of fruit with its walruslike tusks in its period of incubation within grapefruit and oranges while awaiting its metamorphosis into a fly.

The instrument, however, has not been perfected to detect the sound of the tiny worms as they move about when not feeding. Since there are limits to even a larva's gormandising, scientists say the apparatus will not be entirely practicable until it has been developed further.

The idea of "listening in" on citrus fruits to discover before shipment to market whether they were infected with egg of the fruit fly originated with government entomologists, who for some time have been seeking a way to destroy the pests. They concluded that larvae with such spiny tentacles must make some noise in eating and sought the aid of the American Telephone and Telegraph and Bell Telephone Company laboratories.

Tests made recently in Florida showed the theory was sound. Several "suspected" grapefruit were examined with the instrument and the expected noises were heard. Other grapefruit, tested similarly, emitted no sound and were found to be free of larvae, while the "noisy" ones harbored fledgling flies beneath their healthy looking skins. Efforts to exterminate them with X-rays and by electricity failed, it was said.

Peru Restricts American Fruit.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—A Peruvian decree has been issued which prohibits importations of fresh fruits and vegetables into Peru from all points of the United States except California, Washington and Oregon, according to a cablegram from O. C. Townsend, Commercial Attaché at Lima, to the Department of Commerce. This embargo is designed to prevent importations of such products from Florida on account of the Medi[illegible]anean fruit fly.

REPUBLICANS MOVE FOR TARIFF ON HIDES

Senate Committeemen Also Act to Lay Levies on Leather and Shoes.

SMOOT AT WHITE HOUSE

Visit Indicates Party's Growing Fear of Delay for Bill—High Sugar Rates Assailed.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Tentative agreement to follow the example of the House and lay a tariff upon hides, leather and shoes, all now duty free, was reached by Republicans of the Senate Finance Committee this afternoon.

While it was asserted after the meeting that the decisions were tentative, it was understood that the Republicans agreed to retain the House rates of 10 per cent ad valorem on hides and 20 per cent on shoes, and increased the House rates of 12½ to 20 per cent on leather to about 15 to 35 per cent.

Although it was announced that the schedules had been completed, it was learned that the right was reserved to reopen the matter tomorrow after studies from the Tariff Commission and other authorities have been received.

There was much opposition in the committee over the hide-leather-shoe rates. On the one hand, some members thought the House had given too much aid to the leather and shoe industries and not enough to the farmer, who wants more protection for his hides, but does not desire this offset by heavy tariffs on leather and shoes he must buy. Other Republicans wanted tariff benefits for the industry, which contends it needs it whether hides are protected or not.

Committee experts worked tonight on compensatory duties on leather and shoes, based on both the 10 per cent and 15 per cent on hides, and these may be studied at the committee meeting tomorrow.

Chairman Visits White House.

A visit by Senator Smoot to the White House late today was held to be an indication of a growing fear among Republicans that the bill would not be finished at the special session, but would run over into the December term. The Finance Committee chairman, it was said, told the President that work was not going as rapidly as he had hoped, and that Senate debate would not begin until some time in September, perhaps the middle of that month.

Democrats are still jibing at Mr. Smoot for his abandonment of the sliding scale on sugar tariffs. Senator Harrison charged that, because other members of the Finance Committee advised against the scale, both Mr. Smoot and President Hoover had been "repudiated" by that committee. The sugar tariffs will be considered by the committee Republicans tomorrow. Mr. Smoot is now prepared to stand behind a flat rate instead of his sliding scale proposal.

Senator Borah today received the report of the expert whom he asked to work out a sugar bounty plan, but the Senator has not yet studied the scheme in detail. He said, however, that the expert had computed $443,000,000 as the annual cost to the consumer under the House rates, as compared with $293,000,000 under the existing law. The expert, according to Mr. Borah, believes the bounty idea will save $150,000,000 yearly for the consumer.

"Congress will never pass a burden of $443,000,000 to the consumer," the Senator said. "Some other plan will have to be devised."

The Finance Committee's action in trebling the House rate of 8 cents on imported rags and other wool waste was denounced by Senator Walsh, Democrat, of Massachusetts, a member of the Finance Committee, who said the increase would result in the virtual death of about thirty smaller mills in New England.

Senator Harrison, in his comments, charged that the Hawley bill would make the American public pay two and one-half times as much for sugar as at present. Alluding to the sliding scale, he said:

"Again Chairman Smoot and President Hoover have been repudiated by the Republican members of the Finance Committee. After working for months on his sliding scale, Senator Smoot visited with the President at Rapidan. He carried his sugar sliding scale scheme with him, and immediately upon his return, speaking authoritatively, announced that President Hoover would sign the bill with his sliding scale in it. The hearings the next day presented a pitiful spectacle. Not a voice was raised either in its advocacy or defense.

"The aroused indignation of the American people has crystallized opposition to the inordinately high rates carried on sugar in the House bill, or to any substitute having for its purpose similar rates applied through a different method. No interest has received better treatment at the hands of the Federal Government than the sugar interests. They are now exacting annually more than $225,000,000 a year through tariff protection.

Assails Tax on Consumers.

"The amount of protection carried in the present law has been denounced as unnecessary to equalize the difference in the cost of production here and abroad by every expert commission that has studied the question.

"The present rate is 1.76 cents a pound as against Cuban sugar. The Tariff Commission held that 1.23 cents a pound as against Cuban sugar only was necessary to equalize the difference in the cost of production in continental United States and in Cuba. A small number of sugar beet companies that produce 75 per cent of the sugar beet production in the United States are now making, and have consistently made, large profits from their operation.

"If the rates carried in the House bill on sugar should be adopted by the Senate, the cost of this item alone to the American sugar consumer annually will be approximately $325,000,000. The value of all the sugar produced annually in continental United States upon the present value of sugar in New York amounts approximately to $135,000,000.

"It will be seen that the House bill proposes to exact in taxes from the American consumers nearly two and one-half times the value of all the sugar produced in the United States. The price is too big, the scheme is too unjust for the Congress to accept or for the American people to approve."

Discussing the increase on wool rags to 24 cents, Senator Walsh of Massachusetts said:

"This is a shocking example of what special interests are trying to do with this tariff. In a vain attempt to compel the use of pure wool and eliminate substitutes of all kinds, the Republicans are willing to wipe out an entire industry. The Shoddy Mills of New England, which are centralized in the Blackstone Valley, have built up a profitable business over the last century, producing cheaper grades of clothing fabric.

"This goes into suits selling for about $20. They are cheap clothes, but they are all the poor man can afford to purchase, and there is no justification for taking them away from him. The raw material for this industry comes from the northern countries of Europe, where people have been wearing woolen clothes for centuries.

"As it is worn into rags it is fumigated, sent to America and reworked and then mixed with cotton to make these suitings. The 7½-cent rate of present law cannot be defended on the ground of competition, for the domestic output is negligible compared with the importations of 100,000,000 pounds. In the last seven years, the Shoddy industry has had trouble enough meeting the 7½-cent tax.

"My files are choked with letters of these manufacturers protesting against the 7½-cent duty and asking a decrease. But when they are informed that they must pay three times that much for their raw material, they will throw up their hands in despair.

"The argument for this prohibitive rate is that if we shut out wool rags and waste, the American people will be compelled to wear clothing made of virgin wool and thus increase the demand for domestic wool.

"That would be a splendid argument if the workman with a large family, who must have some wool in his clothing, were able to pay $75 or $100 for a suit of clothes. The proposed decrease in the basic duty on raw wool, from the 34 cents in the Hawley bill to the present 31-cent rate is helpful to New England's manufacturing interests, but its effect is entirely nullified by such unjustifiable increases as that on wool rags.

"I am beginning to wonder whether the Republicans who are writing this tariff bill have any idea that such a place as New England exists."

Retired Major Is 100 Today; Was Commissioned by Lincoln

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Major S. Willard Saxton, a retired army officer living in Washington, will attain the age of 100 years tomorrow. Living with Major Saxton is his wife, who is more than 95 years of age.

Major Saxton was commissioned a Captain by President Lincoln in 1862 and served throughout the remainder of the war on the staff of his brother, Brig. Gen. Rufus Saxton.

After the war Major Saxton was mustered out of the service in Washington, settled here and served for many years as a division chief in the Treasury Department.

Major Saxton's four children are coming to Washington to be present at the celebration of his 100th birthday.

BEAVERBROOK URGES TARIFF FOR EMPIRE

Proposes "Ring Fence" Round British Dominions Against America and Europe.

WOULD USE CARTEL IDEA

Suggests a System to Coordinate Imperial Trade, Develop Industry and Curb Waste.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 12.—Building a ring fence around the British Empire by raising tariff walls against foreigners is advocated by Lord Beaverbrook in two letters published in the Montreal evening papers.

In one letter, addressed to the editor of The Montreal Herald, he says:

"I am in earnest because I realize that the economic grouping of the world today constitutes a grave menace to the Empire; because it is only by uniting and by organizing our resources that we can save ourselves from being crushed by the economic federations of Europe and America.

"The whole essence of the project is to foster all empire industries whenever they add to imperial prosperity. We want to raise up tariff walls against the foreigners and to remove them as against imperial countries.

"We aim at developing markets within a ring fence built round the Empire.

Aims to Maintain Key Industries.

"There will be no reduction of tariffs imposed solely for revenue purposes, nor will any damage result to those imperial industries which are fostered and protected by tariffs. We must realize that the key industries must be maintained in Britain and in the Dominions; their existence and their prosperity are essential to the safety of the empire.

"In short, while our object is the development of imperial prosperity, we must be sure that no portion of the empire benefits at the expense of any other portion.

"We now know the power of the cartel. * * * It has been evolved to deal with the difficulties of trade created by post-war conditions. It has proved itself in Europe; it has shown that it possesses flexibility and adaptability; that it is capable of the very finest adjustment.

"Such qualities mark it as an ideal instrument for the delicate task of regulating the proportions of our imperial trade."

Elaborates Empire Cartel Plan.

The other letter, addressed to Murray Williams, a Montreal stock broker, is along similar lines with further emphasis on the cartel idea, on which he says:

"Canada imports altogether $676,500,000 worth of manufactured goods. Is there any reason why Great Britain and Canada should not keep this market to themselves by means of tariffs and divide it by using the mechanism of cartels?

"By adopting the principles of cartel organization we can allot spheres of influence to the different interests concerned, we can further encourage industries where they are best fitted to succeed, and, by combining efforts, the waste involved in competition can be eliminated. Empire industry as a whole could thereby be made very prosperous

"What is Great Britain to give in return? We propose to guarantee a market to dominion agriculture by putting taxes on foreign wheat and meat coming into England."

ACCUSES DRY AGENT OF ATTACKING HIM

Chicago Newspaper Photographer Declares One Beat Him While Three Others Held Him.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12 (AP).—A request for a warrant for the arrest of B. F. Mills, a Federal prohibition agent, was made today by James Bobbett, 19 years old, a photographer for The Chicago Tribune. Bobbett said Mills struck him, blackening both his eyes, while four other agents held him. Judge John Lyle of Municipal court indicated he would issue the warrant.

The alleged attack occurred in the corridor of the court after Judge Lyle had continued until tomorrow the case of Willard Mogland, Federal prohibition agent, who is charged with beating a 60-year-old café owner during a raid.

MAN DIES SAVING GIRL.

Joseph Springer, Reputed Ex-Prince of Austria, Drowns in Lake Erie.

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 12 (AP).—Coroner Daniel Hanley tonight said he expected a brother of Joseph Springer, 27 years old, steamship representative and reputed former Prince of the Hapsburg dynasty, who was drowned here yesterday in Lake Erie, to come to Erie from New York and claim the body tomorrow.

Mr. Springer, whose home was in New York, met death when he went to the rescue of Mary Weinrauch, aged 20, of Pittsburgh, who became exhausted while swimming. He brought the girl to within a short distance of shore, where others aided her to the beach. Mr. Springer then collapsed and before he could be reached he drowned.

An Erie clergyman, who had been host to Springer, said tonight that the young man had told him he came to the United States following the fall of the house of Hapsburg in Austria-Hungary. The minister said Mr. Springer had told him that he was of royal blood.

CALLS PRISON RIOTS BLESSINGS IN DISGUISE

Warden Jennings Says Outbreak at Auburn Was Planned by George Small.

AUBURN, Aug. 12 (AP).—Warden Edgar S. Jennings of Auburn prison today expressed a belief that the riots at Auburn and Dannemora were "blessings in disguise," and that the Mutual Welfare League, organized by the late Thomas Mott Osborne here, is a miserable failure.

Warden Jennings said the riots have focused public attention upon the "shameful neglect" of the State prisons. He believes aroused public opinion will force action on needed expansion and improvement. The Warden said the impossibility of segregating prisoners in Auburn, because of overcrowding, is especially deplorable, because 20 per cent of the prisoners received there are perverts.

Warden Jennings also said not more than eight or ten convicts actually took part in the revolt, which was planned by George Small, New York City hold-up man, who got away with his three associates over the walls.

"I know that press reports pictured all the prison population as engaged in the riot," the warden said. But it is not true. The burning of the shop buildings is what made it so spectacular.

"George Small, a New York City crook, sent here in 1927 for sticking up a diamond salesman, planned the whole thing and took into his confidence only his bosom friends. He was afraid to trust more for fear he would be tipped off."

Auburn food supplies are not what they should be, Warden Jennings admitted, but declared he is powerless to improve the situation.

"The State allows only 21 cents per day per prisoner," he said. "That figure was fixed fifteen years ago and never has been changed, although everybody knows how the prices of foodstuffs have increased since then. We are giving them the best we can for the money we get to use for that purpose."

BOSTON HOTEL TO CLOSE.

The United States, Built in 1824, Has Had Many Famous Guests.

BOSTON, Aug. 12 (AP).—The United States Hotel, one of Boston's most famous hostelries, will close its doors permanently Saturday, it was announced today. The structure remains externally much as it was when constructed in 1824 when Daniel Webster was one of its backers.

Two wings were added, the "Texas" and "Oregon" when these States were admitted to the Union.

Such famous persons as Charles Dickens, Henry Clay, George Washington, Oliver Ames, Rufus Choate and Woodrow Wilson were among its patrons.

George W. Hanlon, manager, said there were no plans for the future.

9-YEAR-OLD BOY ROUTS BURGLAR WITH A CHAIR

Birmingham (Ala.) Lad's Blow Puts to Flight Man Who Had Stabbed Mother and 2 Brothers.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 12 (AP).—Gaston Kimerling, 9 years old, was a hero in the eyes of Birmingham boys and grown-ups as well today after his encounter with a negro burglar who early Sunday probably fatally wounded an older brother and seriously slashed his mother and another with a knife.

Mrs. M. Kimerling was awakened by a noise in her room. A moment later the light was turned on and she found a negro bending over her with a drawn knife. Without a word the negro clasped a hand over her mouth and attempted to remove a ring from her finger. When she resisted he stabbed her twice.

Retreating into a hall he met Mrs. Kimerling's two sons, Charley, 17, and Hyman, 15, coming to her assistance. A struggle ensued, the negro using his knife.

Young Gaston was awakened. Entering the hall he seized a chair and landed a blow on the negro's head, putting him to flight.

Hyman, with five stab wounds in the back and neck, was in a critical condition in a hospital today. The wounds of the other two victims were less serious and they were expected to recover.

The stabbing Sunday morning was the second within a week. Miss Mary Bryant, 17-year-old nigh school girl, was slashed twice Thursday morning when she refused to keep quiet after being awakened by an intruder.

No arrests have been made and the police are without clues.

SEEK NEWARK SLAYER HERE

Police Want to Question Racketeer in Fire Murder Case.

The Newark police disclosed last night that they were searching for a Broadway racketeer for questioning in connection with the murder of an unidentified man who was burned to death last Friday night on the city dump on the fringe of Newark. The man sought owned a sedan similar to the one in which the victim was burned.

The detectives were inclined to believe the slain man had been a boxer at one time. They based this on the fact that dental work, in which a gold wire was used, found in the murdered man's upper jaw was of the type employed to strengthen molars loosened by the blows of the prize ring.

A clue on Staten Island was exploded by the police. This was a report that on Friday night a man had been pushed into an automobile which sped away toward New Jersey. Witnesses' descriptions of this car varied widely from the sedan burned on the dump.

The detectives cleared up the mystery of a telegram delivered to headquarters on Sunday night. It was a message from Mrs. Michael Pillar of Madera, Pa., to her brother-in-law, John Pillar of Elizabeth, N. J., requesting him to examine the body to see if it was that of her husband, who had been missing since July 27. The man was not his brother, Pillar said.

Hail Kills Five in Rumania.

KISHINEV, Rumania, Aug. 12 (AP).—Five persons were killed last night by a terrific hailstorm which struck the lower part of the city and its suburbs. Great damage was done in the countryside and telegraph and telephone lines were destroyed.

The Lincoln Nobody Knows—

A YOUNG man so weighted down by depression that he would not carry a pocketknife for fear he might end his own life...

A FAILURE as a farmer, as a storekeeper, as a surveyor, and as a soldier...A man cheated by death in the one great love of his life...

A MAN whose panic caused him to leave Mary Todd "waiting at the church"...Whose chivalry later led him to fight a duel for her...

A LINCOLN swayed by superstition, who took a boy miles to touch a stone which was reputed to cure the bite of a mad dog...

A YOUTH embittered by the knowledge that his mother was an illegitimate child ...A man of heart so tender that it could break for others...

SO FEARLESS that though he believed a warning that tragedy would end his life before he finished his second term, he never faltered...

PARIS TAKES HOPE IN DELAY AT HAGUE

Looks for "Friendly Postponement" of Parley, to Resume After League Meeting.

GLAD ENTENTE SURVIVES

Its Collapse Would Renew Many Dangers of Pre-War Days, Observers Assert.

By CARLISLE MacDONALD.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 12—The respite afforded at The Hague conference through the initiative of Philip Snowden, who requested an adjournment of financial discussions until Wednesday, has had a cooling effect upon the agitated minds of the French political observers. The British Chancellor of the Exchequer's explanation of his sharp remarks had already gone considerable to placate the anger of the Parisian and provincial press, although his words have left an unfortunate impression which will take a long time to efface.

There is a readiness to suspend final judgment until Premier MacDonald's message to his Minister at The Hague has had an opportunity to take effect.

With the return of calmer councils, the French press is almost unanimous in the expectation that the abrupt rupture, with all its dire consequences to European conciliation, has happily been avoided, although the newspapers appear equally convinced that nothing short of a miracle can now save the meeting from a "friendly postponement."

Such a postponement, commentators explain, would permit the conference to reconvene at the end of the Assembly of the League of Nations in September. Then, under different conditions, the Labor Premier of England and the European powers would be able to work out what seems impossible to achieve at the present time.

French Are Relieved.

Despite all the aggressive assertions about the replacing of the Entente Cordiale with a more direct alliance with Germany, French writers are genuinely relieved over the British Foreign Secretary's statement that the Entente continues. After all is said and done, calmer students of the European situation realize that to substitute a German for a British alliance would be to revive many dreaded dangers of prewar days, for, as l'Oeuvre and other well-informed papers declare, such a step might well be construed as a definite alignment of Continental Europe against the Anglo-Saxon world with all the momentous things that that implies.

Thus tonight's semi-official Le Temps begins its leading editorial in this fashion:

"The key word of the whole situation was spoken yesterday by Mr. Henderson, the British Foreign Minister, when he said the Entente Cordiale continues. We want to believe that it never was menaced and that its existence does not depend upon the ill humor of Mr. Philip Snowden. The deplorable incident which occurred on Saturday before the financial commission has been liquidated, a personal affair has been regulated and the healthful atmosphere of the conference restored.

"But so far as the opposing positions are concerned, nothing has changed."

Le Temps, in unison with nearly all the other important newspapers, makes it quite clear that the utmost must be done to save the Young plan. If, Le Temps remarks, something can be arranged, within the framework of the Young plan itself, to meet the demands of the British, then France, along with the other Continental powers, will no doubt be willing to give satisfaction so far as it is compatible with the rights of all concerned.

"In view of the inevitable consequences, it is indeed difficult to understand the sang froid, the composure, of London in face of a possible rupture," continues the semi-official organ. "No one can be mistaken about the consequences such a political, economical and financial break would have for Europe and Great Britain."

"It is significant to note that the American press, for the last three days, has been calling attention to the danger of Europe returning to a state of chaos and it is the logical belief that this aspect of the situation was discussed during the interview between the eminent American, Thomas W. Lamont, Montagu Norman, Governor of the Bank of England, and the British Premier.

"The rupture at The Hague must absolutely be averted. One may be permitted to hope that it will, and if it is found necessary to adjourn the conference it must be hoped the delay will be used to better prepare the ground for the next meeting.

"But even a simple adjournment will carry with it so many political consequences that it is sincerely hoped the chief of the British delegation has not said his last word."

One of the curious aspects of the French reaction has been the surprise of the French public over what L'Action Francaise and other papers term the "super-patriotism of the Laborite-Socialist Snowden."

"Mr. Snowden and Premier MacDonald have shown that, despite their political views, they remain Englishmen above everything else," comments the Paris Soir. "To them the interests of Britain come before those of the outside world."

Now that the "atmosphere has been painfully cleared," French opinion wants to feel that the liquidation of the war cannot be retarded nor the entente destroyed by the opposition of the British Labor Government to the Young plan. No country, it has been reiterated daily since The Hague crisis began, could face such responsibility for the sake of a few million pounds.

Mr. MacDonald's telegram supporting Mr. Snowden is accepted here without surprise. He could not do otherwise under the circumstances, although now that he has given Mr. Snowden much-needed indorsement the hope is expressed that the "Premier of the greatest empire on earth" will say the saving word in the present critical circumstances.

The only French newspaper to find justification for Mr. Snowden's position is the Socialist Populaire, which declares that the French press and not the British delegation is prejudicing the success of the conference.

"Had Sir Austen Chamberlain said the same words, what a different reception they would have had," says Populaire.

UNLIKELY TO SEND DAWES TO THE HAGUE

Washington Says No Request Has Been Received for His Aid—Hope for Settlement Gains.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Unofficial suggestions in Europe that General Charles G. Dawes, American Ambassador to Great Britain, might be sent to The Hague to act as mediator between Great Britain and the other powers in the reparation impasse, were discounted here today. In administration circles a definite impression was given that the Ambassador, so far as now could be seen, would not be sent on any such mission.

No request from any of the interested powers has been received for the good offices of General Dawes, it was stated, and officials indicated that the American Government would not send him to The Hague on its own initiative. Reports that the reparation powers in inviting the United States to send an official delegate or observer to the conference had suggested General Dawes were denied. This would have been an improper act in diplomacy, it was pointed out. The American observer at The Hague is Edwin C. Wilson of the Embassy at Paris.

Officials found little comfort today in the reports from the conference, their one hope for the avoidance of its collapse being that it is still in existence. Several times, they recalled, when the committee of experts was in session they thought its work would be abruptly terminated, but it finally completed a report. Official reports to the State Department from The Hague were said to throw no more light on the situation than was contained in press dispatches.

Should the reparation conference collapse, it is felt some satisfactory solution might eventually be found through later meetings of Foreign Ministers or Prime Ministers at Geneva during sessions of the League of Nations, or in some other way, but the whole situation contained so many possibilities and uncertainties today that officials declined to speculate.

Secretary Stimson returned to the State Department this afternoon from a ten days' vacation in the Adirondacks, but had no comment to make on the situation.

WANTS AMERICA IN COURT

Everett Colby Says Nation Must Join to Avert War Catastrophe.

Quoting Thomas A. Edison to the effect that another universal war would destroy modern civilization, Everett Colby, chairman of the executive committee of the League of Nations Non-Partisan Association, told the international law class in the College of the City of New York yesterday that the United States soon must join the World Court of International Justice.

"The world is gradually realizing that war must be ostracized," Mr. Colby said. "I have it on the authority of Thomas Edison, my neighbor, that another universal war will practically destroy modern civilization; that a city like New York or London could be obliterated in a single day. In the face of such an eventuality, our rich and prosperous country must take alarm at the methods of modern warfare. The World Court represents a method whereby our country can do its share for civilization by working against this impending evil."

Dawes May Attend MacDonald Ceremony.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 11.—Premier MacDonald said tonight that when he receives the freedom of Elgin, a week from Friday, General Dawes probably will be in the neighborhood with friends and may attend the ceremony and a luncheon afterward.

DR. THAYER ASSAILS PRISON OVERCROWDING

Napanoch Head Also Lays Riots to Idleness—Would Modify Baumes Laws.

Special to The New York Times.

NAPANOCH, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Commenting upon the recent uprisings at Clinton and Auburn prisons, Dr. Walter N. Thayer Jr., superintendent of the institution for defective delinquents here, said today that overcrowding and the lack of suitable employment for convicts were responsible in his opinion.

The State, he said, has failed to keep pace with the growth in prison populations, which he held due in part to the normal growth in population of the State, more stringent laws and longer terms. "While he did not wish to criticize the Baumes laws, Dr. Thayer said he could not escape the conviction that life terms for fourth offenders were "psychologically wrong."

Not only do such sentences rob convicts of any hope for the future and transform them into the most desperate characters, he declares, but juries are apt to acquit in spite of conclusive evidence if they feel the penalty is too severe for the crime. Habitual criminals, he thought, should receive indeterminate sentences and be paroled, not pardoned, when they have shown that they are ready to resume places in society.

Dr. Thayer said that Dr. Raymond F. C. Kleb, Commissioner of Correction, was "doing everything possible to reorganize the parole system on a sane basis and to adjust institutional administration scientifically." The department, he said, never was in better condition than at present.

SNOWDEN EXCEEDED CABINET'S DIRECTION

By CHARLES A. SELDEN.

the Exchequer urging him to try more conciliatory methods.

In other words, the two men are now repeating their performance of 1924, when the Labor government was in power for the first time and Mr. MacDonald was trying to exert a conciliatory influence to restrain Mr. Snowden from a too aggressive attitude toward France in the matter of reparation plans.

The chief political and financial criticism of Mr. Snowden, now heard in London as an under-current to the general praise of his attitude, is that he is over-emphasizing his aggressiveness and missing the opportunity to get a large part of what he wants by less dramatic methods.

He demands three things—continuance of the Spa percentages for distribution of payments from Germany, a discontinuance of or lessening of Germany's payments in kind, and a rearrangement of the conditional and unconditional payments so that England may get a larger share of what Germany must pay, regardless of all adverse circumstances.

But, according to well-informed critics in London, Mr. Snowden was assured before he went to The Hague that he might get a satisfactory assurance so far as payments in kind were concerned, and that there was a provision of the guarantee fund which would protect England against risks in Germany's conditional payments.

It is admitted that the question of restoring the Spa percentages under the Young plan is a more difficult problem, but even so, there is doubt as to whether Mr. Snowden is taking the best method of tackling it.

The criticism is, in short, that after making the first frank public statement of what England wanted, Mr. Snowden should have devoted himself to quiet negotiations with France, Italy and Belgium to reach a satisfactory compromise instead of keeping on with his aggressive public oratory.

That Mr. MacDonald is himself concerned about the possible effect which a breakdown at The Hague conference might have on financial and economic affairs in the world, as indicated by his Saturday conference in Scotland with Montagu Norman, Governor of the Bank of England, and Thomas W. Lamont.

Nothing has been disclosed by the Prime Minister or either of the bankers as to the nature of that conference, but it is taken for granted that The Hague meeting and the consequences of its possible failure were the chief subjects of discussion.

Mr. Lamont, who returned to London tonight, would say nothing except that in the conversation with Mr. MacDonald he discovered that the Prime Minister was greatly interested in the philosophy of Spinoza.

Although Mr. Lamont was invited to go to The Hague by his former associates on the Young plan committee, he does not expect, at the present time, to do so. He is scheduled to sail for America on Aug. 21 and has no definite plans in the meantime. He may return to Scotland for more golf.

People Feel Easier.

LONDON, Aug. 12 (AP).—The question agitating all Britain tonight was "Will Mr. Snowden Succeed?" and when the news came later today that on Mr. Snowden's own motion the financial commission of the conference had adjourned until Wednesday people began to feel easier and believed that the conference, after all, would not break down.

The adjournment was regarded here as being intended to give time for private talks among the delegates, with a view to finding some way out of the impasse.

Whether this is the correct interpretation or not, more optimistic views prevailed in London today. The British press continues daily to voice its complete support of Mr. Snowden's stand.

An editorial in The Evening Standard today said:

"Mr. Snowden has only to stand by his guns with the Cabinet firmly behind him and we are confident that reason will prevail. * * * At this moment he is probably the most popular Chancellor of the Exchequer since the war, and perhaps longer than it. If he succeeds, and possibly even if he does not, he should be received on his return home with appreciation no less fervent than that accorded to Disraeli when he brought peace with honor from Berlin in 1878."

An editorial in The Star suggests that, being encouraged on all hands to stiffen his back, it is all the more incumbent on Mr. Snowden to temper determination with the most scrupulous courtesy.

Word again came from Lossiemouth today that there was no intention on the part of Prime Minister MacDonald to go to The Hague.

Finds Britain Misunderstood.

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 12 (AP).—Commending Philip Snowden for his firm stand at The Hague conference on reparations, The Sydney Sun today says Great Britain, in its war debts and reparations dealings, has been misunderstood.

"No sooner has the Dawes plan begun to operate than another American financial genius invents means for making it lighter for Germany and harder for Britain," says The Sun.

The newspaper compares the absence of unemployment in France and Italy with the "ghastly" unemployment in Britain and concludes Britain is already overburdened.

COMPROMISE LIKELY TO SATISFY BRITISH

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

tages of payments in kind, M. Briand shows a disposition to do what he can toward effecting a compromise.

However, this morning at the session of the financial commission, the Germans indicated they must be reckoned with in any change of the deliveries-in-kind plans.

Depend on Deliveries in Kind.

Minister of Economy Curtius said that Germany depended on deliveries in kind to meet her obligations, and as long as the amounts remained the same she must not be put in a worse position than under the Young plan as written.

Germany's foreign exports are 20 per cent below the pre-war level and the deliveries in kind, he said, had become an essential part of Germany's economy. Although Germany is ready to try to meet the desire of England with respect to detailed changes, he said Germany could not agree that the total payments in kind be less than those laid down by the experts' plan.

Signor Pirelli, for Italy, protested against ending Italy's ability to get cheap coal under reparations delivery. Replying to the English point that German coal deliveries for reparations were hurting the English coal trade Signor Pirelli said that Italy's use of coal had so increased that, in addition to reparations coal, she was still buying as much English coal as she did before the war.

This one gets a glimpse of the immense difficulties which would attend any effort to rewrite the Young plan.

In the afternoon the political commission had a meeting to discuss plans for the evacuation of the Rhineland. This commission is hampered under the circumstances, for its work depends on the success of the work of the financial commission, for the evacuation of the Rhineland depends on the adoption of the Young plan.

The British made it plain that they are for quick evacuation. They wish it announced at Geneva next month that evacuation is beginning and is to be completed by Jan. 10.

Briand Plays for Time.

Premier Briand showed that the French are playing for time. While adopting the principle of early evacuation following the putting of the Young plan into effect, he appeared to favor the first half of next year for getting off the Rhine. He pointed out it would be a hardship to move the troops in Winter and thought it was best to wait until Spring.

To this Foreign Minister Stresemann retorted that the French troops could be saved that inhumane experience by moving now. Further, he asked, what would happen if a war were on and the French troops had to retreat in the Winter? Could they do it?

After an hour and a half discussion it was decided, in principle, to ask the committee of military experts to prepare plans for the evacuation. The heads of the delegations will meet tomorrow to decide the terms of reference for this committee.

Meanwhile the committee of jurists meets tomorrow morning to consider the question of the French demand for a commission of control to insure German observance of demilitarization of the Rhineland after the allied troops leave the territory.

And so this evening, the conference appears to have survived the crisis Mr. Snowden created last week. It certainly is too early to be very optimistic about the outcome, but the spirit of things has much improved. Indeed, that had to be if the conference is liquidate the war was ever to get anywhere.

As it stands it will probably have to suspend its activities over the League of Nations Assembly meeting, which starts on Sept. 2, to resume afterward.

Its first week of progress has not been bright.

Morgan Seen as Mediator.

THE HAGUE, Aug. 12 (AP).—Reparations circles were alive with rumors today that Mr. Snowden's proposal was intended to give J. P. Morgan, who was one of the American representatives at the Paris experts' conference which framed the Young plan, time to exercise mediating influence.

It was even reported that the American banker already was at The Hague, or had been here in consultation with the delegates secretly.

Meanwhile, M. Briand was reported to have "had enough of The Hague" and to favor the atmosphere of Geneva for reparations deliberations should it be found necessary to suspend the conference to avoid a complete break-down.

Morgan Known to Be in London.

LONDON, Aug. 12 (AP).—J. P. Morgan was authoritatively stated to be in the offices of his London banking house this morning.

The Associated Press learned this after investigating reports he was at or en route to The Hague.

»» THE SAFE ROAD ALOFT!

Highly skilled weather observers along the entire route are transmitting their reports to your pilot. He knows exactly what to expect! . . . And, with three motors, can easily meet any weather emergency.

NOT UNTIL SAFETY was definitely assured could the great transportation companies risk carrying passengers across the sky. And safety could not be assured until three of the greatest hazards of flight were overcome. These were (1) engine failure, (2) structural defects, and (3) fire. War-time planes, and planes built on war-time principles, could not overcome these hazards, because such planes were planned expressly for hazardous performances and risky maneuverability. A new type of plane, a commercial plane with safety as its chief factor, had to be developed before peace-time transportation could be assured.

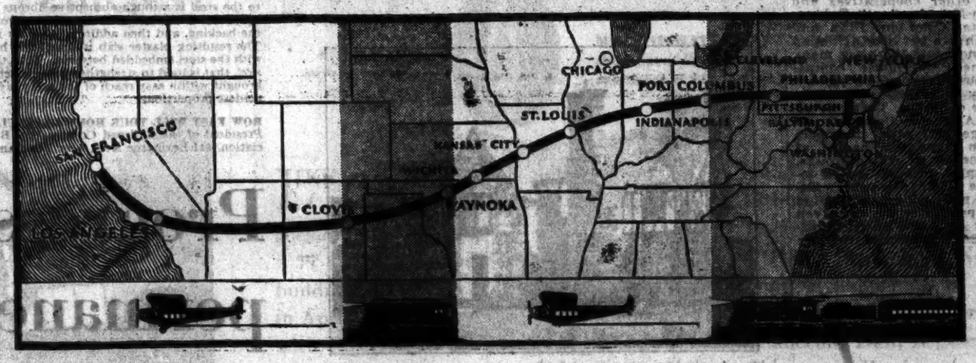
After months and years of study, both in America and Europe, the Pennsylvania Railroad, in conjunction with the Santa Fe, realized that at last, in the multi-engined plane, safety with comfort could be assured!

New York to Los Angeles—48 hours

On July 7th, with more than a thousand applications for passage in hand, the first air-rail service was inaugurated across this country. Now, as you are reading this message, the giant, all-metal tri-motored planes of the Transcontinental Air Transport are driving across the sky smoothly, luxuriously, SAFELY . . . at over a hundred miles an hour! This is the birth of a new service that will continue through the ages; for with the development of the metal plane air-transportation is at last an established fact.

You are accustomed to marvels in this industrial age. But do you fully comprehend the simple fact of this new air-transportation service? Do you understand that taking passage from New York to Los Angeles or San Francisco, or to intermediate points by T-A-T planes, is today just as simple as taking passage by train or boat? . . . And that it will not end, as a fad does, next month or the month after, but will continue to expand until the skies are streaked with giant metal planes?

Tickets may be purchased, are being purchased! at all railroad stations affiliated with the Santa Fe or Pennsylvania Railroad lines. Passage from New York to Los Angeles costs $351.94, and includes meals and all accommodations while aloft.



The shaded portions of the map indicate the sections of the route traversed in Pullman cars at night. The entire trip from Coast to Coast takes only 48 hours. So most of the country you pass is revealed in golden sunlight.

The Safe Road Aloft

The 48-hour trip begins at 6:05 P. M. on the "Airway Limited," a Pullman sleeper, departing from the Pennsylvania Station, New York. Dawn at Port Columbus discloses a Ford all-metal, tri-motored plane, with engines idling beside the rails. . . . A swift run! A new sensation of smoothness and extraordinary firmness and stability underfoot! You are aloft! As the world grows smaller beneath you, you experience a marvelous sensation of increased stature . . . of almost divine calmness . . . of a new and superior understanding.

FEAR? There is none. The swiftness of flight gives the air about you the density of water. Extend your hand through an open window. You can FEEL the air, just as you feel water when you trail your hand from a canoe! DIZZINESS? There is none. For there are no lines of perspective to draw you earthward. The world in panorama simply floats beneath you. You are traveling a pathway that mankind has never known until the birth of this progressive generation. You are feeling emotions indescribable only a few years ago.

You glide lightly to earth for a few minutes at Indianapolis . . . St. Louis . . . Kansas City . . . Wichita. . . . And as the sun begins to sink at Waynoka, at 6:24 o'clock, you come again to the spacious comfort of another Pullman sleeper. Dawn, once more, in Clovis. Once more you soar smoothly into the sky, desert beneath you and purple mountains beyond. You land for a few moments at Albuquerque . . . Winslow . . . Kingman. . . . And late in the afternoon the blue of the California sky reflects the deeper blue of the Pacific Ocean. You have crossed the North American continent on one of the most marvelous trips the genius of this age can offer you!

Stability has been equal to a cushioned limousine gliding over a cement road. The comfort has been that of a luxurious yacht, with a steward in attendance, and refreshments, iced or piping hot, at your order. Running hot and cold water in an immaculate lavatory were at your service. And the world below you was an open book of infinite fascination!

But what assured your SAFETY?

Two vital factors made your trip one of security.

1. All-metal construction.

The science of metallurgy has alone made possible the highest development of transport planes. Metal will not burn. And metal is of uniform strength. Planes built of the new alloys are uniformly strong. In comparison to the planes of war-time, and of the experimental era, when they were held together with glue and sticks and uncertain fabric, they are as a modern automobile compared to an old-fashioned wooden wagon. . . . That is why the great air liners of Germany are practically all of metal. . . . That is why in other countries the trend is toward all-metal planes. . . . That is why Ford built at least five years ahead of the modern trend in aviation!

2. THREE air-cooled motors of 1275 horse-power.

Two of these motors would have been sufficient to lift you from the ground and carry you to your destination. But in the transport of passengers over wide and uncertain areas, what if one engine failed? Immediate descent would have been necessary, though the glide might be extended over many miles. THE THIRD ENGINE IS YOUR EXTRA MARGIN OF SAFETY. For if one of three engines cuts out you may continue on to your destination in safety. And if one of the remaining two engines should by chance cut out you still have many miles for a reasonably safe landing. . . . That is why the trend in Germany is toward multi-engined ships. . . . That is why the Silver Wing air liners, the Imperial Airways of Great Britain, are tri-motored. . . . That is why Ford will build nothing less than a three-motored ship for human transport.

FOR UPON THE FACTOR OF SAFETY, MORE THAN ANYTHING ELSE, DEPENDS THE SUCCESS OF COMMERCIAL AVIATION.

This principle of safety first . . . established by the experts of the Transcontinental Air Transport . . . is a policy that is certain to carry this great new transportation company far on the wings of success.

SAYS GROWERS' BODY WILL AID CONSUMER

Head of $50,000,000 Project Asserts It Will Seek to Lower Retail Prices.

FARM BOARD IS NEUTRAL

Asserts It Has Not Been Apprised of Organization—Jardine Acclaims Marketing Program.

The United Growers of America, the new $50,000,000 farm cooperative of fruit and vegetable producers, will use "big business" efficiency methods of marketing to reduce prices to housewives and at the same time swell the income of farmers, Arthur R. Rule, chairman of the organization committee, promised yesterday.

Happy over the first day's reaction to the announcement of the formation of the association, Mr. Rule at the headquarters of the organization, 90 West Street, predicted that in due time it would have connected with it a majority of the small fruit and vegetable cooperatives throughout the country. He said he had been bombarded by sympathetic inquiries yesterday and that a series of conferences will be held within the next ten days looking to a still wider scope of activity.

At Washington the Federal Farm Board denied that it had endorsed the new organization, but Mr. Rule, who was in touch with both the secretary of the board and Arthur M. Hyde, Secretary of Agriculture, during the day, explained that he had never meant to imply that the United Growers had been specifically approved as an organization. It had been formed in compliance with the agricultural marketing law and the Capper-Volstead cooperative marketing act, he said, but had never sought formal official endorsement.

"While our plans were not submitted to the Farm Board for its official approval," he said, "the United Growers was organized in compliance with the declared policies of the board, after we had informed Chairman Legge by letter in July of the organization plan and program. The plan was also discussed informally with other members of the board by former Secretary Jardine."

Albrecht Praises Project.

While Mr. Rule was elaborating on his proposals, sympathetic and critical comments were being voiced in city circles interested in the merger which already embraces sixty lesser cooperatives. Dr. Arthur E. Albrecht, director of the New York City Division of the State Department of Agriculture, welcomed the opportunity for increased farm cooperation and also suggested that a representative of the public be on the board of directors of the new organization. On the other hand, commission merchants here were skeptical that there would be any change in local marketing conditions.

"There have been from 1,200 to 1,500 small cooperatives in the vegetable and fruit business, for the most part in competition with each other," Mr. Rule declared. "We intend first to get these cooperatives to cooperate with each other.

"Many of these organizations now ship to city markets without knowing what the others are doing. The result is that some markets are oversupplied and some suffer shortages. United Growers plans a steady distribution by adequate comprehensive knowledge of the markets.

"We will assist growers' organizations by supplying a better system of pre-cooling, cold storage and grading and sizing. Equipment will be financed either through loans or direct capital investment.

"The fruit and vegetable market now parallels the erratic stocks of the Stock Exchange. One way we can bring reduced retail prices is by eliminating this price fluctuation. The grocer now buys from commission merchants at prices that vary widely from day to day. But in retailing his goods he fixes his prices on the highest prices he has to pay.

"For example, is the retail seller going to price peaches on the $1.50 he pays for a crate when the market is oversupplied instead of the $3.25 he pays when there is a shortage in the wholesale markets of this city? Of course not, and you can't blame him, because he has to cover himself.

"The prices on restaurant menu cards remain more or less the same. Are they based on the low markets? Never.

"We will help everybody concerned by getting the products of the growers to the right place at the right time."

Mr. Rule said the new cooperative would sell to jobbers, commission merchants and chain stores and would eliminate only speculators from the fruit and vegetable business.

Carl Dingfelder of 265 Washington Street, formerly president of the National League of Commission Merchants, said: "This will have absolutely no practical effect upon commission merchants. We have had so many cooperatives. This is simply one larger in scope. After all, the cooperatives depend on the commission merchants to buy their goods or market them for them.

"This cooperative of course might be able to effect economies for the producers in the purchase of supplies, fertilizers and in the general marketing system, but we have a change in cooperatives every year and will probably continue to have them. This one appears to be simply the enlargement of the existing Federated Fruit and Vegetable Growers."

J. M. McCauley, commission merchant of 268 West Street, said the chain stores were already the deciding factor in retail marketing of fruit and vegetables. The chain stores had their own organizations reaching back to the farmers, he said, and the new cooperative would have to operate its own retail stores if it wanted to engage in retail marketing.

Federal Board Issues Statement.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 12.—The following statement was authorized today by the Farm Board:

"The attention of the Federal Farm Board has been called to an article in THE NEW YORK TIMES concerning the formation of a $50,000,000 cooperative fruit and vegetable marketing organization, to be known as the United Growers of America.

"The plan for this organization has not been presented to the board, the organizers have asked for no endorsement by the board and the board has no information concerning it, and is therefore not in a position to express any opinion whatever about it."

Plan Hailed in Virginia.

From a Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Aug. 12.—Announcement here today before the Institute of Public Affairs at the University of Virginia by former Secretary of Agriculture William F. Jardine of the plans and purposes of the newly organized $50,000,000 association for the cooperative marketing of fruits and vegetables was received with enthusiasm by an audience peculiarly well qualified to judge of its advantages.

Mr. Jardine explained fully the proposed functions and scope of the new cooperative.

The enthusiastic interest of his audience manifested itself in frequent outbursts of applause.

Mississippi Men to Visit City.

A delegation of 125 Mississippi business men will call on Mayor Walker at City Hall at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon, it was announced yesterday. The group, which will be headed by former Governor Dennies Murphree, will arrive here Thursday night aboard the "Know Mississippi Better" train in which they are making a cross-country tour. They will be the guests of the Merchants' Association and the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York.

Girl Drowns While Standing As Head Droops Into Water

Special to The New York Times.

GREAT NECK, L. I., Aug. 12.—Mary Rush, a 22-year-old maid employed in the K. D. Alexander home in Kenilworth, an exclusive district of Great Neck, drowned this afternoon while standing in water about four and a half feet deep. It is believed she suffered cramps, which bent her over until her head was under water. Her shoulders were not submerged.

The girl, who came from Ireland four years old, had gone to the Kenilworth Yacht Club with 6-year-old Kenneth Alexander shortly after eating a hearty lunch. None but the boy saw her go in. He ran home for help and a physician and rescue crew from the Alert Fire Company worked over her for an hour without results.

FARM BOARD PLANS TO AID WOOL SALES

Calls Conference With Cooperatives in Chicago in October to Form Agency.

ALSO AN ADVISORY COUNCIL

Cotton Men to Make Proposal Today—McCarl Holds Up Board's Pay Checks.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Steps likely to lead to the formation of a national cooperative selling agency for associations of wool growers were announced today by the Federal Farm Board.

Officials of the National Wool Marketing Council and of other wool marketing associations laid the proposal before the board, also requesting that the organization of an advisory council be authorized and that funds be allocated from $150,000,000 made available by Congress to enable the board to stabilize prices of farm products.

The board announced that it will invite all producers' cooperative wool marketing associations in the country to meet with it early in October at Chicago to discuss and develop definite plans for the cooperative sales agency, which shall include in its membership all of the types of wool cooperatives now handling the product. The board's invitation also will include all producer-owned warehouse associations. At the Chicago meeting the selection of a wool advisory committee will have consideration.

Holds Up Board Members' Pay.

Another development today in connection with the newly formed Farm Board was a denial to its members of their pay checks by a ruling of Controller McCarl on the ground that they have not been confirmed by the Senate. The appointments will go to the Senate when that body reconvenes next Monday.

In its announcement on the wool marketing proposal, the board said:

"It developed in the conference that of this year's clip of about 300,000,000 pounds some 20,000,000 pounds are handled by members of the National Wool Marketing Council, about 7,000,000 pounds by cooperatives who are not members of the council, about 35,000,000 pounds by farmer-owned warehouse companies in Texas, California and New Mexico and about 5,000,000 pounds by local cooperative pools in Western States.

"This total of about 70,000,000 pounds, or about 25 per cent of the total clip of the nation, represents actual or potential wool which might be handled by cooperative marketing associations.

"It was the opinion of the wool delegation which appeared before the board that all of these wool cooperatives should find a way to come together under a common tent, and with this opinion the board agrees."

Those Attending Conference.

Among those in the conference were L. B. Palmer and J. F. Walker of Ohio, J. B. Wilson of Wyoming, E. A. Ward of Oregon, F. R. Marshall and J. A. Hooper of Utah and Senator John Thomas of Idaho.

The National Wool Marketing Council is a trade federation made up of the Ohio Wool Growers' Cooperative Association, the Pacific Cooperative Wool Growers, the New York State Sheep Growers' Cooperative Association, the Wyoming Wool Cooperative Marketing Association, the Montana Wool Growers' Cooperative Marketing Association, the Utah Wool Marketing Association, the Idaho Wool Growers' and the Minnesota Wool Growers Association.

There are other cooperatives and wool pools in Nevada, South Dakota, North Dakota, Colorado, Iowa and Kansas which are not now affiliated with the council, and there are many producer-owned warehouse companies in various States which operate independently in storage and sales.

C. O. Moore of Dallas, Texas, president of the American Cotton Growers' Exchange and other members of the cotton committee named at the board meeting at Baton Rouge, Iowa, will confer with the board tomorrow. The Cotton Growers' Exchange is the marketing organization for cotton producers in fourteen States. It is indicated the committee will ask the board for funds to aid in the movement of the crop.

Industry Well Organized.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP).—The selection of an advisory council for wool is considered possible by the board because of the superior organization methods which have been developed among the wool cooperatives. The commodity advisory councils are authorized under the farm relief act and their function is intended to be that of generally supervising the production and marketing of the crop for which they are appointed.

By agreeing to the formation of a large marketing corporation for wool, the board would bring its cooperative marketing program to the third crop. A corporation is being organized for wheat and the board has taken steps to make such an agency possible in the Florida citrus fruit area. Next the board will consider the marketing needs of cotton and then intends to examine the tobacco situation.

"MASHIE'S" OWNER GUILTY.

Man Whose Dog "Lifted" Golf Balls Gets Ten-Day Sentence.

Frank Conroy, 24 years old, no address, who was arrested on a disorderly conduct charge last Saturday following police investigation into the lost ball mystery of the Van Cortlandt Park golf course, was sentenced yesterday to ten days in the workhouse by Magistrate Delagi in West Farms Court. An additional charge of trespassing on park property was dismissed. Meanwhile the search for Mashie, a bulldog trained to "lift" golf balls from the fairway, was being continued.

It was charged that Conroy used the dog to steal the golf balls, which later he would sell at reduced prices. Conroy denied he had trained the dog to steal the balls, declaring Mashie was merely a hungry pup he had befriended. He said he retrieved only lost balls, deriving an income of $3 or $4 a day. The police said Conroy is also charged with a similar charge a month ago.

NAVY NURSE'S DEATH STIRS AN INQUIRY

Department Hints at Murder or Suicide in Case of Miss Klein at Manila.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 12.—Esther Klein, the Cleveland naval nurse whose death was reported by the Navy Department at Washington on last Thursday, was found strangled in a roadhouse outside Manila, Philippine Islands, early last week, officials of the Navy Department at Washington admitted to The Plain Dealer of this city tonight.

They said that a naval board of inquiry was investigating, and that doubt as to whether the nurse was murdered or was a suicide had caused them to withhold announcement of the cause of death.

Miss Klein's sister, Mrs. Burt E. Wertheimer, of Cleveland Heights, and a brother, Harry Klein, also of Cleveland, said they suspected foul play when the Washington authorities would give no news as to the manner of their sister's end. When the body arrives in Cleveland some time after Sept. 7, they will insist on a post-mortem examination.

That the navy contemplated no such examination was indicated in a letter from Washington last week to Miss Rae Klein, a New York buyer and a sister of Miss Klein, in which she was advised that the body would arrive draped in the flag and burial could be in Arlington National Cemetery.

The family's suspicions were aroused by recent word from the nurse that she was in the best of health. Last Wednesday another sister, Mrs. Cora Friedman, of Youngstown, Ohio, received a letter from her telling of a sixty-day leave of absence from her post as divisional nurse at the naval hospital of Cancaoa, near Cavite, in which she had toured a part of China and had helped buy supplies for the hospital.

On the next day the Navy Department advised members of the family that the nurse had died suddenly at Cancaoa. The department said it had no details about the death. Tonight Miss Beatrice Bowman, Navy Superintendent of Nursing, told The Plain Dealer that the department had heard by cable that Miss Klein was found strangled to death in the Webb roadhouse, eight miles from the hospital on the road to Fort McKinley.

The cables also said, "probable suicide suspected." Miss Bowman instantly cabled for all the details and for the findings of the Board of Inquiry.

"This department knows Miss Klein's service and character," said Miss Bowman. "Both were very fine, very high. We considered that it would be no less than cruel to tell Miss Klein's family anything about suicide suspicions if we did not positively know, so we did not. The message to the Navy Department offered nothing to support any suicide theory."

Esther Klein was an army nurse in the World War. When the war ended she enlisted in the navy nursing division. She served several years at the American Naval Hospital at Guam.

Bainbridge Track Schedule in Doubt After Arrests for Gambling.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 12 (AP).—Two officials and two contribution ticket sellers at Bainbridge race track in Geauga County near here were arrested today on warrants charging operating of gambling devices, and tonight it was undecided whether the present horse race schedule at the track would be continued.

Tommy McGinty and Homer J. Kline, the officials arrested, pleaded not guilty before Justice of the Peace Arthur M. Ladd at Claridon, and were released on bail pending trial on Aug. 28. Mat Brock and George Lynchburg, the ticket sellers, were similarly dealt with.

Sheriff Ben Hotchkiss said he had not decided what action he would take if the contribution betting was continued.

While the arrests were being made the contribution and refund windows at the track were closed, but later the windows were reopened and racing continued.

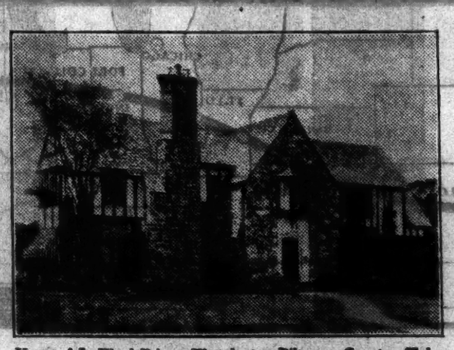
Lifetime materials for 3 new homes at famous Westchester-Biltmore

Concrete, brick, stone, sound timbers, and the NEW RIBBED STEELTEX for reinforcing plaster walls and ceilings make this home of Mrs. Frank Gaynor, Westchester-Biltmore Country Club, Rye, N. Y., as permanent as it is beautiful. One of the eight houses built or under construction by Thomas W. Gotti, 506 Main St., New Rochelle, N. Y., in each of which lasting wall-beauty is assured by the NEW RIBBED STEELTEX.

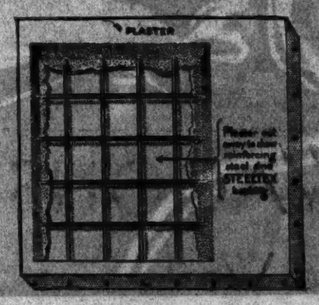


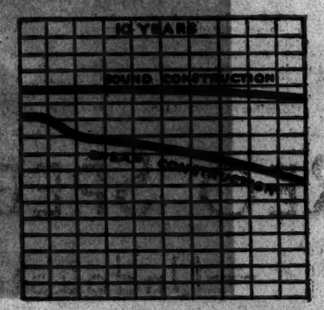
Home of L. Ward Prince, Westchester-Biltmore Country Club, Rye, N. Y. The builder, Thomas W. Gotti, used the NEW RIBBED STEELTEX for reinforcing all interior plaster walls and ceilings in order to make this home lastingly livable and lastingly valuable. The NEW RIBBED STEELTEX will bring this same protection economically to even the modest home.

Mr. Gotti's architect, Richard W. Buckley, Mamaroneck, N. Y., approved the NEW RIBBED STEELTEX for this as well as for the two other homes in Westchester-Biltmore pictured on this page. The importance of repair-free, permanent beauty, in walls and ceilings makes the NEW RIBBED STEELTEX practically a necessity in all modern construction; its economy solves the wall problem for any home, no matter how modest.

PERMANENT STUCCO, TOO, WITH STEELTEX.—If you build of stucco as so many people do today, almost the whole impression your home makes will depend upon stucco. Building with "STEELTEX-for-Stucco" is the recognized modern method in every part of the country. It combines the permanent beauty of steel-reinforced construction with the comfort and healthfulness of insulating, dampproofing, and sound-deadening, due to its heavy durable waterproofed backing. "Overcoating" old houses may now be easily and inexpensively done with "STEELTEX-for-Stucco."

There are four types of STEELTEX—all with the same principle and the same protection. (1) The NEW RIBBED STEELTEX for Plaster. (2) STEELTEX for Stucco and Overcoating. (3) STEELTEX for Brick or Stone Veneer. (4) STEELTEX for Floors and Roofs (concrete and gypsum).





WHAT IS REINFORCED PLASTER?—Reinforced plaster is plaster strengthened with embedded STEELTEX. Protecting against strains in all directions is a network of rust-proofed steel. Attached to the steel is a tough absorptive fibrous backing. When plaster is spread, it slides under this steel network, smooths out against the backing, and then additional plaster is spread over the steel. The resulting plaster slab is smooth in back as well as in front, with the steel embedded between. Thus the principle of embedded steel, that is used to strengthen great concrete structures, has been brought within easy reach of the everyday home of even the most modest proportions.

HOW FAST WILL YOUR HOME DEPRECIATE?—Mr. C. A. Martin, President of the Railroad Co-operative Building and Loan Association, 441 Lexington Ave., New York, and outstanding authority on home values, recently made this significant statement: "Take two houses with identical plans in the $12-15,000 class. Build one with modern construction methods and permanent materials. Build the other with careless methods and cheap materials. You might cut original cost considerably by cheap construction, but within ten years it would cost not less than $3,000 to bring this house back to its original value. To do the same thing for the well-built house will cost almost nothing. Before two years are over, the cheaply-built house will reveal its shoddiness and will need repair. The well-built house will save repair bills for many years."

Your walls and ceilings are the one of the major items of upkeep expense. Or—you can build with the NEW RIBBED STEELTEX and minimize depreciation.

Progressive builder insures permanent wall-beauty with the New Ribbed STEELTEX

Do as shrewd owners do, when you buy or build. Be sure to get lifetime materials. Ask the men who build for you to insure lastingly beautiful walls and ceilings. Have them add permanent value by strengthening your plaster—from within—against strains.

In these exquisitely beautiful homes in exclusive Westchester-Biltmore Country Club, Rye, N. Y., as in many others from coast to coast, the NEW RIBBED STEELTEX puts steel on guard within the plaster. Used in place of lath, STEELTEX reinforces the whole plaster panel with a completely embedded network of steel and brings the protection builders have sought for years.

Every modern home needs this modern wall-permanence

This embedded network acts like a series of small steel trusses. It distributes the strains. It does not allow the strains to concentrate at any one point. It brings the utmost possible permanence to the beauty and the value of your walls and ceilings, and is very inexpensive to use.

Our researches, begun over eight years ago, to make plaster a permanent wall and ceiling material, resulted in reinforcement bases which are safeguarding plaster and stucco in more than a quarter of a million beautiful homes and substantial business structures.

Now the same protection is brought within easy reach of even the modest home, by the NEW RIBBED STEELTEX.

Due to its new V-shaped stiffening rib, the NEW RIBBED STEELTEX has extreme rigidity. This insures ease and speed of installation, which in turn means lowered building costs.

Are you going to own a home? Our free book, Better Walls for Better Homes, gives full information about the economy and lasting value of reinforced plaster, which STEELTEX alone can provide. Write for a copy.

WHEAT PRICES DROP AS STORES PILE UP

December Loses 3⅝c in Day at Chicago, Closing at 139⅜, 20-Cent Loss in 2 Weeks.

VISIBLE SUPPLY A RECORD

186,000,000 Bushels Are on Hand, Doubling Last Year's Mark—Traders Hedge on Futures.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12. A record-breaking visible supply of wheat served materially to lower prices on the Chicago Board of Trade today 20 cents a bushel under the high point of two weeks ago. December wheat was down to $1.38¼ in Chicago and the close this afternoon was at $1.39⅜ to $1.39¾, a loss for the day of 3⅝ cents a bushel.

There is a most sensational situation in wheat as regards present supplies. The visible of more than 186,000,000 bushels passes all records and compares with 72,000,000 bushels last year. At no time in the history of the trade have stocks piled up so fast.

Sixty million bushels have accumulated in six weeks, or practically double the accumulation of the same time a year ago. The trade, however, is of the opinion that the present glut of wheat will not last long. On the basis of $1.30 there is about $206,000,000 tied up in the visible stock sales. The increase of more than 13,000,000 bushels in the visible supply the past week represented the movement of wheat from side tracks at terminal markets, and in interior points, while loadings in the country the past week were decidedly larger.

All this increase for the last few weeks is understood to have been hedged by sales of futures in advance of its appearance in the visible stocks. Speculative traders here, however, lost sight of this factor and hedged against it by sales of futures.

Carriers are getting the best margins known to the trade, with No. 2 hard Winter wheat 7 to 8 cents a bushel under September, and there are changes from September to December at 8 to 8½ cents and from December to May at 9 to 9¼ cents difference.

The elevator space here is crowded and there are 4,300 cars of grain on track and at elevators. Georgian Bay ports are loading up with wheat. Buffalo reported today that it was filled up.

Northwestern markets are being filled up and there were a few reports in today suggesting that crop reports in some sections were showing up a little better than early expectations. While the open interest in wheat futures here is 211,000,000 bushels, it represents hedges to a greater extent than usual as the actual short interest is said to be small.

viewed. But he let it be known that the gifts to individual employes were decided upon by himself because there is no uniform pension system for employes of L. Bamberger & Co. In the past retirements have been under provisions to meet individual cases with no rule applicable to either age or length of service. In some cases of executives, it was said, the gratuity will amount to as much as $10,000.

Mr. Bamberger will devote most of his time to his philanthropies, it is understood, chief among which is the Newark Museum. He is known to have contributed $650,000 to this institution. Other gifts by Mr. Bamberger include $100,000 to the Beth Israel Hospital in Newark in January, 1923; $100,000 to the American Jewish Joint Agricultural Corporation in June, 1923; $30,000 to Newark Community Chest in November, 1927, and jointly with several other citizens of New Jersey, in March, 1927, a 1,735-acre tract for a camp for the Essex County Boy Scouts.

Mr. Bamberger is unmarried and makes his home in South Orange with his sister who, before she married the late Mr. Fuld, was the widow of Mr. Bamberger's other original business partner, Mr. Frank.

The two were Sol Efran, 20 years old, of 103 Vermilyea Avenue, the Bronx, who received a suspended sentence, and Murray Silver, 23, of 1,534 Longfellow Avenue, the Bronx, who began a two-day jail term in default of a $10 fine.

CALL 20 EMPLOYES OF STOCK TIP SHEET

Postal Inspectors With Subpoenas Invade Office of Anderson & Co., Publishers.

GRAND JURY ACTS TODAY

Tuttle, Declaring Security Fraud Situation Is Grave, Asks More Aid From Washington.

The affairs of Anderson & Co., publishers of so-called stock "tipster sheets" at 40 Exchange Place, will be aired today before the Federal grand jury as a result of a visit to their offices yesterday by a squad of Postoffice Inspectors headed by Assistant United States Attorney George J. Mintzer. More than twenty employes of the concern were questioned at the Federal Building late in the afternoon and grand jury subpoenas were served on all.

The visit of Mr. Mintzer and the inspectors to the offices of Anderson & Co., who publish Anderson's Weekly and Anderson's Daily, was the latest move in the Federal drive against bucketshops, tipstar sheets and sellers of bogus stocks, in connection with which Mr. Mintzer has a list of more than 100 concerns as prospective defendants.

Tuttle Asks Washington for Aid.

"The situation, as it has developed today," said United States Attorney Tuttle, "appears so grave that I have communicated with Washington, asking for additional Postoffice Inspectors and accountants to aid in the war that is now being waged on profiteering concerns which do not deal in bona-fide securities."

Anderson & Co., according to both Mr. Tuttle and Mr. Mintzer, formerly operated under the name The Market Financial Service and published The Financial Service Weekly and The Financial Service Daily. They are alleged to have specialized in "putting over," through the tipster sheets, securities of doubtful value "or worse." Their weekly and daily tipster sheets, Mr. Mintzer said, published advice to investors in the form of articles which were signed, "The Boss."

Telling the story of the visit to the offices at 40 Exchange Place, Mr. Mintzer said he and the postoffice inspectors under Chief Inspector Charles Clarahan found the offices locked. A knock brought an employe to the door, but instead of opening it he surveyed the callers through a peephole and asked what they wanted.

Mr. Mintzer asked to see A. Arthur Carter, a promoter associated with the concern. Carter, Mr. Mintzer declared, has made more than $1,000,000 in the last three years through furnishing tips on stocks, and has a prison record in New York, Boston and Pennsylvania. The inspectors said Carter had served a term in the Eastern Penitentiary in Pennsylvania.

Mr. Mintzer told of the closing of the peephole in the door after he had asked for Carter. A moment later, he continued, the little slide was pushed back again and the employe announces that Carter was not in but might return in an hour. A post-office inspector then displayed his badge and demanded that Carter be produced at once. The peephole was closed again, but soon afterward Samuel Von Kessler opened the door and admitted the callers.

"None of the employes knew where Carter lives," said Mr. Mintzer, "but we learned that he has a Summer home somewhere on Long Island and has also a yacht.

The offices of Anderson & Co., according to Mr. Mintzer, occupied one-half of an entire floor. There was a complete printing plant, more than forty telephones, multigraphing machines, tickers and a great deal of office furniture. Thirty employes were at work in one room.

Mail Frauds Charged.

The charge against those involved in the tipster sheet activities of Anderson & Co. is use of the mails to defraud. This is based on the allegation that the tipster sheets contained misinformation which was sent through the mails.

Mr. Mintzer said the concern had been boosting Eastern Utilities Corporation, Trix Food Products, Consolidated Mills Corporation, National Associated Investors and the Generto Expo Camera Corporation, more recently known as the Expo Film Corporation. Charges previously had been made against persons connected with the Consolidated Mills Corporation.

The fact was taken as an indication of a possible conspiracy among an unknown number of concerns to use the mails to defraud. This phase of the matter also will receive attention by the grand jury.

More than sixty persons made complaints to Mr. Tuttle and Mr. Mintzer yesterday against alleged bucketshops, tipsters and bogus stock salesmen. Between forty and fifty books of record seized by government agents in connection with the drive were taken to the Federal Building yesterday. These will be examined by accountants now in the building and also by the accountants to be sent from Washington.

Carter is said to be only one of a number of very wealthy persons who are to be charged with violations of law in connection with the tipster drive. Investigations conducted by Mr. Tuttle's office, before the actual drive began, indicate, it was said, that the situation is such as to demand immediate attention and vigorous action.

Myrna Darby Seriously Ill.

Myrna Darby, Ziegfeld show girl, is seriously ill of heart disease at her home, 740 West End Avenue, it was learned yesterday. Last night her mother said that her condition had improved slightly. Miss Darby was a member of the "Whoopee" company until she was taken ill about seven weeks ago.

ACQUITS VESSEL'S CREW OF LIQUOR SMUGGLING

Federal Commissioner at New London Discharges Six Seized With Schooner.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Aug. 12 (AP).—The six members of the crew of the schooner John N. Hathaway of New Bedford, Mass., charged with conspiring to smuggle in liquor, were acquitted today by Russell H. Corcoran, United States Commissioner.

Testimony showed that the vessel was seized 126 miles off shore and no evidence was offered of an attempt to smuggle liquor.

The six men discharged were Edward Bruce of New Bedford; Edward Murring, George Hanson and Edward Hanson of Brooklyn, and Vincent Powers and John Kelly of Boston.

The schooner was seized off Georges Banks by the Coast Guard destroyer Wilkes and 1,000 cases of liquor were confiscated several weeks ago.

The Hathaway crew was accused of setting fire to the ship and attempting flight in a small boat. The flames were extinguished by the Coast Guard crew and the vessel was towed to this port.

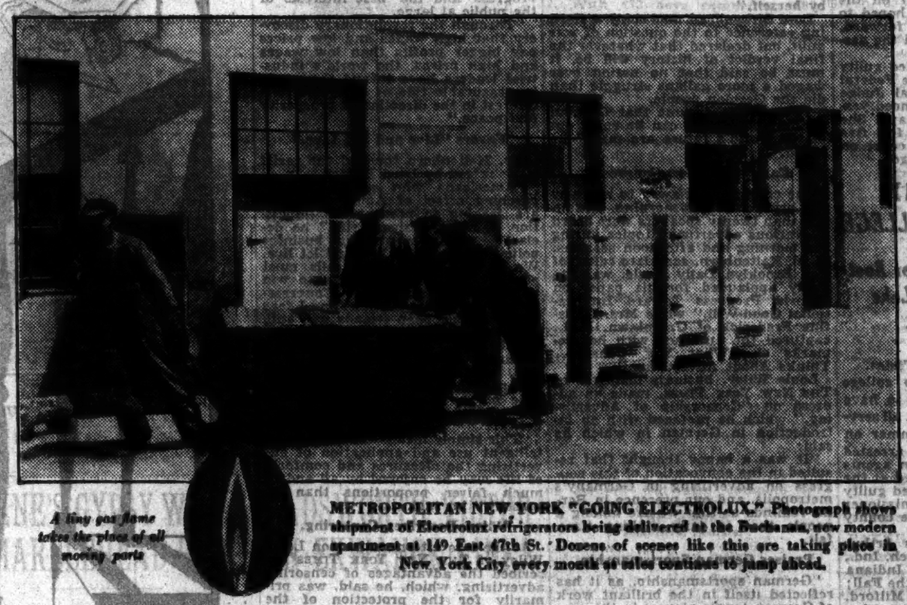
The swing to ELECTROLUX gathers force



A tiny gas flame takes the place of all moving parts

METROPOLITAN NEW YORK "GOING ELECTROLUX." Photograph shows shipment of Electrolux refrigerators being delivered at the Buchanan, new modern apartment at 149 East 47th St. Dozens of scenes like this are taking place in New York City every month as sales continue to jump ahead.

LIKE a giant snowball rolling down hill, the countrywide swing to Electrolux goes on and on.

77 of the finest new high-class apartment buildings erected in Metropolitan New York in April and May were completely equipped with Electrolux—5,535 refrigerators.

From September 1928 to May 1929—nine months, 231 new apartment buildings in New York were equipped with Electrolux—a total of 17,077 refrigerators in these buildings alone.

Stop and think a minute what that means. New York is the world's hardest place in which to introduce a new product, a city noted for its cold, skeptical attitude. Yet within the past 21 months nearly 25,000 Electrolux Refrigerators have been sold there.

That's the story of New York. The same thing is happening in other cities. Philadelphia's new skyscraper apartment building, Chancellor Hall, is Electrolux equipped. In Chicago, in Washington, in New Orleans, in Los Angeles, the trend is toward Electrolux.

A trend not confined to the architects and engineers who specify equipment for great new apartment buildings. In homes, in laboratories, in cooking schools—wherever people choose carefully and wisely, wherever they insist on having the newest and finest in refrigeration, the choice is Electrolux.

The Science Laboratory of New York University uses an Electrolux. Certain of the cultures employed in their experiments must be kept at an absolutely even low temperature, and the temperature of this refrigerator is constant. The lecture auditorium of H. J. Heinz Company, Pittsburgh, uses an Electrolux because the absolute silence of this refrigerator will not interfere with the company's home economics specialist when she lectures on preparing foods.

These typical instances point to one conclusion; namely, that a wise person will not think of buying an automatic refrigerator today until he or she looks at Electrolux, and learns first hand its complete silence, its absolute lack of mechanical parts, its freedom from trouble and repairs, its perfect dependability, its marvelously low operating cost—a cost below that of any other refrigerating system.

At the nearest display room you will see this marvel, all sizes and models, in a choice of white or colors. Prices range from $210 to $510. Liberal purchase terms. Mail coupon for complete information.

QUICK FACTS!

1. Permanently noiseless.
2. Absolutely safe.
3. Only a few cents a day to operate.
4. Lasts indefinitely.
5. Perpetual, steady cold.
6. No machinery to wear, to vibrate, to need oil.
7. Free from trouble.
8. Plenty of pure ice cubes.

REO SPEED WAGONS

—Undoubtedly the World's Longest-Lived Commercial Vehicles!

According to Accepted Authority

AND

they offer double the mileage life of ordinary trucks—making it unwise and costly to pay less, unnecessary to pay more than Reo's price

—On July 1st, 1928, there were 96,481 Reo Speed Wagons registered in the United States.

—This was 4,756 more than had been sold in the U. S. during the entire 6¼ years from January 1st, 1922, to July 1st, 1928.

—99.2% of all the Reo Speed Wagons sold in the U. S. the previous 7½ years were still registered July 1st, 1928.

—99.3% of all the Reo Speed Wagons sold in the U. S. the previous 8¼ years were still registered on July 1st, 1928.

—And 50.8% of all Reo trucks sold since 1913 were still registered on July 1st, 1928.

ABOVE we quote facts on the long life of Reo Speed Wagons, in years of service—based on registration figures compiled by Reuben H. Donnelley Corporation, a totally disinterested statistical firm. These facts, we believe, indicate a long-life record without equal in the field of commercial transportation.

But bear this in mind—in terms of miles, this record is still more outstanding, still more important to every user of trucks. In the same given period Reo Speed Wagons, built as they are for passenger car speed, undoubtedly have covered, and are covering today at least twice the number of miles per day as average motor trucks. And you know that the quicker the run—the greater the profit.

This utterly amazing record in stamina is a part of every Reo Speed Wagon you buy today—in any of the wide variety of models from ½ to 3 tons capacity. Reo engineering and manufacturing methods make doubly sure of this.

There is just one reason for this almost unbelievable record in continuous service: Reo early recognized the need for a tremendous stamina, combined with balanced light weight in commercial vehicles—the need for sizing and powering trucks to do their job economically, efficiently and over a long mileage life. For example, Reo engines are amply powered for their job—instead of using larger gear ratios which force the engine up to racing, wearing speed in order to deliver the same power. Naturally, this high speed engine wears out more quickly. While outstanding stamina has been a recognized feature of Reo trucks since the first one was built, Today, Reo engineers in their defeat of friction and vibration, have put the finest of long-lived materials—some of them resulting from exclusive Reo formulas—into Speed Wagons.

They have added features in design and manufacture that establish an entirely new conception of commercial transportation. Passenger car speed, flexibility and economy of operation have been blended with brute strength to offer industry ½ to 3-ton hauling like men have never known before. And above all, Reo engineers have made these qualities lasting.

Reo Speed Wagons are offered in 14 wheelbase sizes—from 115" to 179". Chassis priced from $595 to $2,300. F. O. B. Lansing. They incorporate such modern-day advantages as 4-forward speed transmission, 4-wheel, 2-shoe internal hydraulic brakes, 6-cylinder engines, 7-bearing crankshaft, Myers built-in chassis lubrication and other refinements.

TON OF GUM OPIUM SEIZED IN RAID HERE

Shipment Worth $1,000,000 in Underworld Market Found in Mercer St. Warehouse.

VAST TRAFFIC DISCLOSED

Federal Agents Say Several Cargoes as Large Have Passed Through Same Channels in Year.

Approximately one ton of gum opium contained in three large packing boxes was seized by Federal agents yesterday afternoon in a raid on the World Warehouse, 5 Mercer Street. Two men were taken into custody, one being released after questioning at the Federal Building, while the other, Moe Alpert of the Garfinkel Trucking Company, 4 Orchard Street, was held for further questioning and will be arraigned today.

The seizure was one of the largest made here in many months. The opium, in its present state and at wholesale prices, was valued at $100,000, but George J. Mintzer, Assistant United States Attorney, who accompanied the raiders, said that it would bring nearly $1,000,000 if retailed in the bootleg market.

George Cunningham, chief agent, and two of his assistants have been working on the case for more than six months, Mr. Mintzer said. They have been gradually uncovering what they believe to have been the sources of a considerable amount of the vast quantity of narcotics sold illicitly in the city.

A raid made last week in East 107th Street is understood to have been in connnection with the same case and to have developed from the work of the same agents. The 107th Street raid netted only a small quantity of drugs, but apparatus and materials for the adulteration and dilution of narcotics were taken.

The three packing cases seized yesterday bore the name of J. Fisher, but Mr. Mintzer said that it was believed the name was fictitious. The truckmen, he said, asserted that they had brought the cases from a loft building on Greenwich Street. Several other consignments as large as this have passed through the same warehouse during the past year, according to information given to Mr. Mintzer by the agents.

United States Attorney Tuttle, who was present at the questioning of Alpert and the other man, whose name was not revealed, said that he was not ready to comment on the raid, but declared that he hoped to work, both backward and forward, to the sources of supply and the destination.

Lillian Meltzer, who pleaded guilty to the charge of violating the Federal narcotic law before Federal Judge Julian W. Mack, was sentenced yesterday for a year and a day. She was placed on probation for five years in Brooklyn Federal court on a similar charge a year ago.

SELL LIQUOR TO PAY EXPENSES IN COLLEGE

Three Youths Are Held for Bootlegging as Bellboys on Lake Michigan Steamer.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—Two college boys and a youth who was to have entered a university this Fall, all serving as bellboys for the Summer on the steamer Manitou, were arrested as bootleggers by prohibition agents today as the lake boat docked at the navy pier. Later they pleaded guilty before United States Commissioner Walker and were held in the county jail tonight.

They gave their names as Arthur Schaible, 21 years old, Wansteh, Ind., who was to have entered Indiana University medical school in the Fall; Roy S. Laird, 20 years old, Milford, Ill., a University of Illinois sophomore, and Edward A. Shewe, 19 years old, of Manistee, Mich., who had planned to enter the architecture school of the University of Michigan next month.

It was to earn money with which to start to school that each handled the liquor, they told the commissioner. Both Laird and Schaible had worked their way thus far through college, they said, and the Summer on the boat plus the opportunities to peddle booze presented an easy way to get quick money. They were held in bail.

It was learned that prohibition agents had made a round trip on the Manitou from Chicago to Sault Ste. Marie and had purchased several pints from each bellboy.

29 ESCAPE BLAZING MINE.

Four Men Badly Burned After Pottsville (Pa.) Explosion.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 12 (AP).—Four men were severely burned, twenty-five were trapped for more than an hour in smoke-filled tunnels and a mine fire was raging under the central part of the city tonight following an explosion in the Primrose Vein of the Sherman Coal Company here.

The first explosion occurred about 7:45 o'clock and started a fire which soon spread through 150 feet of the 500-foot vein.

By 9 o'clock all of the men caught in the mine had reported safe. Most of them escaped through an air-breach four city blocks from the blazing vein and all immediately joined the crews which went into the mine to combat the fire which was raging 700 feet below the level of the city.

Miners reported four explosions. The original blast, which ignited a pocket of gas, was followed by three others, the last of which resulted in the injury of Guy Irvin. Leo Beraki, Harvey Hilbert, foreman, and W. C. Schott, engineer.

STILL'S FUMES KILL WIFE.

Kansas Farmer, Who Recovered, Tells of Cellar Accident.

WICHITL, Kan., Aug. 12 (AP).—Martin Schoenecker, a farmer, today told county authorities that fumes from a liquor still caused the death of his wife yesterday when she attempted to rescue him from the cellar at their farm near here.

Both were overcome and the woman's brother, John Old, succeeded in carrying the pair from the basement. Mrs. Schoenecker did not recover consciousness, but her husband was revived and is recovering.

A coroner's inquest will be held, County Attorney William J. Wertz said. He added that charges against Schoenicker would await the findings of the coroner's jury.

WORLD ADVERTISERS ASSEMBLE IN BERLIN

to get a true view of other nations, to know them as they really are, and consequently to appreciate and feel warmly what is highest and best in them.

"We read every day in the news of the world of murders, robberies, crimes, scandals, malfeasance in office, political chicanery, vaulting national ambitions and aggressiveness. But we are hearing nothing—and we have no adequate mental picture—of the millions and millions of people, hard-working, honest, virtuous, just and peace-loving, who constitute the overwhelming majority in all countries and by whom, in all reason and fairness, these countries should be judged.

"Here, then, is the question I lay before this world advertising convention: Is there any way in which a nation in its real essence, in its ethos, character and soul, can be interpreted to the other nations? If you can 'put that across' it will be a supreme achievement for advertising and a unique and lasting theme of renown.

"Perhaps the problem is insoluble in its entirety. Perhaps we must here, as in other fields of human progress, content ourselves with gradual approximations to the goal.

"One important step, indeed, has already been taken by this convention—I mean the multiplication of personal acquaintances and the extension of social intercourse. When people know one another, they understand and appreciate one another.

"What is true of individuals is true of nations. If wars are to cease, the nations must learn to know and judge one another by what is best in each. I earnestly trust that the meeting of this international advertising convention in Berlin may hasten that glorious consummation," Mr. Schurman concluded amid enthusiastic applause.

The banquet, which was attended by 2,500 delegates, of whom the Americans supplied the largest contingent, developed into a good-natured but tumultuous function despite former Chancellor Luther's efforts as presiding officer to induce the banqueters to permit the speakers to proceed.

When the Earl of Birkenhead rose, amid much applause and din, he said: "We can scarcely believe this is Berlin—it almost sounds like Belfast."

Then, referring to "our American friends who have enriched this evening," he continued:

"Europe is grateful for the charity and advice America has given her, but I want our friends from America to realize that Europe must work out her own salvation. We do not propose to lean on America, but shall trust to ourselves. With her old culture and historical past, Europe does not deserve to survive if she could not save herself. Europe's problems can and will be worked out by herself."

Lord Birkenhead made only a fleeting reference to the question of war guilt, but declared that whatever the final verdict of history will be, it must be said that no nation ever waged a more gallant struggle than did the German people.

"Those who assume that German genius and energy can be ruled out of the world's future are mad," he added.

Early Start for Congress.

The congress got away to an early and brisk start this morning, and no less than twenty speakers were heard on various advertising topics during the morning and afternoon sessions. H. V. Kaltenborn, associate editor of The Brooklyn Daily Eagle, was liberally applauded for his paper on "World Progress Toward International Good-Will," while Mrs. Christine Frederick of Greenlawn, L. I., captured the audience with her remarks on "What Mrs. Consumer Thinks About Advertising."

Louis Wiley, business manager of THE NEW YORK TIMES, made an address on "Censorship of Advertising," which he prefaced with an introduction in German in which he said:

"It was a happy thought that resulted in the convocation of this congress on advertising in Germany's metropolis, and our presence in Berlin reminds us that we are among a people that is daily making itself felt.

Praises German Sportsmanship.

"German sportsmanship, as it has reflected itself in the brilliant work of German tennis players in the contests for the Davis Cup, is one of the significant manifestations of the new Germany. It was soon followed by the magnificent achievements of the steamship Bremen, which on her maiden double crossing of the Atlantic recaptured for Germany the blue ribbon of the ocean.

"Last week Dr. Eckener piloted the Graf Zeppelin back to her home port from Lakehurst in the astounding time of fifty-five hours, and we are soon to witness another German conquest of the air in the performance of the new Dornier DX, the twelve-motored giant seaplane destined to be the largest heavier-than-air ocean passenger conveyance yet constructed.

"Yesterday the young German Republic observed the tenth anniversary of the proclamation of the Constitution of Weimar, and here we were given concrete testimony of the German popular faith in democracy."

Furthering Peace Keynote.

BERLIN, Aug. 12 (AP).—"Selling the idea of peace to the world" became the keynote at the first formal session today of the World Advertising Congress, at which 1,000 American delegates were present. A total of 5,000 advertising men, representing twenty nations, are attending the convention.

The first meeting today was held in the huge flag-bedecked Radio Hall, with Hans Luther, former German Chancellor, and Charles C. Youngreen of Milwaukee, president of the International Advertising Association, presiding jointly.

Lord Riddell, leader of the British delegation, declared that "business men of the world are solely concerned with the development of friendly relations between peoples of the world."

H. V. Kaltenborn, associate editor of The Brooklyn Daily Eagle, said:

"I thank Lord Riddell for giving us the keynote of peace. Bankers and business men are our best diplomats. The idea of peace has been sold to the consumer and public opinion forced many statesmen to back the Kellogg pact."

Lord Riddell devoted a considerable part of his address to the unequivocal statement that the present American policies of high tariff and the Federal Reserve Board's high money rates constitute one of the greatest present dangers to world economic prosperity and friendship.

These policies, the English publisher said, result in the adverse flow of gold to America, making it impossible for the rest of the world to sell goods. He made a plea for America to adopt the principle of reciprocity as the basis of its foreign trade.

"During the last few weeks we have witnessed the strange phenomen of New York stock brokers paying 10, 15 or 20 per cent to private lenders for short loans," he said. "There is no doubt this is due to the policy of the Federal Reserve Board. The repercussions on European trade and finance are serious.

"Those of us who wish to develop international trade must realize fundamental considerations are involved which cannot be disregarded. It must not be supposed that trade problems will be settled by ethical means, but it is obvious that reciprocity is the lifeblood of trade and one-sided transactions tend to cause bad feeling and endanger peace."

Lord Riddell added that America's international trade balance heretofore had been preserved because excess exports were balanced by foreign loans, but now American loans abroad had increased while high tariffs still excluded foreign imports.

"It's not my intention to preach free trade," he declared. "But it must be remembered for both psychological and economic reasons that trade cannot be one-sided, and must be mutually beneficial and conducted on terms that will enable one nation to discharge its obligations to another."

Younggreen Calls for Peace.

Mr. Younggreen in his address said:

"We have come here to present the credo that human and national differences can be settled otherwise than by appeal to arms. We are all loyal citizens of the world of business—that business whose business it is to insure the material and cultural welfare of all peoples."

Mr. Younggreen thoroughly surveyed the history and range of advertising and pictured the future of the art.

"When we hear rumors of the rising of a commercial imperialism which is to breed burdens and antagonisms and ruin the many for the profit of the few, planting deep-seated hatreds which are to be satisfied only by an appeal to force," he said, "we of organized advertising wonder at the credulity which gave them birth. Business today knows that it can prosper only in proportion to the increasing prosperity of all."

In conclusion, President Youngreen declared:

"When there are contributing to this great movement the aggressive trade spirit of the British, the scientific thoroughness of the Germans, the individual artistry of the French, the intellectual audacity of American business and the best national qualities of each and all of the countries affiliated with organized advertising, I feel, from my knowledge of those who are the leaders in this great profession of ours, that I can truly say with Nehemiah, 'So built we the wall, for the people had a mind to work.'"

Lauds Truthful Advertising.

Edward A. Filene gave the convention some of his rules for success gained from forty years of business. The greatest business successes of the next ten years, he said, are going to be the business men who are at the same time the most truthful and the most courageous big advertisers.

"We may congratulate ourselves," said the Boston merchant, "that we live in an age in which, for the first time in history, the business man, by serving his own selfish interests intelligently, promotes world progress and the best interests of the public at large.

"Through the revolutionary discovery that high wages and low prices pay bigger profits than low wages and high prices, the world's industrial leaders have turned the whole immeasurable tide of economic self-interest in the direction of prosperity and peace."

Favors "Live and Let Live."

Mr. Kaltenborn touched the tariff issue raised by Lord Riddell.

"Americans who sense the far-reaching effect of American policy are seeking to prevent the imposition of an excessive tariff," he declared. "We want our business policy to be one of live and let live. We know that he who sells must also buy, but it takes time to win the average fresh-water Congressman to that point of view, and I fear that our European friends will still, on occasion, be disappointed."

Gilbert T. Hodges, president of the executive board of The New York Sun, in his address on the "presentation of the program," said the keynote of the Berlin convention was advertising an aid to world prosperity.

"This simply means that by the intelligent use and application of advertising the pleasures and comforts of life may be enjoyed by all and in much fairer proportions than at present," he said.

Wiley Describes Censoring.

At the late afternoon session Louis Wiley of THE NEW YORK TIMES described the advantages of censoring advertising, which, he said, was primarily for the protection of the reader.

"Ballyhoo and bunk were closely related to early advertising," he said, "but business came to realize how powerful and indispensable was the aid to nation-wide and world-wide distribution of products. So truthful, informational advertising became dominant. The amount of misleading and fraudulent announcements grows smaller constantly. As good money drives bad money out of circulation, so good advertising, I predict, will practically eliminate the bad."

William Harrison, chairman of the United Newspapers, Ltd., of London, asked for rationalization of international commerce and reduction of the trade barriers in Europe. He advocated abolition of double taxation whereby British business in Germany is taxed at both ends, as is German business in Britain.

J. D. Mooney, president of the General Motors Company of New York, discussed "Trends in the Economics of International Distribution."

Strong Is Speaker.

Walter A. Strong, chairman of the board of the International Advertising Association and owner of The Chicago Daily News, speaking at the banquet, said:

"We Americans are beginning to realize that we cannot burden the rest of the world with our surplus prosperity, as represented in our standard of living. We cannot expect nations outside of our boundaries to support permanently a standard of living so far higher than their own.

"We recognize that the standard of living costs in the United States have a very definite relation to the standard of living in other strongholds of civilization. If one accepts this theory, there is no upward limit to the standards of living throughout the world, except a fair balance in human existence. Tariff walls, cartels and other political mechanisms which tend to perpetuate differences in standards of living come down as standards of living are equalized."

J. D. Mooney on Distribution.

J. D. Mooney, president of the General Motors Export Company, speaking at the Berlin convention yesterday, said in part:

"We must take such steps as we can to promote international distribution. We must ask our friends among the governmental authorities to help us in this, because the various nations must change considerably in their attitude on exchanging goods with one another. False economic barriers of every kind must be removed.

"The general physical background for international distribution has assumed a character during the past few years that has never existed in the world before. Most of you are thoroughly familiar with the technique of mass production within the boundaries of a country; that is domestic distribution. You know that advertising has made it possible to create mass distribution schemes; you know that without this mass distribution it would be absolutely impossible to have mass production. The two things go hand in hand. But today I hope that you advertising men will begin to catch the vision of the possibilities of projecting mass distribution throughout the world.

"We have instruments available for the promotion of international trade that can, in turn, solve many of the economic problems of the world. These most important instruments are easier communication throughout the world, quicker transportation and, finally, a highly developed technique in mass distribution, in which advertising plays so important a part.

"There is no more reason why we economists should accept the inevitability of some of our present economic ills and misery than for the scientist to have accepted the inevitability of smallpox, yellow fever or bubonic plague. Let us make the printed word useful in lifting the world out of its economic morass. We need an economic renaissance. We must throw off the superstitions and traditions of the economic Dark Ages."

Appel Discusses Merchants.

Joseph H. Appel, director of publicity for John Wanamaker, New York, taking as his topic "The Merchant in America," said in part:

"It was the pioneering work of such merchants as A. T. Stewart, John Wanamaker, Marshall Field, Eben Jordan and Timothy Eaton in America that established the necessary good-will contact with the public and showed how advertising could function in a big way. These merchants and others who followed their leadership replaced the ancient 'caveat emptor' with 'the customer to be satisfied.' They substituted hospitality for hostility.

"The development in the use of advertising mainly began in that new kind of store in Philadelphia of John Wanamaker about the time of the Centennial Exhibition in 1876.

"To day in America the retail field is becoming complex. Some cooperative stores exist, but they do less than a half per cent of the total business. Company stores, operated by industrial concerns for their employes, do about 2 per cent. House-to-house selling and canvassing, while growing, accounts for only about 2 per cent. But chain stores are now doing as much business as the department stores, each group totaling about 16 per cent of the retail trade—and some of the large mail order houses, which place formerly did under 4 per cent, are now establishing local stores in hundreds of cities and are greatly increasing their volume.

"The small independent merchant is facing a serious situation, although he continues to do about 60 per cent of the country's retail business. And the mergers in the department store field are creating new situations there.

"Much of this consolidation and expansion is being done with the people's money. Today twenty different department store organizations, some operating as many as thirty-five units, doing an aggregate volume of $1,000,000,000 in 1928, are listed on the New York Stock Exchange, with aggregate value of stocks, both preferred and common, of $710,000,000, of which stock the public holds more than one-fourth. The extent to which the public will profit from their moneys invested in retailing or in any industry will depend on whether in the sale of stocks the houses of issue are getting the public in (to share the burdens) or letting the public in (to share the profits).

"The important fact that this advertising association is international and that the present convention is being held in Berlin shows that we are making an effort to compose our differences into one big cooperation that will dissolve even such international trade difficulties as tariff walls and war debts and the flow of gold. And when the business interests of the world live together in peace the political peace of the civilized nations is assured."

Dine on Chops From Zeppelin.

A group of delegates to the World Advertising Conference in Berlin dined yesterday on fresh American lamb chops at the second session of their three-day conference in Berlin. The meat sent to Europe on the Graf Zeppelin arrived "in perfect condition," according to a cablegram received in New York from Henry T. Stanton, vice president in charge of the Chicago office of J. Walter Thompson Company, who is attending the conference.

As Inadequate as Electric Lights in only One Room

WHO would even consider having electric light in one room and oil lamps in the rest?

It's almost as bad with only one telephone in the house. If it rings when you're in some other room you have to drop whatever you're doing and rush to answer it. And at night—well, who wants to get out of a cosy bed and answer the telephone, even if the message is important? More telephones is the answer if you really want comfort and convenience.

Why not? The cost is so little—about the same as your evening paper. And the convenience? Well, have your extension telephones put in, use them for a few weeks, and then try to make up your mind that you can get along without them!

You'll find our Business Offices listed in the front of your directory. Just telephone the one that is nearest to you, and we will install as many extensions as you want, on short notice.

First Boat to Reach Newport on New York Yacht Club Cruise Is the Resolute

RESOLUTE IS FIRST IN RUN TO NEWPORT

Famous America's Cup Yacht Leads Fleet on New York Y. C. Cruise.

VANITIE OVER LINE SECOND

Four Boats Are Reported Aground and Coast Guard Goes to Their Rescue.

WINDWARD IN THIRD PLACE

Light Airs Make Race a Drifting Match and Officials Are Delayed in Naming Cup Winners.

By SHANNON CORMACK.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 12.—Through a morning of flat calm and an afternoon and night of dense fog, the racing fleet of the New York Yacht Club on its annual cruise blindly groped its way today from Fort Pond Bay, Montauk, L. I., to Newport, technically racing for the Commodore Harold S. Vanderbilt Cups.

Four yachts are reported ashore between Beaver Tail Point and Kettle Bottom Rock, near the entrance to Narragansett Bay, north of the Brenton Reef Lightship. A Coast Guard cutter has gone to their assistance.

Late tonight only a few racing yachts under sail had been reported passing the committee boat, anchored off Brenton Reef lightship. It is known, though, that the forty-footer Mistral, owned by William B. Bell and sailed by Cornelius Shields, and another yacht whose identity could not be learned, were still in the race about 8 o'clock, being then, off Point Judith, about nine miles from the finish line.

E. Walter Clark's cup defender Resolute was the first boat to cross the line about 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Vanitie In Second.

She was followed eighteen minutes later by Gerard B. Lambert's Vanitie, which in turn was followed by Rear Commodore Junius Morgan's Class M sloop Windward. Soon after Windward came to anchor George M. Pynchen's Class M sloop Istalena was seen through the haze, and she probably finished some time later.

While it is impossible this evening to obtain any times on the racing craft, it is quite possible that Windward may beat Resolute on corrected time for the Harold S. Vanderbilt Cup for sloops for the run.

About twenty to thirty yachts were known to be in the anchorage late tonight, but it was impossible to learn their identity.

Several Arrive Under Tow.

Somewhere tonight on the waters of Block Island Sound are the remnants of the fleet of sixty-odd racing yachts that started off this morning from Fort Pond Bay. A few have come in under tow by their own or other people's tenders. Two were towed in by the tug Thomas E. Moran, while others are undoubtedly drifting aimlessly on the Sound, their skippers trying to pilot their way to Newport and hoping that the fog will lift and with the lifting a breeze will come.

The day probably was one of the worst that the New York Yacht Club has ever experienced on any of its cruises. To make matters worse, on many of the yachts are the wives and friends of the skippers and crew.

The fog was of varying thickness during the afternoon, at times lifting a trifle as a wisp of a breeze would spring up from the southward, but as night drew on it increased to such an extent it was impossible to see a yacht's length ahead.

Concern for Crews Felt.

The danger to the yachts and those aboard tonight cannot be minimized. The course from Fort Pond Bay to Newport lies directly across the track of scores of large steamers plying between New York and Boston and between ports along both sides of the Sound.

Many of the yachts, though racing in cruising trim, are equipped with small fog horns, some of them operated by a man blowing through them. These horns cannot be heard for any great distance and the running lights carried by the racing craft cannot be seen more than a yard or two.

With virtually no wind at all, racing yachts are at the mercy of any boat under power that may come on them unexpectedly. Their crews simply cannot get out of the way of danger, they can only hope that danger will miss them.

Tugs Have Close Call.

At one time in the afternoon a large coasting boat, apparently several hundred feet in length, loomed less than half a cable's length from the club's tugs, with only the dull outline of her hull and the tip of her masts visible.

When day dawned Montauk Point and North Pond Bay were shrouded with a pall of thick, gray fog that rendered objects indistinguishable only a hundred yards away. Out in the harbor the owners and crews of the more than threescore yachts commenced their preparations for the day's race, though it seemed hardly likely that it would be held.

Soon after the 8 o'clock gun boomed from the flagship, Nourmahal, signals were hoisted notifying the skippers that the race would be delayed. A little after 10 o'clock, however, the fog commenced to lift and the signal "proceed to Newport" was hoisted.

At 10:30 the warning gun was fired and an hour later the first classes were sent off. By this time the sun was shining brightly and the fog had lifted, though there was little, if any, wind. One by one the yachts drifted across the starting line and Nourmahal, Corsair and the other large steam and power yachts started off at the 155-yard hole.

for Newport, while the racing craft endeavored to set their courses in the same direction.

Until early afternoon the racing fleet drifted aimlessly about, some of those that had managed to catch the ebb tide standing out into Block Island Sound, while many of the others lay under the lee of Montauk.

During this period of inertia some of the yachts whose tenders had remained in close proximity accepted tows and made their way to this port with their canvas doused.

Yachts Have Close Reach.

About 3 o'clock a fresh breeze blew up from the southward and instantly there was feverish activity aboard the yachts. The wind gave the boats a close reach on their course and they footed along in fine shape for a little more than an hour, when, about ten miles out from Fort Pond Bay, they ran into another belt of fog of pea soup consistency. Once or twice during the late afternoon the fog lifted a little and yachts could be seen making the best of the going.

By 6:30, however, it came down again, this time heavier than ever, and all through the upper reaches of Block Island Sound could be heard the wailing of sirens as the racing fleet carefully groped its way to its destination.

Several yachts were seen being towed in to Newport and the tug Thomas E. Moran, in charge of Captain George Lewis and under charter to the New York Yacht Club, took Captain Robert P. Noble's Seawanhaka schooner Flying Fish in tow while Captain Noble and his crew went below decks for a much needed rest.

The Class M sloop Chiora, of C. L. Harding of Boston, passed across the bow of the Moran in tow of the naval yacht Sea King II, shortly before 7 o'clock, and reported that another M boat, Avatar, needed a tow.

Avatar Given a Line.

Avatar, in command of Commodore Floyd L. Carlisle of the Manhasset Bay Yacht Club, was given a line and the Moran continued its search for more yachts.

In the next half hour the Moran passed five or six yachts being towed in and about 8 o'clock, when off Point Judith, about nine miles from Newport, the New York Yacht Club fortyfooter Mistral hove in sight through the mist just off the port bow. Captain Lewis asked Skipper Shields if he wanted a tow, but though Mistral was barely making headway, the skipper decided to keep in the race.

As the Moran had gone through the Class M sloops more than an hour earlier and the M's were among the first of the fleet to start, there is every likelihood that if Mistral keeps on under her own sail she may be returned the winner of her class.

The committee boat Corsair early light on board burning but showing only dimly through the thick fog loomed up as the Moran steamed slowly past the Brenton Reef light and at the finish line at 9:45. The Corsair, with the race committee aboard, was at her post and hovering near by, her riding lights barely distinguishable. In the gloom were a dozen or more power yachts and tenders awaiting the arrival of their owners on board their racing yachts.

Edmund Lang, race committee chairman, hailed Captain Lewis and asked for information regarding the straggling fleet. The Mistral was reported, as was one other which the Moran had passed in the gloom a trifle too far away to recognize name or rig but whose skipper, like Shields, had refused a tow.

MISS FRANCES MEANY WINS 4 SWIM EVENTS

Sweeps Women's Contests on Card at Lake Placid Midsummer Carnival Before 5,000.

Special to The New York Times.

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Miss Frances Meany, member of the New York Women's Swimming Association and sister of Miss Helen Meany, national champion, captured all of the events for women in the annual swimming contest in connection with the Lake Placid midsummer carnival.

Miss Meany took the 100-yard free-style event in 1:26; the 50-yard backstroke in 0:43.2-5; the 50-yard breaststroke in 0:53, and the diving contest with a score of 38.8 points.

Her point score of twenty for the entire women's competition completely outclassed all other entrants, the nearest competitors being Miss Mersen of Smith College, Miss Marjorie Toplis and Miss Juliet Sibley of Camp Pocahontas, with four points each.

Arthur Phillips of Toronto, Canadian national diving champion who, with Herman Ringler, American junior champion, gave an exhibition of diving and judged the diving competitions, also won the 100-yard backstroke race for men, his time being 1:27.

F. H. Hadnot of Camp Pok-o'-Moonshine led the men's competition with nine points.

Five thousand witnessed the competitions.

JUNIOR YACHT RACE TO MISS WHITTELSEY

Champion Woman Corinthian Wins First Contest of Series at Pequot Y. C.

MANY CRAFT BECALMED

Committee Has Two Boats Towed In When Wind Dies—Crews Paddle to Moorings.

By GROVER THEIS.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTHPORT, Conn., Aug. 12.—Barely drifting along in the merest whisper of air, Miss Lorna Whittelsey, champion woman sailor, brought home first the Indian Harbor representatives in the only race that it was possible to hold at the start of the fifth annual series for the junior championship of Long Island Sound of the Pequot Yacht Club.

Getting away at 1:24 P. M. and not finishing until 3:43:05, over the short course of four miles in one of the Atlantic coast one-design boats that are being used this year, just about tells the story of what an unruffled mirror of water the contestants faced. Idling in after Miss Whittelsey came the Cold Spring Harbor Beach Club crew, the Bayshore crew and the Timber Point crew. With the wind dying out completely and no chance of a change in position, the committee in charge at the Riverside Yacht Club and the Babylon Yacht Club craft towed in. Their time was not taken.

Run in Three Divisions.

The races are being run in three divisions of six boats each and the division that sailed today was Division B, under the system of using the same boats and shifting the crews for race to race. The young sailors of Division A were waiting at the finish and manned the sixth craft for the next scheduled race.

Early in the afternoon the committee boat, with Chairman R. M. Whastan and W. Bullard waited patiently until the last minute, scanning the horizon for the slightest suggestion of air, and then decided that it would be futile to attempt another contest. Most of the Division A crews dug out their canoe paddles and paddled to their moorings since they could not even drift in.

This leaves twenty-three races to be run before the series will be completed and the juniors have been ordered to report at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning so that as many races as possible can be run off. As one of the boys in the Division A crews remarked, the afternoon was a good one for them, many plunging overboard as they loafed around waiting for a zephyr or any other breeze.

Takes Leeward Course.

As far as today's race went, all that can be said is that with a woman as a sailor it is instinct and the two of them were combined. Though Miss Whittelsey is champion woman sailor, she still falls in the junior class which is limited to sailors who have not passed their eighteenth birthday. With only the faintest touch of air in her sails, Miss Whittelsey decided to take a leeward start while the Bayshore crew, last year's junior winners, took a windward course.

For awhile it appeared that the Bayshores had the better of it, but before the first mark Miss Whittelsey took the lead, never to be headed. Cold Spring Harbor came in second, Bayshore came in third, Timber Point fourth and then the Riverside and Babylon crews.

PAINE'S GYPSY WINS MARBLEHEAD RACE

Beats Live Yankee by 2 Seconds as Manhasset Bay Cup Yacht Series Starts.

Special to The New York Times.

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., Aug. 12.—It was by a scant two seconds that Frank C. Paine's Gypsy, which he designed and sailed, defeated Charles A. Welch's double-ender Live Yankee in the first race today for the Manhasset Bay Challenge Cup, and the two yachts were going slowly at that.

The race was sailed in a very light air and much fog over an eight-mile windward and leeward course, which was planned to be twice covered, but the committee stopped the race at the end of the first round.

Nine yachts, representing as many clubs, including two from Long Island Sound, came out to the start off Marblehead Rock, with the Gypsy of the Nahant Dory Club posing as the defender.

The Menace IV held the lead at the first half mile, but then most of the fleet passed her.

In the beat to the mark through heavy banks of fog Captain Wheeler of the Stamford Yacht Club proved the best navigator, for while the other boats all overstood the buoy he picked it up dead on end without moving the tiller.

The Mary was the first to turn, followed by the Gypsy and Live Yankee, but in the run back under spinnakers and in considerable slop the Foster boat dropped astern.

At one time the Gypsy had a lead of 100 yards, but ran into a pocket, and the Live Yankee, which had held in shore, came out with some speed and lapped the Paine boat at the line. Fifty feet further and the Welch boat would have won.

The yachts will sail the second race tomorrow.

TWO TIE FOR MEDAL IN JUNIOR GOLF PLAY

Mazzola and Amodio, With 70s, Two Under Par, Forge to Front in Salisbury Tourney.

LIEB LEADS YOUNGER GROUP

13-Year-Old Caddie Turns in Card of 78—Boy of 10 Among the 472 Competitors in Event.

Special to The New York Times.

SALISBURY PLAINS, L. I., Aug. 12.—With 472 boys competing, 362 forming the senior group from 14 to 18 years of age and the remainder in the junior classification of 14 years and under, The New York Evening Journal metropolitan junior tournament started over the links of the Salisbury County Club today. Leo Mazzola and Andrew Amodio each returned cards of 70, two under par, for the No. 3 course, to tie for the medal in the senior group.

The juniors tackled the No. 8 course, and Paul Lieb, a 13-year-old caddie, turned in the best round with a 39, 39—78. The contestants, including boys from all parts of the metropolitan district, ranged in age from 10 to 18 years. Romalo Ianiello, 10, was the youngest entrant.

The first pair started the eighteen-hole qualifying test at 8 o'clock and it was dusk before the last had reported to the scoreboard. A girls' tourney is also being held. The eight players will compete in seventy-two holes of medal play during the week.

Thirty-two qualified for match play in the senior and junior divisions, while a special Class B group of seniors will also compete for prizes during the week.

EHRESMAN'S 143 LEADS IN PHILADELPHIA GOLF

Breaks Par by a Stroke With 69 in Morning—George Smith Has 145, Dudley 147.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTH ARDMORE, Pa., Aug. 12.—Clarence Ehresman, 22-year-old assistant professional at the Philadelphia Country Club, set the pace for the big field competing in the Philadelphia open golf championship on the east course of the Merion Cricket Club today, scoring 143 for the first thirty-six holes.

Ehresman broke par by a stroke with a 69 in the morning and made a 74 in the afternoon.

George Smith, another youthful player, attached to the Moorestown (N. J.) Field Club, was second with 72, 73—145. Lee Shea of Riverton, N. J., was third with 74, 72—146. Ed Dudley, the Ryder Cup player, putted poorly in the morning and had three balls out of bounds in the afternoon, but scored 73, 74—147 to the half-way mark.

The ten leading scores:

Special to The New York Times.

INWOOD, L. I., Aug. 12.—Ian Munro, playing with Joe Weiner Jr., equalled the course record for the Inwood Country Club today, when he went around in 68. Jack Mackie Jr., son of the Inwood professional, originally set the record. Par for the course is 72.

Columbia Oval Combination Bows to Paterson, Which Wins by 152-Run Margin.

The cricket eleven of the Crescent Athletic Club played its first game of the season in the championship series of the New York and New Jersey Association against the Brooklyn Club at Bay Ridge yesterday and lost the match by 25 runs. The Crescents were first to bat and ran up a total of 133, to which the Brooklyns responded with 158.

R. C. Leckey, playing for the Crescents, was high score man with the willow, scoring 65, while F. Holland of Brooklyn had the best bowling analysis, capturing four wickets without a single run being scored against him. G. A. Kay did the best batting for Brooklyn with 47, while other double figure men were P. B. Green, 35; E. Foster, 19 not out; J. L. Foyer, 14, and V. H. Cockeram, 10.

For the Crescents, A. Williams contributed 32 and C. Russell, 10, while R. Swallow captured four wickets for 53 runs.

Paterson Eleven Triumphs.

PATERSON, N. J., Aug. 12.—The Paterson Cricket Club staged a walk-over in its Metropolitan League game against the Columbia Oval eleven here today and carried all before them, dismissing the New Yorkers for 17 runs and then running up a score of 169 for the loss of 6 wickets, winning by the fine margin of 152 runs and 4 wickets.

R. Vaughan and J. Mullin carried off the bowling honors for the victors, the former taking 8 wickets for 4 runs, while the latter secured 4 for 9. J. Pendelbury was easily the hero in the batting department of the match, hitting out freely for his splendid score of 62. He was ably assisted by W. Bunce, 23; A. Hainsworth, 22 not out; R. Eaton, 17, and T. Knight, 15.

For Columbia Oval, J. Davis captured 2 wickets for 37 runs and R. Joseph, 2 for 69.

EASTCOTTS PRACTICE AT ROSLYN TODAY

English Polo Team Plans to Test Its Ponies in Match at Talbott Field.

The members of the Eastcott polo team of England will play a practice match at Talbott Field in Roslyn late today. Only three members of the team which is to provide an international touch to the national championships at Meadow Brook are here as yet, Cecil Baldwin and Wing Commander P. K. Wise, and Earl W. Hopping, the American veteran, who is now living in London. They are to be joined late this week by Captain C. H. Tremayne.

Today's game will be a pick-up one, with five other American players joining in. It is designed mainly to limber up the British ponies, in training at Mitchel Field. On Thursday there will probably be another game and the team may play in its regular line-up next Sunday at Pleischmann Field.

OAK BROOK VICTOR AT POLO, 14 TO 12

Crawford's 9 Goals Pave Way to Triumph Over Fort Benning in Inter-Circuit Play.

SPEEDIER MOUNTS SCORE

Army Team Is Worthy Competitor for Six Periods, Then Rivals Spring Dazzling Offensive.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—The infantry failed to produce a serious threat in the inter-circuit polo championship today when the four representing Fort Benning, Ga., bowed to Oak Brook in the opening contest of the national series at Onwentsia, 14 to 12, this despite a five-goal handicap accorded to the Easterners.

Carl Crawford, No. 3 for Oak Brook, proved a great polo player. He scored nine goals, two of them in the dying stages of the eighth period, to give his mates a triumph.

For six periods Fort Benning provided Oak Brook with worthy competition, but speedier mounts told. By sheer speed Oak Brook unlimbered a dazzling offensive in the seventh and eighth stanzas that netted just one-half of its goals. In these sessions Crawford scored four tallies.

From mediocre play the game took on a sensational and dramatic nature in the closing phases. Fouls were frequent, showing up progress of the battle.

Tomorrow Fort Leavenworth, Kan., one of the three "scratch" teams in the tournament and a cavalry outfit, tackles Fort Hoyle, Md., in the second contest of the meet.

The line-up:

Oak Brook (14).	Fort Benning (12).

M'PHAIL IS MEDALIST AT WHITE SULPHUR

Baltimore Player With a 75 Leads in Qualifying Play—Dr. Hill Is Runner-Up.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Aug. 12.—Donald McPhail of Baltimore was medalist in the qualifying round of the Old White Summer golf champi ship played today on the No. 1 course of the Green Brier Golf and Tennis Club. Miss Olive Kahle of White Sulphur Springs won the medal in the women's tournament. McPhail had a 75.

The low scoring which has marked practice rounds in the last few days was missing today when the tees were moved back and the cups changed to new locations. Dr. S. M. Hill of Dallas, winner of the Old White for the last two years, ran into trouble on the early holes and returned 40, 38—78, to finish second.

AMATEUR CYCLE LEAD TAKEN BY MATTEINI

Captures First of Two-Mile Matches at Philadelphia in U. S. Title Series.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 12.—Sergio Matteini of the Acme Wheelmen Club of New York went into the lead for the national amateur championship by annexing the first of the two-mile matches at the Beaujeu-tennial Stadium today. He scored 100 points to his score which gives him the lead with twenty-four markers. Edward Ammann, C. R. C. of A., was second, and Joseph De Vito, the leader previous to this race, was third. The latter now has twenty-one points.

Matteini ran a remarkable race to score his victory, coming from behind to win by three lengths. The time for the race was 4:36 4-5, the last eighth 0:12 2-5.

Catskill Stakes Captured Easily by Mordine at Saratoga

Shows Way Throughout Claiming Race at Saratoga—Sun Forward 3 Lengths Back.

WILSON SILKS GAIN DOUBLE

Sunfire Beats Dail in Waterbury Handicap and African Noces Out Electa in Purse.

By BRYAN FIELD.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Benjamin Block's Mordine won again today, taking the Catskill Claiming Stakes. In his eight races on New York tracks this season, Mordine has been worse than second only once and has been first four times.

Mordine did not have much trouble with the five that were against him in the Catskill. The nearest of the lot was the Dorwood Stable's Sun Forward and he was three lengths to the bad, but a like distance ahead of Night Life, which got third.

The race was at seven furlongs, with $5,375 as the prize to the winner, and Mordine ran on top from start to finish. R. C. Winmill's Wonderful was the first to break, but was quickly overtaken by the gelded son of Morvich, and that is about all there was to the race.

Night Life Makes Bid.

There was just one ripple of opposition for Mordine and that was when Night Life made a bid on the bend. Mordine beat off the Sagamore Stable color-bearer and then opened up a five-length lead that left a hopeless task for any of the others. The seven furlongs were run in 1:27 over a drying-out track. Mordine ruled favorite at 6 to 5.

Congratulations came the way of Richard T. Wilson Jr., president of the Saratoga Association, when he scored a double victory with Sunfire and African. Until today the Wilson colors had not been in front at the meeting, so the twin triumph was the more pleasing.

African and Sunfire have been running as an entry previously this year with fair success. The former landed third in the Preakness and second in the Belmont and the latter was good enough to win a stake in Canada, which was his last previous victory. But Trainer Tom Healey split the pair between two races today and they perked up greatly.

Sunfire was first in the Waterbury Handicap mile by dint of a great closing burst and African came from behind to capture by a nose the Cliff Haven purse, also at a mile. Both horses have been considered routers and when dropped in mile races they were not very heavily played in the betting.

Sunfire was as good as 9 to 2, while African dropped from a high of 4 to 1 to 13 to 5.

Vito Choice at 3 to 2.

Sunfire was one of five to go to the post and the favorite was A. H. Cosden's Vito, which won the Belmont of 1928 and had not started since June of that year. The son of Negofol was a disappointment, for he finished last without showing a sign of fight. And he was the 3-to-2 favorite to boot.

At the start But Fisher's Dail ran into the lead. Finite was rated second and then came Vito. Sunfire was a bad last. In the backstretch Dail opened a long lead. On the turn Sunfire began to come on and he was taken very wide to finish with a great rush that landed the victory by half a length over Dail, which tired badly but lasted to be second, a length ahead of Marine. Sunfire's mile was run in 1:41 3-5, exactly the time in which African was clocked.

46 YEARLINGS BRING $77,500 AT SPA SALE

Johren Colt Sold for $8,000, Top Price of Night—Ziegler Gets Youngster for $7,500.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Although forty-six head went under the hammer at the yearling sales tonight, the prices were not very high and the average was only $1,684.

A total of $77,500 was realized for the entire lot, which came in numerous small consignments from some of the lesser known breeders. The highest bid was $8,000 by Mrs. M. H. West, owner of the Catawba Stable. She took a chestnut colt from the Sominco Farms lot, which was by the imported stallion Johren and out of Slipper Day. A mare which won fifteen races, including the Canadian Handicap, in twenty-nine starts.

Mrs. West fancies the Johren blood apparently, as she has a juvenile this year by Johren which she has named Sir Johren. Moreover tonight Mrs. West successfully bid upon another Johren colt, this time out of Good Shot. It also was from the Sominco Farm lot and brought $4,000.

The second highest prize was paid by William Ziegler for a Spanish Prince, a colt out of East Wind. The price was $7,500 and the youngster was from the Sominco Farms lot also, so that this stable realized the best prices of the night. The only other horse to bring over $5,000 was a bay filly from the Sominco Farm consignment which went to the La Brae Stable of California. The filly was another Johren but out of Miscoukee.

Bud Fisher sold some yearlings, the product of his farm, but none went for high prices. One colt was brought into the ring with a reserve bid of $2,000 on him. He was by Sporting Blood out of Nellie Morse. He was slightly injured when brought into the ring and the auctioneer announced that a veterinarian had pronounced the injury slight and easily curable. But there was not a single bid and the youngster was taken from the ring.

Another horse which came in lame was the daughter of Playfellow, the only full brother of Man o'War. Playfellow's daughter was out of Dame Nature and it was announced that she had bowed her knee in the paddock earlier in the day. It was very hard to start the bidding on her, but finally she was knocked down at $350, to the same La Brae stable that took the Johren colt.

KHARA EASY VICTOR IN TEST HANDICAP

Rancocas Juvenile Scores Over Lightning Jones by Two Lengths at Hawthorne.

FAVORITE IS POOR FOURTH

Thistle Ann Closes Some Ground After Meeting Interference—Plucky Play 3d—Winner Pays $16.92.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12 (AP).—Khara, from the Rancocas Stable, easily won the Test Handicap, a dash of five and one-half furlongs for two-year-olds, at the Hawthorne track today.

Lightning Jones was second and Plucky Play third. The favorite in the wagering, Thistle Ann, was interfered with and finished a poor fourth. Seven ran.

Khara, away well, went into a good early lead, and, holding on well, won easily by two lengths. Lightning Jones, always closest up, took the place money by a length. Plucky Play ran in third place throughout to take third money by three lengths.

Thistle Ann met with interference at the start, then closed ground to take the small end of the purse. The race was worth $1,000 to the Rancocas Stable, and Khara, neglected in the wagering, paid her backers $16.92 for a $2 ticket.

STALL-GATE PROVING SUCCESS AT CHICAGO

Bahr Device Pleases Officials Now Using It at the Hawthorne Meeting.

The Bahr stall-gate, which was used for the first time at the recent opening of the Hawthorne meeting at Chicago, has proved to be one of the best devices yet invented for starting fields of thoroughbred racers, according to officials of the Chicago Business Men's Racing Association, which is conducting the meeting, and other experts.

It is not unlike several other stall-gates used in this country in the last few years in an effort to improve starting and do away with the time-worn strand barrier. The Bahr gate consists of fourteen padded stalls built on a removable steel body. The horses are placed each in his allotted stall and cannot shift or mill about. Perfect alignment has been secured in practically all of the races in which the gate has been used at Hawthorne.

The gate is mounted on large wheels and can be removed from the track in less than twenty seconds. Either man-power or horses may be used to move the gate on and off the track.

CIRCUIT RACES TODAY.

SEAGRAM MARES WIN KENILWORTH RACES

Double Victory Concludes a Highly Successful Meeting for Stable.

PANDORA EASILY WINS

Scores First Half of Double by Beating Yook—Flamingo Takes Stretch Duel.

Special to The New York Times.

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 12.—The Seagram Stable concluded its highly successful operations at the seven-day meeting at Kenilworth Park by running off with two more races, Pandora annexing the second event and Flamingo the third. Both were ridden by G. Horn.

Pandora, a 5-year-old mare, worked her way steadily after trailing the feld of eight for the first quarter mile to win by three lengths with speed in reserve over Yook. Flowering Bowl elected to set the pace in this dash of six furlongs but was worn down by Pandora in the stretch and finished third, beaten a neck for the place by Yook. The victor was the favorite and paid $5.95 for $2.

Flamingo also was slow to find her racing legs, but once in her stride moved up steadily and overhauled Rock Candy in the stretch to score by a length and a half. Moses was third in this event at a mile and three-sixteenths. The winner paid $9.20 for $2.

Special to The New York Times.

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 12.—With William Tilden enjoying a day of rest, Francis T. Hunter, second ranking player of the country, held the spotlight in the Eastern tennis championship at the Westchester Country Club today when he defeated Hobey H. Hyde of Hartford in his first singles match since his return with the Davis Cup team.

The New Rochelle veteran faced a sinecure in getting by the strapping, hard-hitting Hyde, and although his sledge-hammer forehand was functioning in close to its best fashion, the New England player succeeded in taking a set from him before yielding at 6—3, 4—6, 6—0.

A heavily topped forehand, into which he threw himself so violently as to go clear off the ground with the follow through, and a stinging service were the cudgels which Hyde used to best advantage, and in both the first and second sets he had Hunter paying strict attention to his task.

Races Through Third Set.

However, the loss of a set serves only to bring out Hunter's unexcelled fighting spirit, and the third set found him ripping up the turf with his savage drives. Hyde continued to play good tennis to the end, but there was no withstanding the steamroller attack of Hunter, who quickly swept through six games in a row.

Along with Hunter, John Doeg of Stanford University, who won this tournament last year, also made his first appearance, arriving here from Southampton, where he lost to Fritz Mercur in the final.

Travers J. Le Gros of New York was his opponent, and although his strokes looked good enough at the start to make trouble for Doeg, he had only two games to his credit at the end. Doeg won at 6—0, 6—2.

Bell Defeats McCauliff.

Berkeley Bell was the only other favorite in the men's tournament to go into action. The Texan made short shrift of Eugene McCauliff of Fordham, returning his fast service for placements down the line and allowing him only two games in each of two sets.

With a strong California delegation in the lists, the women's singles got under way in the morning, and when Charles A. Anderson called a halt to the play early in the evening the field of sixty had been reduced to less than half that number. Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, national champion in 1904, whose victory over Miss Eileen Bennett at Wimbledon in June revived memories of her triumphs on the same courts in 1905 and 1907, when she won the English championship, heads the favored array, and another contender is her daughter, Dorothy Bundy.

The 12-year-old California girl made a favorable impression in winning her first match with Mrs. Marquis James, at 6—4, 6—2. She hits her forehand with good form, as one would expect of a Sutton, and also with remarkable length and pace, considering her size and tender age. There was a guiding purpose, too, behind the strokes of Miss Bundy, and Mrs. James was called on to do a considerable amount of running across the base line and up and down the court.

Mrs. Bundy Victorious.

Mrs. Bundy, hitting with her characteristic vigor and covering court with a nimbleness of foot that is the envy of many of the members of the younger generation, defeated Mrs. W. M. Shedden of Boston, 6—1, 6—3. Mrs. Shedden ranks well up among the players of New England and she made a better showing than the score of the first set indicates, but for all her steadiness and activity, Mrs. Bundy's strokes were too severe and too well placed for her.

Mrs. Charlotte Hosmer Chapin of Springfield, Miss Evelyn Parsons, Mrs. L. H. Harper and Miss Ethel Burkardt of California, Miss Clara Greenspan of New York, Miss Mary Greef of Kansas City, Miss Sarah Palfrey of Boston and Miss Virginia Hilleary of Philadelphia were among the other players to advance. The list of defeated players included Miss Alice Francis of Orange, N. J., Miss Clara Zinke of Cincinnati, Mrs. Agnes Sherwood Lamme and Mrs. William H. Pritchard.

Miss Francis was eliminated in the first round by Mrs. Lilian Scharman Hester of Brooklyn, former member of the first ten. The match was one of the hardest fought of the day and was decided at 7—5, 6—4 by Mrs. Hester's beautiful forehand driving. Miss Zinke yielded to Miss Sarah Palfrey after a furiously fought first set at 10—8, 6—2, both girls playing exceptionally fine tennis.

Mrs. Taubele Stages Upset.

One of the surprises of the day was the defeat of Miss Thelma Tipson of Port Washington by Mrs. Rose Taubele, at 6—0, 6—3. Miss Tipson showed much promise in the tournament held at Augusta, Ga., last year and needs only a little more experience to gain the recognition that her well-developed strokes merit. She was obviously in need of practice today and was unable to do justice to herself until she had lost the first six games.

The feature matches in the men's singles tomorrow will bring together Hunter and Philip Weir of California at 2 o'clock, Junior Coen of Kansas City and Frank Shields of New York at 3, and Doeg and J. Gilbert Hall of South Orange, N. J., at 5.

Brugnon and Boussus Win Doubles Title in Germany

HAMBURG, Aug. 12 (AP).—Jacques Brugnon and Christian Boussus of France won the men's doubles title at the German lawn tennis championships today, defeating Pierre Landry of France and P. D. B. Spence of South Africa, 8—6, 6—2, 6—4, in the final round.

An English team consisting of Miss Evelyn L. Colyer and G. N. Lee defeated Fraulein Rost and P. Moldenhauer in the mixed doubles final. The scores were 4—6, 6—1, 6—2.

THISTLES VICTORS IN LAWN BOWLING

Defending Champions Conquer Montclair A. C. as Title Tourney Opens.

TWO FAVORITES PUT OUT

Oakland Loses to Pawtucket and Orlando Is Eliminated by Chicago Team.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Aug. 12.—The twelfth annual national tournament of the American Lawn Bowling Association opened today on the greens of the Montclair A. C. and the Essex County Lawn Bowling Club in Bloomfield.

Forty-eight teams from all over the country are competing in the four-men rinks, and it is expected that more than 200 men will compete in the singles and doubles, which probably will get under way tomorrow or Wednesday.

The Thistle Club of Hartford, Conn., started out in brilliant style in defense of its championship by eliminating one of four Montclair A. C. teams by the score of 18 to 16. The champions, with C. S. Rettie as skipper, were hard pressed by the Montclair bowlers, led by Charles Nale.

Two slight favorites, the Oakland (Cal.) and Orlando (Fla.) teams were eliminated. Pawtucket, R. I., with J. Coupar at the helm, defeated the Californians, 14 to 12, while R. P. Dunlap's Chicago squad conquered the team from the South, 13 to 11.

Six Boston teams survived the two rounds of play today. One of the Boston skippers, Sandy Simpson, is seeking his third national title as a skipper.

The Buffalo entry, headed by Dr. William H. Johnson, and including Dr. H. M. Chester, Dr. C. C. Cott and E. S. Higginbotham, is one of the favorites to win. This team has played together for ten years, and under Skipper Johnson has captured three national championships.

Three trophies are at stake in the team competition, the W. F. Robertson Trophy, emblematic of the championship; the Walter Scott Trophy, for runner-up, and the Duncan McLeod Trophy for third place.

NEWPORT HORSE SHOW HAS NOTABLE ENTRIES

Beau Cavalier and Seaton Pippin to Be Seen in Saddle and Harness Classes.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 12.—Notable among the saddle horses entered for the coming Newport horse show which opens on Thursday afternoon is Beau Cavalier, owned and exhibited by R. L. Corry of South Norwalk, Conn. Beau Cavalier, a Western horse, was the winner of a $10,000 price in Chicago at the Spring show and has had only one defeat since being brought East. This was at the Rumson show recently, when the regular judges were unable to decide and a third judge had to be called in.

Along with Beau Cavalier in the saddle classes the Newport show will also have Seaton Pippin, which is considered to be one of the world's best harness horses. The entry has been made by the Seaton Hackney Farm of Morristown, N. J., which is showing in Newport for the first time.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Macy Willett's Cassilis Farm from New Marlboro, Mass., will show in the harness, saddle and pony classes. The Warfield Farms of New York have a number of hunter entries, as have Miss Betty Bird and Reginald Bird from Mattipoisett, Mass; also Mrs. Howard Christy from Worcester and Miss Paige Lewis from Westport, Conn.

The Green Valley Stables, the Misses G. R. Schoonmaker and A. B. Walton of Sewickley, Pa., have entered for the first time and among other horses will show the Golfer in the saddle classes, while Miss Alice Good of New Canaan, Conn., will be an exhibitor in the saddle classes.

WALKER WILL CLAIM LOUGHRAN'S CROWN

To Defend It Against Lomski on Monday at Philadelphia, Manager Kearns States.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Aug. 12 (AP).—Mickey Walker, world's middleweight champion, will claim the world's light-heavyweight championship, about to be surrendered by Tommy Loughran, and will defend it on Monday night against Leo Lomski, Aberdeen Assassin, in Philadelphia, declared Jack Kearns in his usual suave but decisive manner tonight at Harvey Lake, near here, where Walker is training for the Lomski fight.

Loughran has not formally abandoned his title, but Walker is entitled to the crown "without further fuss," Kearns said. "Mickey holds a referee's verdict over Loughran, Dave Miller having voted for him after the bout in Chicago this Spring. "Of course, the judges voted for Loughran, but everybody knows that Mickey merited the nod. Lomski floored Loughran twice, and there is no reason why the 175-pound title shouldn't be considered at stake next week when Mickey and Leo clash in Philadelphia."

Umpire Reardon Recovering.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 12 (AP).—John L. (Beans) Reardon, National League umpire, was reported as resting easy at St. Francis Hospital tonight, following an operation today for appendicitis. Reardon, whose home is on the West Coast, was stricken here late last week.

GRATTAN TOP WEIGHT IN GRAB BAG HANDICAP

126 Pounds Assigned to Rancocas Colt for Stake at Saratoga on Thursday.

The Rancocas Stable's black colt Grattan has been allotted top weight for the sixteenth running of the Grab Bag Handicap, the 2-year-old fixture to be contested at Saratoga on Thursday over the six-furlong distance. Handicapper W. S. Vosburgh has piled 126 pounds upon this black son of Lucullite and Durbar.

Caruso, the speedy colt from W. R. Coe's stable, is in with 125 pounds. Flying Heels will pack on 121 and Peto 119.

The Grab Bag is a subscription race in which subscribers may have starters. Ninety subscriptions were made and fifty-four have been entered. The race has a guaranteed gross value of $4,000.

SEEDED STARS LOSE IN WESTERN TENNIS

Hines and Noble Eliminated by Bossong and Roll in National Junior Tourney.

HECHT DEFEATS McLEAN

New Yorker Provides Upset in Boys' Title Play—Hebard Beats Lee, 6—4, 6—1.

CULVER, Ind., Aug. 12 (AP).—Three upsets, one of them of a major nature, brought about the elimination of three seeded stars in the first day's play in the national junior and boys' tennis championships on the Culver Military Academy courts today.

Wilmer Hines of Charleston, S. C., Southern junior champion and seeded No. 3 in his division, found Earl Bossong of Cincinnati too much and lost, 6—4, 1—6, 6—2.

Art Noble of Newton Centre, Mass., the New England and Canadian junior champion and seeded No. 7, also went out in an upset which was as decisive as it was unexpected. He bowed to Fred Roll of Philadelphia in straight sets, 6—1, 6—2.

Mark Hecht of New York provided the surprise in the boys' division, defeating Jock McLean of Washington, seeded No. 7, 6—3, 6—2.

The California leaders, Keith Gledhill of Santa Barbara and Ellsworth Vines of Pasadena, seeded Nos. 1 and 2, respectively, in the junior division, breezed through their opening matches and are expected to meet in the finals on Saturday.

Richard Hebard of White Plains, N. Y., defending boys' champion, had a hard battle to defeat Sammie Lee of Berkeley, 6—4, 6—3.

ANDERSON GAINS NET FINAL.

Will Meet George German at Jersey City on Saturday for Title.

The final round of the men's Jersey City tennis singles championship was reached at Jersey City yesterday when George Anderson won two matches to gain the bracket and Bernard German reached it by default. Anderson defeated Alvin Basley, 6—1, 8—6, in the quarter final round and then went on to register Herbert Hartmen, 6—0, 6—1.

Edward Mailly, German's scheduled opponent in the other semi-final match, defaulted when his physician ordered him to refrain from further competition.

The finals in the men's, women's and boys' singles will be played on Saturday. The other finalists are Miss Martha Gerlach and Miss Phyllis Ivins in the women's section and Harold Olson and Ray Bonardi in the boys' group.

DONOHUE BEATS BENTON

Yields Only 5 Hits, One a Circuit Drive by Fullis, as Cincinnati Batters Get Eleven.

By JOHN DREBINGER.

The Giants made an imposing bid to wrench another game from the Reds at the Polo Grounds yesterday, but ran unexpectedly into what our bridge set might refer to as an exceptionally strong hand. The Reds doubled, the Giants redoubled and went down three. The score was 5 to 2 and with this rather astonishing victory the Reds squared the series at two-all, leaving the rubber to be decided this afternoon. To say the Reds have worn out their welcome is expressing only mildly what John McGraw thought of them last night.

What really turned the trick was the fact that Manager Jack Hendricks trumped McGraw's ace, Larry Benton, with Professor Pete Donohue, a sagacious fellow who pitches the ball close to his vest.

It is really very difficult to do anything to a man who pitches like that and the Giants did little, indeed, with Pete. They got five hits and though one was a homer by Chick Fullis, this display was as nothing compared to what the Reds did to Benton. They pummeled Larry for eleven hits and also got a homer, a robust smack by Horace Ford that furnished the high light of a three-run rally in the eighth, which at one stroke broke a two-all tie in the score and put the Giants down for the afternoon.

Fullis Gets Homer in First.

Fullis's homer came as the first thing the Giants did on the attack, the idea being to intimidate Professor Donohue as quickly as possible. It was a very impressive swat that Chick hit as he led the Giants off in the opening round, the ball landing in the upper left field tier, but it did not intimidate Professor Donohue at all.

Not until the fifth were the Giants able to break in with another tally, though something very curious happened here. Hogan singled and two infield outs sent the big fellow lumbering around to third. Then Catcher Sukeforth made a somewhat sloppy return of a pitch to Donohue and as the ball slipped by Pete, Hogan thundered down the pathway and scored standing up.

However, this noble effort merely tied the score, as the Reds had scored two in the fourth on a pass and a trio of singles by Pittinger, Sukeforth and Donohue, and in the eighth it was the Reds who untied it. Kelly doubled, took third on a sacrifice fly and counted on Pittenger's single. A moment later Ford whacked the ball into the upper reaches of the left field grandstand and the Reds had three for the round.

Roush Back in Game.

Eddie Roush, crippled since July 14, returned to the Giant line-up yesterday and played through the game, though exercising extreme caution in galloping over the ground.

Freddy Lindstrom, out since Aug. 1, when he was taken down with an attack of tonsilitis, also was back at his third base post, performing as nimbly as ever. However, neither he nor Roush contributed any hits to the Giant cause, although not many of the other Giants did either, for that matter.

The firm of Hogan and Cohen almost put on another good act in the seventh, but Pid Purdy got in the way. After Hogan had singled, Cohen sent a liner screaming toward the right field wall, but Purdy snared the ball just as it was about to collide with the concrete.

However, Hogan got his revenge in the ninth when he blocked Purdy at the plate, though Pid's spikes almost ripped Frank's uniform into shreds. It was with considerable difficulty that Hogan got to the bench without the remains of the uniform falling right off him.

FREDERICK'S HOMER BEATS PIRATES, 4-2

Year's Seventeenth and Second in Two Days Gives Robins Victory in Tenth.

FLOCK TIES SCORE TWICE

Herman's Homer Evens Count in 4th and Bissonette's Triple Paves Way for Second Tie in 7th.

By ROSCOE McGOWEN.

Johnny Frederick's seventeenth home run of the season and his second in two days furnished an ideal tenth-inning finish of the Pirates-Robins series yesterday, giving the Robinsonian athletes the game, 4 to 2, and the series by three games out of four.

The score was knotted at 2-all when the Robin centre fielder came up to face Carmen Hill, the fourth Pirate pitcher. Wally Gilbert was on first, as a result of his single, and two were out. Johnny did not keep the 5,000 fans in suspense. He swung on the second pitch and sent the ball far over the right-field barrier into Bedford Avenue. The crowd swarmed onto the field, and that was all.

Paul Waner opened the tenth with a double, his fourth hit for a perfect average, and Uncle Wilbert thereupon moved Clise Dudley and sent Johnny Morrison to the rescue.

Traynor sacrificed the elder Waner to third and Morrison purposely passed Comorosky, and then filled the bases by pitching four bad ones to Brickell, who batted for Hemsley. The Robins then fluttered out of this dangerous situation when Wally Gilbert took George Grantham's hot smash and retired Paul Waner at the plate, and Jake Flowers gathered in another hot grounder from Sparky Adams to end it.

Waner Brothers Open Rally.

The score went into its tenth-inning tangle by the following process: The two Waners put two singles together in the first, and the younger one scored while Moore was throwing out Pie Traynor. The Pirates rested on that achievement off Dudley until the seventh.

In the fourth Herman tied the score at 1-all by assailing Ervin Brame for one of the longest home runs of his career. This was only the second hit off Brame, Bissonette getting a triple in the second and being thrown out at the plate on a daring effort to score on a ball hit to short.

When Dudley walked Adams to open the seventh, the Pirates converted the pass into their second tally on Sparky's theft of second and Lloyd Waner's single. Moore opened the fifth with a triple, but got no further than third, but Bissonette's second triple in the seventh was more productive, Moore following it with a single, to tie the score for the second time.

Heavy Drives Costly to Brame.

Brame seems to have a weakness for giving extra base hits. In his last two games and part of a third two home runs, six triples and one double have been made off his delivery. Of the six hits he gave the Robins yesterday one was a homer and three were triples.

In a previous game against the Phillies Brame allowed seven hits, and these blows included two home runs and one triple.

Johnny Morrison got a fairly soft victory for his one inning of labor. All Dudley got was a lot of hard work and a dirty uniform. Dud gathered the dirt in an effort to steal second head first in the seventh.

Today becomes an open date for the Robins, the scheduled game with the Pirates having been played off after a recent Sunday hop from Pittsburgh to Ebbets Field.

Connie Mack—After 15 Years, Another Pennant?

By WILLIAM E. BRANDT
All Rights Reserved.

CONNIE MACK'S answer to the question of what it takes to make baseball champions is perhaps the shortest on record:

"It takes years!"

The sixty-six-year-old Philadelphia manager can speak with considerable authority. "Teams that Mack built" have won six American League pennants and three world's championships. None of the winners, however, took as many years in building as this year's team, which, with two-thirds of the season finished, gives every promise of treating Mack to a dug-out seat at a world's series for the first time since 1914.

His players of this year's game, and the details of where and when he secured them, provide testimony to his heartfelt utterance above. They represent about ten years of scouting, purchasing, trying out, farming out, rearranging and discarding.

He Might Have Had Ruth.

If he had started rebuilding as soon as he junked his 1914 champions, he might have regained his standing as a championship manager much sooner. His line-up would certainly be different today in at least one detail.

Babe Ruth would have been with the Athletics instead of against them all these years. Ruth's promotion to the major leagues came when Baltimore sold him to the Boston Red Sox in July, 1914.

Connie Mack had the refusal of all Baltimore players at that time, as he continued to have throughout the lifetime of the late Jack Dunn, owner-manager of the Orioles until his death last Fall.

In a reconstruction mood, Mack would have taken Ruth, who was an exceptionally promising minor league southpaw pitcher. But Mack was not rebuilding just then, because of the war, the Federal League salary competition and the fact that his public was a bit surfeited with victory.

A Great Team Dismantled.

When the 1914 world's series was over he began dismantling his team. That was the Winter he asked for waivers on such pitchers as Bender, Plank and Coombs.

Even as a homer-hitter Ruth would have been no bargain for him, for he permitted the most renowned four-base-hit producer of the period, "Home Run" Baker, to retire to private life as a Maryland farmer.

Times Wide World Photo.
CONNIE MACK.

For five years the Athletics invested no fancy money in minor league stars. The first definite reconstruction move came in September, 1919, when one Monday morning a band of eight rookies, stars in their own leagues, reported at Shibe Park en masse.

Perkins Always a Mackman.

Ever since then the building has been brisk, but interspersed by frequent tearing down and revision. Of that 1919 contingent only Jimmie Dykes remains. Cy Perkins, who shares the catching responsibilities with Cochrane, antedates Dykes and is the dean of this year's playing roster.

In 1914 Perkins ran away from high school to catch for Earle Mack's Raleigh team, and has thus been under Mack management, first the son, then the father, from boyhood, though, like Dykes, Perkins took a farm-out course at Atlanta.

Even after actually starting his reconstruction, Mack "passed up" a great hitter, namely, Al Simmons. Al wrote him a letter in 1921, describing himself as a young fellow slapping baseballs very successfully on the lots of Milwaukee, Wis., and ambitious to work for the Athletics.

Mack wrote that there were no vacancies just then, advising Simmons to apply to the Milwaukee team. Al did and got the job. Less than three years afterward the Athletics bought Simmons from Milwaukee for an imposing price. Two players changed their business addresses from Philadelphia to Milwaukee in addition to the monetary phase of the transaction.

The Baltimore refusal played a prominent part in the Mack reconstruction. Lefty Grove, Max Bishop, Joe Boley and George Earnshaw were headliners with the great modern Orioles, the team that won seven straight International League pennants.

The Recruiting Process.

Cochrane and Hale were bought for high prices from Portland in the Pacific Coast League. Quinn and Ehmke were veterans ransomed in 1925-26 from the tail-end Red Sox. Walberg, Rommel and Haas, when Connie took them, were young players discarded after other major league tryouts.

Bing Miller's outfielding prowess with rival teams twice induced Mack to make a deal for him. In the Winter of 1921-22 the Athletics made a trade with Washington to get Miller. Miller was shunted to St. Louis in the Ehmke deal, but in December, 1927, Connie Mack parted with one of his first-string pitchers, Sam Gray, to redeem Miller.

One important member of the galaxy was an outright gift. As links between this year's team and his last champions Mack has his adjutant, Eddie Collins, and young Jimmie Foxx. Foxx is "Home Run" Baker's representative, and there is no need to emphasize here how well the slugger of the old A's is being represented.

Baker's Contribution.

Foxx comes from Baker's country, the fertile Eastern Shore section of Maryland. Baker found Foxx as a schoolboy star and developed his long-range driving propensities, then presented him to Connie Mack.

Mack's reconstruction task would have been easy if each of his 1914 champions had provided him with as faithful a representative as Baker delivered.

RUTH'S 501ST FAILS TO CHECK INDIANS

Hits 4th Drive in Last 4 Games, and 31st This Season, but Cleveland Wins, 11-7.

YANKS LEAD IN FIFTH, 6-4

Score Three Times to Gain Edge, but Indians Get Four in Their Half to Clinch Decision.

By WILLIAM E. BRANDT.
Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 12.—The Billy Evans Tribe of Indians revealed today in their mastery of the world's champions, which since their first meeting in May has been one of the season's outstanding American League features. The Indians today scored their eleventh victory in sixteen games with the Yanks, to the intense joy of 12,000 fans, by 11 to 7.

Babe Ruth had the range on the right-field fence, shooting his third homer of the series out into the street, his fourth homer in his last four games, the thirty-first of the season and the 501st of his American League record.

Lazzeri and Gehrig lined triples to far corners of the field. Thirteen hits altogether sprang from New York bats, but Cleveland got fourteen. The fifth-inning three-run rally of the Yanks put them ahead, 6 to 4, and, with Pennock pitching, the outlook for the fading champs was fairly good.

The Tribe had thumped Pipgras off the mound before the end of the third inning, but the Yanks treated Shaute similarly, and, after Ruth's homer and Lazzeri's triple in the third, Shaute disappeared. Pennock mystified the Tribe in the third and fourth, getting a double play in each inning, but in their half of the fifth the Indians went to work and the game blew up.

Averill's Hit Opens Spurt.

The Indians opened with singles by Averill and Fonseca. Falk bounced a double-play grounder at Lazzeri, but Lazzeri fumbled the ball, then threw it into left field. Averill scored and Fonseca took third.

Then came two infield smashes, either one of which could have rescued Pennock from his difficulties, but they were mishandled. The second allowed Fonseca to tally, tying the score at 6-all. Luke Sewell bounced a fluky single over Lary's head and two runs scored. In the sixth Shoffner walked Meusel with the bases filled, presenting the Yanks with a run, but it was their last.

In the latter half of the sixth the Tribe ran Meusel and Combs around under a couple of long flies which ultimately fell safe for a double and a triple and two more runs.

Shoffner Awarded Victory.

Melbourne Shoffner, the lean southpaw from Jersey City, was the winning pitcher. He became the public idol in the eighth. Gehrig opened with a single, then Shoffner fanned Ruth, Lazzeri and Meusel.

Pipgras had failed in four previous attempts to beat Cleveland this year. Today Pennock was the losing pitcher, though Pipgras's stay in the box was mainly a series of Cleveland drives off the right-field fence.

Lary and Gehrig each had three hits. Gehrig's first was a thundering drive which rolled to the furthest corner of centre field for three bases.

The Tribe gave their admirers a treat by working the squeeze play to score the tenth run. Falk bunted and Fonseca scored from third.

TIGERS BLANKED BY ATHLETICS, 6-0

Mackmen Move Further Ahead of Yanks as Walberg Yields Only Five Hits.

DETROIT, Aug. 12 (AP).—Lefty Walberg returned to form today and allowed only five hits as the Athletics shut out the Tigers, 6 to 0. Despite the score, the game was quite a pitching battle, with George Uhle limiting the A's to eight hits. Three Detroit errors ruined his cause. The victory marked a gain in the flag race for the Athletics, as the Yankees were beaten. The Philadelphians are now eleven and a half games ahead of the Yankees.

Al Simmons kept pace with the home run leaders by poling out his twenty-seventh of the season with Cronin on base in the fifth. Two other Athletic runs were due to a brace of errors by Roy Johnson, Detroit outfielder, and one by Charlie Gehringer, returned to the Tiger infield today after a long layoff.

Walberg fanned five and walked two, and was at his best in the pinches.

BROWNS LOSE THIRD IN ROW TO SENATORS

Successive Doubles in Ninth by Judge and Rice Win for Washington, 3-2.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 12 (AP).—Braxton held the St. Louis Browns to five hits today while his team-mates were gathering nine off Crowder, and the Washington Senators took their third straight game from the Browns, 3 to 2. The winning run was scored with two out in the ninth on successive doubles by Judge and Rice.

CAPABLANCA TRIMS TREYBAL AT CHESS

Former World's Champion Gains Second Place Tie With Vidmar at Carlsbad.

MARSHALL ALSO TRIUMPHS

Defeats Miss Menchik, Who Later Adjourns With Gruenfeld—Nimzowitsch Advances.

CARLSBAD, Aug. 12.—Eight of the nine adjourned games from the ninth and tenth rounds of the international chess masters' tournament were played off today at the Kurhaus, José R. Capablanca of Cuba, F. J. Marshall, United States champion; E. D. Bogoljubow of Russia, A. Nimzowitsch of Denmark and E. Gruenfeld of Austria scoring victories. Three games were drawn.

Miss Vera Menchik of Russia, after losing to Marshall, adjourned a second time with Gruenfeld, who in the meantime had disposed of his fellow-countryman, Professor Becker.

Capablanca, former world's champion, winning from Dr. Treybal of Czechoslovakia, moved into a tie with Dr. M. Vidmar of Yugoslavia for second place, each with totals of 7-3. Both are still two full points behind Rudolph Spielman of Vienna, the leader, who did not play today.

Bogoljubow Beats Colle.

Nimzowitsch scored against Johner of Switzerland and moved into fourth place, tying with Bogoljubow, who won his game from Colle of Belgium. A draw by Dr. Euwe of Holland against Mattison of Latvia enabled the Dutch champion to tie Rubinstein of Poland for sixth place.

In the other two games decided Saemisch of Germany drew against Yates of England, and Gilg of Czechoslovakia drew with Canal of Peru.

Capablanca, who has moved gradually into a commanding position in the tournament, plays Nimzowitsch in an important match tomorrow, while Spielmann, who has eight victories and two draws to his credit, is meeting Rubinstein. Vidmar, in the runner-up tie with the former world's champion, faces Bogoljubow, who is to meet the present world's titleholder, Dr. Alekhine, at the close of this tournament.

Capablanca in Crucial Test.

Victory for Capablanca and a defeat for Spielmann, with either a draw or a victory for Bogoljubow against Vidmar, would put Capablanca in a commanding position in the standing.

SPECIAL RULE TO END CHECKERS DEADLOCK

Officials Set Penalty for Contests Reaching 20 Drawn Games in Title Tourney.

CEDAR POINT, Ohio, Aug. 12 (AP).—Special rules were made in the American checker championship tournament today in an effort to break the deadlock among four of the leading contestants. The players completed nearly twenty hours of competition without winning or losing a game.

Louis C. Ginsberg of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Edwin F. Hunt of Nashville, Tenn., have played sixteen drawn games in the last two days. Harrah B. Reynolds of Buffalo, N. Y., and Jess Hanson of Los Angeles have played an equal number of undecided matches.

The officials decided to alter the ruling requiring all matches to be played to a decision and ruled that hereafter if a contest reaches twenty drawn games each contestant is to be penalized.

Experts expect Ginsberg and Asa A. Long of Toledo to meet in the final round, to be played Saturday or Sunday.

QUELLICH IS STOPPED AFTER 15 HITS IN ROW

Sets World's Record for Consecutive Safeties—Reading Beats Montreal, 11 to 8.

READING, Pa., Aug. 12 (AP).—Reading made a clean sweep of the three-game Montreal series by winning the final contest today, 11 to 8. The Keys got seventeen hits, including home runs by George Quellich and Earl Grace.

Quellich set a new world's record for consecutive hits when he ran his string to fifteen before he hit a high fly in the eighth. He started the game with thirteen in a row and added two in the game. Tris Speaker set the major league mark in 1920 with eleven.

Sports of the Times

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

By JOHN KIERAN.

UNLESS the engagements are canceled, there will be seven former national champions and the defending champion in the national golf title tournament at Pebble Beach next month, and the point is mentioned because it sets golf just a little apart from some other games.

There's tennis, for instance. Henri Cochet holds our national singles championship, and Henri is not expected to appear in defense of his honors this year. Undoubtedly, Bill Tilden will be on hand, and, possibly, two other former champions may put in an appearance, but that would cover the field. Players don't last as long in tennis as they do in golf.

There was mild surprise that R. Norris Williams played so well at Seabright recently, because Williams was champion back in 1914, a long time ago in terms of tennis. A fifteen-year span is supposed to shut a man from the top flight on the court, and, usually, it does, but Harry Vardon's golf championships were strung across eighteen years, and John Ball won his last British amateur golf championship just twenty-four years after he captured his first British amateur championship.

On the Diamond.

It is expected that a couple of former national champions—in a manner of speaking—will meet in baseball's national championship this year, the world's series. The Cubs and the Athletics are the former champions and prospective world's series contenders.

The Cubs were champions in 1908, when they defeated the Detroit Tigers in the Autumn tournament, and the Athletics were champions in 1913, when they defeated the Giants four times in five tries for the big prize. But Eddie Collins and Connie Mack, noncombatants, are the only survivors of the 1913 series who are still with the Athletics, and, unless the records are wrong, there isn't any one now with the Cubs who was with that team when it won its last championship.

So, as far as individual competitors are concerned, the golf championship will have it all over the world's series in the matter of former champions still stepping up to do battle for ancient honors.

They change fast in baseball. Lindstrom, Jackson and Terry are the only survivors of John McGraw's last pennant-winning team at the Polo Grounds. For that matter, Grover Hartley was with the Giants in 1913 and returned to them ten years later. The only persons who had lasted through that period with the club were John McGraw and Eddie Brannick.

Grappling With the Problem.

Boxing couldn't produce seven former titleholders and a defending champion striving for the same old title, nor could swimming, horse racing, track athletics or any other sport that comes to mind at the moment.

Possibly wrestling might. Not only do wrestlers keep working at their trade year after year, but they have a fine, free and generous way of passing the championship from hand to hand. There are plenty of former champions either here or abroad, and if sufficient inducements were offered, eight of them would be ready to go to the mat again for the title—a possibility that is ghastly to contemplate. It was probably a mistake to bring this matter up.

Once in an invitation golf tournament at the National Links there were five former national amateur champions in the second sixteen, which is only mentioned because it has nothing to do with wrestling and brings up the subject of golf again.

Listing the Leaders.

The seven former champions and defending titleholder who are expected to play at Pebble Beach are H. Chandler Egan, Bill Fownes, Francis Ouimet, Chick Evans, Jesse Guilford, Jess Sweetser, George Von Elm and Bob Jones.

Chandler Egan won the intercollegiate golf championship for Harvard back in 1902 and won the national amateur title two years in succession and was runner-up on another occasion. He won in 1904 and 1905 and was runner-up to Bob Gardner, then a rising young pole vaulter at Yale, in 1909.

Bill Fownes won the national championship in 1910 and was twice a semi-finalist after that. He can still hammer them down the line and has a record of having qualified in nineteen championship tournaments.

A search of the archives might give Chick Evans or Chandler Egan a better qualifying record than that. Chick isn't a doddering gaffer as yet, but he has been whacking his way along the links for many, many years. He was a boy wonder back in 1909, and, if there's any virtue in mathematics, that was twenty years ago.

Memories.

Francis Ouimet won the amateur title at Ekwanok in 1914, and it was something of a vindication for him. There were those who held that his victory over Vardon and Ray in the 1913 open was a bolt from the blue or a shot in the dark or something like that, but when he defeated the great Jerry Travers at Ekwanok, there was no further question of his championship calibre.

Chick Evans won the amateur title at Merion in 1916, and there were two interesting points about that tournament. One was that it was the first championship tournament for a stocky little blond lad from Atlanta, Ga., Jones by name. The other was that in winning at Merion, Evans was the first and only golfer in this country to win both the national amateur and the national open championships in the same year. The great John Ball is the only golfer with a similar feat to his credit in British golfing annals.

It may come as something of a surprise to realize that, with all his triumphs, Bob Jones has yet to tack a victory in the amateur to a victory in the open to make it a really triumphal year. Bob won the open in 1923, but Max Marston, the ultimate winner, put him out in the second round at Flossmoor that year.

Again in 1926, Bob won the open, but his pursuit of the amateur crown ended on the seventeenth green at Baltusrol with George Von Elm winning the match and the title by 2 up and 1 to play.

But this is 1929, and Bob has another chance to tie the great performances of Chick Evans and John Ball. He won the open championship at Winged Foot in June. All he has to do now is to win the amateur crown at Del Monte in September. There will be practically nobody in his way except George Von Elm, Cyril Tolley, Jess Sweetser, Phillips Finlay, George Voigt, Maurice McCarthy and fellows like that.

CARDINALS DEFEAT PHILLIES BY 7 TO 5

Three-Run Attack in the Fifth Drives Elliott From Mound and Clinches Game.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 12 (AP).—A three-run attack in the fifth inning that drove Elliott to cover enabled St. Louis to beat Philadelphia in the final game of the series, 7-5.

The game was a free-hitting affair, with Haines gaining credit for the triumph, despite a wobbly start.

O'Doul connected for his twenty-second home run of the season in the fifth inning.

WHITE SOX ARE BLANKED.

Get Only 5 Hits Off MacFayden and Bow to Red Sox, 3-0.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12 (AP).—The White Sox suffered from too much Danny MacFayden today and they lost the third game of the series to Boston, 3 to 0. It took the bespectacled MacFayden just one hour and twenty-five minutes to turn the Comiskey team back with only three hits.

Ted Lyons yielded four safeties in eight innings, but wildness proved his undoing. Two walks, a triple by Rothrock and a double steal gave the Red Sox their three tallies in the opening session.

British Empire Games Set For Hamilton Aug. 16-23, 1930

MONTREAL, Aug. 12 (Canadian Press).—The British Empire games will be held in Hamilton, Ont., the week of Aug. 16 to 23, 1930. Decision to this effect was reached today at a meeting of the executive of the British Empire Games Committee of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada held under the chairmanship of E. W. Beatty and attended by J. F. Savage of Montreal; Major D. S. Forbes, Montreal; Colonel W. Bovey, Montreal; Professor T. R. Loudon, Toronto, president of the A. A. U. of C., and M. M. Robinson of Hamilton, chairman of the Hamilton committee.

FUGAZY ACTS TODAY FOR SCHMELING BOUT

Will Ask Board to Approve Sept. 11 as Date for German's Meeting With Scott.

Promoter Humbert Fugazy plans to appear before the State Athletic Commission today to request the approval of Sept. 11 as the date for the bout he proposes between Max Schmeling, German heavyweight, and Phil Scott, English fighter, at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn. Fugazy, confident that details of the match will be adjusted with Schmeling and his American manager, Joe Jacobs, within a few days, declared his intention of making the proposed battle one of a series of heavyweight eliminations which will be inaugurated tomorrow night with the ten-round contest between Tom Heaney and Victorio Campolo at Ebbets Field.

For the past few days Fugazy has been in communication with interests close to Jacobs and Schmeling, and developments in this connection, the promoter said, have justified the confidence he feels in Schmeling's bowing to the will of the commission and fighting Scott under a contract signed by Arthur Bulow, Schmeling's former manager.

It is expected that if Schmeling consents to the Scott match and fulfills the Fugazy contract the boxer's license will be restored.

Frank Bruen, vice president of Madison Square Garden Corporation, returned yesterday from Miami with the information that the site for the Garden's proposed Winter arena in Florida has been selected. Actual construction work on a plan accommodating 50,000 will be started on Sept. 15. Two battles are proposed in the arena for the coming Winter, one of them being an important heavyweight match.

Matchmaker Tom McArdle yesterday completed arrangements for the two ten-round bouts which are to precede the twelve-round match between Al Singer and Kid Chocolate at the Polo Grounds on Aug. 29. Jack (Kid) Berg, English lightweight, and Spug Meyers of Pocatello, Idaho, are paired for the semi-final and the first ten-round event will be a return engagement between Harry Ebbets and Izzy Grove, middleweights.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 12 (AP).—Johnny McCoy of Buffalo won a decision tonight over Danny Schwartz, Baltimore, in ten rounds.

DE KUH KNOCKS OUT COOK IN 8TH ROUND

Brooklyn Heavyweight Triumphs in Feature Bout Before 4,000 at Starlight Park.

Arthur De Kuh, the towering Italian heavyweight from Brooklyn, gained a knockout victory over George Cook of Australia in the eighth round of a scheduled ten-round feature bout at the Starlight Park outdoor arena last night. A crowd of 4,000 persons witnessed the battle, which came to an unsatisfactory end after 58 seconds of the eighth session, when Cook claimed a foul which Referee Eddie Forbes disallowed.

De Kuh, who stood fully a head taller than his opponent, had an advantage of thirty-one and one-half pounds in weight and had a comfortable lead over the Australian up to the end. Cook fought back gamely, but could not reach his opponent with any degree of effectiveness. In the eighth session, when the men were mixing at close quarters, Cook stopped suddenly and fell to the canvas, signaling that he was fouled, but Forbes ignored the claim and counted him out. The weights were 188 for Cook and 219½ for De Kuh.

In the ten-round semi-final Paul Cavaliere of Peterson carried off the decision over George Neron, Greenwich Village heavyweight. The New Jersey boxer held the upper hand almost all the way and baffled his rival from the start. The winner weighed 187 and Neron 194.

Joe Banovic of Binghamton made a favorable New York début by stopping Dave King, rugged Harlem light-heavyweight, in seven sessions of a scheduled ten-round battle. The Harlem battler could not fathom his opponent's defense. King was so exhausted at the end of the seventh that he was unable to come up for the eighth round. He weighed 167 and Banovic 175 pounds.

Jack Livingston, Porto Rican heavyweight, won the decision over Jackie Saunders of Long Island City in the first six-rounder. The weights were 198 for Saunders and 185½ for Livingston. In the opening four-rounder Erwin Stiegler, 160½, of Germany, battled to a draw with Isidore Dambois, 154, of New York.

BRUCE FLOWERS TRIUMPHS.

Outpoints Miller in Ten Rounds at Philadelphia—Ross Is Victor.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 12 (AP).—Bruce Flowers, New Rochelle, received the decision over Ray Miller, Chicago southpaw, at the conclusion of their ten-round bout tonight. Flowers weighed 134½ pounds and Miller 133½.

Neither fighter scored a knockdown, but each was forced to take considerable punishment. As the fight neared the end, Miller tried desperately to land his left, but Flowers kept out of the way or tied it up. Both were hammering away at the body at the final bell.

Al Ross, France, 153 pounds, won from Billy Angelo, Leiperville, Pa., 149, in the third round, when Angelo was disqualified. Frankie Hayes, Philadelphia, 126 pounds and Gaston LaCadee, France, 126, fought a whirlwind ten-round draw. Lew Massey, Philadelphia, 126 pounds, and Maurice Holtzer, France, 126, also boxed a ten-round draw.

Stribling Knocks Out Fay.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 12 (AP).—W. L. (Young) Stribling of Macon, Ga., knocked out Harry Fay of Louisville, Ky., near the end of the fifth round in their scheduled ten-round bout tonight.

BARBA GETS DECISION

Earns Verdict Over Charley Wepner in Six-Round Semi-Final—7,000 See Fights.

By JAMES P. DAWSON.

Joe Sekyra, Dayton, Ohio, heavyweight, scored a hollow victory over George LaRocco of Greenwich Village last night in the principal bout at Dexter Park Arena in Brooklyn. A crowd of about 7,000 saw Sekyra outbox and outfight his rival in every one of the ten rounds and at the finish agreed with the decision rendered by Referee Jed Gahan and Judges Tommy Shortell and William P. Dunn.

Sekyra won as he pleased without being extended. Though he was outweighed five and a half pounds, the Ohioan had an advantage in reach and excelled his rival in boxing skill. Using a left jab effectively from the beginning, Sekyra upset LaRocco's attack and had the Greenwich Village heavyweight missing his punches awkwardly. At close quarters LaRocco was strong in sporadic rallies but as a general rule Sekyra either outfought LaRocco in the clinches or effectively locked his opponent's arms.

Tries for Knockout.

Repeatedly through the bout Sekyra tried for a knockout but his marksmanship was off. In the fifth and sixth rounds Sekyra stung LaRocco with solid rights aimed at the jaw but landing high on LaRocco's head.

In the ninth round, LaRocco drove a right to the jaw which sent Sekyra back on his heels but the Ohioan rushed in on the attack and pounded LaRocco through the rest of the round and through the tenth round as well. Sekyra weighed 177 pounds and LaRocco 182½ pounds.

Lou Barba, Greenwich Village heavyweight, had an easy time winning the decision over Charlie Wepner, Yorkville boxer, in the six-round semi-final which closed the program when the threat of rain caused the management to put the feature in the ring ahead of schedule. Barba weighed 187 pounds and Wepner weighed 190 pounds.

Olin Knocks Out Milano.

Short bouts were the order in the early program. Knockouts ended the first four bouts. The quickest finish came in the scheduled six-round bout between Ben Olin, Brooklyn's undefeated graduate of amateur boxing, and Felix Milano, Cuban light heavyweight. Olin knocked out Milano in the first round, a left hook to the jaw finishing the Cuban nineteen seconds after the bout started. Olin weighed 172 pounds and Milano 172½ pounds.

Eric Holmberg, Yorkville middleweight, knocked out Billy Rapp of Harlem in two minutes and thirty seconds of the first round of their scheduled four-round bout. Gus Rodenberg, South Brooklyn heavyweight, knocked out Charlie Henderson of Rochester in two minutes and twenty-seven seconds of the fourth round in their four-round match. Abe Lilfshitz, east side heavyweight, knocked out Sam Stanley of Harlem in two minutes and thirty-three seconds of the first round in the opening bout, scheduled for four rounds. A four-round emergency bout between Bobby Doran, Irish welterweight, and Phillie Foster was declared a draw.

SINGER AND CHARLES TO CLASH TONIGHT

Bronx Lightweight to Oppose French Boxer in Main Bout at Queensboro Stadium.

Al Singer, Bronx junior lightweight, yesterday was reported in superb shape for his ten-round bout against Gaston Charles, French boxer, in the feature attraction tonight at the Queensboro Stadium. The contest is an important one on the schedule of Singer. He jeopardizes his scheduled meeting with Kid Chocolate Aug. 29 at the Polo Grounds when he squares off against Charles, for a defeat or an injury would interfere with the plans for the Polo Grounds event. Singer will enter the ring a topheavy favorite to win, but the Bronx lad was a prohibitive favorite in the betting the night he was knocked out by Ignacio Fernandez.

Harry Ebbets, Freeport middleweight, and Nick Palmer, National Guard product, are to clash in the ten-round semi-final. Ben Jeby, stable-mate of Singer's, is to tackle Alf Ros, Spanish middleweight, in another ten-round event.

Unusual interest is reported in the ten-round feature at the Twenty-second Engineer Regiment Armory tonight, in which Billy Freeman, National Guard heavyweight champion, will defend his title against Georgie Gianchino, Philadelphian. The winner is to receive the General Haskell Belt, emblematic of the championship. Sailor Oriscola and Sailor Mcrongothy, light-heavyweights, are to clash in the eight-round semi-final. Jackie Aldara and Howard Wright also are paired for eight rounds.

Two special bouts, in addition to the competition in four four-men classes, are scheduled at the amateur boxing tournament under the auspices of the Metropolitan A. A. U. to be held tonight at the Golden City Arena, Canarsie.

SANSTOL WINS OSLO BOUT.

RADIO CORPORATION LOSES PATENT SUIT

Dubilier Company Upheld on Electric Current Device and Its Grid Bias.

BEATEN ON LOUD SPEAKER

Victor Holds $10,000,000 Damages Likely, as 95% of All Sets Are Involved.

Special to The New York Times.

WILMINGTON, Del., Aug. 12.—Judge Hugh M. Morris in the United States Circuit Court here this afternoon handed down a decision which is expected to be far-reaching in the radio industry. The suit was that of the Dubilier Radio Corporation against the Radio Corporation of America for alleged infringement of three patents.

The court ruled that two of the patents were infringed upon, but that the third was not.

The first patent sustained is that which covers the taking of alternating current for radio from a standard house socket, replacing the A and B batteries. The court held that this patent was valid and was infringed upon by the Radio Corporation.

The patent on which the court held there was no infringement was one for a loud-speaker.

The third patent covered a grid bias for radio sets. Judge Morris held that the patent of the Dubilier corporation was valid and that it was infringed upon by the Radio Corporation. It is expected that an appeal will be taken.

Expects Heavy Damages.

William Dubilier, technical adviser of the Dubilier Condenser Corporation, New York, expressed the opinion yesterday that infringement damages of more than $10,000,000 will be likely as a result of Judge Hugh Morris's decision. He declared that about 95 per cent of the radio sets now being manufactured come under the patents involved and will be affected by the court's decision.

Mr. Dubilier said Judge Morris's decision was in favor of his company's claims for Clauses 3 and 14 of Patent No. 1455141 and Claim No. 9 of Patent No. 1635117. He said he had bought the patents from the two inventors, Percival D. Lowell and Francis W. Dunmore. The patent field not infringed upon was No. 1606212.

Explains Patents Involved.

"We are responsible for the introduction of apparatus for the elimination of batteries," said Mr. Dubilier, "and for the development of the first apparatus to operate from the electric light lines, doing away with batteries.

"Patent No. 1,455,141 is one for radio receiving sets whereby alternating current is used for the energy instead of batteries. These patents cover broadly the use of alternating current with receiving sets, and since practically all the sets made today operate from the lighting circuit, the decision is of extreme importance and will probably involve a readjustment of the industry.

"Patent No. 1,455,141 involves the method of overcoming or eliminating hum from the radio receiving set operating from the electric light circuits.

"Patent No. 1,635,117 involves the use of alternating current to obtain the negative grid bias."

Mr. Dubilier said his company was the first to make use of the principles involved and a battery eliminator using them was placed on the market in 1924, which, he said, was about a year before any set maker attempted to market a batteryless receiver.

Representatives of the Radio Corporation of America could not be reached last night for their comment on the case. Chief attorney for the Dubilier Corporation was Chilton V. Edwards of Edwards, Bower & Pool. Attorneys for the Radio Corporation, the announcement said, included Charles Neave and Maxwell Barus of Fish, Richardson & Neave.

At the time of making the inventions, the inventors were employed in the United States Bureau of Standards, Washington, D. C. Licenses for the patents were granted to the government for its use and outside rights were transferred to the Dubilier company.

FIGHT OVER 'VICTOR RADIO.'

Two Companies Involved in Suit for Right to Use Name.

The Radio-Victor Corporation of America, organized as a subsidiary of the Radio Corporation of America, after its merger with the Victor Talking Machine Company, was sued in the Supreme Court yesterday by the Victor Radio Corporation of 68 William Street for an injunction restraining it from using that name and from selling radio products under the name of "Victor Radio." The plaintiff, alleging that it was organized in 1922, while the defendant was formed in April last, asserts that the name has been taken for the purpose of trading on the good-will of the plaintiff and for the purpose of confusing the trade.

The complaint alleges that the defendant was notified some time ago that unless it quit using the name it would be sued, and that a reply was received asserting its right to the name.

LONG BEACH TO BURN CARS.

Funeral Pyre Tonight Will Start Demolition of Street Railway.

Special to The New York Times.

LONG BEACH, N. Y., Aug. 12.—The funeral pyre of the four remaining gasoline street cars, once the sole means of transportation in this city, will be lighted tomorrow at 7:30 P. M. under the direction of Fire Chief George F. Maier, it was announced today.

The chief said that the demolition of the trolleys would be made into a public drill for the fire-fighting force of the city. It will be the final lesson given under the tutelage of Chief Charles Murray, who has conducted fire-fighting classes here for a period of six weeks.

The burning of the cars marks the first step in the demolition of the old Long Beach Railway Company's properties. In another month the entire stock of the company, car-barn and tracks included, will be removed under the agreement between the Long Beach Bus Company and the city.

WINS GOLDMAN PRIZE FOR MEMORY OF MUSIC

Aaron Gold Has Taken Two Other First Awards at Annual Contests in Central Park Concerts

The prizes for the winners of the Music Memory contest of the Goldman Band were awarded at the concert last evening on the Central Park Mall. Two completely accurate papers were turned in at the contest on Friday evening, but one contestant lost a point for misspelling the name of a composer. Aaron Gold, a leather worker, who lives at 1,523 Brook Avenue, the Bronx, was rated 100 per cent and got the silver medal that was offered for first prize. Mr. Gold, who says he had one month's lessons on the violin some years ago and got the rest of his musical education at the Goldman concerts, was also first prize winner in 1928 and 1928.

Albert Koonz, a mechanical dentist, of 1,717 Montgomery Place, the Bronx, was rated 99 per cent and got the bronze second prize medal. He lost one point and a chance at a tie for first place by misspelling the name of Giordano, the composer of "Andrea Chenier." Mr. Goldman said. Mr. Koonz, who also learned about music at these Goldman concerts, won first prize in 1927, second in 1928 and third in 1926.

The winner of the bronze medal for the third highest rating was a life insurance man, out of town yesterday on business. John H. James of 60 West Eighty-ninth Street, whose prize, Mr. Goldman said, would be sent to him by mail, received 97 per cent on his paper.

The conductor, in making the awards, said that while the results showed that people were getting more familiar with the music of the masters, "it was a disappointment to find no woman among the winners."

The prizes were awarded by Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Guggenheim and Mr. and Mrs. Murry Guggenheim, the donors of the Goldman concerts to the people of the city.

The program included: "Marche Militaire," two excerpts from the "Pathetic Symphony," the "Nutcracker Suite" and the overture solennelle "1812," all by Tchaikovsky; the overture "Masaniello" of Auber, the aria, "Ritorna Vincitor," from Verdi's "Aida," sung by Cora Frye, soprano; excerpts from "Andrea Chenier," by Giordano, and "The Evolution of Dixie," by Lake.

ETHEL BARRYMORE OPPOSES GILLMORE

Criticizes Way in Which Equity's President Has Conducted Film Fight as "Futile."

CLASH ON 80 PER CENT PLAN

Gillmore Denies Obtaining a "Solution" and Regrets Split in Union Leaders' Front.

Special to The New York Times.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 12.—Frank Gillmore, president of the Actors' Equity Association and leader of the battle to install the Equity shop in the film industry, tonight struck back at Ethel Barrymore, his colleague in recent negotiations with the motion picture producers, for her criticism of his conduct of the actors' cause.

Miss Barrymore stressed three points in a statement issued last night as she departed for San Francisco. She called the president's action in gathering Equity members in a mass meeting to endorse the "80 per cent Equity cast" demand futile; she averred the meetings with the producers gave real promise of a solution and she intimated that Mr. Gillmore had called the meeting at an hour when her stage engagements precluded her attendance.

"It is regrettable that Miss Barrymore's statement gives a definite erroneous impression," Mr. Gillmore retorted. "There was no agreement reached on Thursday or any other time during our negotiations. The producers simply made a counter proposition which was not acceptable to us.

"At the Saturday meeting of members of the Equity we never presented a 'solution'; we simply accepted endorsement of our action in proposing 80 per cent Equity casts.

"I am sorry that our meetings could not be called at Miss Barrymore's personal convenience. She did ask that one be in the afternoon, but I assured her that very many of our contract players were busy during the day time.

"It is also regrettable that Miss Barrymore, an Equity member-officer, should make any statement during the heat of the conflict after a discussion with persons on the opposite side and without any discussion with the executives representing her own people."

There was no further meeting between Gillmore and the producers' committee today, although one had been tentatively scheduled, and it had been announced that the Equity president would present the resolution endorsing 80 per cent Equity casts adopted Saturday night, as an ultimatum.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 12 (AP).—Dissension appeared in the ranks of the Actors' Equity Association again today, following Ethel Barrymore's criticism of Frank Gillmore, president, for the manner in which he has conducted the organization's fight for Equity shop in the film industry. Miss Barrymore is vice president of the association.

The actress, who was a member of the Equity committee with Mr. Gillmore when it met the producers in four secret conferences, charged that the president had induced members of the association at a meeting Saturday night to endorse by acclamation a settlement plan that had already been rejected by the heads of the film industry.

"Mr. Gillmore induced the members to accept a solution," Miss Barrymore said, "which was not a solution, as it already had been refused by the producing managers."

She also charged that she had "begged Mr. Gilmore" to call a meeting of the association when she would be present, "either on a Sunday or a midnight meeting, which he refused to do."

Equity voted to agree to a plan whereby film producers could employ twenty non-Equity members for every thirty union actors hired.

Approximately 3,000 members of Equity endorsed Mr. Gilmore's plan after he had revealed to them what had taken place in the meetings with the producers' committee. It was indicated that the producers would be officially informed today of Equity's action. Another Equity meeting for members only is planned for next Saturday night.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 12 (AP).—A stipulation by defense attorneys, the declarations of which were not made known, today brought a second postponement of the $1,000,000 damage suits filed by the Actors' Equity Association against Tully Marshal, veteran stage and screen player, and Warner Brothers, Inc., motion picture producers, the court granting a two weeks' continuance.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 12.—Your correspondent is reliably informed that Joseph Addison, at present Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary at Riga, Latvia, will succeed Sir Esmond Ovey as British Minister to Mexico.

Sir Esmond, who was recently knighted, will go in a few days, via New York, to London to complete arrangements with the Foreign Office to take over his new post as British Ambassador to Brazil.

LANCASHIRE STOPPAGE ENTERS THIRD WEEK

Operatives and Employers in Cotton Industry to Consider Arbitration Today.

MANCHESTER, England, Aug. 12 (AP).—With practically all of the operatives' organizations steadfastly opposed to direct negotiations as a solution to the Lancashire cotton industry stoppage, and only a few of the employers inclined to arbitration, the stoppage entered its third week today and with little sign of an end.

Sir Horace Wilson, Permanent Secretary of the Ministry of Labor, was busy all day and on Sunday meeting individual leaders on both sides. Meetings of the central committee of the Cotton Spinners and Manufacturers' Association and of the general committee of Master Cotton Spinners' Associations will be held tomorrow.

The two bodies will consider whether to accept arbitration, but it was difficult to forecast which way the decision would go. Hitherto only about 1 per cent of the employers were understood to favor arbitration.

The dispute arose over the demand of the employers for a reduction in wages of 12½ per cent. This the operatives refused to consider.

SCORES MISSOURI PRISON.

Penal Information Society Finds State Penitentiary Unfit.

The charge that the Missouri State Penitentiary at Jefferson City is "doing more to contribute to crime in the State than it is to prevent it" was made in a report of the National Society of Penal Information issued yesterday.

This statement was contained in advance proofs of The Handbook of American Prisons, a publication soon to be issued by the society, containing the results of a survey of penal institutions in the United States.

Apart from one new cell house, a garden and the farm program, it was said concerning this prison, one of the three largest in the country, that "it is difficult to find any features which can be commended in themselves, or compared favorably with like features in other institutions."

The detailed analysis of conditions alleged that division of authority is carried to an extreme in the management of the prison and that the other cell houses range from "fair" to "hardly fit for human habitation." The new one is so overcrowded, the report said, that its advantages are hardly lost. Sanitation, medical facilities and working conditions came in for criticism.

The report also charged that the women's quarters of the prison, a remodeled farmhouse a mile from the main structure, furnished the first instance noted by the society of women wearing the ball and chain.

DIES OF STRANGE MALADY.

Kansan Vainly Undergoes Long Immersion for Skin Disease.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 12 (AP).—A strange malady that calls for a peculiar treatment caused the death today of J. M. Capper, a grocer living near Paola, Kan. The victim died in a Kansas City hospital after a gallant fight to check the ravages of pemphigus, a malignant skin disease with which he was striken last April.

Death came after a final ordeal, incident to treatment, that lasted three days and two nights. The unusual disease necessitated treatment by the German method of immersion, little known in this country. Lying in a specially fitted mattress in a steel tank filled with an oatmeal and water solution, Mr. Capper remained with only his head above the surface in a vain attempt to check the ravages of the disease, from which the victims seldom recover.

The disease is an eruptive infection, physicians explained, that spreads much like blood poisoning, and affects the body similar to burns.

JULIUS ROSENWALD IS 67.

Declares at Citizens' Camp That He Feels Much Younger.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—A cold shower, a trip to the Citizens' Military Training Camp at Fort Sheridan with his grandchildren and a "birthday party" at home in the evening today occupied the 67th birthday anniversary of Julius Rosenwald, capitalist and philanthropist. The evening festivities in his Highland Park home were attended only by members of his immediate family, three daughters and sons-in-law, two sons and one daughter-in-law.

"This saying that a man's as young as he feels is true," Mr. Rosenwald declared as he watched the manoeuvres at the camp. "That makes me 21 exactly."

There was a hint of sadness in the family group at the birthday festivities. For the first time in the lives of his sons and daughters Mrs. Rosenwald was missing. She died last May.

ADMITS FAKING ROBBERY.

Boy Messenger Arrested After Reporting He Was Held Up.

Philip Speidel, 17 years old, of 225 East 128th Street, messenger for the Mack International Motor Truck Corporation at 252 West Fifty-fourth Street was sent to the bank yesterday with $441 in cash and $6,000 in checks. Forty-five minutes after he left the office he reported to Patrolman Terrell at Sixty-second Street and West End Avenue that three men had stolen the cash and checks from him at Sixty-fourth Street and West End Avenue.

After detectives had questioned him for two hours in the West Sixty-eighth Street Station the boy confessed, the police said, that he had thrown the checks away and had left the cash with Edward Milby, 18, of 513 West 178th Street. The money was recovered, Speidel was charged with grand larceny and Milby was held as an accomplice. They are to be arraigned today.

SHOWS NEW TYPE FROCK.

Louise Boulanger, in Paris, Presents Studio Creation.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 12.—Fashion shows have closed with Louise Boulanger showing a new type of frock called a studio frock, which is made with long, full pajamas often under transparent skirt and with blouse waist having long sleeves and lingerie-collared neckline.

Among daytime ensembles of this house are feathered velveteen coats with long tweed scarfs and tweed dresses. The daytime clothes included are comfortably short. Evening dresses are very long and are made of printed chiffon lamé or embroidered and quilted brocades.

WILLIAM GILLETTE TO RETURN TO STAGE

Will Make a Farewell Tour in a Revival of His Notable Success, "Sherlock Holmes."

VETERAN IS 74 YEARS OLD

He Is Not Equity Member, but Council Suspends Its Rules—Erlanger and Tyler Managers.

William Gillette will return to the stage in the Fall to make a farewell tour in one of his most notable successes, "Sherlock Holmes," it was announced yesterday by A. L. Erlanger and George C. Tyler, who will manage his engagements. The tour will begin at Ford's Theatre, Baltimore, on Nov. 18, and will be exploited in much the same fashion that Mr. Tyler's all-star revivals of "Trelawny of 'The Wells'" and "Diplomacy" were handled.

Mr. Gillette, who was 74 years old on July 24, has not appeared in New York since 1921, when he starred in "The Dream Maker," a play of his authorship. Mr. Tyler has been negotiating with him for nearly a year to return to the stage in a revival of one of his best-known vehicles.

When the actor had finally expressed himself as willing to accept Mr. Tyler's proposition, the matter of his eligibility to act came up. Mr. Gillette is not a member of the Actors' Equity Association or of the Actors' Fidelity League. Mr. Tyler put the case before Paul Dullzell, executive secretary of Equity, who took it up with the organization's council.

Mr. Tyler received word recently that the council had unanimously voted that "in view of Mr. Gillette's long and distinguished service to the American theatre" any and all rules of Equity which might interfere with his appearance on the stage would be suspended.

Mr. Gillette first appeared in "Sherlock Holmes," a dramatization of the Sir A. Conan Doyle stories, at the Garden Theatre here in November, 1899. The play was a great success both in America and England, and he acted in it at frequent intervals. It was last revived here two seasons ago by the Chamberlain Brown Players during their season at the Cosmopolitan Theatre.

BLACKMER-ULRIC MARRIAGE.

Town Clerk Mead Verifies Actor's Disclosure of Ceremony.

Special to The New York Times.

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Town Clerk S. Allen Mead today verified the marriage of Miss Lenore Ulric of Harmon to Sidney Alderman Blackmer of New York. The actor and actress were married by Justice of the Peace Ellsworth Johnson on May 23 at Croton-on-Hudson, he said.

The license was issued by Mr. Mead. Gilda Gray, the dancer, was a witness, he added.

Mr. Blackmer, in Hollywood, announced recently that his marriage to Miss Ulric had taken place substantially as now verified from Peekskill. Miss Ulric refused to comment on his statement.

JUDEAN DRAMA GUILD.

New Group to Give "Devil's Sabbath" and Other Yiddish Plays.

The formation of the Judean Drama Guild, under the sponsorship of Hyman Adler, was announced yesterday by Mr. Adler, producer of "Skidding" and several other Broadway attractions. The new organization plans to open its season in mid-October with a production of "The Devil's Sabbath," by S. Ansky, author of "The Dybbuk." It will follow this piece with other Yiddish plays during the season. Charlotte E. Wells dramatized "The Devil's Sabbath" for the English stage.

The New York opening of "Even Steven," recently tried out by Mr. Adler in Long Branch and Asbury Park, will be deferred until late September because of difficulty in recasting the two leading rôles.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"Now-A-Days" was withdrawn from the Forrest Theatre on Saturday night.

The Civic Repertory Theatre began its season's activities last night with a first reading of "The Sea Gull."

A. H. Woods's production of "Scotland Yard" went into rehearsal yesterday under the direction of Priestly Morrison. In the cast are Paul Cavanagh, an English actor new to Broadway; Phoebe Foster, A. P. Kaye and Frederick Worlock.

A skit by John McGowan, author of "Express Passage" and other plays, will be in "Murray Anderson's Almanac," opening tomorrow night at Erlanger's Theatre.

Joan Blondell has succeeded Esther Muir in the cast of "My Girl Friday," at the Republic Theatre.

"Divided Honors" is now the name of the play previously called "Burnin' Up," which Robert Sterling will produce. It is in rehearsal under the direction of William B. Friedlander.

Frank Gaby has left the cast of "Broadway Nights," the revue at the Forty-fourth Street Theatre. Ray King has taken over his role.

"Echo," a play by Lelia Taylor, an American playwright, has, according to announcement, been secured for English production by Sir Barry Jackson. It will be staged by the Birmingham Repertory Company next month.

There will hereafter be Monday evening performances of "Salome" at the Cherry Lane Playhouse. The New Negro Art Theatre is making the production.

Margaret Carlisle entered the cast of "The New Moon" at the Imperial Theatre last night to sing the prima donna role until Evelyn Herbert returns on Sept. 2. Miss Carlisle succeeds Charlotte Lansing, who is to appear in the Chicago company of the operetta.

MUSIC NOTES.

A request program will be played by Frances Goldman and his band tonight at the New York University, as follows: March, Pomp and Circumstance, by Elgar; overture, Rienzi, by Wagner; Mendelssohn's "Spring Song"; Dance of the Tumblers, from "The Snow Maiden," by Rimsky-Korsakoff; The Unfinished Symphony (first movement) of Schubert; Carnival of Venice, with Del Staigers on cornet soloist; Entr'acte from "Miss Modista" by Victor Herbert; march, "The Third Alarm," by Goldman; Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2 by Liszt.

At the stadium concert tonight the Philharmonic Orchestra, directed by Albert Coates, will play "A London Symphony" by Vaughan Williams; the "Siegfried Idyll," "Siegfried's Journey to the Rhine," Funeral March from "Gotterdaemmerung" and the Overture to "Die Meistersingen" all by Wagner.

THE SCREEN

By MORDAUNT HALL.

The Great Train Wrecker.

THE WRECKER, with Carlyle Blackwell, Benita Hume, Winter Hall, Joseph Striker, Leonard Thompson, Gordon Harker and Pauline Johnson, based on the play of the same name by Arnold Ridley and Bernard Merivale, directed by G. M. Bolvary; "Her Husband's Women," a talking comedy, with Lois Wilson and Harrison Ford; "House Cleaning Time," a cartoon comedy with sound. At the Cameo Theatre.

The hero of the past is the villain of today. At least this is so in a British picture called "The Wrecker," wherein that veteran screen player, Carlyle Blackwell, officiates as an expert train wrecker, known as Ambrose Barney. The fact that thirty-five persons have lost their lives causes him to chuckle over his bacon and eggs. He has a motive for his dirty work. He is a railroad official, a fact that does not exactly help Scotland Yard in the search for the wrecker. He is also the guiding light of a motor-bus concern and the train disasters impel the British public to patronize the buses rather than risk their lives on the railway.

"The Wrecker," a childish melodrama, in its direction and acting, is based on the play of the same name by Arnold Ridley and Bernard Merivale. It came to the stage here last year. The play must have been better than its cinema offspring, for it ran for forty performances. The picture has been inoculated with sound effects and the inevitable theme song, which is titled, "Are You Really Mine?"

Imagine the dramatic effect of this romantic warbling, when the express train, known throughout Britain as the "Shooting Star," is thought to be plunging on its way to a collision with a fast freighter and aboard it are the hero and heroine and the woman who has squealed on Barney! Twelve minutes before, one is informed, and everybody will be crushed to death! Minutes pass and the stupid hero believes in risking lives rather than pull the emergency signal. But soon Barney is disarmed and the hero clambers over the tender and warns the locomotive driver. Comes then the theme song, just as the freight and passenger locomotives stop within a few feet of each other. One hears feminine voices floating from the screen:

"Are you really mine?
Is it really true?
I belong to you——"

The good-looking but unimaginative hero and the charming girl are then seen embracing each other.

The registering of love, greed, annoyance, impatience and fury is done according to the old-fashioned school of acting. In fact the actions and the expressions of the players in "The Wrecker" are reminiscent of America's first film feature, "The Great Train Robbery."

Mr. Blackwell can blame it on the director. So can the other performers and the director can blame the results on his cast. Mr. Blackwell might, however, have avoided having his hair neatly combed a fraction of a second after it had been thoroughly roughed up by the feminine squealer. Roger Doyle, the handsome young fellow who gives up cricket to find the individual who is known as "The Wrecker," portrays irritation and impatience by tapping on the arm of a chair. His work in other respects is much given to stopping, looking, listening during moments that call for speed and action.

On the same bill is a Christie-Paramount talking film comedy, called "Her Husband's Women." It sounds very much as though the players were speaking through barrels of megaphones and sometimes the words might be a mixture of Greek and English for all the information they conveyed yesterday afternoon.

"6½x11" A TRAGIC FILM.

French Photoplay Tells of a Young Man's Love for a Dancer.

"6½x11," with Nino Constantini, Suzy Pierson, Edmond Van Daele, Rene Ferte, a Kodak and the Sun, directed by Jean Epstein, an A. C. U. C. production; "Rachmaninoff's Prelude in C Sharp Minor," "At the South Pole." At the Film Guild Cinema.

"6½x11" is presumably the size of the plot, for, according to a member of the audience, this photoplay, which was made in France, has the dimensions of a melodrama of the late '80s. The film starts promisingly with several interesting interiors and runs along its symbolic path for a number of attractive sequences. However, lack of support on the part of the actors, author and audience left the danseuse's treachery dangling in mid-air.

The tragedy of the piece centres about the love of a young man for a dancer, of her desertion and his suicide. She then unwittingly falls in love with the brother of her ex-lover, a physician, and it is not until the latter discovers a photograph of the dancer among her dead brother's effects that the fickle woman exposes herself to the elements and to certain, tragic death.

The picture contains some skillfully lighted interiors, especially the one in which the dark form of a butler looms against a white curtain in the background. But the make-up of the characters made them appear like so many clothing-store dummies. The action turns from pure romanticism composed of saccharine, moonlit scenes to modernistic bits, with the hero dashing off in all directions and sliding along carpets instead of walking in what appeared an interpretation of twentieth-century locomotion.

Another feature on the program was "At the South Pole," which proved to be frigid and boring with its endless flow of subtitles.

DANCER WHO ACCUSES PANTAGES IS GUARDED

Los Angeles Doctor Says Three Threats Have Been Made to Take Daughter "for a Ride."

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 12 (AP).—Armed guards today were assigned to protect Eunice Pringle, 17-year-old dancer, following threats of violence growing out of the arrest of Alexander Pantages, wealthy theatre operator, on charges of attacking the girl in his office last Friday.

Guards also were ordered to watch three material witnesses in the case after Dr. Lewis A. Pringle, the girl's father, reported to Baron Whita, District Attorney, that three separate threats were made Saturday night that his daughter "would be taken for a ride" if he did not take her out of town.

Dr. Pringle said anonymous voices over the telephone told him she had "talked too much."

The three witnesses, who have offices in the Pantages Theatre Building where Miss Pringle charges she was attacked, told the police of the disarranged condition of Pantages's and the girl's clothing as they saw her run out of the theatre magnate's office screaming.

Miss Pringle said she had gone there in an effort to get her act placed on the Pantages vaudeville circuit. The 54-year-old theatre magnate denied her charges. His preliminary hearing is set for Wednesday.

8,000 HEAR 'CARMEN' SUNG AT STADIUM

The American Opera Company, Eugene Normandy Conductor, Welcomed in Excerpts.

"PAGLIACCI" IS ALSO GIVEN

Heat Forces Natalie Hall, Heroine of "Carmen," to Sing Her Last Duet From a Chair.

In spite of the heat of an August night, which forced Natalie Hall, soprano, to sing her last duet from a chair and to lean heavily on her supporting baritone in the final moments of her performance, a large and interested audience of 8,000 was in evidence last night at the Lewisohn Stadium and listened to operatic excerpts performed by members of the American Opera Company, in place of the symphonic fare customarily furnished on these occasions.

The program consisted of passages from "Carmen" and "Pagliacci." The performance was given by members of the American Opera Company, conducted by Eugene Normandy. In the performance of "Carmen" the title rôle was taken by Natalie Hall. Charles Kullmann was the José, Nancy McCord the Micaela, Tom Williams the Escamillo. Minor parts were taken by Margaret Everett, Dorothy Raynor, Helen Golden, Harlett Eells, Frederick Roberts and Mark Daniels. The singers in "Pagliacci" were Charles Hedley, Canio; Miss Hall, Nedda; Mark Daniels, Tonio; John Uppman, Silvio.

These performances were warmly applauded. Miss Hall, notwithstanding indisposition, sang with the intelligence and sense of proportion which have distinguished her previous performances in opera in New York. Mr. Kullman's competent José and Mr. Williams Escamillo balanced this effectively. Miss Nancy McCord sang with musicianship and a fresh and lovely tone quality. The parts of "Carmen" performed were the Overture; the "Habanera," duet and "Seguidilla" from the first act; the Toreador's song from Act II, with the Quintet and José's "Flower Song"; the "Card Scene" and Micala's aria from Act III, and the final scene of the opera between Carmen and José.

From "Pagliacci" there was sung Tonio's "Prologue"; Nedda's "Bird Song"; the duet of Nedda and Silvio, and Canio's Lament, "Ridi, Pagliaccio." Thus, the audience was enabled to get much of the musical essence of both these operas, performed by artists with youth, intelligence and enthusiasm to commend them. In Pagliacci Mr. Hedley made the most of his opportunities and Mrs. Daniels's Prologue brought the applause which is the due of this passage, dramatically delivered. Mr. Uppman took his minor part competently.

There was a rumor that Miss Hall had fainted in the intermission between the two operas, but she later denied this, saying only that the heat had caused her fatigue and distress.

CONCERT AT COLUMBIA.

Orchestra of 150 High School Pupils Gives Beethoven and Bloch.

A large and enthusiastic audience gathered last night in the gymnasium of Columbia University at the concert given under the auspices of the Department of Music Education, at which an orchestra consisting of 150 pupils from the high schools of Greater New York was led by Willem van Hoogstraten in the performance of Beethoven's "Egmont" overture and Ernest Bloch's "America," and the mixed choral class, under the leadership of Herbert Wiseman, sang "a capella" madrigals by Cavendish, Benet and Weelkes, also a "Gloria in Excelsis" by Weelkes and Parry's "Blest Pair of Sirens," with orchestral accompaniment.

The audience aided the members of the Teachers College Music Education Classes in the singing of the anthem at the end of Bloch's symphonic rhapsody.

The orchestra was not altogether equal to the difficulties of Bloch's score, which monopolized the second half of the concert, but the Beethoven overture showed signs of careful rehearsing.

The chorus was warmly applauded.

THE PLAY

It was an evening of the simpler virtues at the Waldorf Theatre where Fiske O'Hara, the singing Irish actor, presided as master of ceremonies and family good nature. After the second act Mr. O'Hara stood squinting and smiling across the footlights, introducing to a beaming audience the more distinguished of his friends out front—Mrs. Al Smith, Murray Hulbert, Ann Sutherland, Percy Hammond, William Desmond, Andrew Mack. Inasmuch as the play was songless, Mr. O'Hara then took occasion to stand by the piano and sing in a pleasing voice and a colloquial style. An audience kindly disposed toward any kind of O'Hara entertainment on a wilting evening appeared to be enjoying itself, and quite able to dispense with the impertinence of dramatic criticism.

Even William A. Grew, author of "Jerry for Short," which was performed incidentally, was in one of his chaste moods. Down in the more scarlet precincts of Times Square he was acting in person the perfidious infamies of "My Girl Friday," an audacious lithograph of customs relating to the conduct of brokers and chorus girls. But in Fiftieth Street he was vicariously telling the story, which custom staleth, of the nouveau riche attempting to climb into high society. As it matched the homely good-will of common folks against the false glitter of blue-book elegance, there were fleeting impressions of "Le Bourgois Gentilhomme" and "The Admirable Crichton," both etched in the William Grew manner.

As Uncle John Hartwell, with a warm, glowing personality, it was Mr. O'Hara's congenial lot to make endearing social blunders and to look through the sham of social pretense to the gold of human character. Patricia Quinn, who was featured on the program, was the nimble-witted maid whom dramatic fortune raised to the peerage in the first act and then plunged into the icy abyss of disillusion in the second act.

Mr. Green's yarn introduced Cameron Mathews, who used to declaim the parochialisms of Pastor Morell in Boston, as a measured, baritone flunky. Lorna Carroll was the ardent maiden whose simple love was cut to the quick by the rapiers of high society. Nothing in the play commanded the ultimate artistry of acting. Like the performance, it had both eyes on a long road tour where Mr. O'Hara has his most indulgent following.

'The Third Day' Acted in Greenwich

"The Third Day," a play by John Van Druten, was presented by Chamberlain Brown's company, in association with A. H. Woods, last night in Greenwich, Conn. Among the players were Ernest Glendinning, McKay Morris, Averell Harris, Valerie Valaire, Mildred Mitchell, Glenda Farrell and Marie Carroll, several changes having been made in the company first announced to appear in the piece.

Rollo Peters in "Arms and the Man"

Rollo Peters, who recently returned from a European vacation, opened last night in "Arms and the Man" at the Berkshire Playhouse, Stockbridge, Mass., for a week's engagement. In the supporting cast were Aline McMahon, Hugh Buckler, Donald Meek and Pedro de Cordoba, the latter in the rôle of Sergius, which he played for the Theatre Guild.

AN "INDIVISIBLE WHOLE."

The Young Plan was not devised by diplomatists, yet it has rightly been called "a masterpiece of diplomacy." This is not simply because it most skillfully reconciles conflicting views; the ability with which it was drawn appears not only in its positive contents, but in the things which it left to be implied. It laid down premises from which it was content to let others draw the necessary conclusions. And in nothing was it more diplomatic and farsighted than in its statement that the respective governments were bound to deal with the report and recommendations as "an indivisible whole." This did not mean, of course, that every word and comma must be left untouched. There is room for slight modifications. But the structure in the entirety of its fundamental features cannot be radically made over without bringing everything down in a heap. The scale of annuities might be a little altered, but their total, and the period during which they are to run, cannot be changed without destroying the great aim of letting Germany know exactly what she has to pay and during how many years.

It need not be denied that there is some justification for the British complaint that France got the best of the bargain. She is to have the lion's share of the fixed, or non-postponable, German annuities. These she might commercialize into a loan taken by private investors, though it is not probable that she will do anything of the kind until the present high rate of interest throughout the world has fallen. But to offset this financial advantage, France undertakes to accumulate a guarantee fund, out of which, in case of a German moratorium of two years, the other creditors shall temporarily be paid. They naturally think of this as a somewhat precarious expedient. They would be left guessing what they might receive out of Germany's "conditional" payments, while France would be absolutely secure. But it was well understood at Paris, though this was never mentioned in the Young Plan, that these concessions to France were to be utilized by the others in order to persuade her to accept their view about immediate evacuation of the Rhineland, and giving up every form of Allied control over Germany.

This is but a hint of the "whole" of the Young Plan. It is, in fact, bound up with a great number of important interests not directly within its purview. We see this demonstrated, startlingly and disturbingly, in the controversies started at The Hague. Ostensibly, the British delegates are contending for a slightly different set of annuities. If they get their way, it is estimated that the change would amount to only a few million additional dollars. Of course, on a matter of principle, if the British Government holds it to be such, it is entitled greatly to find quarrel in a straw of this kind. But see what other consequences are instantly thrown in. There is danger of a break-up of the entente with France. And the unfortunate manner in which the British have laid down their demands, almost their ultimatum, at The Hague, has made a bad impression throughout the world. It has imperiled other British policies. There can be no doubt, for example, that it will make the naval negotiation with the United States far more difficult and dubious. In other matters of international concern it is clear that the British Government has prejudiced itself by the extreme and arrogant tone adopted by its chief representative at The Hague.

Happily, a better temper has begun to prevail there. The British are not so exigent as they were. The French are reported to be making conciliatory advances. The larger and longer view is evidently impressing itself upon the minds of the delegates. They are perceiving that the Young Plan builded better than it knew when it spoke of the indivisible whole. In reality, the whole of Europe, the whole of the world, is involved in the deliberations and decisions at The Hague. So many things entering essentially into the fabric of civilization have to be honestly weighed at The Hague, that to shatter it by violent assertions of "nationalism" would be an act of folly too insensate to be thought possible.

SHIP CANALS TO ORDER.

Children on the beach love to dig canals in the sand. Their imagination readily turns a chip of driftwood into an ocean liner. Engineering and financial details do not worry them. Sometimes grown-ups come under the spell of canal-digging—on paper. Representative REED of Chautauqua and Mr. MILLARD F. BOWEN of Buffalo have long found it a diverting avocation. Every year or two one or the other of them announces, as if it were something brand new, his plan for a ship canal from Buffalo to the sea. It would start with a trifling detour from Lake Erie around the inconveniences of Niagara to Lake Ontario. That would bring the vessels to Oswego, and all that would be needed then would be to construct a ship canal from Oswego to the Hudson at Albany, following the route of existing inland waterways.

The army engineers are more timid. They balked when they discovered that the all-American ship canal would cost $506,000,000, and another $125,000,000 for Mr. REED's little detour around Niagara—duplicating, it may be noted, the enlarged facilities of the Welland. They plumped for the St. Lawrence route, at a third the cost. Mr. BOWEN is magnanimous. He naturally prefers the New York channel, but as a gesture of good-will he will build the international section of the St. Lawrence route also. Army engineers estimated that this undertaking would cost something in excess of $200,000,000. But now the government will not have to bother about any of these details. Messrs. REED and BOWEN will take over the whole enterprise, without any expense to the public, through a company they are going to organize—with the consent of Congress.

Congress will no doubt listen to their plea, accompanied as it is by a most moving exposition of the social and spiritual advantages of the plan, which it would be a pleasure to discuss if space permitted. President HOOVER is fumbling away trying to negotiate a treaty with Canada for the St. Lawrence waterway. "Should such an agreement "not be desired by both governments," say the solemn army engineers, "it will be necessary to construct a channel for ocean vessels "entirely within the limits of the "United States"—no doubt under public auspices. But why wait for these tedious processes? Let REED and BOWEN do the job at once. If it is left to statesmen, they are sure to make a mess of it.

THE RAINS.

We know not what others may think, but to us the chief glory of this Summer has been the rain, early, middle and later. Many of the younger generation, perhaps, hardly know what rain is. Yet here it is, and they can lie awake night after night knowing that the parched earth is quenching her thirst. Now it comes drop by drop, now it rains cats and dogs. It blinds, drizzles, drenches, drowns. It gurgles, murmurs, patters, ripples, sobs. It drips, whips, skips. It babbles, bubbles, burbles, especially in runnels. It cools the fevered brow of the commuter. Each raindrop makes some floweret grow. Beautiful thought! Would that the bootblack could share it, instead of sullenly and swearingly shutting up his booth, unresigned to the bounties of nature.

It never rains but it pours, and, so far as our limited experience reaches, it seldom pours but it rains. "Although it rain, throw not away thy watering-pot," says GEORGE HERBERT. If it rain, don't expect to get a taxicab. A little rain lays a great wind. A good steady rain cleans the streets of New York. Our esteemed ancestors, agricultural in their habits, seem to have stayed at home when it rained, making proverbs too often cynical and coughing at their smoky chimneys. "More rain, more rest": this saw has ceased to work as generously and as generally as of old. If wet days were holidays, what a season would the lazy have had this year! The eye is dazzled by the procession of emerald lawns. The grateful vegetables lift up their mouths and drink and sit on their roots as in a bathtub. We know personally a New Hampshire gardener who, confused by the contiguity of the respective bins, put Portland cement instead of fertilizer on the peas. Never was there such a crop. The heavens wept constructively over that pea plot.

Hear the splashing and the dashing. Watch the dance of the raindrops on the "casement"—"casement" is the word. For the rain it raineth every day. What do we care if it rains like Old Boots? We laid up $15 last month just for a rainy day. If he survive the ferocious Virginia campaign against him, Mr. JOHN J. RASKOB is going to give us his check for $80,000 in 1949. The more rain the merrier, say we. It's got to stop some time. After sharp showers right sweet is the sun. As the devil said to NOAH, "it's bound to clear up."

EARTHQUAKES NEAR HOME.

Not since the great shock at Charleston, S. C., in 1886, has the Eastern population of this country thought of earthquakes as anything but remote misfortunes of South America, Italy, India, Japan, Portugal and our own West Coast. In 1886, moreover, the science of seismography had not been in existence for much more than thirty years, and the earthquake experience of centuries was unknown in any accurate way. Five hundred years ago there was nothing but savages in the Western Hemisphere. Therefore, with recent times alone on the record, the East has considered itself outside the area of subterranean faults.

So it is with a curious sense of surprise that we receive dispatches dated Buffalo, Syracuse, Rochester, Niagara Falls and Springfield, Mass., telling of a "temblor" that began near the shores of Lake Erie and rattled dishes and walls in all those cities. No important damage has been reported, but even the thought of foreign, tropical things like earthquakes disturbing the established routine of Western New York and Massachusetts is queer to the lay reader. Not so with scientists. They are willing to admit that certain areas, with definitely established geologic faults, will have frequent and regular earth shocks, many of great intensity. But they will never agree that any region is immune. The islands and mainland tips on which the city of New York is built are moored on powerful rock, set in the cushioning sand of the ocean. There is a body of seismic experts which concedes that damaging earthquakes are less likely here than almost anywhere. This group approves the attitude of architects and engineers who have built on Manhattan Island the tallest structures in the world, and is willing to admit that the steel frames of these buildings will probably withstand any slip or movement in the rock beneath. But they would not guarantee against falling brick and stone, should the Titan under the ocean's floor stir in his sleep.

Some time ago a committee headed by Dr. HOLLIS GODFREY of Boston tried to interest the public of this city in what might be called "earthquake first aid." They tried to explain why it is better to leave windows open during shocks; why a place high up in a steel building is by no means the least safe; why the framework of a door is less likely to yield than a wall is; why no one should either worry about earthquakes or rush madly into the streets should one occur. But New Yorkers did not pay much attention. They have an abiding trust in the engineers and, gazing at new and topless towers rising on its rocks, are certain that these would not have been raised if seismic science had shown any great angle of earthquake incidence here. No volcanoes are hereabouts, and "tectonic" quakes do not mean much to Mayor WALKER's constituents. If there were 8,331 registered shocks in Japan between 1885 and 1892, they argue, and no serious one in New York City for 30,000 years, why not proceed on the theory that until the earth tips over a little more the rocks hereabouts will rest undisturbed? Science, while many of its students are convinced that the earth does tip every aeon or so—because there is evidence that the tropics were once the situs of one of the Poles—cannot say positively that the lurching is imminent, even in terms of thousands of years. Thus while the Western New York city names in the papers gave us something of a start, we shall probably continue to think of earth shocks as something which only distant peoples experience regularly.

THE HORSESHOE PITCHERS.

Go where one will in the vacation season, the humble and ancient game of horseshoe pitching is being played in the cool of the evening on any stretch of turf, or in the sand of the barnyard, with the munching horses in their stalls looking out at the spectacle. On Saturday a plumber won at Mineola the Nassau County Farm Bureau contest. The game is really as wide as the United States, and in all the forty-eight there are champions. Formerly it was known as quoits, which ASCHAM said was "too vile for scholars"; and even in old times "the working classes" played it with horseshoes for want of the rings used by their betters. In our times the white-collar people also indulge in it. Recently for three days the question whether the horseshoe pitchers on the Eastern Shore were as proficient as those in Anne Arundel County was debated at Annapolis, Md. There could be no decision pending the Maryland State-wide horseshoe-pitching tournament at Baltimore in September.

There is no better proof that the horse is not becoming as extinct as the heath hen than the fact that thousands of Americans find horseshoes to play with on innumerable pitching grounds. The right costume for men is trousers and shirt-sleeves. Women are bare armed. It is a cosmopolitan game, for people of every tongue cast horseshoes at a stake seven days a week. Despise it not as an amusement. It is the solace of the common people.

To be champion horseshoe pitcher of the United States is an ambition that a Wolsey would not fling away. At St. Petersburg, Fla., on Feb. 29 C. C. DAVIS of Columbus, Ohio, "clinched his third national horseshoe-pitching title in as many "years with victories over five contenders." At the same tournament Mrs. MAYME FRANCISCO, also of Columbus, won the women's world title. In our metropolitan district MARTIN NOLAN of Hightstown, N. J., defeated RUSSELL DANSER of Cranberry, N. J., in the annual tournament at the Midland Beach Horseshoe Club, Staten Island, Sept. 1, 1928. To NOLAN was awarded a gold watch and a medal. Eight hundred enthusiasts were present. The occasion was of sufficient consequence for Assistant Borough President CHARLES A. GIBBS to pitch out the first horseshoe. If one bears in mind that this pastime derives from quoits, which was born of the discus-throwing of the Greek pentathlon, it assumes a respectability not usually allowed it.

SUMMER READING.

Normally voracious readers like to make special plans for books to be taken along on a vacation, and apparently those who ordinarily read very little are driven to books while holidaying. At least, one sees the unlikeliest looking persons lugging impressive volumes about on trains and boats. The book critics, who complain in Summer that the supply of new matter for their mills drops off in warm weather, fill an occasional column with advice about what to take along on a vacation. There are many theories and lists. Some cling to the old rule of "hammock literature" for hammock weather. The popularity of the detective story makes it safe to recommend. A good suggestion for a certain type of holiday-maker is to take only one book—a big, meaty one, which can be made to last for at least two weeks. Mr. ARNOLD BENNETT has been advising his readers to take too many books rather than too few. He made no specific suggestions, but did indicate that the list should be light in tone, for "the idea of improving your mind on a holiday is ridiculous." Another English bookman points out the absurdity of not improving your mind on a holiday.

Vacations offer so many differences from the routine of the rest of the year that a safe rule for almost any reader is to carry with him one book which will provide a familiar refuge. Change and variety are provided by strange surroundings and people. Something to represent home is sure to be welcome at times. One reader may like best to have with him a book he has read and loved years ago. Another may prefer a new volume from a trusted author. Both are hazardous ventures, for an old favorite may have lost its charm in ten years and the steadiest writer may spring an unpleasant surprise on his admirers.

Part of the value of a vacation should lie in its unexpected incidents. There are some people so fixed in their habits that every day of a holiday must be planned in advance, every bottle and cap and jacket that may be needed packed and ready, and every book strapped and listed to be read in a certain order. To them lists for Summer reading are useful. For others one standby to fall back on is sufficient. Adventuring among strange book stores and libraries and investigating the bookcases of new acquaintances will yield enough additional reading matter and often a pleasant thrill of discovery besides.

BROADCASTING ORCHESTRAS.

Music lovers will welcome the announcement that the Philadelphia Orchestra, led by Mr. LEOPOLD STOKOWSKI, will broadcast three concerts next Winter. This will enable many to hear this orchestra who have been unable to obtain admission to it. At the same time, it is a further mark that even those among the best musicians who have hesitated to recognize the advantages of the radio are at last changing their view. This means that the last barrier to the broadcasting of good music by great musicians is disappearing. The Philadelphia Orchestra is following the example of the New York, the Detroit, the San Francisco and other orchestras in our cities. Like Mr. DAMROSCH's Saturday evening concerts, Mr. STOKOWSKI's programs will be broadcast over a national circuit under the auspices of the National Broadcasting Company.

When the radio first became popular many musicians feared that it meant the death-knell of the movement for the appreciation of good music in this country. For a time it looked as if their fears might, in part, be justified. But as the novelty wore off and many became more discriminating the demand for good music grew. The broadcasting of the symphony orchestras was a great advance. The children's concerts under the direction of Mr. DAMROSCH were eagerly listened to throughout the nation.

If present indications may be trusted, Americans are turning to good music with greater eagerness than could have been dreamed possible five years ago. That the radio has played a part in this seems incontestable. One of the most interesting signs is the fact that music in the high schools is gaining a position which it never before enjoyed. Interest in school orchestras is greater. Respect for good performers has increased. Instead of being satisfied with "canned" music, the demand to "make" it is growing.

Mr. STOKOWSKI will undoubtedly receive enthusiastic responses to his concerts. He and his directors may plan for more radio concerts another year. He is sure to find, as have other musicians, that radio concerts rouse a desire to attend concerts in person. With the limited number of performances and the comparatively small seating capacity of the concert halls, only a fraction of the nation's music lovers are able to do this. For those who cannot, the programs broadcast are a great boon.

THE GERMAN REPUBLIC.

On the tenth anniversary of the Weimar Constitution the chorus of anti-republican comment proper to the occasion sounded even more forced than usual. Sheer repetition is bound to dull the edge of "defeat" and "shame" and other favorite Nationalist epithets descriptive of Germany's present government. This year there is in session an international conference widely regarded as second only in importance to the Versailles Conference. The expected result is nothing less than the final liquidation of the war, in the sense that Germany is to be free of foreign occupation and foreign supervision. The most ardent Nationalist may stop to reflect that the conventional blistering adjectives are hardly pat. Charges of national shame and betrayal are apt to sound grotesque at this particularly impressive moment in the process of Germany's steady return toward equality and prestige among the nations.

Republican institutions came to Germany by default. For years after the collapse of the monarchy the Weimar régime enjoyed hearty support only among the working masses and a comparatively small section of the middle class. Of the latter the greater part was bitterly hostile. As in every other country severely affected by the war, the middle classes suffered badly while the working class emerged or soon made itself noticeably better off than it was before. By an understandable trait of human behavior the German middle classes associated their unhappy condition not with the Honhenzollern régime, which led them into a disastrous adventure, but with the republic, which succeeded to the odium and the ruinous material consequences of the adventure. It was the Kaiser's generals that were defeated, but it was the republic that became a symbol of defeat. The student class, recruited in overwhelming numbers from that section of the middle class which suffered most heavily, reflected the anti-republican sentiment in aggravated form.

Opposition to the republic has by no means died out among the German middle classes, but it has unquestionably shrunk in extent and grown milder. This has followed upon economic recovery, upon the rehabilitation of Germany's position on the Continent, on the resourcefulness and patriotic devotion exhibited by the successive republican Cabinets, and not a little upon the sorry exhibition of Hohenzollern mentality and behavior on such occasions as have offered themselves. During its early years the German Republic was tolerated by perhaps a majority of the German people. Today it unquestionably enjoys the support of a decisive majority.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

The Hazards of Landsmen.

Whatever the degree of truth in the remark of the aviator that a sandwich tossed overboard from a plane flying at a high altitude along the Connecticut shore might, if the wind were suitable, crash through the roof of a resident on Long Island, it seems to be undeniable that cigarettes and cigars thrown overboard from airplanes can cause forest fires.

When this statement was first made many were as incredulous as they are about the potential damage that a sandwich may cause when dropped from a great height. The ever alert Department of Agriculture therefore decided that a test was in order. Accordingly, so it is officially reported, an aviator was sent aloft and encouraged to smoke cigarettes (presumably not blindfolded) and then to toss the burning butts over the side of his ship.

Below an altitude of 1,000 feet a distinct fire hazard was found to exist. The experimenters (temperature 75 degrees, humidity 34, wind velocity ?) picked up four cigarettes out of six and five cigars still burning. Presumably above 1,000 feet the danger of setting fire to woods or fields below is small.

The obvious moral is drawn by the department—don't throw your lighted cigars and cigarettes overboard when flying. And, while you are about it, don't make any experiments dropping sandwiches, hard-boiled eggs or other delicacies over the side.

The Record of Ruth.

BABE RUTH's five hundredth home run stands alone for several reasons. It put his score at a height never even approached before by a major league baseball player. His nearest rival has scored less than half of 500 in his major league career. His big hit on Sunday not only went over the fence in Cleveland but bounded against a doorway and into the hands of a man from New Philadelphia, Ohio, who wasn't thinking of the ball game but was on his way to catch a bus. RUTH gave him two baseballs and $20 in return for the sacred sphere which had registered the five hundredth home run.

All these circumstances made the five hundredth home run notable. But the Yankees made four errors and lost a game in which they twice were leading. Yet from the spectator's point of view the home run was the event of the day, and 500 is a high mark for other batsmen to shoot at. One of them may equal it, for RUTH has been batting for fourteen years and there are youngsters like FOXX and OTT whose records to date far surpass the Ruth beginnings. The new men have the advantage of the "lively ball" which RUTH has had only recently. It is not inconceivable that the mark of 500 will some day be passed.

Sacrifices for the Parks.

Protests of the bungalow owners at High Hill Beach on Jones Beach against the extension of the park system down Jones Beach reinforce the fears of those who live on Fire Island lest the park be extended across the Fire Island Inlet. Residents there have sought the inaccessible beaches as a sanctuary, far from the noise of the city crowds and even out of the way of automobiles and airplanes. The High Hill community is officially doomed. By an arrangement with the town of Oyster Bay the leases are to run only until 1940. Thereafter the Jones Beach Park will obtain title to the properties, which will become part of the park system.

Fire Island is still comparatively safe. Although it is hoped to bridge the inlet, and so connect it with the Jones Beach system, the engineering difficulties are great. For the present, therefore, it is unlikely that this quiet spot will be invaded.

In time, persons who live there will probably be forced to make a sacrifice "for the greater good of the greater number." This has happened elsewhere in the creation of State and national parks. To permit private landowners to retain title within the park areas has been shown to be a bad policy. It would be unfair to the great mass of the people to abandon the plans to extend the park system on account of the few who naturally wish to enjoy as long as possible their present charming retreats. They will probably not be disturbed for a number of years.

New Quarters for Paris Artists.

The poverty-stricken artists of Paris are to be provided with new quarters in a new part of the city. Having been driven out of their lodgings and neighborhood cafés in Montmartre and Montparnasse by atmosphere-seeking tourists, their state is desperate. The municipality of Paris has taken pity on them and is planning to move them en masse from the desecrated Latin Quarter to a new art colony at Boulogne-sur-Seine, far from the manufactured merriment of tourist night life.

The new quarters will provide no attics or dilapidated old houses. The city plans to offer instead a spacious apartment with a studio, two bedrooms, a kitchenette and a tiled bath. Good ventilation, lighting and plumbing are all to be included in the modest rental of 5,000 francs, or about $200, a year. The plan lacks only the sanction of the Ministry of Labor before work begins on this paradise for poor artists.

Will genius burn in such a comfortable atmosphere? Art has long been acclimated to privation and poverty, and the sudden change may alter the budding artists into blossoming bankers and merchants. Instead of founding a new Latin Quarter, the city may find that it has invited a second Park Avenue.

There is always the danger, too, that the tourist throng, attracted by the American comfort and French rents, may pursue the vanishing artists to their new refuge.

Appreciation.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I want to thank you for publishing J. B. Keller's admirable letter about prohibition in the issue of last Sunday. To my mind it is the clearest reasoning that I have read on the subject.

I also want to thank you for the leading editorial that same day concerning France. It made it clear that France is indeed our "sister republic," and that she, we and the other "sister," England, stand for the real democracy, and create a mighty bulwark toward making the world "safe for democracy."

DOG-DAYS.

Sun-goldened arms, outthrust;
Bronze necks unscarred:
Sharp etched against the dust,
Shadows are dwarfed.

Each swinker to his hoe:
Few words are spilt.
Under the noontide glow
The seedlings wilt.

Baked clover rises rank,
And insects hum:
Herds chew by river bank,
Unwinking, dumb.

But in the clover field
Are young, bare feet:
Long willow wands are peeled,
And rushes pleat.

With silvery laugh and shout
The truants fool.
Hark how the eager trout
Plump in the pool!

BRITAIN'S POSITION.

Mr. Snowden's Objections to Young Plan Held to Be Justified.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

THE TIMES editorial "Snowden Contra Mundum" entirely overlooks the only important British objection to the Young plan—the financial question. That Britain, already sacrificed to the gods of European peace in this respect more than any other nation, should be asked to make further sacrifices, and expected to submit mildly, seems incredible. England has been very merciful to its debtors in the matter of payment, and has not received much mercy in return. Most Americans seem unaware that England is paying the United States not what was borrowed, but more than twice as much.

To quote your editorial: "How could the Labor Government justify itself to its own conscience if it deliberately wrecked the Young plan? • • • The entire question of peace and reconciliation of Europe is wrapped up in acceptance of the Young plan as an indivisible whole." One might retort by asking how the United States justified the Kellogg pact and the cruiser bill simultaneously.

M. Briand has talked a great deal about the peace of Europe. I fail to see how the failure of England to accept the Young plan in its present form can seriously affect such peace as exists. Mr. Snowden's objections were purely financial, and no one so far has taken the liberty of disputing his figures. His speech was perhaps a little fiery, but the sentiments he expressed were quite understandable. His home papers back him. The British Government may accept some compromise, but I cannot see why any reasonable person should expect ratification of the Young plan by Great Britain as it stands. In this case enough of a good thing is a great deal too much.

Benefits of Boy Scout Training.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Several years ago I permitted my 14-year-old boy to spend the entire Summer at one of the Boy Scouts' camps, where he not only learned to swim, but also to apply first aid methods in case of drowning.

A couple of weeks ago my boy was one of two youngsters who rescued a drowning boy from the North River, and despite the fact that a large group of spectators watched the proceedings no one was able to administer first aid to the unconscious boy except my son. I am not only proud of the fact that the boy's life was saved, but that my belief in the benefits of attendance at the Boy Scouts' camps was more than justified.

I am writing this letter solely for the purpose of acquainting parents with one of the real benefits to be derived from attendance at the camps, and as a tribute to those men and women who so generously contribute to the establishment and maintenance of such camps.

A GRATEFUL PARENT.

Against Giving "Lifts."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The constantly growing nuisance of roadside grafters who signal for a free ride causes one to wonder whether drivers who pick up these people realize the seriousness of their error in so doing.

In the first place, they are encouraging graft in its incipiency by catering to this something-for-nothing spirit. In the second place, they seem often to be under the impression that they are doing a charitable act. Twenty years ago this might have been true. Today, in all but exceptional cases of accident or extremity, it is the very opposite.

In the third and most serious case, do they realize that in taking strangers into their cars they are exposing themselves to the likelihood of being sued for damages in case of accident?

If drivers cannot be prevented from taking up people, it might be well for them to provide themselves with a printed form stating that they will not be responsible for damages to the person who gets into the car, and make that person sign it.

Safety First Consideration.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

THE TIMES article, "Questions Fitness of Subway Bidder," is most opportune. Naturally, this investigation means more delay, but the commission is correct in its determination to see that safety is a first consideration.

If the commission is not invested with full power to select a contractor qualified by skill, equipment and experience, its power should be extended that no false economy on unwarranted experiment endanger the lives of the millions who will use the subway. Here is an opportunity for the Board of Transportation to prevent disaster. The signal system is the guardian of all subway mechanical and electrical operations and the contract should be placed in competent hands only.

Value Not Received.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

If THE TIMES editorial on unmarked roads errs at all, it is on the side of under-emphasis. In touring Long Island, particularly the eastern end, I have been utterly stumped repeatedly. Forked roads are unmarked, and I've had to wait for a stray wayfarer to direct me.

In New York itself conditions are bad enough. No route numbers are seen anywhere. Even Route 1 does not appear until about New Rochelle, and the motorist must depend on vague directions from harassed traffic officers.

In Massachusetts all routes are numbered even in the cities, and the mileage between points is indicated. There is no way for even the stupidest motorist to stray.

The plea of expense seems silly. The motorist pays taxes enough, what with license fees, registration fees, gasoline tax and property tax, to get some service on the roads.

SEES CREDIT ABUSES IN BROKERS' LOANS

Nye Considers Pressing for Senate Investigation of the Whole Banking Situation.

SAYS CITY DRAINS THE WEST

Funds Withdrawn for Speculation, He Contends, Cut Off Loans to Rest of Nation.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Declaring that the time has come to correct the abuses which, he says, have grown up under the existing banking laws, Senator Nye of North Dakota declared today that he is seriously thinking of offering a resolution when the Senate meets for a searching investigation of the whole banking situation.

The problem, he added, is one of the most important which could be brought before the Ser for action.

The Senator charged that the financial resources of the nation are being drained for the benefit of speculators. He referred to the efforts of the Federal Reserve Board to curb speculation, and said that, in his opinion, it has been demonstrated that it is impossible to withdraw enormous sums from the interior of the country for the use of the speculators without at the same time affecting the general credit of the people as a whole.

"At the present time," he added, "in spite of the attempt of the Federal Reserve Board to cut down the volume of what are known as brokers' loans in the New York district, the total of these loans recently soared close to $6,000,000,000. In other words, there are loans of this amount on speculative paper, and that vast sum is being used to promote the operations of the stock market.

Cites Reserve Board's Moves.

"Nor does even this huge amount measure the entire total of speculative operations," Senator Nye continued. "It has been estimated that in addition to the brokers' loans in the New York district at least a billion dollars is so tied up in other parts of the country. The Federal Reserve Board, beginning as far back as last Winter, and even before that, tried to induce the member banks in the Federal Reserve System to stop sending money to the East to be used to promote speculation.

"The Reserve Board, or a majority of its members, became convinced that the orgy of trading on margins and gambling in stocks and securities had reached a point of danger and that it was hurtful to legitimate business, to agriculture and to general industry. The board, by getting rediscount rates raised and by persuasion, endeavored to have the funds in the Federal Reserve System kept in the communities where the banks are established and not sent into New York to feed the flames of speculation.

"For some weeks it looked as if the Reserve Board's policy would succeed and there would be a gradual reduction of the amount of the money and credit used to bolster up stock market gambling. But the tide has shifted again, and with speculative operations going on at a furious speed the total of brokers' loans has swollen up to about as high a level as it has ever reached.

Says Other Regions Feel Effect.

"It has been demonstrated that it is impossible to withdraw from the interior of the country the enormous sums now used for speculative purposes in the New York district without affecting the general credit of the American people.

"What has been happening for months is that interest rates in ordinary banks have been going up. Industry and agriculture and general lines of legitimate business have been paying out more in interest, and the result is they are handicapped to meet competition.

"The small concern or ordinary individual has felt this increase in interest rates especially. Many complaints are coming from different sections of the country that banks of the Reserve system are refusing loans to ordinary patrons and saying openly they are doing so because they can get a higher rate of interest by loaning their money in the Wall Street district."

The existing situation, Senator Nye asserted, is contrary to the purpose of the men who sponsored and put the Federal Reserve act through Congress.

"That the Federal Reserve law has signally failed to meet expectations in respect of speculation is too plain to need argument," he continued. "A tremendous proportion of the country's money and credit is being sucked up from the interior, and, as one high authority expressed it, 'phoned' into Wall Street. Not long ago press reports declared that half a billion dollars of Iowa money had been sent East and thrown into the channels of speculation."

Senator Nye said he doubted if the recently enacted agricultural relief law will ever be effective unless the banking situation is cleared up. Senator Norbeck of South Dakota is chairman of the Committee on Banking and Currency, to which the Nye resolution, if offered, will be referred for action.

FAVORS NICARAGUAN CANAL.

Costa Rican Minister Here Sees It as Benefit to His Country.

The possibility that the United States will construct a canal through Nicaragua is the all-absorbing topic of economic interest to Costa Rica, Robert Smyth, Minister of Foreign Affairs of that republic, said yesterday at the Hotel Pennsylvania. Mr. Smyth came to this country so that his wife, who is with him, may undergo an operation at the Mayo brothers' clinic in Rochester, Minn.

In explaining Costa Rica's viewpoint, Mr. Smyth explained that a canal through Nicaragua would roughly follow, on its eastern half, the course of the San Juan River, which flows from the high lakes in the central part of the country. Other waters from these lakes flow through the San Carlos River in Costa Rican territory.

Construction of the canal would, according to Mr. Smyth, cut off much of the water from the San Carlos, and Costa Rica would be in a position to request an indemnity. There is in existence, he said, a treaty between Nicaragua and Costa Rica, under which no canal can be put through the territory of the former unless the latter is consulted.

"The Costa Rican Government is whole-heartedly in favor of the canal," Mr. Smyth said. He pointed out that a thriving "canal zone" through Nicaragua would provide a good market for many agricultural products which, for lack of a market, are not raised in Costa Rica today.

"Costa Rica would become an island and a crossroads between the two great canals of America," he said.

SIR E. KEMP DIES; CANADIAN SENATOR

He Was Minister of Militia in Sir Robert Borden's Cabinet During World War.

OVERSEAS COMMISSIONER

He Served in London From October, 1917, to Demobilization of Forces —Was Noted Financier.

BOBCAYGEON, Ont., Aug. 12 (By The Canadian Press).—Sir Edward Kemp, member of the Canadian Senate and Minister of Militia and Defense during the World War, died at his Summer home at Pigeon Lake today. He was 71 years old. The body was taken this afternoon to Toronto for the funeral services.

After holding the defense portfolio for nearly a year, Sir Edward was appointed Minister of the Overseas Military Forces of Canada, with headquarters in London, in October, 1917.

Sir Robert Borden's Tribute.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 12 (By The Canadian Press).—Commenting on the death of Sir Edward Kemp today, Sir Robert Borden, war-time Prime Minister of Canada, said:

"We have been intimate friends for thirty years and I have very happy and grateful memory of our association.

"During the years in which I led the Opposition he gave me unfailing and loyal support, and after we came into power in 1911 he accepted membership without portfolio in the Cabinet which I formed.

"His service to our country . . . was not only efficient but invaluable.

"I deeply mourn his loss as that of a true and tried friend and comrade."

Ontario Premier Honors Him.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 12.—G. Howard Ferguson, Prime Minister of Ontario, paid the following tribute:

"I have had the privilege for many years of enjoying the personal friendship of Sir Edward. I have frequently sought his views and advice in public matters and have always found him a ready and wise counselor with a broad, public-spirited outlook and sound judgment. His death is a great shock to me as well as a great loss.

"On behalf of the government of Ontario, may I add our deep and respectful sympathy to the members of Sir Edward's family, a feeling which will be shared by the entire community?"

Began Career as Bookkeeper.

Sir Edward, who was equally prominent in the public and financial affairs of Canada, was born at Clarenceville, Que., in 1858, the son of a farmer and country storekeeper. He received no formal education and began his career as a bookkeeper.

Sir Edward began his public career with election to the House of Commons in 1900. In 1911 he became a member of the Privy Council in Sir Robert Borden's government. In May, 1915, he was appointed chairman of the War Purchasing Commission for controlling Canadian expenditures in the World War.

On Nov. 22, 1916, Sir Edward was appointed Minister of Militia and Defense. After going to London in 1917 as Minister of the Overseas Military Forces of Canada, he held that portfolio until the complete demobilization of forces. In 1920 he became a Minister without portfolio in the Meighen Cabinet, and was summoned to the Senate in November, 1921.

Sir Edward was president of the Sheet Metal Products Company of Canada and a director of the National Trust Company of Toronto and of the Imperial Life Assurance Company. He was a former president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association and of the Canadian Board of Trade. He was also a member of several commercial conferences both in Canada and abroad.

Sir Edward was created a Knight Commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George on Feb. 13, 1917.

His first wife, whom he married in 1879, died in 1924. In 1925 he married Mrs. Virginia Copping, widow of Norman Copping. Three daughters by his first marriage and one daughter by his second marriage survive, besides his widow.

Sir Edward was actively interested in outdoor sports and was a member of several Canadian clubs.

2 WINNIPEG FIREMEN KILLED

Two Others Seriously Injured When Truck Turns Over.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 12 (Canadian Press).—Two firemen are dead and two others are in a hospital in a critical condition as the result of a fire truck turning over while answering a call today, which proved to be a false alarm.

Fred Doulding and Alex Morrison were killed and Chief James Dickson and Duncan Dure were injured.

Doulding died from a fractured skull and Morrison's chest was crushed. Chief Dickson and Dure were reported as having slight chances of recovery.

The accident occurred in the St. James district, a Winnipeg suburb. Doulding, who was driving, applied the brakes upon reaching an intersection and the heavy truck, its speed checked suddenly, turned over twice.

DIES IN SIX-STORY FALL.

Brooklyn Man Said to Have Been a Somnambulist.

Salvatore Buccolo, 38 years old, a District Superintendent of the Department of Street Cleaning, employed in Manhattan, fell or jumped from the sixth story window of his apartment, 7,201 Fourth Avenue, Brooklyn, shortly before last midnight and was killed. His body landed in a courtyard and a neighbor, John Collins of 412 Seventy-second Street, Brooklyn, heard the crash and summoned the police.

Detectives of the Fort Hamilton Avenue station questioned Buccolo's brother, Michael, living at 1,422 Seventy-sixth Street, and learned that Buccolo was a somnambulist. Buccolo's wife and baby, ten months old, are stopping at the home of her mother, 1,363 Seventy-sixth Street.

Dry Agents Raid Restaurant.

The Green Tavern, frequented by city employes and politicians, at Elm and Reade Streets, was raided by Federal prohibition agents yesterday during the noon hour, when the dining room was crowded. According to the agents, they seized twenty cases of liquor and thirteen barrels of beer. The large crowd of persons eating in the restaurant left as soon as the agents made their presence known and many persons gathered on the sidewalk outside.

Philadelphia Man Falls Dead As Yellow-Jacket Stings Him

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 12.—James Arati, 72 years old, an employe at the Andorra Nurseries, Chestnut Hill, fell dead today when a yellow-jacket stung him on the lip.

Fellow employes said Arati was hoeing some shrubs when he accidentally stirred up a swarm of hornets, which flew into his face.

Physicians at the Chestnut Hill Hospital stated it was likely that death resulted from a heart attack induced by fright.

BARTENDERS BOW TO VOLSTEAD ACT

Union Members Will Hereafter Be Known as "Beverage Dispensers."

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 12 (AP).—The Bartenders' International League of America has capitulated to the Volstead act and, following a week's convention here, will be known officially as the Beverage Dispensers' International League of America.

"The old-time saloon bartenders still are tending bars, but as soft-drink and soda jerkers, so in the interest of accuracy we're changing the name," said Emanuel Koveleskie of Rochester, N. Y., international representative of the Bartenders' League to the American Federation of Labor.

"In New York we still call them bartenders' unions; in Missouri they are beverage dispensers' unions. In such States as Kansas we don't even have any organization any more."

Admitting that they receive better salaries than before prohibition, the bartenders continue to feel that the Eighteenth Amendment is an infringement on personal rights.

Edward Flore, general president of the organization, in his report referred to the amendment as "this solitary sumptuary statute, the intrusion of which into constitutional realms has so severely hurt our country."

A good union bartender now gets from $45 to $80 a week, Mr. Koveleskie said.

CHAUNCEY KEEP DEAD.

Chicago Capitalist Dies at 75 at His Summer Home in Maine.

Special to The New York Times.

EDWARD PRIZER DIES OF HEART ATTACK

Chairman of Board of Vacuum Oil Co. Stricken at His Home in East Orange at 73.

EXPORT TRADE AUTHORITY

He Was a Member of Petroleum War Service Committee—Began His Career as Reporter.

Edward Prizer, chairman of the board of directors and former president of the Vacuum Oil Company, died suddenly on Sunday night at his home, 327 Harrison Street, East Orange, N. J., following a heart attack with which he was stricken on Saturday while at the Essex Country Club in West Orange. He had played golf earlier in the day. Mr. Prizer was in his seventy-fourth year.

Endowed with a breadth of vision and native intelligence which carried him from the position of a reporter on a small country newspaper to become head of one of the largest oil companies in the world, Mr. Prizer was an authority on the export trade relations of this country abroad and a leader in the advancement of the American petroleum industry.

Born on March 3, 1856, at Doylestown, Pa., the son of Enos and Sarah Prizer, Mr. Prizer received his early education in the small public school there. While still in his 'teens, he became a reporter on The Bucks County Intelligencer and later became an editor and business manager of the paper. Mr. Prizer attributed much of his later success to his early newspaper training.

In 1882 Mr. Prizer became connected with the Vacuum Oil Company in Rochester, N. Y., where he advanced to become secretary of the company. In 1902 he came to New York as a vice president of the concern. He was elected president in 1917 and continued in that position until 1924, when he retired to become chairman of the board.

During the World War Mr. Prizer served as a member of the Petroleum War Service Committee. In recent years he had been a director of the American Petroleum Institute and was first vice president of the American Manufacturers' Export Association. Mr. Prizer had traveled extensively abroad, especially in recent years, and was a frequent speaker before various foreign commerce groups.

He was married in 1882 to Mary Crowther of Baltimore County, Md., who died several years ago at Southern Pines, N. C.

Mr. Prizer was a director of the Savings Investment and Trust Company of East Orange and a trustee of the Orange Memorial Hospital. He was interested in the Welfare Federation of the Oranges and Maplewood, and was a trustee of the Munn Avenue Presbyterian Church of East Orange.

Surviving him are two daughters, Miss Mary C. Prizer and Mrs. George Palmer of East Orange; three sons, Dr. E. Levis Prizer of Southern Pines, N. C.; John Prizer of West Orange, and W. Douglas Prizer of East Orange, and two brothers. Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 4:45 o'clock at the home, with Dr. W. R. Taylor of Rochester, N. Y., officiating.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 12.—Frederick Lincoln Waldron, prominent Honolulu business man and president of the Fred L. Waldron Company, Ltd., died here today. Mr. Waldron had arrived here from Honolulu with his wife, Mrs. Sarah Waldron, on July 24, and was to have left for a tour of Europe Saturday. He was born in London in 1865. He came to this country while still in his early twenties and became a cowpuncher in Kansas. Thirty years ago he moved to Honolulu. In 1901 he organized the Fred L. Waldron Company, which has become one of the largest commission houses in the islands. He was Hawaiian agent for the White Star Steamship Company and for the Western Pacific Railroad.

Chester Pellett.

Special to The New York Times.

PORT JERVIS, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Chester Pellett, retired public official and Civil War veteran, died at Greene Township, near here, on Saturday, in his eighty-fifth year. FEDERATION BACKS SWEATSHOP FIGHT

Council of Labor Body Approves Proposed New Garment Strike Here for Dec. 1.

ACTION IN MANY CITIES

Macdonald to Be Invited to Address Toronto Convention—Injunction Bill to Be Considered Today.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 12.—A program of strikes presented by Benjamin Schlesinger, president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, was unanimously endorsed here today in the name of the American Federation of Labor by the executive council of the federation in quarterly meeting under the chairmanship of President William Green.

Approximately 45,000 members of the dress and waist branch of the garment workers' union will strike on Dec. 1 in New York, and similar strikes were approved for Toronto, Boston, Kansas City, Chicago, Baltimore, Toledo, Philadelphia, Cleveland and other cities where union labor is said to have encountered the sweatshop.

The strike program of the garment union was approved, according to Mr. Green, after the executive council of the American Federation of Labor had heard Mr. Schlesinger's account of the sweatshop competition.

Sees Business Support.

Mr. Schlesinger told the council that most of the large mail-order houses of the country, as well as chain stores and large department stores, were with the union and against sweatshop production, and that the membership of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union had increased by 12,000 in a single month, mostly since the two-week strike of the cloak branch of the garment union in New York resulted in the appointment of a board to adjust the interests of all concerned.

Mr. Schlesinger said that the New York strike "cleaned out the communism from the membership" and that it would be kept out during the coming strikes. He said he still hoped for an adjustment of the pending disputes in several of the cities where strikes were planned but that in New York the situation had developed in such a way that a strike seemed to be the only way to a settlement.

According to Mr. Green, the federation council voted unanimous approval of Mr. Schlesinger's program and "all assistance possible." Mr. Green declared that "the sweatshop must go."

Will Invite MacDonald.

The executive council also decided today to invite Ramsay MacDonald, Prime Minister of England, to address the annual convention of the federation if Mr. MacDonald should come to this country while the convention is in session at Toronto in October.

Tomorrow the council will consider the final form of a bill to restrict the use of injunctions in labor disputes, drafted by Senators Norris, Blaine and Thomas J. Walsh, to replace the Shipstead bill, which was killed by the Judiciary Committee of the last Senate as being too sweeping in its restriction.

The council will also consider tomorrow what action to take on the complaint to be presented by Ira N. Ornturn, president of the Cigar Makers' Union, who charges that the General Cigar Company is employing child labor in its factories and that the child labor laws are not being enforced.

The members of the council in attendance, besides Mr. Green, are Frank Morrison, Secretary Martin F. Ryan and Vice Presidents Matthew Woll, Thomas A. Rickert, Joseph N. Weber, John Coefield, Arthur O. Wharton and James Wilson.

GASTONIA DEFENDANTS GREETED HERE BY 1,500

Vera Bush and Amy Schecter Address Rally at the Central Opera House.

More than 1,500 workers greeted Vera Bush and Amy Schecter, two of the three women members of the National Textile Workers' Union who were indicted in Gastonia, N. C., for the killing of Chief of Police O. F. Aderholt, at a rally for the defense of the Gastonia strikers last night in the Central Opera House. The meeting was under the auspices of the International Labor Defense, New York District; the Workers' International Relief and the National Textile Workers' Union.

On the arrival of the two women at Grand Central Station, following their release on bail, a group led by Rose Barron, secretary of the New York Labor Defense Committee, and Harriett Silverman, secretary of the New York Workmen's International Relief, unfurled several banners but otherwise made no demonstration. They marched across to Forty-second Street and up Fifth Avenue to the opera house.

Among those who spoke at the meeting, besides the two defendants, were:

JAMES REED, president of the National Textile Workers' Union.
WILLIAM Z. FOSTER, national secretary of the Trade Union Educational League.
J. LOUIS ENGDAHL of the International Labor Defense.
CARL HACKER of the International Labor Defense.
A. WAGENKNECHT, director of the joint Gastonia defense and relief campaign.
CHARLES ALEXANDER, negro director of the Young Communist League.
LUDWIG LANDY.
LOUIS HYMAN.

TURKISH AIR MISSION HERE TO TOUR AIRPORTS

Mayor to Receive Delegation at City Hall Today — Major Shefik Bey Heads Group.

Major Shefik Bey, chief of the Turkish General Aviation Staff, arrived yesterday on the Leviathan, accompanied by two other Turkish officers, Captain Ferruh Bey and First Lieutenant Kiazim Bey, and two civilians, Moulis Bey, who is interested in commercial aviation in behalf of the Turkish Government and Ahmed Emin Bey, the official interpreter for the aviation mission to this country.

The visitors were to be greeted at the pier, at the foot of West Forty-sixth Street, by Police Commissioner Whalen, head of the Mayor's Reception Committee, but the Leviathan did not dock until 6 P. M. The welcome by the Mayor at City Hall will take place today.

Major Shefik Bey, who took up aviation after the World War, said that Kemal Pasha takes a great interest in aviation.

"We are going to spend two months here," he continued, "visiting Washington and the principal aviation stations of the United States. Our object is to study military, naval and commercial aviation. So far we have organized military aviation in Turkey and hve a service between Constantinople and Angora, the capital, which will be the central terminal for aerial services in the republic.

"We need commercial aviation in Turkey very badly, as our cities are far removed from the European capitals and the railroad system is not very good and the trains are rather slow.

"In Europe," Major Shefik Bey added, "we found the aerial systems good in France and England but best in Germany."

Asked if he intended to purchase any airplanes or place orders while he was here, the head of the Turkish Aviation Mission replied: "We have not the power to make any contracts on our journey. Our object is to study the development of aviation in the countries visited by us and then to return home and make a report to our government."

Major Shefik Bey declined to give the number of airplanes in the Turkish military service.

The Turkish air mission leaves for Washington late today, to return next Sunday to the Ritz-Carlton Hotel, which is to be its headquarters in this country.

New Baldwin Locomotive Orders.

The Baldwin Locomotive Works has received orders for two small steam locomotives for the Patapsco & Back River Railroad, a large electric locomotive for the Northern Indiana Public Service Company and a small electric locomotive for the New Idria Quicksilver Mines. The company has also received an order for five small electric locomotives for the Cerro de Pasco Copper Company. A steamship is now at the Baldwin wharf at Eddystone loading more than $500,000 worth of locomotives for China and Siam.

FOURTH, FIFTH, SIXTH, SEVENTH, EIGHTH GALLERIES NEW BUILDING

Seen and Heard At the Little Home

by "OBSERVER"

VISITORS to "The Little Home That Budget Built" are principally concerned in getting information how to cl their incomes and expenses so th every month something may be laid by for the proverbial rainy day.

* * *

In one instance a couple selected furniture and furnishings for their home that registered a bill of $30,000. They could have paid cash, but decided to take advantage of the Budget Plan, which appealed to them strongly. It appeals to most people because it shows the way to independence.

* * *

The credit manager permitted me "to listen in" while one of his associates was completing credit arrangements with a young couple that had just selected furniture amounting to $1,200. The young husband said he had $500 cash and was earning enough money to pay $150.00 monthly without any strain on his income.

* * *

In fact, he made it very plain that he did not want to and would not incur an obligation unless prepared to meet it promptly. He said the Budget Plan was giving him and his wife a schedule to work on that they proposed to follow.

ALGER WILL HEAD CLOAK COMMISSION

Governor Also Appoints Mrs. Caspar Whitney and Dr. S. S. Goldwater to Board.

SELECTIONS ARE PRAISED

Leaders of Industry's Groups Say Public Representatives Merit Their Confidence.

OTHERS TO BE CHOSEN SOON

All Factors to Confer, at Luncheon to Honor R. V. Ingersoll, on Means of Improving Conditions.

Governor Roosevelt announced yesterday the appointment of three members to the commission designed to stabilize the cloak and suit industry under the agreements reached between the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union and the three employers' associations of the industry, following the recent strike of 30,000 cloakmakers in this city.

The members appointed by the Governor will represent the public on the commission. They are:

GEORGE W. ALGER, chairman.

Mrs. CASPAR WHITNEY, a director of the Women's City Club and a leader in the League of Women Voters.

Dr. S. S. GOLDWATER, Commissioner of Health in the Mitchel Administration, former head of Mount Sinai Hospital and an authority on hospital construction.

Mr. Alger, a lawyer, has taken a leading part in the development of social and labor legislation in this State. He is the author of the employers' liability act and many amendments to labor and child labor laws. Under the administration of Governor Smith he made an investigation of the prisons of the State.

In addition to the three representatives appointed by the Governor, the commission will include Raymond V. Ingersoll, impartial chairman of the clothing industry, and two representatives each from the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, the Industrial Council of Cloak and Suit Manufacturers, the Merchants' Ladies' Garment Association and the American Association of Cloak and Suit Manufacturers. These appointments probably will be made within a few days.

Grossman Praises Appointees.

In expressing warm approval of the Governor's appointments, I. Grossman, president of the Industrial Council, the organization of "inside" manufacturers, declared that these appointments would greatly enhance the prestige of the commission and assure the success of its work. It is believed that Samuel Klein, manager of the Industrial Council, will be one of the representatives of the council.

Satisfaction with the Governor's appointments was expressed also by Morris W. Haft, president of the Merchants' Ladies' Garment Association, representing the jobbers, who said that the association's representatives on the commission would be named from among its officials.

The American Association, embracing the contractors, will name its commission members at a meeting tomorrow night, according to Harry Uviller, manager. Mr. Uviller is likely to be one of the members. Like Mr. Grossman and Mr. Haft, he regarded the Governor's appointments as fortunate.

The union's representatives on the commission will be named before the end of the week, according to David Dubinsky, acting president. Mr. Dubinsky, too, was enthusiastic over the appointments announced by the Governor.

"The Governor's choice promises the union a square deal," Mr. Dubinsky said. "Cloakmakers rejoice at the selections because the records of the public's representatives long ago revealed them as having an enlightened point of view on economic and labor problems. They are all sympathetic to the legitimate aspirations of labor. We are sure that all enlightened manufacturers, as well as retailers and the general public, will share our enthusiasm, because there is now a real promise that the sweatshop system will go from the industry. The union looks forward to a new era in the cloak and suit industry the moment the commission begins to function, which will be very soon."

The creation of the commission is the result of the intervention of Governor Roosevelt in the cloak strike, which was settled by agreements between the union and the various employers' associations. Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman represented the Governor in the peace negotiations.

To Give Luncheon for Ingersoll.

All the factors in the industry will assemble around a table to discuss the industry's needs and ways and means for its improvement when the union and the employers' associations give a luncheon to Mr. Ingersoll at the Hotel Ritz-Carlton on Wednesday, Aug. 21. The committee of arrangements includes Benjamin Schlesinger, president of the international; Mr. Grossman, Mr. Haft and Joseph S. Schwartz, president of the American Cloak and Suit Manufacturers' Association.

In a statement describing the purpose of the luncheon the committee said:

"For the past five years Mr. Ingersoll, as impartial chairman of the cloak industry, has been successful in preserving whatever measure of stability existed during that time in our generally disorganized industry. He played an important part in bringing the recent strike to a speedy conclusion and in formulating the program of activity that promises to place our field upon a sound and progressive basis."

While the employers and the union are preparing to reorganize the cloak industry and put it back on a solid foundation, the union is proceeding with plans for a similar reorganization for the dress industry. These plans include a strike of 7,000 embroiderers, hemstitchers and tuckers, and strikes affecting a large section of the 15,000 children's dressmakers in this city. Both strikes are expected to be called in a few days. Last-minute efforts to avert the strike of embroiderers through a conference between the union and employers failed last night. The union gave the employers seven days in which to grant its demands of a $50 minimum wage, the 40-hour five-day week and the creation of impartial machinery for the elimination of the sweatshop similar to that set up in the cloak industry. Representatives of the Tuckers, Hemstitchers and Pleaters' Union will meet their employers tonight to present similar demands.

Speeding on Mercy Errand, Train Kills Canadian

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Aug. 12 (AP).—A special train, speeding on an errand of mercy, ran down and killed Ingvold Johnston, age 32, of Korah Township last night. His body was found mangled on the tracks this morning at a crossing of the Algoma Central Railway.

The special train was bringing to a hospital here Frederick George Howe, a brakeman on the Algoma Central, whose leg had been crushed at Michipicoten Harbor, when he fell between two cars.

Howe died this morning, two hours after reaching the hospital.

ACCORD IS SIGNED IN BUILDING TRADES

Electrical Workers Will Arbitrate Dispute That Threatened to Cause Strike of 60,000.

5-DAY WEEK IS RESTORED

10 Per Cent Wage Increase, Also Rescinded, Is Again Granted by Employers' Association.

The Building Trades Employers' Association and the Building Trades Council, representing more than 115,000 workers, concluded an agreement yesterday re-establishing peace in the industry. The agreement marks the culmination of a dispute which for a time threatened a strike or lockout of 60,000 men in more than a dozen crafts and resulted in the rescinding by the employers of the five-day week and 10 per cent wage increase granted to these men on May 4.

Yesterday's agreement provides for the restoration of these concessions, effective Aug. 24, in return for which the Building Trades Council and all the crafts represented in it promise to submit all disputes to arbitration under the plan adopted for the industry July 9, 1903, but disturbed as a result of the recent controversy between the Electrical Workers' Union, Locel 3, and the Electric Light Fixtures Manufacturers' Association.

This controversy led to sympathetic strikes by men in other trades and for a while threatened to involve the industry in a general conflict. Although not mentioned specifically in yesterday's agreement, the electrical dispute will be adjusted under the arbitration plan in force for the past twenty-nine years and now reaffirmed.

P. J. Commerford, vice president of the council, will confer tomorrow with H. H. Broach, vice president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, in charge of the affairs of Local 3, on the appointment of the union's arbitrator in the electrical dispute.

Under the arbitration plan in question the union appoints one member of the arbitration board, the employers another, with a third neutral member selected by the two. The decision of the neutral arbitrator is final and binding.

"The employers are gratified at the turn of affairs in the building industry, which for a time appeared to be approaching a serious crisis," said C. G. Norman, who is chairman of the board of governors of the Building Trades Employers Association and one of the signers of yesterday's peace pact. "The agreement is another victory for common sense and the principle of arbitration. We do not hesitate to say that a great deal of the credit for the restoration of peace with every prospect of its maintenance must go to organized labor."

The new agreement insures peace for the industry until April 30, 1932, the date when it will expire.

The employers' committee, whose signatures are attached to the agreement, was headed by Walter S. Faddis, president of the Building Trades Employers' Association. The Building Trades Council was represented by a committee headed by Mr. Commerford.

Following is the text of the agreement, which was concluded at a meeting at the office of the Building Trades Employers' Association, 2 Park Avenue:

"Joint agreement made this day between the executive committee of the Building Trades Council and the executive committee of the Building Trades Employers' Association for each and all of their respective members.

"It is agreed by each of the parties signatory hereto that the joint arbitration plan adopted July 9, 1903, and amended April 22, 1905, and the twelve principles approved on Oct. 18, 1922, are reaffirmed, to the end that there shall be no strikes or lockouts on the work of the members of the Building Trades Employers' Association and that all disputes shall be settled by mediation or arbitration.

"In consideration whereof the executive committee of the Building Trades Employers' Association reaffirms its agreement made with the executive committee of the Building Trades Council on May 4, 1929, to recognize the five-day work week and an increase of 10 per cent over the wage of Jan. 1, 1929, to be effective on and after Aug. 24, 1929; and, further, that all agreements shall be extended April 30, 1932."

The signatories for the employers' association were:

Walter S. Faddis	W. K. Rose
Arthur J. Rhodes	William Young
William Wallis	Benjamin Riesner
Max Baumann	C. G. Norman

For the Building Trades Council the following signed the agreement:

P. J. Commerford	Daniel P. Collins
Martin S. McCue	Charles Sheridan
John F. Dalton	W. F. Butler

FORD AIDS IN AUTO CRASH.

Second Victim of Quadruple Collision at Sudbury Dies.

SUDBURY, Mass., Aug. 12 (AP).—A second victim died today after a quadruple automobile crash last night involving a motor bus and three pleasure cars.

The accident occurred close to the famous Wayside Inn, now the property of Henry Ford, who was among the first to reach the scene and assist the injured.

The victims were Captain Roy Bucharme, 35, of the 101st Infantry, who died before reaching a hospital, and Joseph Haynes, 14, of Worcester, who died at the Marlboro Hospital today. Walter Isaacson, also of Worcester, is at the same hospital. His name is on the danger list.

THE INSIDE OF PROHIBITION

By Mabel Walker Willebrandt

Former Assistant United States Attorney General in Charge of Prohibition Cases.

Copyright 1929 by Current News Features, Inc. All rights for publication reserved throughout the world.

In this article Mrs. Willebrandt frankly admits a bad situation on the border and the futility of periodic "drives." Corruption of officials, interdepartmental jealousies, lack of brains and team-work in Washington, she says, constitute the real trouble in enforcement.

CHAPTER IX—THE BORDER LEAK.

Not all the leaks in prohibition as at present enforced—or unenforced—come from the industrial alcohol industry.

The leak second in importance in my opinion is border smuggling. "Good" liquor comes through the Canadian border in great quantities. But let no ultimate consumer delude himself with the belief that he ever gets smuggled liquor in its original state. Practically all of it is brought to garages or old residences and there "cut" and rebottled for the bootlegger trade.

Illicit importation seeks the low moral levels of our border defense. Wherever customs employes, prohibition agents, United States attorneys or other officers fail in a coordinated and aggressive vigilance against the smuggler, at that point great streams of liquor as well as other contraband flow through.

A little more than a year ago Florida was the leakiest spot, with great quantities of liquor flowing in from near-by British islands. But aggressive action by that splendid service, the Coast Guard, in conjunction with a force of prosecutors I dispatched from my own office, deprived Florida of the doubtful honor of being the leakiest of our border or coast States.

A Recent Detroit "Drive."

At this writing Detroit is in the centre of the spotlight on prohibition weaknesses. Only recently the newspapers throughout the country have contained extended and lurid accounts of the "great offensive" against rum smugglers in the neighborhood of Detroit. The press reports tell of the mobilization by the prohibition unit at or near Detroit of hundreds of additional agents, investigators and super-investigators to investigate the agents and investigators. The published reports say:

> It was decided there should be an immediate increase in the dry army's three units. More automobiles as well as speed boats and cutters will be supplied, according to the Treasury prohibition chief.

Then there are dispatches telling of the assignment of twenty-seven more patrol boats to the west end of Lake Erie and the Detroit River, including ten seventy-five-foot fast boats carrying eight men each and rapid-fire guns.

But 100 or even 1,000 additional boats could never stop the leak at Detroit or any other border point if they were not used more efficiently and more honestly than prohibition forces have been used in the past where liquor flows across the border.

Certainly the beating of drums and the issuance of mimeographed threats of a great prohibition offensive will not aid the government forces in gathering evidence of the kind necessary to convict the leaders of the big liquor rings. The time to talk about a "dry drive" is after the evidence is gathered and the defendants are in court, facing sworn testimony of the kind necessary to insure prison sentences. Rum runners, even though some government men have not yet learned it, are not scared when Uncle Sam hollers "Boo!" But they do begin to get nervous when even a few of their number, and especially the men at the top of the liquor ring, start on a long and extended trip to one of Uncle Sam's boarding houses.

History Repeats Itself.

The present situation at Detroit is by no means new to me. The basis of that self-congratulatory pat on the back is a letter which I wrote to the Attorney General more than four years ago—on July 13, 1925, to be exact.

The letter was written after I had spent several days in Detroit conferring with the United States Attorney (at that time Delos Smith, a young man of aggressive policies), Federal judges, special agents of the customs service, the United States Consul in near-by Canada, State police and special agents of the Bureau of Investigation.

Here is part of what I reported to the Attorney General—and please remember that the report was made four years before the Treasury Department became aware, publicly at least, of what was happening at Detroit:

> I cannot overemphasize the necessity of using every means at our command to bring home to the Treasury Department the need of strengthening the customs protection against smuggling in the vicinity of Detroit. At present there are tremendous quantities of liquor, narcotics, other contraband and a great many aliens all coming across the border at Detroit. It is a port of entry for illicit smuggled goods distributed in St. Louis, Chicago and other points west. Smuggling is carried on by railroad and by boat. This means "paying off" several men in the railroad employ and one or two customs inspectors. It will not be difficult to get this evidence. It is essential that an investigation be pushed forward without delay to uncover the defaulting railway and customs men.
>
> A number of customs men are under suspicion. An able special customs agent has no power to control them. He should be placed in charge and made to feel his responsibility for results. He should be given at least a dozen fast boats to patrol the river. He should be given authority to investigate and remove customs men who are unfaithful to duty.
>
> The Prohibition Director's office is in a thoroughly bad state. The office of the Bureau of Investigation is well managed by Tom Wilcox, an energetic, ambitious, thoroughly honest and hard-working official. He has gone beyond his assignment to cooperate with the United States Attorney and has done it under heavy odds, because the police conditions in Detroit are so demoralized and because the prohibition office is so puerile. If we are to enable the United States Attorney to get results, we must take the lead in urging the Treasury Department to reorganize an inefficient prohibition office and coordinate and put morale in their allied investigation services like customs.

America Shut Its Eyes.

Did this report and these recommendations bring results? They did not. Here are the conditions that prevail at Detroit and elsewhere along our Northern border nearly four years later, as detailed by one of the members of the Canadian Cabinet, the Hon. William G. Euler, to the Canadian House of Commons on May 21, 1929:

> I have said something which may appear a criticism of the United States. I have no desire to be offensive, but I think there are some facts I should place before the House in view of the statements made that we are not dealing in a friendly way with our neighbor on the south. It has been stated that the boats go across at night. That is not entirely true. I took the trouble last Fall to go down to Windsor. I was offered safe conduct by a liquor exporter and went on a launch on the Detroit River. I could see the United States customs office on the other shore, and I could also see that it was not difficult to detect any boats that left the Canadian shore to go to the American side. While in Windsor I got into conversation with a man engaged in the business of exporting liquor. I asked him, "Do you cross in the daytime?" He answered, "Yes, quite often," and said "How is it they do not get you?" He replied with a smile, "It just happens that they are not there when we go across."
>
> Our inspector went to Windsor not so very long ago. He did not select any special day. While there, on Jan. 14, he observed the following vessels cross the river to Detroit in daylight with cargoes of liquor:
>
> Ben, J. King, master; 10 quarter barrels beer, 11 cases whisky.
> Rat, J. Sales, master; 24 cases whisky, 5 cases wine, 1 case brandy.
> Bat, A. Jacks, master; 19 cases whisky, 1 case wine.
> Rabbi, I. Straight, master; 5 half barrels beer, 8 cases whisky.
> Bird, J. Bloom, master; 18 cases whisky, 8 cases bourbon, 3 cases Scotch whisky.
> Bar, J. Peters, master; 13 cases whisky, 4 cases bourbon, 3 cases brandy.
>
> That was in one day.

Customs Men Look the Other Way.

But this was not all that the Canadian Parliament was told by its Minister of National Revenue. He submitted a report from the Canadian Revenue Collector at Bridgeburg, Ont., written in April of this year, which told of conditions in that vicinity. The Collector's report was that there were twelve boats plying between Canada and the United States at a point where the river is about half a mile wide. Some of the boats carried from 800 to 1,000 cases of liquor and they were required to leave the Canadian docks not later than 6 P. M. The Canadian officer said:

> "No effort, as far as we can see, is made by the United States authorities to seize any of these boats, as the United States customs are always notified by us an hour or two before the boats leave. It is a well-known fact that some of these boats land within a few hundred yards of the United States customs office and unload without being disturbed. I know that if conditions were reversed we would have all these boats tied up in less than a week."

Can any one doubt, after reading such statements, that there is not only something radically wrong in Denmark but in the United States of America, particularly in the vicinity of Detroit and Buffalo?

Of course, I am not exculpating Canada from all blame for the situation. In many instances, the Canadian officials have not rendered all the help they might. But where our own service has been organized up to the point of commanding respect and a real appeal has been made to Canada, we have had respectable results—in many instances very satisfactory ones—from Canadian officials. There is no Canadian law which prohibits the exportation of liquor to the United States, but, in fact, Canada derives a revenue of several million dollars from its tax on exported liquor. But whether Canada later agrees to revise its treaty with the United States to prohibit exports of liquor to our country, or whether it maintains its present refusal, our own officials cannot avoid their responsibility for the leak across the border.

Vacillating at Washington.

The leaks will continue, drive or no drive, dry mobilization or no dry mobilization, until there is real coordination and cooperation among our own forces at Detroit and elsewhere along their borders.

Detroit is an example of departmental jealousy triumphant. The responsibilities of the customs service and prohibition service and the State and city police overlap in law and in its practical operation. This condition has become worse in recent years. The situation is wholly inexcusable, because both the customs and the prohibition services are under the Secretary of the Treasury. He could crack their heads together and make them "play ball." Instead, of that, there has been a policy of vacillation and a catering first to the recommendation of one service and then the other.

A better focusing of responsibility will have to come before there is any success on the side of the Federal Government in what headliners term "the gigantic battle of Detroit." What really is wrong at Detroit, besides the service of some dishonest men, is that most deadly of maladies of the Federal Government—small departmental jealousies, which result in an utter lack of coordinated effort.

Evidence is secured and hoarded in one service. An observation of a suspicious circumstance by one officer of the government results in just a shrug, or a comment "That's none of my business. The prohibition agents or some other service ought to 'tend to that."

Team-Work Needed.

When the press, civic bodies and citizens complain of smuggling, the customs service blames the State and city police; the prohibition agents blame the customs; the United States Attorney sits in grand legal isolation saying, "What can I do but lose cases when they don't bring me good evidence?"

And the local police say: "It's the fault of the Canadian officials; they help the smugglers across."

But let a big violator be caught by accident, or otherwise, and conviction secured, and all these services bump their heads together in rushing headlong to claim credit and to spread in their respective offices at Washington reports that it was their act and zeal, but the other services "grabbed the credit."

This creates an utterly demoralized condition of which smugglers and other law violators are not slow to take advantage. In effect, the different services are fighting each other instead of unitedly combating the bootleg fraternity.

What is needed at Detroit and elsewhere is development of team-play between the several forces available, the coordination of their activities, and the development of a real will to win.

Perhaps all that sounds like theory. I can imagine many a reader saying to himself, "Oh, it's well enough for a woman to sit down at a desk in Washington and outline a beautiful plan for catching bootleggers; but she really hasn't a practical idea in her head that would amount to a row of pins in practice."

When State Department Helped.

Let me call attention, therefore, to the fact that a situation similar to that which now exists at Detroit existed several years ago near Seattle, Wash. I secured the detail by the State Department of Mr. Ernest L. Harris, Consul General at Vancouver, and through his efforts and the leadership, good judgment and labors of Mr. Alf Oftedal, Assistant Prohibition Commissioner, the work of the various services was coordinated. More than that, a plan of cooperation with the Canadian forces was put into effect that worked out satisfactorily for both governments. Smuggling both into Canada and into the United States in that region was radically reduced.

In March of the present year I earnestly urged the State Department to detail Mr. Harris to the Detroit area to make a survey and recommendations as to what would improve conditions, and the request was granted. He spent considerable time studying the situation on both sides of the line. He did it without blare of trumpets or headlines. He came to Washington and laid his report—a very frank and serious document—before the Attorney General's office, recommending the removal from that district of some officials and other changes in personnel. As a result the Treasury Department has reorganized its customs service, and other strengthening of organization is on the way.

Intermittent drives and "wars" against liquor smugglers accomplish little, especially when given advance advertising. The only way to enforce the law is to enforce it all the time, not only just some of the time.

Wanted: Border Mounted Police.

Undoubtedly the ideal method to get results along our borders will be to organize a unified border patrol, made up of the best trained men from all the various services, and amalgamate them into one splendid border police with an esprit de corps equal to that of the famous mounted police of Canada. There has been a bill before the Judiciary Committee of Congress for more than four years to do this very thing. The plan ought to be given a big push.

To accomplish a unified border patrol, however, requires passage of such legislation, which in turn involves politics, and all that means long delay, as well as the meeting and overcoming of the tenacious traditions and jealousies of the various services which would have to be reformed.

But even without a new organization for border patrol purposes, the big leak can be plugged if there is the right kind of planning at Washington by men who are really anxious to have their forces work together with the common object of stopping the flow of rum across the border.

When there is more brain work and team play in Washington there will be less booze in Detroit—and more bootleggers in Atlanta Penitentiary!

In her next article Mrs. Willebrandt tells how she had to fight the Anti-Saloon League to remove a crooked but popular agent.

Will Rogers's Comment on Wall Street's Nightmare

To the Editor of The New York Times:

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Aug. 12.—The whole financial structure of Wall Street seemed to fall the other day on the mere fact that the Federal Reserve Bank raised the amount of interest from 5 to 6 per cent. Any business that can't survive a 1 per cent raise must be skating on mighty thin ice.

Why, even the poor farmers took a raise of from 6 to 10 per cent, with another 10 per cent bonus, to get the loan from the banks. It took all that to completely break them, and nobody connected with the government paid any attention.

But let Wall Street have a nightmare and the whole country has to help get them back in bed again. Yours,

WILL ROGERS.

CITY TRUST ASSETS PAID TO GERMANIC

Mutual Hands Over Check for $6,000,000, Which Includes Money It Guaranteed.

MERGER CONTRACT SIGNED

Broderick Says Transaction Brings Joy to 17,000 Depositors of Defunct Ferrari Bank.

The Mutual Trust Company, formed to salvage the City Trust Company, wrecked by the late Francesco M. Ferrari, transferred $6,000,000 to the International Germanic Trust Company yesterday in the office of Joseph A. Broderick, State Superintendent of Banks.

The check for the $6,000,000 was drawn on the Guaranty Trust Company to the order of the Germanic Trust Company and was signed by John Lewis, president of the Mutual Trust Company, and countersigned by Simon H. Kugel, special counsel for the latter. It was uncertified.

Mr. Lewis handed it to Mr. Broderick, who handed it in turn to Frederick G. Hasler, president of the International Germanic Trust Company, after the merger contract had been signed. Among other leaders in banking who were present were:

WOLSEY SHEPPARD of counsel for the Germanic Trust Company.
CARL OWNES of counsel for the Germanic Trust.
EDWARD WARD McMAHON, Brooklyn counsel to the Superintendent of Banks.
JAMES A. BEHA, chairman of the board of the Germanic Trust Company.
WARREN G. FIELDING, counsel to the State Banking Department.
JEREMIAH T. MAHONEY, counsel to the State Banking Department.
HAROLD G. ARON, chairman of the executive committee of the Germanic Trust Company.

Before signing the contract Mr. Hasler declared that he wished to "express gratitude to the public and to the Banking Department." He went on to say that "we would not be here today if it were not for the splendid and efficient work of the department."

Mr. Broderick declared that "this act is bringing joy and happiness to 17,000 depositors. I am confident that the International Germanic Trust Company will enjoy the gratitude as well as the confidence of the people of this city. The evidence of that will be seen in the support that the depositors of the City Trust Company lend to the International Germanic Trust Company. I wish Mr. Hasler every possible success."

The depositors of the defunct City Trust will be permitted to make withdrawals about Sept. 10.

The Mutual Trust Company will receive $6,000,000 worth of stock in the Germanic company to be deposited in escrow for two years as a guaranty against loss on the part of the Germanic. The transaction yesterday involved the approximately $4,000,000 of assets remaining to the City Trust Company. The $6,000,000 in funds was guaranteed by the Mutual.

A slight delay in the proceedings of the extraordinary grand jury called to hear evidence concerning the case was occasioned yesterday when it was learned that John F. Flinn, assistant foreman, who lived at 69 West Eighty-eighth Street, died Saturday. He was buried yesterday morning. Assistant District Attorney Harold W. Hastings announced that he would ask Supreme Court Justice Arthur Tompkins to appoint an assistant foreman to fill the vacant place.

Witnesses before the grand jury yesterday were Roger Molloy, examiner for the State Banking Department, and Fortune Gallo, opera impresario. They were understood to have testified concerning a loan of $21,000 obtained by Gallo for the purchase of seventy-five shares of stock in the City Trust Company. This money was reported to have been found in the personal account of the late Mr. Ferrari.

Purchase of bank stock on credit is a violation of the State banking laws, but Gallo has asserted that he never received the stock. A former employe of the City Trust Company is involved in the transaction, and it was predicted that indictments would be found when the grand jury reconvenes this morning.

LARSON TO MAKE CHOICE.

Denies Hoover Asked Him to Appoint Fort to Succeed Edge.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 12.—Governor Larson said here today that he would make his own appointment of a successor to Senator Edge, who has been chosen by President Hoover to be Ambassador to France. This was in answer to a report that the President had asked him to select Representative Franklin W. Fort.

"That is not true," the Governor said when the report was brought to his attention.

Mr. Larson also said that there was no "definite" candidate for the post, explaining that he meant no one had asked to be named. Besides Mr. Fort, former Governor E. C. Stokes and David Baird Jr. are being mentioned for the berth.

The Governor may call a conference of Republican leaders to get a line on sentiment, although in discussing this he reiterated that he would make the appointment without dictation.

STOCKS REGAIN BULK OF FRIDAY'S LOSSES

Recovery Is General, With Gains of From 2 to 12 Points by Active Issues.

STEEL REACHES NEW HIGH

Leads Rest of Market, Closing at 229⅝, an Advance of 8½ Points for the Day.

337,700 SHARES DEALT IN

Bears Are Driven to Cover—One Stage a Demonstration of Their Own.

United States Steel common struck out yesterday on another spectacular flight and whipped up such enthusiasm in the rest of the stock market that the process of recovering from the nose-dive of last Friday was almost completed. At the end of the day, with net gains of from 2 to 12 points recorded throughout the active list, stocks generally were within striking distance of the levels at which they were when the market was bowled over by the advance in the rediscount rate of the New York Federal Reserve Bank.

Steel outdid its best previous efforts by pushing forward 11¾ points from Saturday's close and adding more than $92,000,000 to the open market value of the 8,080,304 shares outstanding. The stock raced ahead with such speed that for a time Wall Street lost interest in the rest of the market. A total of 337,700 shares changed hands at steadily rising prices. The close was at 229⅝, the peak for the day and 8½ points above the highest price at which it had ever sold previously. The total common share capital of the corporation was worth about $1,845,000,000 on the market when trading ended yesterday afternoon.

Blue Ribbon Issues Lead.

Several hundred stocks participated in the advance, but it was in the blue ribbon issues that the widest gains were made. Steel opened at 219½, 1¼ points above Saturday's close, and from then until the closing bell at 3 o'clock it was a spectacle to warm the hearts of bull traders. Only two or three times did it pause in its advance and then only as if to catch its breath.

An army of bears was desolated by Steel's sensational rise. To these speculators, many of whom were committed to the short side in last Friday's break and others with short contracts they had clung to since the stock was selling as low as 190, yesterday was a day of reckoning. Most of them, including those who had hung on most stubbornly, gave up the ghost and began to cover their commitments. Losses running into the millions of dollars were taken by the bear faction, brokers estimated.

Stock Grows Scarce.

Steel stock became increasingly scarce as the day wore on. Offerings dwindled steadily until buyers were obliged to enter into a bidding competition for the stock.

Ponder on Advance.

The stock market community again indulged in conjecture as to what may be behind the current move. Stories were repeated of a possible stock split-up or of increased dividends. None of these reports has been confirmed. The Finance Committee meeting of the corporation will be held today, but it is not believed that anything more than routine business will be transacted.

The stocks that gave the best account of themselves yesterday, aside from Steel, included American Telephone and Telegraph, General Electric, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, Allied Chemical and Dye, Bethlehem Steel, Westinghouse Electric, American Can and a few others. Adams Express, an inactive issue, made a net advance of 22 points. The price movements of some of the leading stocks are shown in the following table:

Oils Stage Advance.

For the first time in weeks the oils staged a demonstration of their own. Standard of New Jersey was the pace-setter of this group and it was followed by nearly all of the important petroleum issues. The fresh buying interest here was connected, in the Wall Street discussion, with predictions that the oil industry will continue to make progress in the solution of its problems.

The total turnover on the Stock Exchange yesterday was 3,610,090 shares. Fifty representative issues upon which th combined averages of The New York Times are based showed a net gain of $3.63. In the two trading days since Friday's break they have recovered $7.93 of the $9.66 loss recorded on Friday. Twenty-five industrials advanced $5.94, making the recovery in the two days $12.59. The break in these issues on Friday was $15.42. Twenty-five rails gained $1.32 yesterday. This makes the total recovery in the two days $3.26, while the loss on Friday was $3.89.

Conditions in the money market were almost entirely ignored yesterday. The rate for call funds remained at 5 per cent, the same as last Friday.

Rain Relieves Maine Fire Hazard.

AUGUSTA, Me., Aug. 12 (AP).—General rain throughout the State over the week-end has relieved the forest fire hazard for the next few days, according to reports received today by Neil M. Violette, Forest Commissioner. The maximum precipitation as reported by his men was at Rangely, where one inch was registered.

I. R. T. APPEAL LOOMS ON CONTRACT RULING

Counsel Says Company Seeks Early Trial of 5-Cent-Fare Case on Its Merits.

WANTS 3 ISSUES JOINED

Opposes Consideration of Validity of Agreement Before Action on Whether Fare Is Confiscatory.

Counsel for the Interborough indicated in a statement yesterday that the company would appeal from Supreme Court Justice Alfred Frankenthaler's decision that the question of the validity of the five-cent fare contract should be tried out on Oct. 7 before taking up the company's contention that the nickel rate is confiscatory.

"We expect to proceed on that date, as we had sought," the statement said, "unless the procedure embodied in the order now to be entered proves so complicated and subversive of a disposition of the issues on the merits as to require appellate review."

Justice Frankenthaler's order may be handed down this week. Samuel Untermyer, special counsel for the Transit Commission, has declared that he will not adopt the court's suggestion that the case be referred to a referee.

In their statement yesterday counsel for the company took Mr. Untermyer to task for assertions which they declared to be misleading.

"Especially in view of the fact that Judge Frankenthaler has not yet passed upon the form of order to be entered on his decision," they declared, "counsel for the company will not follow Mr. Untermyer in arguing its merits daily in the newspapers. It may be appropriate, however, to point out some misapprehensions which are being circulated.

"The matters involved before Judge Frankenthaler were and are procedural, and do not directly affect the time of trial. Judge Frankenthaler has indicated that his orders will formally set a part of the issues in one of the three pending fare cases for trial on Oct. 7. All of the issues in the three cases had been noticed for trial on that date, upon the initiative of the company. That would have been the date if the commission had made no motion."

The statement added that Justice Frankenthaler based his decision severing the issues of contract validity and confiscation on a section of the civil practice act which Mr. Untermyer, in arguing the motion, declared to be inapplicable.

"The company seeks, and expects to secure, an early trial of the fare cases on their merits, which will enable a complete determination of the issues involved therein," the statement concluded. "Mr. Untermyer's proposals, if sanctioned by a court, could produce only delay and confusion and avoid a final decision on the merits."

Guardsman's Death Held Accident.

SEAGIRT, N. J., Aug. 12.—Colonel Herbert Forrest announced today that a board of inquiry at Camp Larson here had found the death of Philip Rosen, New Jersey National Guardsman from Paterson, was accidental. Rosen was fatally injured while being tossed in a blanket by other guardsmen when the blanket split. Rosen landed on his head. He died of concussion of the brain.

MAPS PEACE TERMS IN CEMETERY STRIKE

Walker Aide Asks Both Sides to Accept Settlement in the Calvary Dispute.

MEETS LABOR LEADERS

Kerrigan Acts in Absence of Mayor After Conference—Men May Return Tomorrow.

A proposal for the settlement of the Calvary Cemetery strike was submitted yesterday to both the strikers and the trustees of the Calvary Cemetery Corporation by Charles F. Kerrigan, assistant to Mayor Walker. If the proposal is acceptable to both parties the 350 strikers will probably return to work tomorrow.

The Central Trades and Labor Council tried to get Mayor Walker's help in a possible arbitration of the strike on Saturday. The Mayor was out of the city and Mr. Kerrigan offered his services. Those conferring with Mr. Kerrigan were Joseph P. Ryan, president of the Central Trades and Labor Council; James C. Quinn, secretary of the organization, and William Collins, New York representative of the American Federation of Labor.

The terms of the proposal were not revealed. The action taken by Mr. Kerrigan marked the first definite step toward arbitration. The strikers appealed to Governor Roosevelt and Cardinal Hayes, but received no answer to either of their telegrams. The members of the Division of Mediation and Arbitration of the State Department of Labor and Dr. Shirley W. Wynne, Commissioner of Health, volunteered to act as arbiters, but the cemetery officials refused their offer.

The Cemetery Workers' Union attended en masse yesterday morning the funeral of Stanley Zasadzinski, the striker who was fatally shot in an outbreak near the cemetery last Friday. No demonstration of any kind was made either at the funeral services, held at the victim's home, 339 Kingsland Avenue, Brooklyn, or at the burial in St. John's Cemetery.

Picketing of the cemetery was continued as usual by the strikers yesterday. The executive board of the striking union held a special meeting in McGarry's Hall, 69 Greenpoint Avenue, Bilsville.

James Doherty, president of the union, denied a statement made by cemetery authorities that more than fifty of the strikers had returned to work. He also said that more than $4,000 has been received from other unions to aid the strikers.

John G. Neeser, member of the Board of Trustees of St. Patrick's Cathedral, announced yesterday that nearly all the 240 bodies placed in temporary receiving vaults will be buried in family plots on Thursday.

The squad of thirty-two policemen and the strong-arm squad of Queens continued to patrol the cemetery.

The hearing for Filippo Nunziata, alleged slayer of Zasadzinski, has been set for tomorrow in the magistrate's court at Ridgewood. He is being held in the Queens County Jail without bail on a charge of homicide.

4 Overcome in Fire on Mine Layer.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 12 (AP).—Four men were overcome by smoke today when fire broke out on the mine layer Ogiala, now undergoing repairs at the Charlestown Navy Yard. The men were at work with acetylene torches in Fireroom 1, when gas or oil was ignited. A city fireboat aided the navy yard forces in extinguishing the blaze, which caused $2,500 damage. The workmen were revived at the scene.

MISS ELKUS TO WED ARTHUR J. WHITE

Troth of Daughter of Ex-Ambassador to Turkey Announced by Her Parents.

MISS PRITCHARD ENGAGED

New York Girl to Marry Cedric C. French, Who Served in World War—Other Betrothals.

Judge and Mrs. Abram I. Elkus of this city and Elkridge, Red Bank, N. J., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Katharine Elkus, to Arthur J. White, son of Mrs. Samuel White of Boston, Mass., and the late Mr. White. Miss Elkus, whose father was Ambassador to Turkey during the World War, was graduated from Vassar College last year. Mr. White has been living in San Antonio, Texas, for the past ten years, but now lives here.

The wedding will take place the first week in October.

Pritchard—French.

Announcement has been made by Dr. and Mrs. William Broaddus Pritchard of this city and Princess Anne, Md., of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Henderson Pritchard, to Cedric Culbertson French of this city, son of Leigh Hill French of Pasadena, Cal., and the late Mrs. French. Miss Pritchard attended Stuart Hall in Staunton, Va., and the National Cathedral School in Washington.

Mr. French, who was in the class of 1918 at Williams College, left to serve with the 307th Field Artillery during the World War, being commissioned as Lieutenant. He later served as a balloon observer. He is a brother of Leigh Hill French Jr., also of this city, and of George Franklin French of Stamford, Conn.

The wedding will take place in the early Autumn.

Walton—Pagenstecher.

Mrs. John Chappell Walton of 318 West Ninetieth Street has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Sarah Elizabeth Walton, to Albrecht Pagenstecher 3d, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albrecht Pagenstecher Jr. of 17 East Eighty-ninth Street.

Miss Walton is the daughter of the late Dr. John Chappell Walton of Richmond, Va., and a niece of Frank Hall of this city. Mr. Pagenstecher was graduated from Williams College in 1926 and is now with the firm of Cassatt & Co. of this city. He is a member of the Williams Club and the Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity.

The wedding will take place late in September.

Weiss—Burson.

Announcement has been made by Mr. and Mrs. George Weiss of 211 Lorraine Avenue, Mount Vernon, of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Helen Elizabeth Weiss, to Elbert E. Burson of 1 Heywood Road, Pelham Manor. The wedding will take place on Sept. 11 in St. Catherine's Church, Pelham.

Miss Weiss went to the Mount Vernon High School and the College of New Rochelle. She is known on the stage as Helen Meredith and has appeared in the Dorothy Magna revue and other theatrical productions. Mr. Burson is a son of Mrs. Elbert E. Burson of Litchfield, Ill., and Monrovia, Cal., and the late Mr. Burson. He is managing editor of The Pelham News and vice president of Garrison Publications, Inc.

MISS MARY BEAN BRIDE.

Wed to Vernon Edmiston in Church of the Transfiguration.

Miss Mary Virginia Bean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Harden Bean of Nevada, Mo., was married to Vernon Edmiston, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Malcolm Edmiston, also of Nevada, yesterday afternoon in the Church of the Transfiguration by the Rev. H. Lyman Johns.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her mother, had no attendants. Frank P. Wilds, uncle of the bride, was best man. There was no reception.

After a wedding trip to Canada the couple will go to Nevada, where they will live. Mr. Edmiston is in the advertising business. The bride's father is the editor of The Southwest Daily Mail of Nevada.

Lapolice—Kennedy.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., Aug. 12.—Miss Kathleen M. Kennedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Kennedy of Greenwich, was married to Edward Lapolice of Stamford in New York Saturday, it was announced today. Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Mottolese attended the couple. Mr. Lapolice is with the petroleum and power company of Stamford.

HERONS NEST IN PARK LAKE.

Nineteen of Huge White Birds Settle Near Bear Mountain.

Special to The New York Times.

STONY POINT, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Major W. A. Welch, chief engineer and general manager of the Palisades Interstate Park system, announced today that nineteen great white herons have suddenly settled in Bear Mountain Park. This is the first time in many years any of the species have been found in this area.

The herons are somewhat like a stork in appearance and stand from three to four feet high. Their arrival indicates a continuation of hot weather for some time to come, some observers say. Herons ordinarily are found in the South, and particularly along the Gulf of Mexico.

"We were amazed to discover the flock of herons in one of the beaver swamps in the park," said Major Welch. "None has been seen here in my twenty-five years around the park, nor long before that."

The herons are making nests in Lake Nawahunta in the park.

HOOVER SENDS GREETING.

Congratulates Hindenburg on Tenth Anniversary of Republic.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—President Hoover congratulated President von Hindenberg on the anniversary of the founding of the German Republic in a message dispatched yesterday and given out here today, reading as follows:

Aug. 11, 1929.

His Excellency, President von Hindenburg,
Berlin, Germany.

I beg of Your Excellency to accept my heartiest congratulations on this anniversary of the founding of the German Republic.

THE CASCADES
"Atop the Biltmore"

SOME philosopher has said that there is a vast difference between eating dinner and dining. So there is. You dine at The Biltmore Cascades. The music is delightful and the china is unlike the usual hotel ware. The napery and the silverware, chaste in design and pattern, added to the attention of trained waiters, all tend to enhance your enjoyment of the food which is par excellence, prepared by a Chef of international fame.

Summer heat can never reach the Cascades.

William Fox, One-Hand Golfer, Makes His Third Hole-in-One

Despite an accident in childhood which forces him to play golf with one hand, William Fox, president of the Fox Film Corporation, made his third hole-in-one yesterday at the Woodmere course on Long Island.

Mr. Fox said that this was his first game since the automobile accident on July 17, in which his chauffeur was killed and he and a friend were injured. He left the Nassau Hospital at Mineola one week ago.

Jacob L. Rubenstein, his friend who was in the wreck, was the other member of yesterday's golfing two-some. The hole that Mr. Fox made in one stroke yesterday was the seventeenth, which requires the spanning of a water hazard in a 150-yard drive.

"I made my first hole-in-one at the water hole at the Belleclaire Country Club in November, 1924," Mr. Fox said. "The second occurred on the ninth hole at Woodmere in 1927. Of course, I know that all three have been a matter of luck."

He added that his card for the eighteen holes yesterday was 82.

FOR ROAD TO GREAT SMOKY

Tennessee Governor Gives Plan for Highway From Knoxville.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 12 (AP).—The Journal today said that Governor Henry W. Horton of Tennessee had authorized the newspaper to announce his proposal for a boulevard from Knoxville into Great Smoky Mountain National Park to cost between $3,000,000 and $5,000,000.

A 300-foot right of way, a paved highway of twenty-five to thirty-five miles in length and thirty-five feet in breadth, and garden space and other roadways along the sides would be built under the plan. The Executive proposed that the Federal Government, the State and the counties to be traversed construct the road jointly.

Development of his plan, the Governor said, would depend upon completion of purchases of 150,000 acres of land for the park by the Federal Government, Federal approval and aid in construction of the road and donation of a 300-foot right of way by landowners along the route.

Previous proposals for a highway from Knoxville to the park have been endorsed by Senator K. D. McKellar and Representative Will Taylor.

Governor Horton would have the boulevard named the "Volunteer State Memorial Highway," dedicated to volunteers in all wars.

GREENWICH VILLAGER TALKS OF SOUTH SEAS

Gustav Davidson Returns From 15 Months of Wandering in Strange Islands.

The South Sea Islands have been conquered again, the latest follower in the footsteps of Melville, O'Brien and Maugham being Gustav Davidson, a resident of New York's own Greenwich Village. Mr. Davidson, who titles himself as an author and critic, arrived yesterday from Panama.

Mr. Davidson told how two members of his expedition, Phineas K. Haskevitch of Paris and William B. Hargrave of Colfox, Wash., set out late in April and were never seen again. They were in a one-ton native boat and were en route to Tahiti by way of Tubuai. He said he searched the islands thoroughly, but without success.

When he left New York fifteen months ago Mr. Davidson took with him a Bible, a dictionary and an almanac. His parting words were: "New York dissipates me. * * * I am looking forward to a spiritual rejuvenation in my adventure."

When he began his rejuvenation, he said, his arrival among the Austral Islanders was an occasion "for holiday making, community singing and the exhibition of their Sunday finery." Mr. Davidson said further that he was the first white man to establish a residence on Maria Island. The only other inhabitants were birds, he said, and there were a great many boobies among them. He tried to bring back specimens, but the birds died before he reached Cristobal.

EQUAL PAY FOR TEACHERS.

Jersey Board Bars Discrimination Against Women in Bayonne.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 12.—Sex discrimination in the matter of salary was condemned today by Commissioner Elliott of the State Department of Education, who ordered the Perth Amboy Board of Education to reframe its salary schedule for 1929-30 to provide equal compensation for men and women high school teachers of equal training and experience and doing equal work.

The order resulted from an appeal by sixteen women teachers who alleged discrimination in favor of the men teachers. Such discrimination is prohibited, it was pointed out, under an act of 1925.

From the facts set forth it appeared that the Perth Amboy board adopted a salary schedule in January, 1923, under which men received $300 more than women. In December, 1926, the maximum salaries were increased and the discrimination continued. In January of this year a common maximum was fixed, but a number of years would be necessary for some of the teachers to reach it, an arrangement still to the disadvantage of the women.

I., Aug. 12.—The Republicans of Smithtown District 1 have elected the following officers, according to an announcement today: County committee members, Hamilton Potter and Mrs. John Wood; delegates to town convention, Mrs. Caroline Thompson and Jacob Franz; alternates, William Oliver, George Beadle, Joseph Haffner and Mrs. William Jones.

Woman Heads for First Time Quaker City Department

PHILADELPHIA Aug. 12 (AP).—For the first time in the history of Philadelphia's municipal government, a woman is at the head of one of its city departments.

She is Mrs. Henry Hall Sinnamon. When John F. Dugan turned in his resignation today to Mayor Mackey, as Director of Public Welfare, Mrs. Sinnamon, Assistant Director, became the "acting Director."

Mayor Mackey would not indicate whether she would be appointed as Dugan's successor.

$7,000 STOCK FIND WINS BOY $2 REWARD

Messenger Picks Up Negotiable Securities in Wall Street— Returns Them to Brokers.

Hurrying along Wall Street at 1:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Eugene A. Sullivan Jr., 14 years old, a messenger for the Commercial Cables Company, saw several sheets of paper stuck in a crevice between a length of water pipe and the curb near the corner of Broad Street. Thousands of persons had probably seen the paper and passed on. Eugene picked it up.

Examination revealed that the paper included three shares of Detroit Edison stock and ninety shares of Paramount Pictures Corporation, all negotiable. Pinned to the certificates was a slip bearing the name of the Stern Kempner Company, 50 Broadway. Eugene hurried to the broker's office.

Clerks asked the boy his business, but he refused to deal with them. He was ushered into the main office, where he learned that the stocks were worth about $7,000.

Ten minutes later, warm with the praise his honesty had earned and clutching a two-dollar bill as additional reward, Eugene hurried over to the Cotton Exchange, where his father has charge of commercial cables.

"He's a good kid," the father said proudly last night in his home at 90-40 Fifty-fifth Avenue, in Elmhurst, Queens. "I'm glad that he acted the way he did. The reward doesn't mean a thing to me. I think a great deal more of the fact that Eugene showed he had the right stuff in him. I wouldn't have cared, now, if he hadn't received one cent."

Eugene is working as a messenger only during the Summer months. He is in his second term at Regis High School, the Jesuit institution at East Eighty-fourth Street, and is trying to earn enough to help him through Fordham College when he graduates from high school.

BUYS FAMOUS VIOLIN.

J. T. Richards of Hartford Gets a Guarnerius From England.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 12 (AP).—John T. Richards of Hartford, collector of famous violins, today had another instrument in his collection. It is "The Beauty," a historic Guarnerius, valued at $100,000.

Mr. Richards's latest acquisition arrived on the Mauretania last week and is now in the vaults of a New York music company for safe keeping. He has refused to reveal its purchase price.

"The Beauty" was in the Plowden collection in England for fifty years. It is said to have been made by Joseph Guarnerius del Gesu, greatest instrument maker of his family, at Cremona, where Stradivarius also worked. Mr. Richards owns various other famous violins, including the Betts Stradivarius.

TRIES TO FORCE WAY TO HELEN WILLS'S HOME

Man Who Threatened Tennis Champion in Letters Struggles With Her Father at Berkeley.

BERKELEY, Cal., Aug. 12 (AP).—Police failed today to find a man who was forcibly refused entrance to the Home of Miss Helen Wills, women's tennis champion, after he had identified himself as the writer of threatening letters received by the champion.

The man gave the name of John Bowden and said he was stopping at a San Francisco hotel.

Dr. C. A. Wills, Helen's father, struggled with him at the door and then called the police, but their search in a near-by wooded section and at the hotel was in vain. The threatening letters, Dr. Wills said, had been postmarked Chicago. Miss Wills herself is now in New York.

Miss Wills, who is staying at the Forest Hills Inn, Forest Hills, L. I., could not be reached last night for comment on the dispatch telling of the attempt to enter her California home. A woman friend who answered the telephone in her suite, however, said that neither she nor Miss Wills had heard anything of the incident and that Miss Wills had received no threatening letters.

WIDOW TO PAY FOR HAVOC.

Agrees in Court to Make Good Damage to Hotel Due to Her Eviction.

Following a lecture on behavior in New York hotels, Magistrate Albert H. Vitale, in the West Side Court, yesterday suspended sentence on Mrs. Hervise Morrison, 33 years old, on her promise to deposit $200 with the court as part payment for damage she had caused in the Hotel Maryland, 104 West Forty-ninth Street, while she was being ejected from the lobby early in the morning.

Mrs. Morrison, who said she was a widow and lived with her parents at the Ritz Carlton Hotel, was arrested on complaint of Harold Reynolds, owner of the Hotel Maryland. He testified she entered the lobby in an intoxicated condition and seated herself behind the cashier's desk. She told the magistrate that she had been drinking at a party and did not remember what happened. Sentence was suspended on her own offer to make good the damage.

BONDS

Months of high money rates have depressed bond prices to levels which now make many issues attractive both on a yield basis and for possibility of price appreciation in the event of a trend toward easier interest rates.

In our recently published lists of bond investment suggestions the average approximate yield for 93 issues offered was 6.07%.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Recover Quickly Under Leadership of Pivotal Issues in Day of Broad Gains.

The stock market's rebound from the crash of last week, started on Saturday, was continued yesterday with a considerable degree of vigor, under the leadership of the best class of industrial and railroad shares. Three factors were uppermost in the robust recovery: first, skillful leadership of the market with such pivotal stocks as United States Steel common, American Telephone and Telegraph, Atchison and New York Central in the forefront; second, the mood of the general public to accumulate securities on sizable reactions; third, hurried short covering by professionals who found themselves mistaken in their theory that stocks sold for the decline would yield an immediate profit.

Possibly it may be said that the dealings of the last two trading days have represented the answer of the stock market to the advance of the rediscount rate to 6 per cent. Certainly there was no evidence of hesitation or apprehension in yesterday's vigorous rally, although it was accomplished on dealings of but little more than 3,500,000 shares, not an abnormally large turn-over as markets go these days. Many of the best class of stocks are now back to about the levels at which they were selling before the rate was raised, although, of course, the average has not yet been fully regained. It will be interesting to see how these wild gyrations in the stock market work out in terms of brokers' loans, which at the time of the last Federal Reserve statement were above the $6,000,000,000 mark for the first time. A continued expansion of this loan account, quite naturally, would not fit in with the Reserve Board's stand for credit readjustment. On the other hand the attitude of the stock market in the last two days does not indicate that there has been any real liquidation of security holdings, such as the board evidently desires to bring about.

In one direction, at least, the plans for credit readjustment are going forward. The New York Reserve Bank, according to bill dealers, has re-entered the acceptance market and is engaged in replenishing its portfolio, which in July ran off to the lowest point in five years. However, no overnight change in money conditions is to be anticipated. Improvement, as it develops, is likely to be gradual. Call money was quoted at 8 per cent yesterday, with a 9 per cent level for time funds, both rates unchanged. The money situation is so intertwined with the fortunes of industry and agriculture this Autumn as to command unusual interest, and some measure of apprehension, too, at home and abroad.

Yesterday's decline in wheat carried future options to the lowest price since mid-July. Rain in the Argentine was a factor, but of more importance was the vast increase which has taken place in the visible supply, a sure indication that the farmer has overloaded his own market. It now amounts to 156,013,000 bushels, as compared with but 12,055,000 at this time last year.

FIGHTS BAN ON AIR STOCK.

Montgomery Denies Fraud in Sale of Crescent Company Shares.

Denying that any fraudulent representations had been made by himself or his company in sale of the stock of the Crescent Aircraft Corporation, of which Clarence D. Chamberlin is president, Arthur Montgomery opposed yesterday before Supreme Justice Callaghan in Brooklyn the continuation of an injunction restraining stock-selling operations of himself, Harry J. Taylor and William Schack, doing business under the name of Hadley & Co., 1 Broadway, New York, and Joseph Morris, described as a former employe. Montgomery alleged that Chamberlin had failed to prepare and submit to the Airvin Transportation Company plans for airplanes ordered by that company, and therefore representation made in Hadley & Co.'s market letter that the Crescent Aircraft Corporation would receive one of the largest orders ever obtained for aircraft manufacture, had failed to come true.

The injunction was asked by Deputy Assistant Attorney General Clarence W. Donovan, who told the court that Hadley & Co. had bought the Crescent Aircraft Corporation stock at $4 a share and unloaded it at $14. The aircraft company, Donovan said, had only one airplane and no place to build any more, and there was nothing in sight to give the stock the value the defendants claimed for it. Montgomery said that all statements regarding the stock were true at the time they were made.

SCHRAFFT PLAN APPROVED.

Stockholders Confirm Share Expansion of Shattuck Company.

Stockholders of the Frank G. Shattuck Company, operators of Schrafft stores and restaurants, yesterday approved the proposition to increase the authorized capital stock from 400,000 to 1,500,000 shares. Of the new stock a stock dividend of 200 per cent will be paid on Aug. 20, to stockholders of record Aug. 15, and 50,000 shares will be set aside for issuance to employes from time to time and on terms to be decided by the directors, with the proviso that the price at which it is allotted shall not be less than two-thirds of the market value of the stock.

The stock dividend requirements will cause 1,050,000 of the new shares to be outstanding. The 50,000-share allotment for employes brings the total shares outstanding up to 1,100,000 out of 1,500,000 authorized, as compared with 250,000 shares outstanding of an authorized 400,000 before the increase in capitalization.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

Led by United States Steel common, the stock market continued yesterday the recovery that was started on Saturday. At the end of the day most of the active issues had regained the greater part of the ground lost in the reaction which followed the advance in the rediscount rate of the New York Federal Reserve Bank. Steel was up 11⅝ points on the day; Allied Chemical 11, General Electric 7¼, American Telephone & Telegraph 6, Commercial Solvents 12, Macy 8½, National Cash Register 3⅞, Westinghouse Electric 4⅜, Stone & Webster 4¼, Standard Oil of New Jersey 3, and American Tobacco 4⅝. Transactions on the Stock Exchange aggregated 3,610,090 shares. The stock market community was in a cheerful frame of mind, largely because of the action of some of the high-priced issues, such as Steel and American Telephone & Telegraph. The call-money rate held at 8 per cent all day.

***

Reserve Begins to Buy.

Reports current in bill market circles yesterday were that the effects of the reduction in the Reserve's bill buying rate are being felt. The bank of issue was said to have been a fairly heavy buyer for its own account yesterday for the first time in months. If the Reserve adds extensively to its holdings during the next few weeks, as seems likely to be the case, the money market is bound to feel the easing effects of such a move. That the increased discount rate will bring an immediate reduction in member bank borrowing at the Reserve is not looked upon as being anything like a certainty in banking circles. The present discount rate of 6 per cent is still well below current market rates for both time and call money, it is pointed out, and can in no sense be described as a penalty rate.

Trading Intelligence.

Those who have contended that one of the chief dangers of the present bull market is the supposed heavy participation of inexperienced and ill-informed traders received some setback to their thesis in the conduct of the stock market in the face of the advance in the rediscount rate. Following the first fright on Friday morning, traders seem to have regained their nerves with astonishing rapidity. It was quickly realized in commission house circles that Thursday's action of the Federal Reserve Bank was very far from being a conventional step. The reduction in the bill-buying rate took away whatever sting lay in the advance in the discount rate and actually made for an improvement in the credit situation.

No English Credit.

The action of the pound sterling during the last few days should set at rest the rumors which have been repeatedly cropping up that Montagu Norman, Governor of the Bank of England, had obtained a credit here on his recent visit for the purpose of supporting sterling exchange. At the time the rumor first appeared it was discredited in informed quarters, yet it has persisted. So far from sterling having the support in this market, which a credit would provide, it now seems very likely that the present week will witness engagements of gold in London for transfer here. The Majestic will sail from England tomorrow and bankers consider it not unlikely that she will carry gold obtained either directly from the Bank of England or in the open market today.

***

Market Casualties Light.

The swift recovery of the stock market from its low point of last Friday has limited the casualties, and it was said yesterday in brokerage offices that the number of customers who "went overboard" in the market smash last week was unusually small, particularly in view of the drop which many stocks experienced. Rather, it was the testimony of brokers that many of their customers were buyers during the market's weakest moments, finding it a splendid opportunity to average down on their holdings. The excellent condition of most accounts, due to the demand for high margins, also was considered an important factor in the sharp recovery which has taken place.

***

Secondary Reaction Anticipated.

Although it was not evident in the action of the market yesterday, professional Wall Street is inclined to anticipate a secondary reaction from the blow of last week. It follows the theory that a great deal of stock is always bought for the purpose of supporting the market and getting it stabilized, which is again for sale when this purpose has been accomplished. However, this secondary reaction is not expected to be of long duration, and while a number of the market letters of Stock Exchange houses issued yesterday advocated the lightening of speculative commitments the majority of them continued to present lists of stocks which in their opinion will "do better."

***

The Oils Come to Life.

Holders of oil shares had the satisfaction yesterday of seeing this group get into action after a series of abortive attempts in that direction. They were not sure that the long-promised advance was under way, because experience has demonstrated that the oils do not always "carry through." The group had the benefit of leadership by the Standard of New Jersey, the largest company in the country.

***

Rail Rates and the Farmer.

The proposal of Senator Walsh of Massachusetts for a decrease in railroad freight rates to aid the farmer was made the occasion of comment in railroad circles yesterday. Senator Walsh suggested that agricultural rates be reduced and that tariffs on manufactured goods be raised to compensate the carriers therefor. It was suggested by one railroad man that this idea had been embodied in the Hoch-Smith resolution, now some years old, and that, notwithstanding, the farm situation was still crying for help. Railroad men were more inclined to take the view that the Interstate Commerce Commission had reason on its side when recently it advocated increased rates for railroads which move much farm produce.

MONEY.

Monday, Aug. 12, 1929.

The money market was unchanged yesterday. Call funds went all day at 8 per cent, unchanged from Friday's figure. Time money was quoted at 9 per cent for all maturities, but comparatively little business was done.

The Brown Paper Mill Company, Inc.

First (Closed) Mortgage Sinking Fund 6% Gold Bonds, Series B

Dated June 1, 1929 Due June 1, 1944

Principal and semi-annual interest, June 1 and December 1, payable in Chicago or New Orleans. Interest payable without deduction for any Federal Income Tax not in excess of 2%. Coupon Bonds, registerable as to principal, in $1,000 and $500 denominations. Redeemable at the option of the Company, in whole or in part, on any interest date on 30 days' published notice at 100 and accrued interest, plus a premium of ½ of 1% for each year or part thereof of unexpired life, the call price in no instance, however, to exceed 103 and accrued interest.

Mr. H. L. Brown, President of the Company, summarizes the following information:

Business and Property: The Brown Paper Mill Company, Inc., a Delaware Corporation, is an important manufacturer and distributor of kraft paper and kraft paper board, used for various commercial purposes such as wrapping paper, bags and container board for paper boxes. The Company owns and operates a modern pulp and paper mill at Monroe, Louisiana, having a present capacity of about 150 tons per day. Upon completion, in the summer of 1930, of proposed additions to plant and equipment, the capacity will be increased to about 350 tons per day.

Purpose of Issue: The proceeds from the sale of these $1,500,000 First Mortgage 6% Bonds and from $3,000,000 6% Debentures due July 1, 1939, will be deposited with the Trustee and used, together with other cash appropriated by the Company, for the additions to plant and equipment referred to above. The certificate of Mr. George F. Hardy, Consulting Engineer, will be a condition of all payments to the Company from the deposited funds.

Security: These $1,500,000 First Mortgage Bonds, Series B, due June 1, 1944, together with $2,350,000 First Mortgage Serial 6% Bonds, due June 1, 1930-41, will be secured by a first (closed) mortgage on all the fixed properties of the Company now owned and described above, or hereafter acquired, including the additional plant and equipment to be constructed.

Mr. George F. Hardy has estimated that in his judgment, upon completion of the additions mentioned above, the fixed assets upon which the First Mortgage Bonds will be a first lien will have a conservative replacement value of not less than $10,000,000.

Earnings: As certified by Arthur Young & Company, earnings for the two years and six months ended June 30, 1929, and annual earnings, as estimated by Mr. George F. Hardy, upon completion of contemplated additions, are as follows:

	Earnings for Calendar Year 1927	Earnings for Calendar Year 1928	Earnings for 6 Months Ending June 30, 1929	Estimated Annual Earnings Upon Completion of Plant Additions
Net Earnings Available for Depreciation, Interest and Federal Taxes	$562,877	$925,762	$747,411	$2,500,000
Depreciation	183,752	255,733	128,372	300,000
Balance Available for Interest and Federal Taxes	$379,125	$670,029	$619,039	$2,200,000

Annual Interest Requirements:
On First Mortgage Bonds to be Outstanding $231,000
On 6% Debentures to be Outstanding 180,000

As shown above, net earnings after depreciation for the six months ended June 30, 1929, were at the rate of more than 5¼ times interest requirements on First Mortgage Bonds to be outstanding, and more than 3 times total annual interest requirements. Such annual estimated net earnings are more than 9 times interest requirements on First Mortgage Bonds and more than 5¼ times total annual interest requirements.

Sinking Fund: The Trust Deed will provide for an annual Sinking Fund payment to the Corporate Trustee beginning April 1, 1932, of a sum sufficient to retire not less than $75,000 principal amount of these Series B Bonds annually.

Listed on the Chicago Stock Exchange

These Bonds are offered when, as and if issued and accepted by us, subject to the approval of our Counsel. It is expected that Trustee's Interim Receipts, later exchangeable for Definitive Bonds, will be ready for delivery on or about August 29, 1929.

Federal Advertisement, March 24

Now $75 and Less Than 7 Times Earnings

THE steady rise of Federated Capital common stock has been accompanied by an even more rapid growth of the company's earned surplus. That is why present Federated stockholders keep this security for investment and refuse to take their profits—in some cases over 200%.

Federated Capital is now using these excess earnings to increase further the income which it derives from investment in the securities of 272 of America's giant banks, railroads, utilities and industrial companies.

We again recommend Federated Capital stock as an excellent long-term investment.

WHEAT PRICES FALL ON LIQUIDATION

Record Movement, Weather News and Slow Export Demand Are Factors.

VALUES DROP TO NEW LOW

Demand for Corn Also Light, but Crop Comments Are More Favorable—Close Is Lower.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—The record movement and accumulation of supplies of wheat, with rains in parts of Argentina and Australia, a slow export demand and a bearish construction placed on the Canadian crop report by foreigners ran the market into general liquidation today, with many stop-loss orders caught on the way down. Values dropped 5¾ to 5⅝ cents from the finish of Saturday to a new low on the present movement, the lowest figures since July 13. Short covering made a small rally from the bottom, with the close at net losses of 3⅝ to 4¼ cents.

Support was lacking a good part of the time. The failure of foreigners to take cash wheat on a liberal scale in the face of the small supplies abroad dampened bullish enthusiasm to some extent. The record increase of 16,626,000 bushels in the visible supply for the week also had some effect. The latter aggregates 156,013,000 bushels, against 137,387,000 bushels the previous week and 72,055,000 bushels last year.

Based on the closing price of the September delivery today there is $206,000,000 tied up in wheat at terminals at the present time, without allowing for the thousands of cars on track awaiting unloading. At this time last year only $80,000,000 was required to carry the grain. Since July 1 this year the visible supply has increased 62,300,000 bushels, compared with 38,000,000 bushels last year, while terminal markets have received 36,000,000 bushels more than during the same period in 1928.

Liverpool closed 2⅞ to 3⅜ pence lower.

A small amount of business with Europe was said to have been put through in hard Winters and Manitobas, but the quantities were not given. Charters were for 500,000 bushels to Georgian Bay. The local spot basis was steady to 1 cent lower, while at the Gulf the basis was 1 cent higher.

Primary arrivals today aggregated 6,034,000 bushels; week ago, 8,318,000 bushels; last year, 4,533,000 bushels. Shipments, 2,257,000 bushels; week ago, 1,231,000 bushels; year ago, 2,014,000 bushels.

Support was lacking in corn, and with wheat weak and crop comments somewhat more favorable for the northern section, the finish was 1½ to 2¼ cents lower. The close was on a moderate rally from the inside figure.

Cash basis was steady to ½ cent higher, with shipping sales of 90,000 bushels, and charters were made for that quantity to the East. The visible supply decreased 466,000 bushels for the week and is 8,285,000 bushels, against 8,571,000 bushels the previous week and 13,432,000 bushels last year.

Primary receipts, 786,000 bushels; week ago, 1,231,000 bushels; last year, 1,328,000 bushels. Shipments, 486,000 bushels; week ago, 526,000 bushels; last year, 561,000 bushels.

New oats have started to move freely, and today's receipts here of 453 cars were said by the trade to be the largest in more than a year. The spot basis was ¼ to 1 cent lower. Futures closed 1¾ to 2¼ cents lower. There was further buying of rye futures by interests which were on that side the greater part of last week, but the Northwest and locals sold and the finish was 2¾ to 3 cents lower.

Prices for the principal grains were as follows:

AMERADA GETS $5,000,000.

Receives First Payment in Sale of Oil Land to Standard.

Payment of $5,000,000 was received yesterday by the Amerada Petroleum Corporation, representing the initial cash consideration due under the recently signed contract for the sale to the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, through its subsidiary, the Dixie Oil Company, of an undivided half interest in that part of the Oklahoma and Kansas leasehold of the Amerada corporation upon which production had not been developed up to July 3. Half interest in about 490,000 acres was sold for $10,000,000, of which the remaining $5,000,000 is to be paid, free of all costs to Amerada, out of one-half the Dixie company's interest in the oil produced upon the properties.

The payment made yesterday has brought the cash on hand of the Amerada company to more than $7,500,000 as compared with $3,436,346 on Dec. 31, 1928, according to a statement by the company. Current assets now approximate $12,500,000 and current liabilities $750,000, a ratio of 16.6 to 1. This compares with current assets of $8,270,242 and current liabilities of $1,228,610, a ratio of 6.1 to 1, as of Dec. 31.

CALLAWAY TO HEAD BANK ASSOCIATION

New Yorker Nominated by the Investment Body to Succeed Wilbur of Cleveland.

Nominations for the new officers of the Investment Bankers' Association of America, which were announced yesterday in Chicago, named Trowbridge Callaway of Callaway, Fish & Co., New York, for the office of president; Jerome J. Hanauer of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., New York, for vice president, and Alden H. Little of Chicago as executive vice president. Mr. Callaway will succeed Rollin A. Wilbur of Cleveland as president of the association. Mr. Hanauer has been renominated for the post he now holds.

Four nominations for vice presidents have been placed on the slate. They are William J. Wardall of Bonbright & Co., Chicago; Sidney R. Small of Harris Small & Co., Detroit; Henry T. Ferriss of the First National Company, St. Louis, and Willis K. Clark of George H. Burr, Conrad & Broom, Inc., Portland, Ore. These four succeed Joseph R. Swan of New York, Frank M. Borden of Chicago, Carroll J. Waddell of Philadelphia and Joseph L. Seybold of Minneapolis.

Nominations to fill unexpired terms on the board of governors are: A. A. Greenman of the Northwestern Trust Company, St. Paul, to succeed Sidney R. Small, Detroit, nominated a vice president; Albert E. Schwabacher of Schwabacher & Co., San Francisco, to succeed Trowbridge Callaway, New York, nominated president; Ralph Hornblower of Hornblower & Weeks, Boston, to succeed Herbert F. Boynton, New York, resigned.

Ten nominations were made for regular terms on the board of governors expiring in 1932. They are as follows:

George N. Lindsay of the Bancamerica-Blair Corporation, New York; Allen M. Pope of the First National Corporation of Boston, New York; Arthur H. Gilbert of Spencer Trask & Co., Chicago; Edward Hopkinson Jr. of Drexel & Co., Philadelphia; Ralph Fordon of Backus, Fordon & Co., Detroit; George G. Applegate of George D. Applegate, Pittsburgh; James H. Daggett of the Marshall & Ilsley Bank, Milwaukee; George W. Robertson of the Canal Bank and Trust Company, New Orleans; Rogers Caldwell of Caldwell & Co., Nashville; Meade H. Willis of the Wachovia Bank and Trust Company, Winston-Salem, N. C.

Nominees to the board of governors will take office at the close of the association's eighteenth annual convention, to be held in Quebec from Oct. 12 to 18. In the selection of members of the board it has been customary to consider nomination as equivalent to election.

Mr. Callaway, who has been selected for the presidency, has had a distinguished career in investment banking. In the development of the investment banking business since the war he has played a prominent part in solving many difficult problems that have risen.

SEATTLE'S BANK MERGER.

New Institution to Be the First-Seattle-Dexter Horton National.

The name of the bank formed in Seattle by the merger of the First National, Dexter Horton National and Seattle National Banks will be the First-Seattle-Dexter Horton National Bank. The bank's capital, surplus and undivided profits will total $10,000,000. The First-Seattle-Dexter Horton Securities Company will be affiliated with it.

The affiliate will own the capital stock in the Metropolitan National, University National, First Greenwood National, First Canal, First Rainier Valley and First Security Banks, the Bank for Savings, the Dexter Horton State Bank, the First Securities Company, the Dexter Horton Securities Company and the Seattle National Company.

M. A. Arnold, president of the First National, will be president of the new bank.

BANK PLANS STOCK SPLIT.

Stockholders of Lynbrook National to Vote on Sept. 10 on Change.

A special meeting of the stockholders of the Lynbrook National Bank and Trust Company has been called for Sept. 10 to vote upon the proposal to reduce the par value of the capital shares of the bank from $100 to $10 and to split the present shares ten for one. There will be no change in the capital of the bank, which stands at $155,000.

A limited number of shares, at present held under option, will be offered to depositors and the public, it is stated. This will be the first offering of the bank's stock since the institution was organized in 1907. Subscriptions for the shares will be received at the bank on a when-issued basis, subject to allotment.

Changes to National Bank.

Effective on Aug. 10, the Asbury Park National Bank and Trust Company, a conversion of the Asbury Park Trust Company, became a member of the Federal Reserve System, it was announced yesterday. The bank has capital of $300,000 and surplus of like amount. William J. Couse is president and James Forsythe cashier. The bank has been in business eighteen years as a State chartered trust company. By conversion to a national bank, membership in the Federal Reserve became obligatory.

STOCKHOLDERS VOTE CHASE-PARK MERGER

Bank Consolidation Will Go Into Effect at Close of Business on Aug. 24.

RESOURCES $1,700,000,000

Wiggin Will Be Chairman and McCain President—Stock Dividend of 500,000 Shares.

Stockholders of the Chase National Bank and the National Park Bank met yesterday and approved the merger of the two institutions into a bank having capital, surplus and undivided profits of approximately $238,000,000, to be operated under the name and charter of the Chase National Bank. The combined bank will have deposits of $1,200,000,000 and total resources, including those of the security affiliate, will be in excess of $1,700,000,000, it is estimated. The merger is to become effective at the close of business on Aug. 24.

In carrying out the provisions of the plan, the Chase will increase its capital from $80,000,000 to $105,000,000, to consist of 5,250,000 shares of $20 par value. Of the additional 1,250,000 shares it is planned to allot 750,000 to stockholders of the National Park Bank in a share-for-share exchange, after an equalizing stock dividend of 500,000 shares which is to be paid to shareholders of the Chase of record at the close of business Aug. 23, in the ratio of one new share for each eight held.

Upon completion of all capital adjustments the enlarged institution will have capital of $105,000,000 and surplus of a like amount. Undivided profits will total not less than $28,000,000, giving total capital funds of $238,000,000. The Chase Securities Corporation, securities subsidiary of the bank, will have capital funds totaling about $106,250,000, following its merger with the Parkbane Corporation. Including the capital funds of the securities company, the institution will have capital funds of over $340,000,000.

Albert H. Wiggin, chairman of the Chase, will continue in the senior executive position, while Charles S. McCain, president of the National Park, will become president of the enlarged bank. He will succeed Robert L. Clarkson, who becomes vice chairman of the board of directors. Mr. Clarkson has been in ill health for some time. John McHugh will be chairman of the executive committee.

Other officers of the two banks will continue as officers of the enlarged bank and the combined boards of directors of the two institutions will constitute the directorate of the merged bank.

The institution will have twenty-eight offices in New York City and Brooklyn and three foreign branches. It is anticipated that a dividend of $4 a share will be declared on the shares of the consolidated institution.

HITS RESERVE BOARD AGAIN.

E. C. Stokes Asserts Its Rate-Rise Policy Is Destructive.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 12.—Asserting that the policy of the Federal Reserve Board in determining the increase in the rediscount rate in New York City in secret session and then announcing it without warning was destructive rather than constructive, former Governor Edward C. Stokes today issued a statement in support of a telegram which he sent last week to the Controller of the Currency in Washington. Mr. Stokes is chairman of the board of directors of the First Mechanics National Bank of Trenton.

"The position of the Federal Reserve Banks, unlike the Bank of England, is exceptionally strong," Mr. Stokes said. "The ratio on May 25 was 75.9, against 70 a year ago. The ratio of the New York Reserve Bank was 84.4, against 72.5 for the same period a year ago. Yet a year ago, with less reserve than at present, the rediscount rate was 3½ per cent against 5 per cent today. The increased rate of rediscount therefore was not necessitated by the condition of the Federal Reserve Bank reserves. It should have been lowered rather than increased.

EARNINGS AND EQUITY

Net income for twelve months ending June 29, 1929, was equivalent to 12.54% on the average paid-in capital and paid-in surplus during the period. Such net income, after all charges, including Federal Taxes, as reported by Messrs. Ernst & Ernst, plus estimated income at the rate of 6% on the new capital to be provided by this financing, totaled $1,293,960, or 2.15 times the maximum annual dividend requirements on all of the Company's preferred stock to be outstanding.

These figures do not reflect the full use of the Company's present capital inasmuch as substantial additions to capital were made during the twelve months' period. The Company had, in addition, on June 29, 1929, unrealized profits of over $4,500,000, based upon indicated market values of investments, equivalent to over $45 per share on the total amount of preferred stock to be presently outstanding.

The $10,000,000 of preferred stock to be outstanding is followed by 258,637 Common shares with a present market value of over $22,000,000.

We offer the balance of this Stock not subscribed for by stockholders of the Company, when, as and if issued and accepted by us, with legal procedure subject to approval of Messrs. Tolles, Hogsett & Ginn, of Cleveland, for the Company, and Messrs. Squire, Sanders & Dempsey, of Cleveland, for the Bankers. Delivery is expected to be made on or about August 22, 1929, in the form of temporary or permanent certificates.

CANADA HOLDS LEAD IN TRADE WITH US

Both Exports and Imports Show Gain for First Half of the Year.

$1,120,148,503 TO EUROPE

Imports From Asia of Greatest Value in World Divisions, With Europe Next.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—With American exports totaling $2,623,244,521 and imports $2,286,353,421 in the first half of the year, the Department of Commerce announced today the grand divisions of the world to which goods were sent.

Europe took the most with a total value of $1,120,148,503, followed by North America, Asia, South America, Oceania and Africa in the order named. The greatest value of imports was for Asia, followed by Europe, North America, South America, Africa and Oceania.

As to international trade, Canada was our leader for both exports and imports. The shipments to that country in the first half of the year were valued at $502,538,264, compared with $423,849,078 in 1928. Imports from Canada were $247,980,145, compared with $232,068,281 in 1928.

Increases in exports to the following countries took place in the first half of the year compared with the first half of 1928:

Belgium, $54,609,233 to $80,700,426.
France, $103,135,034 to $122,592,129.
United Kingdom, $384,824,557 to $402,305,371.
Argentina, $80,176,479 to $108,067,233.
Japan, $122,922,960 to $126,545,342.

Exports to Germany decreased from $206,038,751 in the first half of last year to $180,354,695 this year.

Imports from Germany increased from $102,261,333 in 1928 to $125,992,313 this year. Other increases in imports were:

Cuba—From $112,003,538 in 1928 to $123,286,425 in 1929.
British Malaya—From $119,641,916 in 1928 to $137,060,447 in 1929.
Japan—From $186,700,330 in 1928 to $201,730,068 in 1929.
Philippine Islands—From $64,985,667 in 1928 to $71,652,686 in 1929.

Imports from the United Kingdom fell from $175,644,151 in 1928 to $169,596,932 in 1929.

Exports and imports for world groups were as follows:

UTILITY EARNINGS.

Financial Statements Issued by Public Service Corporations.

Western Union Telegraph.

Operating revenue of the Western Union Telegraph Company in June amounted to $12,086,000, compared with $11,691,000 in the same month last year, and net operating income, after expenses, was $1,293,000, against $1,396,000. For the first half of 1929, operating revenue amounted to $71,316,000, against $65,869,000 in the first six months of 1928, and net operating income totaled $7,625,000, against $7,329,000.

Portland Electric Power.

The gross earnings of the Portland Electric Power Company in June, 1929, amounted to $1,021,982, against $1,015,115 in the same month of 1928, and the balance for dividends after taxes and charges but before depreciation, was $202,653, against $193,374. Gross earnings in the twelve months ended June 30 were $12,637,733, against $12,303,415 in the preceding year, and the surplus after depreciation and preferred dividends was $216,686, against $183,034.

Cities Service.

Sales of gas and electric appliances by subsidiaries of the Cities Service Company during the first half of this year totaled $5,068,924, an increase of $1,402,187, or 33 per cent, over sales in the first half of 1928.

General Gas and Electric.

The General Gas and Electric Corporation and subsidiaries report for the year ended June 30 gross income of $9,540,836, as compared with $9,888,810 the preceding year, a decline of 3 per cent. The balance available for dividends after interest, subsidiary preferred dividends and minority interests was $4,416,580, an increase of $1,026,570, or 30 per cent. The paring down in the amount of the deductions to the extent of 21 per cent is a reflection of the management's policy of further simplifying its financial structure. A balance of $1,757,933 remained after allowing for General Gas and Electric Corporation dividend, comparing with $1,486,590, an increase of $271,343.

General Electric Split-Up Doubted.

An unconfirmed rumor that the General Electric Company was considering an eight-for-one split-up of its common shares was not credited generally in Wall Street yesterday. The report was regarded as a revival of older rumors that a three-for-one, four-for-one or six-for-one split-up was to be made. The advance in the stock yesterday, together with its high range, was responsible for circulation of the reports.

AUTO EXPORTS RISE THIRD IN HALF YEAR

$354,874,924 Value for First Six Months Exceeds That of Year Ago by $92,200,361.

94% ABOVE 1926 PERIOD

Commerce Department Reports 14 Per Cent of Production Going to Foreign Markets.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The value of all automotive exports from the United States for the January-June period of 1929 reached the great total of $354,874,924, which exceeded the value in the corresponding period of 1928 by $92,200,361, or 35.1 per cent, the Department of Commerce announced today.

"To grasp the remarkable strides that have taken place in our sales of automotive products to the markets overseas," the department stated, "it is only necessary to compare the value of such shipments during the six months under review with the January-June total for 1926, amounting to $182,066,575. In the comparatively short period of four years we have witnessed an improvement of $172,808,351, or 94.9 per cent.

The monthly average for the first half of 1929 was $59,145,483 as against $45,779,084 in 1928, $36,893,851 in 1927 and $30,344,429 in 1926."

Heavy Demands Abroad.

Despite the great increase in domestic production, the department said that the exports market had demanded 14 per cent of the total output. This is but 1.5 per cent below the ratio during the first half of last year, although the production figures are 1,021,569 units, or 46.4 per cent above the first six months of 1928.

Passenger car shipments show an increase of 25,356 in number and $11,133,122 in value, while truck exports are 43,836, or 74.4 per cent, greater in number, and $20,277,896, or 49.6 per cent, improved in value.

The increased exports of passenger cars are accounted for by the slight gains in the low and medium price range. Shipments of the higher priced units are practically the same as in the first half of 1928.

In the truck field the 1 ton and 1½ to 2½ ton units have shown decided improvements, with exports in the latter class more than double the total recorded during the like period of last year.

Shifts in Buying Continue.

Canada's demands for American passenger cars during the first six months of the year placed that country far in the lead as our chief market in this classification. Argentina advanced to the next position, replacing Australia, which dropped to third place.

Brazil and British South Africa advanced from sixth and seventh places during the first half of the year to the fourth and fifth positions.

The average unit value for passenger cars was $689.

The three leading truck markets are unchanged and our exports to each were practically 100 per cent improved over the corresponding six months of last year. The United Kingdom replaced Sweden as the fourth largest purchaser of American trucks and Spain advanced from eleventh to sixth place.

The average truck valuation was $565.

Motorcycle exports were well maintained and Germany was again the leading purchaser. Canada supplanted Sweden in the second position and Australia's increased demands advanced this country over Czechoslovakia.

CHARGES SOUTHERN HAS VIOLATED ACT

I. C. C. Amended Complaint Says M. & O. and Northeastern Mergers Were Without Authority.

SEES COMPETITION REDUCED

Restraining of Trade in Certain Communities, Contrary to Clayton Law, Is Alleged.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12. — In an amended complaint by the Interstate Commerce Commission made public today, the Southern Railway will be called upon to show cause by Nov. 4, why an order should not be entered requiring that railway to divest itself of all interest, direct or indirect, in the capital stock and bonds of the Mobile & Ohio, and in the capital stock of the New Orleans & Northeastern.

The commission has reason to believe, it was declared, that the Southern has violated the law against unlawful restraints and monopolies.

The complaint says that about March 1, 1901, the Southern issued its Mobile and Ohio collateral trust indenture to the Guaranty Trust Company of New York as trustee, to secure its Southern-Mobile and Ohio collateral gold bonds in the amount of $9,500,000, payable Sept. 1, 1938, and bearing 4 per cent interest.

It is charged that the Southern by exchanging its stock trust certificates and receiving therefor 58,702 shares of capital stock of the Mobile & Ohio, "and by reason of respondent exchanging its Southern-Mobile & Ohio collateral gold bonds and receiving therefor Mobile & Ohio general mortgage bonds of May 15, 1938, in the aggregate amount of $7,937,000, with the voting rights vested therein as aforesaid, respondent did acquire a majority of the share capital and did acquire the control of the Mobile & Ohio without the approval and authorization of the Interstate Commerce Commission and in violation of Section 7 of the Clayton act."

The complaint also alleges that the effect of the acquisition of the Mobile & Ohio "may be to substantially lessen competition" between that road and other lines of the Southern system, "and to restrain commerce in certain sections and communities."

The commission further charges that during the latter part of 1910 and at a later period the Southern acquired 59,801 shares out of an outstanding total of 60,000 shares of the New Orleans & Northeastern without the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission and in violation of the Clayton act.

The commission makes the same complaint on the control of the Northeastern, that it "may be to substantially lessen competition," and to "restrain commerce in certain sections and communities."

GREAT NORTHERN'S PLAN.

Railroad Asks Permission for New Line of 106 Miles.

The Great Northern Railway announced yesterday that it had filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission an application for permission to build the longest railroad extension undertaken in the Northwest since before the war. It asked authorization to extend its recently proposed thirty-two mile Richey-Hambim line in Montana westward seventy-three miles to Jordan, which is 150 miles east of Lewiston. The entire extension would cost $3,000,000.

If the project is approved, the Great Northern will be able to complete nearly one-half the secondary line through Montana which James J. Hill planned years ago as part of his New Rockford-Lewiston cutoff. He contemplated a line from New Rockford, N. D., across Montana to connect with the Great Northern at Lewiston and to be built as traffic warranted. Since his survey was made trackage has been constructed gradually from Watford City, N. D., to Ritchey, Mont. This branch connects with the main line at Snowden, Mont.

ERIE HEAD HOST AT 'PICNIC.'

Denney Gives Outdoor Supper for 175 Apple Shippers.

Charles E. Denney, president of the Erie Railroad, attended a novel "railroad picnic" last night as host of 175 apple shippers who were on their way to a convention in Toronto, Ont. The apple shippers boarded a special Erie train of fifteen Pullmans at Jersey City. When they arrived at the Arden station on the Harriman estate near Middletown, N. Y., the train was run on a siding and it was announced that supper would be served in a near-by grove instead of in the dining car.

C. C. Howard, passenger traffic manager of the Erie, was master of ceremonies, assisted by R. F. O'Grady, perishable freight agent.

Eastern States Power Corporation

Class B Common Stock

TRADED ON THE NEW YORK CURB EXCHANGE

This Company was organized in 1925 by the Carlisle and Schoellkopf interests as an investment company to hold public utility, industrial and other securities. Its principal investment consists of 200,000 shares (25% of the total) of common stock of St. Regis Paper Company. The Company will also hold (when and if issued) a block of common stock of Niagara Hudson Power Corporation, and certain other securities.

St. Regis Paper Company owns over 52% of the common stock of Northeastern Power Corporation for which it will receive (when and if issued) over 4,000,000 shares of common stock and over 1,000,000 Class A Option Warrants of Niagara Hudson Power Corporation, this investment constituting one of the largest single holdings.

On December 31, 1928 this company owned investments carried at $11,830,763 which included 187,500 shares of St. Regis Paper Company Common Stock. As of August 8, 1929 the company owned 200,000 shares of St. Regis Paper Company Common Stock and the company's investments had a market value in excess of $37,500,000.

We recommend the purchase of the Class B Common Stock of Eastern States Power Corporation, now selling at a relatively small premium over its liquidating value.

BOND TRADING QUIET, CONVERTIBLES GAIN

Advance Accompanies Stock Movement, Led by American Telephone 4½s, Up 5¼.

MANY NEW LOWS IN RAILS

Sugar Issues Also Decline—Foreign Loans Dull, United States Government Group Irregular.

Trading in bonds was not very active on the Stock Exchange yesterday except in the case of the convertibles, which moved up in sympathy with stocks, led by American Telephone 4½s, which advanced 5¼ points. One feature of the market was what appeared to be some belated selling of several of the infrequently traded rail issues, suggesting that holders had heard of Friday's break in the market but had failed to take cognizance of the recoveries made on Saturday. At any rate, a fairly long list of new lows appeared in the rail issues of lesser importance.

Among the active convertibles, International Telephone 4½s jumped 4 points, New Haven convertible 6s 2 points and American I. G. Chemical 5½s 3, while the Alleghany Corporation issues showed fractional gains.

The sugar issues had a rather uncomfortable time of it. Cespedes Sugar 7½s dropped 3¾ points to 90, which was the previous low for the year. Cuba Cane Sugar 7s lost 1¾ and the 6s 1¼ a point. Cuba Dominican 7½s held unchanged at 62.

In the rail group Norfolk & Western 4s of 1996 dropped 2½ points, New Haven 4s of 1954 4 points, Ulster & Delaware 5s 3 points, Vandalia 4s 1½ points to a new low at 91, and Chicago Northwestern debenture 5s of 1933 registered 7¼ points to a new low at 92½.

Wickwire-Spencer Steel convertible 7s provided a feature in the industrials, recovering 3½ points. Pressed Steel Car 5s duplicated the previous low of 85½, off 1½ points.

Foreign loans were dull and little changed for the day. United States Government bonds were dull and irregular, with prices ranging from a decline of 13-32 point for the Treasury 3¼s of '46 an advance of 8-32 point for the Liberty 3½s.

To Offer Conversion Rights.

F. J. Lisman, president of the Consolidated Automatic Merchandising Corporation, announced yesterday that the directors had approved an offer to preferred stockholders to exchange their stock for voting trust certificates for common stock of the company on the basis of seven and one-half shares of the latter for each share of preferred stock. The privilege may be exercised until Dec. 31. Holders of preferred stock who do not accept this offer will retain their present rights of conversion.

Delivery of Autos Speeded.

Retail deliveries of 10,385 Studebaker and Erskine cars in July were announced yesterday. This figure had been exceeded only once for July in six years. Deliveries last month were 38 per cent greater than in June.

AIR MERGER NEARLY READY.

Curtiss-Wright Plan Expected to Be in Effect Thursday.

Deposit of shares of the companies of the Curtiss-Keyes and Wright-Hoyt groups of aeronautical companies was sufficient yesterday to lead Richard F. Hoyt, chairman of the organization committee of the Curtiss-Wright Corporation, the holding company under the plan, to announce that the committee expected the plan would be operative on Thursday.

The new corporation will be the holder of all the stocks of twelve companies, whose securities on June 26, when the holding company was announced, aggregated in market value more than $220,000,000, not including the value of the Travel Air Corporation, which was included in the plan only last week.

MUNICIPAL LOANS.

Announcements of New Securities to Be Offered to Bankers and the Public.

State of New Mexico.

The State of New Mexico failed to market an issue of $3,100,000 highway bonds, maturing variously from Jan. 1, 1936, to July 1, 1939, according to word received here yesterday. Although bidders were permitted to bid the interest rate, the only offer received was from a house in Chicago, which bid for $500,000 of the issue as 5½s, with an option for the balance for ninety days.

The fact that the issue is an obligation of the State Highway Commission rather than of the State itself is said to have deterred syndicates here from bidding. Another obstacle was that the State Finance Board is said to have been borrowing road funds to keep departments running until State taxes, which are receivable in December, are in hand, so that the Highway Commission is faced with the problem of obtaining funds to continue these loans to the State and to proceed with its road construction. No date has been set for reoffering of the bonds.

Atlantic City, N. J.

Atlantic City, N. J., will be in the market on Aug. 22 with a new issue of $1,500,000 short-term bonds and notes on which bidders are asked to name the interest at not to exceed 6 per cent. The issue will consist of $825,000 tax anticipation notes, due on March 31, 1930; $500,000 tax revenue bonds, due on Sept. 31, 1930, and $175,000 tax revenue bonds, due on Sept. 3, 1930.

Akron, Ohio.

Offering of a new issue of $782,000 Akron (Ohio) bonds, due serially on Oct. 1, 1930 to 1939, will be made today by Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., and E. H. Rollins & Sons at prices to yield 4.75 to 5.50 per cent. Of the total, $184,000 will consist of 5s and $598,000 of 5½ per cent bonds. The bonds are issued for street and alley improvements. The city reports an assessed valuation of $401,539,460 and a total bonded debt, including this issue, of $46,590,171.

St. Joseph, Mo.

A new issue of $500,000 St. Joseph (Mo.) School District 4 per cent building bonds, due on Feb. 1, 1930 to 1949, will be offered today at prices to yield 4.40 to 5.50 per cent. The offering syndicate will be composed of the Continental Illinois Company, Inc., the First Union Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago and the Prescott, Wright, Smider Company of Kansas City.

Glen Cove, N. Y.

The city of Glen Cove, N. Y., will open sealed bids on Aug. 23 on a new issue of bonds, maturing serially on Aug. 1, 1931 to 1954. Bidders are asked to specify the rate of interest at not to exceed 5 per cent.

New Bonds for $2,782,000 On Investment List Today

New securities totaling $2,782,000 will be placed on the market today by New York houses and syndicates. This amount will consist entirely of bonds.

The new issues are classified as follows:

Industrial	$1,500,000
Municipal	1,282,000

BOND FLOTATION.

Brown Paper Mill Company.

An additional issue of $1,500,000 Brown Paper Mill Company, Inc., first mortgage 6 per cent sinking fund bonds, Series B, due on June 1 1944, will be placed on the market today by a syndicate headed by the Continental Illinois Company, Inc. The bonds will be priced at 99, to yield about 6.10 per cent. Proceeds from this financing will be used in connection with additions to plant and capacity, which, on their completion next Summer, are expected to give the company a daily capacity of about 350 tons, compared with 150 tons at present.

$85,000 for Seat in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12 (AP).—A new high record was established today for the sale of a seat on the Chicago Stock Exchange when a membership changed hands for $85,000. The previous record was $80,000.

NEW STOCK ISSUE.

Corporation Shares to Be Offered to the Public for Subscription.

An offering of 70,000 shares of no par common stock of the Eastern Aircraft Corporation will be made soon by Charles S. Rodd & Co. The issuing company has a contract with the Bavarian Aircraft Corporation, or Bayerische Flugzeugwerke, A. G., for exclusive rights in the United States to manufacture all-metal Messerschmitt planes. Initial production will comprise three-passenger, seven-passenger and small training planes. German experts will superintend the manufacturing.

The planes were designed by Wilhelm Messerschmitt, an expert glider, and the planes have been approved by the Department of Commerce. The planes will be built at Pawtucket, R. I., where the plant of the Pressed Metal Company has been purchased.

P. C. C. & St. L. Proposes Bond Issue.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP).—The Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad today asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to approve an issue of $13,297,000 in 4½ per cent bonds. The securities will go to the Pennsylvania System in reimbursement of the Pittsburgh company's indebtedness to the corporation.

"Manhattan Trusteeship Solves Problems"

An Important Question

"What would happen to our business if one of us should suddenly die or become permanently disabled?"

This question should be asked by the members of every partnership or close corporation. Very often the continued life of the business depends upon the answer, not because of the loss of one partner's service, but because of the financial settlements and adjustments that must be made with the retiring partner or his estate.

The answer can be found and such problems easily solved through a "Manhattan Life Insurance Trust," with provisions in the trust agreement to meet the exact conditions existing in the particular firm.

For 130 years this bank has been meeting and solving the financial problems of business concerns. Through "Manhattan Trusteeship," its accumulated experience and ripened judgment are available to every partnership and close corporation.

CURB STOCKS FIRM, UTILITIES STRONG

Sustained Moderate Buying in General List Brings High Levels for Some Issues.

ADVANCES IN OIL GROUP

Industrial Shares Are Steady, With a Few Declines—Mild Profit-Taking Reported.

Moderate but sustained buying of stocks, interrupted only for brief periods twice during the day by mild profit taking, brought the Curb list as a whole into firmer territory yesterday, with a few issues reaching high levels as a result. The utilities as a group were strong, with gains of 1 to 3 points frequent.

High marks were set by Aero Supply B, American Commonwealths Power B, Crocker Wheeler, Dayton Aircraft, Power Corporation of Canada, Raybestos Manhattan and Tri-Continental Corporation. Sharp gains were shown by Buffalo, Niagara and Eastern Power, Commonwealth Edison, Electric Investors, Grigsby-Grunow, National Investors, Nevada-California Electric, Pennsylvania Water and Power, Standard Power and Light and United States Freight.

In the utility section gains were shown by Allied Power and Light American, Cities, American Superpower, Associated Gas A, Central States, Cities Service, Eastern States B, Electric Bond and Share, Empire Power, Northeastern Power, United Gas Improvement, United Light and Power A, Utility Equities and Utility and Industrials. Losses occurred in Rockland Power and Light and Southeastern Light and Power warrants.

Strength in the oils was featured by Gulf Oil, Humble Oil, Illinois Pipe, International Petroleum, Standard Oil of Indiana and Vacuum Oil. In the industrial section American Cyanamid B, Budd Manufacturing, Curtiss-Wright, Dubilier Condenser, Fox Theatres A, General Realty, Lehigh Coal and Navigation, Norsnda Mines, Pennroad, Reliance Management and Reynolds Metals were firm. Declines marked trading in Silica Gel, United Molasses and Dictaphone.

NEW SECURITIES ON CURB.

SECURITY LOANS OFF IN MEMBER BANKS

Reserve Board Shows Decline of $118,000,000 in New York District in Week.

DEMAND DEPOSITS LESS

Small Reduction in Government Deposits as Well as in Loans and Investments.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The Federal Reserve Board's condition statement of weekly reporting member banks in 101 leading cities on Aug. 7 shows a decline for the week of $152,000,000 in net demand deposits, accompanied with a relatively small reduction in loans and investments and a reduction of $36,000,000 in government deposits.

Loans on securities declined $69,000,000 at all reporting banks, a reduction of $118,000,000 in the New York district being partly offset by an increase of $37,000,000 in the Chicago district and small increases in other districts. "All other" loans increased $63,000,000 at all reporting banks, $47,000,000 in the New York district and $15,000,000 in the Cleveland district, and declined $9,000,000 in the Boston district.

Holdings of United States Government securities declined $15,000,000 in the New York district and $14,000,000 at all reporting banks, while holdings of other securities increased $6,000,000 at all reporting banks, $25,000,000 in the New York district and $7,000,000 in the Atlanta district, and declined $13,000,000 in the Chicago district and $12,000,000 in the other districts.

Net demand deposits, which at all reporting banks were $152,000,000 below the July 31 total, declined $145,000,000 in the New York district, $19,000,000 in the Boston district and $7,000,000 each in the Philadelphia and San Francisco districts and increased $13,000,000 in the Chicago district, $8,000,000 in the Kansas City district and $7,000,000 in the Richmond district. Time deposits show no net change for the week.

The principal changes in borrowing from Federal Reserve banks for the week comprise increases of $11,000,000 at the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco and $6,000,000 at Philadelphia, and a reduction of $12,000,000 at Boston, all reporting banks showing a net increase of $3,000,000.

A summary of the principal assets and liabilities of reporting member banks, together with changes during the week and year ended Aug. 7, 1929, follows:

FORD BUYS OLD ENGINE.

May Purchase New Hampshire Machine Shop for Museum.

NEWFIELDS, N. H., Aug. 12 (AP).—Henry Ford slipped quietly into this little town to visit an historic machine shop which he wishes to purchase and then left as quietly, it was learned today.

The machine shop is more than eighty years old and was used for the manufacture of steam engines at the very beginning of railroad history in America. George E. Fifield, the first owner, made locomotives here similar to "old Peppersass," wrecked recently on Mount Washington after a 60-year career.

Mr. Ford introduced himself on Saturday to William F. Sheehy, the present owner, and looked around. Almost immediately he spotted and purchased a steam engine which provided the motive power for an old river boat, La Chiquita, which sailed fifty years ago down the Piscataqua River and Great Bay near Portsmouth. He also bought a pump once used on the battle-ship Maine, wrecked in Havana Harbor in 1898.

Just before leaving he noticed an old-fashioned lathe and turned to Sheehy with the remark, "That's almost exactly like the one I used when I was 23 years old."

If Mr. Ford buys the shop it will be taken to his museum at Dearborn, Mich.

BUYS $9,800 BONDS FOR $50.

Arkansas Man Also Finds Jewels in Boxes Sold for Storage Cost.

OLA, Ark., Aug. 12 (AP).—Cheetel Law of Kingston took a chance. He purchased for $50 three boxes sold for storage charges by the Pacific Express Company.

Opening them, he found $9,800 in bonds, stocks and notes which are negotiable, and in addition, hundreds of valuable trinkets, rings, bracelets, some diamonds, amethysts, turquoise, cameos and minerals of some value.

The boxes law purchased were left at the express office fifteen years ago by Charles Baker, a mining engineer. He left instructions to ship the boxes to him when he gave directions, but he was never heard from again. Little was known of him except that his wife and child are dead.

$25,000,000 TRUST FOR RAIL SECURITIES

International Carriers, Ltd., Formed as First to Deal in Stocks Throughout Field.

FOREIGN HOLDINGS IN VIEW

Executives of Roads on Board of New Maryland Organization—1,000,000 No-Par Shares.

Formation of an investment trust to operate in railroad stocks with an initial authorized share capitalization of about $25,000,000 and a directorate including railroad executives was announced yesterday. It will be known as International Carriers, Ltd., and it may include foreign railroads in its holdings. It was organized in Maryland with an authorized capitalization of 1,000,000 no-par shares.

The new organization differs from the Chesapeake Corporation, Alleghany Corporation and Pennroad Corporation, investment companies formed to further merger moves, which have substantial holdings in a limited number of railroad stocks. There are also some fixed trusts with holdings largely or exclusively railroad shares. International Carriers is announced as the first trust formed to trade in and out of railroad securities of all kinds. It will also deal in other securities.

The directors will include W. B. Bessler, chairman of the Central Railroad of New Jersey; Edward N. Brown, chairman of the St. Louis-San Francisco; Calvin Bullock, president of the International Superpower Corporation; W. W. Colpitts of Coverdale & Colpitts, railroad engineers; Alfred Jaretzki Jr. of Sullivan & Cromwell, and Theodore G. Smith, vice president of the Central Hanover Bank and Trust Company.

The trust will have as initial investments stock in the Alleghany Corporation, Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio, Bangor & Aroostook, Canadian Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, St. Paul, Chicago & Northwestern, Rock Island, Erie, Kansas City Southern, Nickel Plate, New Haven, Norfolk & Western, Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Père Marquette, St. Louis-San Francisco, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway and Union Pacific.

Brazilian Copper Company Sold.

Control of the National Copper Manufacturing Company of Brazil, which is capitalized at $1,250,000 and specializes in the manufacture of electric wire, has been acquired by the International General Electric Company and the International Pirelli Company of Brussels, a subsidiary of the Pirelli Company of Italy, according to a report confirmed yesterday by the National City Company, which sponsored a flotation of Pirelli stock in this country. It is planned to expand the activities of the company to include the manufacture of underground transmission and telephone cable.

CORPORATION REPORTS.

Atlantic Refining Company.

Gross earnings of the Atlantic Refining Company and subsidiary companies in the first half of 1929 amounted to $75,855,645, compared with $68,390,353 in the same period last year, an increase of $7,465,292 or 10.9 per cent.

Net income was $8,862,409 after all taxes, charges and reserves, equal to $3.32 a share earned on 2,666,634 shares of $25 par stock. This compares with $5,639,987 on $2.13 a share on the same basis, in the first half of 1928. In the latter period earnings on the old $100 common shares, after preferred dividends were $9.98 a share. The preferred stock was retired in May at $115 a share.

Earned surplus on June 30 amounted to $49,722,687, against $46,233,459 on Dec. 31, 1928. After deductions of $3,476,998 not incident to the current period and common and preferred dividends of $3,033,333, the paid-in surplus of $9,999,510 brought unappropriated surplus at the end of the period to $58,585,046. This figure is after a $27,446 deficit of minority interests. Including capital surplus of $336,604, the total surplus on June 30 was $58,949,096.

Current assets amounted to $65,606,915 on June 30 including $12,601,546 cash and inventories of $35,663,370, while current liabilities totaled $9,445,227. Total assets were $163,374,539, against $155,704,520 at the end of 1928.

Electric Auto-Lite.

The Electric Auto-Lite Company reports for the six months ended June 30 a net profit of $6,200,763 after depreciation and interest but before Federal taxes. This is equivalent to $6.83 a share on the 885,885 shares of common stock outstanding after preferred dividend requirements and compares with a net profit of $3,693,585 reported for the first half of the previous year, equal to $3.98 a share.

The reported total of $6,200,763 does not include the special non-recurring dividend received, $4,000,000, the company's proportion in the earnings of associated companies. Including this amount, the per share earnings on the common stock amount to $11.42 for the six months.

The general balance sheet on June 30 shows current assets of $17,312,823, against current liabilities of $4,974,051, leaving a working capital of $12,338,772. The current assets include $688,830 in cash, $3,000,000 in call loans, $4,500,000 in marketable securities, $5,175,620 in accounts receivable and inventory valued at $3,912,584.

Coty, Inc.

For the June quarter Coty, Inc., reports net income of $776,068 after depreciation, Federal taxes and other charges, equal to 57 cents on 1,349,045 no-par shares of stock, compared with $1,169,745, or 88 cents, on 1,330,079 shares in the preceding quarter and $651,254, or 48 cents a share based on 1,349,045 no-par shares in the June quarter, 1928.

For the first half of this year the net income after above charges was $1,945,813, equal to $1.44 on 1,349,045 shares, against $1,499,552, or $1.11 a share on the same basis in the same period last year.

Aluminum Industries, Inc.

For the first six months of 1929 Aluminum Industries, Inc., reports earnings of $175,113, equal to $1.75 a share on the outstanding stock, as compared with $1.90 a share in the same period last year.

National Supply.

For the six months ended June 30 the National Supply Company of Delaware and subsidiaries report a net income of $1,637,315 after charges, Federal taxes, subsidiary preferred dividends and other charges, equivalent after dividends on 7 per cent preferred stock, to $4.91 a share on 300,000 shares of common stock, as against $738,700 or $1.63 a share in the same period last year. Net income for the quarter ended June 30 after the above charges was $671,770, equal to $2.11 a share, as compared with $965,545, or $2.80 a share in the previous quarter and $541,892, or $1.39 a share in the second quarter last year.

Garlock Packing Company.

The Garlock Packing Company reports for the six months to June 30 a net profit of $414,538 after all charges, including certain non-recurring items and Federal taxes, equal to $2.07 a share on the 200,000 shares of no-par capital stock outstanding, as compared with $2.87 a share on the same basis during the entire year of 1928 and $2.21 a share annual earnings during the five years 1924-1928 inclusive. An increase of 17 per cent in sales over the first half of 1928 was reported.

R. Hoe & Co.

R. Hoe & Co., Inc., reports for the six months ended June 30 a net profit of $202,649 after interest, depreciation and taxes, equal to $2.11 a share on 96,000 shares of no-par Class A stock outstanding.

Tung-Sol Lamp Works.

For the six months ended June 30 the Tung-Sol Lamp Works, Inc., report a net income of $537,855 after all charges, including Federal taxes, equal to $8.83 a share on the 60,921 shares of preferred stock outstanding and leaving a balance of $1.95 a share on the 228,508 shares of common stock outstanding, against $402,291, or $6.60 on preferred and $1.36 on common, in the same period last year.

Knott Corporation.

For the six months ended on June 30 the Knott Corporation reports a net income of $247,939 after all charges and provision for Federal taxes, equal to $1.59 on 155,980 shares of common stock outstanding, against $225,484, or $1.45 during the same period of 1928.

NEW AFFILIATION IN INSURANCE FIELD

New York Indemnity Reaches Agreement With Insurance Securities Company.

FOLLOWS STOCK PURCHASE

Mutuality of Interests to Be Created With Interchange of Directors.

Close affiliation of the New York Indemnity Company, one of the largest casualty companies in the country, with the Insurance Securities Company was announced yesterday by William H. Joyce, chairman of the National Surety Company, of which the New York Indemnity is the casualty branch. The announcement followed a series of meetings between Mr. Joyce and W. Irving Moss, president of the Insurance Securities Company, Inc., terminating in the National Surety becoming a large holder of stock in the Insurance Securities Company as an investor.

A number of directors of the National Surety Company will become directors of the Insurance Securities Company and a mutuality of interests will be created. Some of those on the directorate of the New York Indemnity Company are Frederick W. Allen, Sumner Ballard, S. Reading Bertron, Franklin Q. Brown, P. A. S. Franklin, E. Roland Harriman, Charles Hayden, John C. McCall, Samuel McRoberts, P. A. Rockefeller, Charles H. Sabin and Samuel Sloan.

Among the directors of Insurance Securities besides the Moss brothers, who built up that enterprise, are Rudolf Hecht, John Puelicher, A. E. Grant, James P. Butler, Felix P. Vaccaro, A. D. Geoghegan and John Thayer. These and other members of the Insurance Securities Company board will join the New York Indemnity Company.

Organized at the close of 1921, the New York Indemnity Company, as of Dec. 31, 1928, shows total assets of $8,567,665, a capital of $1,000,000 and a surplus of $679,799. Its total premium writings last year were $7,331,748 and its unearned premium reserve amounted to $3,045,808. Other companies in the Insurance Securities Company group include: Union Indemnity of New Orleans, Detroit Life Insurance Company of Detroit, Northwestern Casualty and Surety Company of Milwaukee, La Salle Fire Insurance Company of New Orleans, Bankers and Merchants Fire Insurance Company of New Orleans, Union Title Guarantee Company of New Orleans and the newly formed Title and Trust Company of Fort Worth, Texas.

Resources of the Insurance Securities group, which totaled $9,000,000 in 1924, have grown to more than $35,000,000 in 1929, and with the New York Indemnity Company will exceed $42,000,000, while investment income has risen from $500,000 to more than $1,500,000. The casualty and surety divisions of the group in 1928 showed the largest gain in premium income of any casualty company in the United States, it was said. The combined premium income of the constituent companies amounted to $15,464,258 in 1928.

For the first six months of 1929 the combined premium income amounted to $9,485,463. Including the New York Indemnity Company, it is anticipated that the annual premium volume of the group will exceed $25,000,000. The premiums come from practically every State in the Union, the large producing States being New York, Michigan, California, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Missouri and Louisiana.

AUTO RISK RATES CUT.

Reduction in Collision Policies Become Effective in East.

Reductions in automobile "collision" rates took effect yesterday it was announced by the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters. The new schedule shows reduction in insurance rates for the so-called $50 deductible policy, $100 deductible policy and $250 deductible policy. The reductions averaging 15 per cent in the first class, 13 per cent in the second and 15 per cent in the third. There will be no change in "full" coverage policies.

New policies will be issued for private passenger cars in the form of $25, $35, $75 and $125 deductible. A $500 deductible farm hitherto available only for buses will be extended to both private passenger and commercial automobiles. Rates will apply to New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, Maryland, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Vermont and District of Columbia.

TRADING IS DULL IN COUNTER STOCKS

Moderate Advances Reported in a Few Specialties on Quiet Buying.

GAINS IN THE BANK GROUP

Little Change Shown in Insurance, Utility and Industrial Issues—Bonds Generally Firm.

Trading in the unlisted securities market opened the week in a dull atmosphere. A few specialties advanced moderately on quiet buying. Some bank and trust shares moved forward. Insurance, utility and industrial issues showed little change. Chain stores and communications issues and bonds were generally firm. Aeronautical were quiet.

Driver Harris advanced sharply. Crowell Publishing also gained. Wheeling Steel preferred, B and A, were firm. There was a good tone als. in American Manufacturing, American Meter and Childs preferred. New York Merchandise first preferred was firm, but there was an easier tone in Isaac Silver, Schiff, Kobacker and H. C. Bohack.

First National and United States Trust gained sharply. Hibernia Trust and Lawyers Title also advanced. There were gains in Bank of United States, Central National, Chase, Manhattan, Park, Public, New York and Trust, Bankers, Central Hanover, Equitable and Guaranty. New York Title was easier.

In the insurance group, City of New York and Providence-Washington gained. There were also advances in People's National Fire, American Equitable, Camden Fire, Globe Insurance, St. Paul, Harmonia, Knickerbocker, National Liberty and Stuyvesant. New Brunswick Fire was easier.

Jersey Bridge Contracts Awarded.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 12.—Under a contract awarded today by the State Highway Commission, J. P. Chapman & Son of Hillside will construct, for $763,333, the bridges over the Elizabeth River and over Elizabeth Avenue in Elizabeth, on Route 25, the Holland Tunnel thoroughfare. The second low figure on this operation was that of Liddle & Pfeiffer of Perth Amboy and was $788,790.

OIL PRODUCERS DEFER CUT IN CRUDE PRICES

Mid-Continent Group Is Said to Expect Output Will Be Normal in 45 Days.

Reports reached New York yesterday that the cut in the prices of Mid-Continent crude oil, which was expected in the latter part of last week, had been postponed for at least forty-five days by the companies said to be taking the initiative in a plan to reduce the price. The decision was made, it is understood, because of reports from California that the prorating of production there was progressing rapidly enough so that a natural readjustment could be expected within the forty-five-day period through the Californian curtailment.

The reported decrease in production in the Pennsylvania fields was also taken into consideration in the expectancy that by the middle of September the output will be lowered enough so that it will be more nearly at the demand point.

As to reports of the ever-increasing crude in storage tanks, it is stated that a tally of the supply thus held would show a lower figure than has been estimated because of the unusual demand for gasoline during July. All companies operating filling stations have, according to good authority, established new records for July sales, and reports are that the first six days of August exceeded any previous similar period in sales.

Despite these reports, however, officials of the larger companies with offices in New York were certain yesterday that a cut in the Mid-Continent crude prices could not be delayed long. It was asserted that the gasoline demand has reached its peak for this year, except for a temporary revival at the Labor Day period, and that production is still increasing. It was also asserted that the present reductions in the Pennsylvania fields would have the result of opening up demand there, with a probable consequent increase in production, so that one of the factors named as prompting the decision to withhold a cut in Mid-Continent for forty-five days was one that would not be in existence much longer.

Hyde Promotes Agriculture Official.

J. M. Mehl has been promoted to the office of assistant chief of the grain futures administration of the United States Department of Agriculture, Secretary Arthur M. Hyde has announced. Since 1924 Mr. Mehl has served as senior grain exchange supervisor in the Chicago office of the grain futures administration. He will look after the legal phases of the enforcement of the grain futures act.

MARKETS IN LONDON, PARIS AND BERLIN

International Stocks Lead in General Recovery on the English Exchange.

FRENCH TONE IS STRONGER

Outside Buying Sends Prices Upward—German Bourse Sags After Earlier Advance.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—International stocks led in a general recovery on the Stock Exchange today. British funds were higher on better American advices and a rise in sterling. The 5 per cent war loan advanced ⅝ to £100 15-16 and the 3½ per cent conversion loan rose 3-16 to £78¾.

Electrical shares again attracted the most interest. General Electric was outstanding with a jump to 66s 3d, a rise of 7s 3d, in connection with rumors of impending developments for new cooperative arrangements with American concerns. Associated Electric rose to 48s 3d on similar rumors.

Margarine stocks resumed their advance and reached new high records. Union rose 5s 3d to 108s 3d. Unie at 112s was 5s 3d higher. Talking machines were better on New York advices. Columbia Graphophone rose to £13⅜ and His Master's Voice Graphophone to £7 5-16.

In the mining group Rhodesians responded to the better tendency in New York. Bwanas advanced to 23s 3d, while Rhodesian Selection Trust and Tanganyika showed gains. Several leading oil shares recovered from Friday's setback, but business was small.

Short loans remained in plentiful supply in Lombard Street. The renewal rate was 4½ per cent, while overnight balances were 4⅛ down to 3¾ per cent. Discounts were firm. Fine three-month commercial bills were quoted at 5 7-16 to 5½ per cent. Sterling on New York, after opening firmer at $4.84 27-32, reacted to $4.84 25-32-12-16. At the Bank of England £10,233 in bar gold was sold.

French Bourse Improves.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 12.—The Bourse, owing to the week-end holidays, escaped violent reaction over The Hague crisis, which today was viewed in a more favorable light. There was no perceptible influence from the international political situation, which is still regarded as difficult.

Because of a few orders which accumulated over Sunday, quotations opened somewhat higher than at Friday's closing. Some orders received from the outside, notably Brussels, acted to improve the situation produced by the extreme slackness, so that the closing came with stocks quoted generally at the day's high prices.

France's internal monetary situation, which continues to strengthen, presumably is responsible for the firmness, but due to the status of The Hague negotiations international stocks were treated with the utmost reserve, traders and the public refraining as much as possible from any transactions.

Rentes were steady, closing as follows: The 3 per cents, 74.50; 1918 4s, 91.35; 1920 amortizable 4s, 125.50; 1928 3s, 101.90; 1920 6s, 105; 1927 amortizable 6s, 113.50.

Berlin Market Irregular.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 12.—The Boerse opened slightly firmer today, due to favorable reports from the New York and other international stock exchanges, but the volume of trading was very restricted, as private investors and speculators maintained a careful reserve.

There were a few foreign orders for A. E. G. shares and a jump in Artificial Silk occurred. Glazed Textiles regained 13¼ points from Friday's losses, and the rise in this group caused an improvement in most of the other markets. When, however, orders were effected, dullness became general and prices sagged below the opening level.

A slight recovery was noted during the second hour, followed by fluctuations, and at the close the tendency was again toward weakness. An upward movement in the Berlin Kariruher industry came to a standstill and the stock dropped several points.

FOREIGN CURRENCIES AT LOWER LEVEL HERE

Sterling and Other Exchanges Are Depressed—Shipments of Gold Indicated.

The unfavorable developments at the conference in The Hague, together with the effects of the action of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York in advancing its rediscount rate last week from 5 per cent to 6 per cent, sent the majority of European currencies to lower levels in this market yesterday.

Sterling sagged 4 point to close the day at $4.84¾ for cables, slightly below the accepted gold transfer point, while the franc lost ¾ point, closing at 3.90¾ cents. Dutch guilders continued weak, ending the day at 40.08 cents, a loss of ⅛ point for the day, which left that currency close to the gold shipping point. Marks lost a full point to finish the day at 23.80 cents.

Grave concern is being felt over the position of sterling. The gold reserves of the Bank of England are extremely low as a result of the recently arrested drain of the metal from London to Paris. While it has been intimated, according to London advices, that the British Bank has no intention of advancing its rate this week observers do not see how such a move can be avoided much longer in view of the action of the Federal Reserve Bank here and the persistent weakness in sterling.

SOLOMON FEES DETAILED.

Donovan Aide to Close His Case in Bankruptcy Inquiry Today.

Additional evidence in the case against Louis Solomon, counsel for the American Fur Merchants' Association, was presented at the hearing before Federal Judge Thacher yesterday in the bankruptcy investigation being conducted by Colonel William Donovan. C. D. Williams of Colonel Donovan's staff said that he expected to close the case against Solomon at this afternoon's hearing.

Details of several bankruptcies with which Solomon was connected were told by several witnesses, and evidence of Solomon's having accepted fees from both sides in certain cases and of his having arranged settlements without notifying all creditors was adduced.

The bankruptcies discussed by the witnesses included Beckerman & Ende, Filer Brothers & Neiner and I. Altman & Co., all furriers.

Marion Steam Shovel Reports.

For the six months ended on June 30 the Marion Steam Shovel Company reports a net profit of $300,783 after all charges including depreciation, interest on funded debt and taxes. STEEL CORPORATION SILENT ON ORE DEAL

Moscow Reports Plan for Heavy Purchases From Georgian Manganese Trust.

While reports from Moscow via London yesterday that the United States Steel Corporation intended to buy from 80,000 to 150,000 tons of manganese annually for the next five years from the Georgian Manganese Trust could not be confirmed at the company's offices, it was regarded in Wall Street as more than probable that some buying of manganese in Russia would be done by the corporation.

It was pointed out that, like all other companies in the steel industry, the United States Steel Corporation was constantly receiving quotations on and from time to time was negotiating for supplies of manganese ore, so that any activity in that direction was not at all unusual in the industry.

Manganese ore is one of the essentials of steel making. Little of it is produced in this country, and the bulk of the world's supply always has emanated from Russia, India, Brazil and other foreign countries.

COTTON PRICES RISE 12 TO 18 POINTS NET

Traders' Fears of Continuation of Decline Not Realized—October in Demand.

COVERING TAKES CONTRACTS

Reports of Deterioration of Plant Also Help to Steady Market—July Consumption Estimated.

Although partial relief in Oklahoma caused irregular fluctuations over a range of 41 a bale on the Cotton Exchange yesterday, absence of any definite change in Texas had a steadying influence on the market, and prices ended with a gain of 12 to 18 points. Private reports of plant deterioration from sections of the Southwest resulting from the protracted spell of dry heat induced covering from several directions which absorbed contracts at a slightly higher price level. An agency in Boston estimated consumption in July at 543,000 bales, compared with 438,000 a year ago.

Following the break in prices on Saturday, when December contracts touched 18¼ cents, room traders were prepared for a break into new low territory. Over-Sunday selling orders were less heavy than had been expected, however, and initial quotations were at a slight advance owing to price fixing by the trade. A demand for October on a basis of 15 cents and a narrowing of the October spread between New York and New Orleans to only 5 points helped steady the market.

Official figures of the rainfall in Texas for July showed an average of 2.64 inches, or .03 inches above normal, but the south coast region received 4 inches, compared with only about an inch in the northern and western regions.

Yesterday's quotations here follow:

Cocoa.

Heavy selling sent the range of cocoa futures lower yesterday in an active trading session at the New York Cocoa Exchange. A good part of the selling was hedging by the trade. The market opened a point lower to unchanged and closed unchanged to 9 points lower. The spot month, August, was the only position to remain unchanged. Warehouse stocks continued to decline and showed a loss yesterday of 7,000 bags, bringing the total to 391,360 bags. Spot cocoa was quoted at 10¾ cents per pound. Turnover at the Exchange was 252 lots, or 3,377 tons.

Southern States' Butter Output.

A total of 4,868,000 pounds of butter was made in Alabama, Arkansas and South Carolina in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1929, according to a recent survey made by a specialist of the United States Bureau of Dairy Industry. While dairying in these States is not a highly developed industry, this amount of butter represents approximately a 20 per cent increase over the previous year, the Bureau says. Based on available population figures for these States this amount of butter is only three-quarters of a pound per inhabitant.

STATE TO LET CONTRACT FOR PRISON AT ATTICA

It Will Be the Third Started in Twenty-five Years, Two Others Being Abandoned.

ALBANY, Aug. 12 (AP).—For the third time in a quarter of a century, the State is to start construction of a new prison. A site has been selected at Attica and contracts are to be let next month.

It history were to repeat, the proposed prison never would be occupied by convicts. The Legislature first awoke to a realization that prisons were overcrowded in 1906, and a commission was appointed and spent two years investigating the situation.

The commission reported in 1907 that it was deemed advisable to abandon Sing Sing Prison and that it had secured a site for a new prison at Bear Mountain. The site was purchased and preliminary work was started.

Three years later the Legislature turned the Bear Mountain site over to the Palisades Park Commission and the work done was abandoned. In the same year the commission cast about for another site and selected Wingdale, in Dutchess County.

The commission began the preliminary work and the Legislature finally agreed to appropriate funds to continue it, but Governor Dix notified the Legislature that he would veto any appropriations for construction on the Wingdale site.

The commission thereupon resigned, after expending about $595,000 on the purchase of the Bear Mountain site and preliminary work there and $100,000 on the Wingdale site.

In 1917 the work of demolishing the old prison at Sing Sing was started. Governor Whitman characterized it as "the first step toward real prison reform."

Meanwhile, work on the new prison at Wingdale went forward, and in 1921 a power plant, mess hall, kitchen and two cell blocks had been completed at a cost of about $1,500,000. Three reports of the Prison Commission contained the remark that the new prison was "guarded only by caretakers."

WILLS WIDOW BE MADE OFFICER OF COMPANY

Louis Kram Bequeathed $500,000 Estate to Her and Eight Children.

The will of Louis Kram, head of Louis Kram, Inc., advertising representative of foreign-language newspapers, was entered for probate yesterday, disposing of an estate of more than $500,000. With the exception of $8,000 in bequests to institutions, the estate passes to his widow and their eight children.

The charitable bequests include $1,000 each to Beth Israel Hospital, Machzike Talmud Tora, Yeshiva College, Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Hospital and Rabbi Jacob Joseph School, and $500 each to Beth David Hospital, Bronx Jewish Maternity Hospital, Montefiore Home and Hospital, Uptown Talmud Tora, Congregation Khal Adath Jeshurun and Salanter Talmud Tora.

Five of the children get $50,000 each. They are Jacob M. Kram, an attorney at 49 Chambers Street; Mrs. Mollie Fieger, whose address was not given; Mrs. Emma Josephson, 620 West 172d Street; Mrs. Anna Cohen, 176 West Eighty-seventh Street, and Mrs. Jeannette Horwich, 578 West End Avenue. Michael Kram, 300 Riverside Drive, and George Kram, 600 West End Avenue, sons, each get $25,000 and 416 2-3 shares of the capital stock of their father's firm, while another son, William Kram, 1,584 Seventh Avenue, gets $5,000 and 266 2-3 shares of the stock.

The testator made this disposition of his stock 'on the express condition that my sons, immediately on my death, elect my wife an officer of Louis Kram, Inc., at a salary of $25,000 a year.'' Mrs. Kram is the residuary legatee.

The testament also leaves $5,000 to each of eleven grandchildren.

The decedent died on Aug. 1 at his home in Lawrence, L. I., at the age of 72.

NATIONAL TONG TRUCE SIGNED BEFORE TUTTLE

Thirty Chinese Affix Names to Treaty for Permanent Peace at Office of Consul General Here.

The On Leong and Hip Sing tongs formally agreed last night, in the offices of the Chinese Consul General, Dr. Samuel Sung Young, at 13 Astor Place, to a national and permanent truce. Thirty Chinese, heads of tongs in the principal cities of the United States, affixed their signatures to the terms of the truce arrived at last Tuesday after a lengthy conference.

The truce last Tuesday, covering a ten-day period, was signed by local leaders, who notified tong heads throughout the United States of the action taken and asked that hostilities cease until all tong leaders had an opportunity to gather and discuss the peace pact between the Hip Sings and On Leongs.

Peace was brought about through the joint efforts of the Chinese Consul General and United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle. Mr. Tuttle made it plain he would not stand for any nonsense.

The four national leaders of the Hip Sings and the On Leongs, the local heads of the societies and eight members of the Chinese Consolidated Benevolent Association, composed of the city's wealthiest Chinese merchants, met last night in the Consul-General's office with Mr. Tuttle and Dr. Young.

The merchants, who had exercised their influence with both sides, were present to hold the balance of power in case of a deadlock.

Provisions for a permanent arbitration whereby the murderous outbreaks that in the past have marked disagreements between the tongs may be avoided were written into the peace.

Representatives of the tongs told Mr. Tuttle that they wished to appear as patriotic citizens in the midst of China troubles and do nothing that might alienate the good will of the United States.

"I am satisfied and pleased with this peace, bringing, as it does, promises of future amicable settlement of differences," said Mr. Tuttle.

Notices of the new peace pact were prepared for posting on Chinatown's bulletin boards, each of the announcements bearing the signatures of all who had ratified the agreement.

ROOSEVELT ANNOUNCES TRI-STATE ROAD PLAN

Highway Through New Jersey and Pennsylvania to Lakes Will Be 350 Miles Long.

Special to The New York Times.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Plans for a tri-state highway, facilitating motor traffic from New York to the west through New Jersey and Pennsylvania, were announced today by Governor Roosevelt in a speech at Callicoon.

The Governor said he had obtained the cooperation of Governor Larson of New Jersey and that he had written to the Governor of Pennsylvania soliciting his assistance. The Delaware Valley furnished the quickest route for motor traffic between New York City and Lake Erie, and Governor Roosevelt hopes to formulate plans for the highway and prepare for its financing within a year.

He was greeted by a large crowd at Callicoon, which received his plans for the new road with great enthusiasm. He said the prospective route would probably parallel the Delaware River, running opposite the railroad now using that route. It will be about 350 miles in length.

Governor Roosevelt left his home at Hyde Park this morning on his final tour of the State. He crossed the Hudson at Beacon and drove to Middletown, where he inspected a State hospital for the insane. Dr. Robert C. Woodman, superintendent of the hospital, told him that it was about 25 per cent overcrowded. The hospital now accommodates 5,147 patients. Dr. Woodman told the Governor that there had been no increase in the number of insanity cases caused by liquor since prohibition, but that the patients over the age of 60 had shown a marked increase in recent years.

Asked if he had studied the report of Dr. Raymond C. F. Kleb, State Commissioner of Correction, the Governor said he had not yet received the report, but that he was in sympathy with the reforms recommended by Dr. Kleb. He said any one familiar with prison conditions in the State must realize that the antiquated institutions now in use must be replaced by modern, fireproof buildings, and indicated that this work would cost a large amount of money.

The Governor has previously expressed his belief that unsanitary prison conditions and the severity of the Baumes laws caused the recent outbreaks at Clinton and Auburn prisons.

Tomorrow the Governor will inspect the Binghamton State hospital and the reformatory at Elmira. He will spend the night at Watkins Glen.

LABOR MEDAL AWARDED.

Loyal Legion Decoration to Go to Edward F. McGrady.

The Medal of Valor of the Loyal Labor Legion, a gold award to be presented annually to the representative of organized labor whose work for the union movement for the year is regarded as most loyal and sincere, will be presented this year to Edward F. McGrady, general organizer of the American Federation of Labor.

The presentation will be made by Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, at the annual outing of the labor legion on Labor Day at Duer's Whitestone Park, Whitestone Landing, L. I.

RAW SILK FUTURES EASIER.

Interest Centres in Old Contracts on the Local Exchange.

After a day of slow trading on the National Raw Silk Exchange yesterday, raw silk futures closed easier. Near months were comparatively strong, with the far positions showing weakness. Sales totaled thirty-three contracts, equal to 165 bales. Interest centred in old contracts.

TAMES TOUGHEST STEAK.

The toughest beefsteak may be rendered as tender and delicious as the choicest porterhouse, according to botanical authorities, if one will carry with him wherever he dines a bottle of papaw tree juice and rub it on his meat. The papaw is a peculiar tree of northern South America and other tropical regions, where the natives use its juice in this way to improve their meat. It has a number of other peculiarities, and is the subject of an exhibit in the department of botany at Field Museum of Natural History in Chicago.

The papaws are definitely divided into two sexes with distinct characteristics, whereas in most plants and trees each individual is equipped to reproduce itself alone, possessing both the male and female organs.

Peach Trees Protected by Oil.

The most effective control measure against the San José scale on peach trees is to apply a lubricating oil emulsion during the winter when the trees are dormant, according to the United States Bureau of Entomology. Liquid lime-sulphur has also been used against this insect for many years and is reasonably effective. Lead arsenate or other stomach poisons are of no value. The spray must be one that will produce death by direct contact with the insect. As the concentration of the spray necessary would defoliate the tree during the growing season, the work must be done during the dormant period, when there is no foliage on the trees and when budwood is seasoned for winter weather.

Sale of Assets Approved.

The Lincoln Interstate Holding Company announced yesterday that 433,896 shares or 72 per cent of its outstanding stock had voted in favor of a contract whereby its chief assets will be vested with the Niagara Share Corporation in exchange for 45,000 shares of the latter company's common capital stock.

TRACES INSTALMENT PLAN.

Economist Concludes That This Form of Buying Has Come to Stay.

Instalment buying is a permanent phase of American life largely because it has become respectable, Professor Avard L. Bishop of Yale University says in the Journal of Business of the University of Chicago.

"A decade or two ago," Professor Bishop says, "the relatively few who bought goods on the instalment plan were peculiarly reticent about such purchases. Now, instead of the practice being looked upon more or less askance, as formerly, it is regarded as quite the proper thing to do. The rank and file of buyers are vitally concerned in maintaining as high a standard of living as is consistent with their viewpoints upon life and the income available."

Not all Americans are converted to the "dollar-down" plan of purchase, however, according to the Yale economist. There is still a large class who feels happiest when they can satisfy moderate wants, and have a goodly margin left to fatten the bank account or investment list. Others refuse to use the method because of their dislike for debt in any form.

"Just as buying on the instalment plan is adapted to certain types of purchasers, so it is adapted to certain classes of goods or commodities," Professor Bishop continues. "Real estate, automobiles, pianos and household furniture are well adapted to the instalment plan of sale.

"The instalment plan lends itself best to the purchase of necessities or near necessities rather than luxuries. As to goods that are still in relatively good condition when the last payment is made.

"There are in the country at the present time about fifteen hundred finance companies that are the direct outgrowth of instalment selling. They are not in business for their health, but to make a profit, and the millions of instalment buyers pay the bills for their upkeep.

Butter.

Receipts, 6,100 packages. Some weakness developed at the opening and 200 tubs extras sold on exchange at 48c. This brought out more buying interest and the loss was soon recovered with closing sales at 49½c generally. A lot of 100 tubs 93 score sold 49½c, the later business on the street while not large was about in line with these figures. The market closing steady.

BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday—6 per cent for the best names. Unchanged 6 per cent for the best names. The quotations are for 4 to 6 months' paper.

Dress Outlook Brighter.

Indications were visible here yesterday that the irregularity which has marked buying of women's and misses' popular-price dresses so far this season is about at an end. The Paris openings have given buyers an idea of what to expect in the new Fall showings and the lack of really radical changes has given them confidence to proceed. Velvet dresses are still a bit uncertain as a "buy," although they have done quite well in the $16.50 range. In the $10.75 division canton crêpes stand out, although there is a good call for light-weight woolen frocks at that price. Satins are doing best in the $8.75 grade. Some satins, as well as flat crêpes, are moving in the $3.75 division.

Fur Trimmings Feature Coats.

Fur trimmings feature the majority of the junior coats now being sold in this market. Elaborate collars stand out, with full and semi-shawl effects favored most. Long-haired furs predominate in these collars, possibly even more than in women's coats, but such pelts as beaver, pahmi, fitch (real and skunk-dyed), &c., also strike a popular note. In children's coats, buying of which is assuming sizable proportions, retailers appear to be stressing novelty fabrics above all else. In both children's and junior garments a distinct tendency to "trade up" is seen. In the former some nice orders have been taken during the past few days at prices ranging to $29.50.

Weather Helps Doll Trade.

The long spell of dry weather during recent weeks has been of great aid to doll manufacturers. Humidity curbs production and prevents the proper drying out of the materials employed. Orders meanwhile have been steadily increasing and shipments are going forward to the stores. There is now held to be no doubt but that the mama doll will be superseded this season by the new type of infant doll, which in appearance, voice and toddling ability closely resembles a real infant. Retailers are said to be planning an early start on the sale of better grade dolls, with a heavy November turnover expected.

Blues Lead in Fall Shirts.

Apart from blues, no definite trend toward specific colors in men's Fall shirts has developed as yet. Buyers have been carefully selecting their ranges, in which fancy coloring and woven patterns show a gain over plain whites. In better grade merchandise the trend of buying favors collar to match instead of collar attached styles. The call for neckband numbers is slow. Collar features include long and short points and round versions. Specialty shirts in which there has been buying interest include the dickey bosom and pleated types.

Reptile Suspenders Offered.

Belt and suspender manufacturers in preparing their holiday novelties have seized upon the reptile vogue in women's wear for their inspiration. Sets are being shown featuring baby alligator leather for the belt and for the trimmings of the suspenders, the webbing of which is in alligator effect. In another instance python snakeskin is used. The belts are of the tongue buckle type which are said to be returning to consumer preference. Manufacturers are also playing up matched suspender and garter sets in holiday boxes. These are specially packed to retail at $2.50.

Buy Hatters' Fur Cautiously.

Pending the opening of the retail season in men's Fall headgear, hat manufacturers are covering needs of hatters' fur cautiously. Available stocks in the market are fair. Prices of the fur on the average are about 10 per cent down from recent levels, with the exception of some grades, such as harecastor, which are holding unchanged. Manufacturers are said to be mainly interested in the lighter colored furs which make up well into the lighter colored pastel shades featured in Fall hats. The increased attention given lightweight felts at this time has helped somewhat the call for skins for this type of hat.

Initialed Paper Regains Favor.

A marked revival of interest in initialed stationery for the Fall and holiday period was commented on here yesterday. Bordered paper with borders up to an inch is also gaining in favor. While white stationery still leads from a volume standpoint, sales of fancy colored papers and higher gloss have taken a strong spurt, one of the latest shades being eggshell. Boxed merchandise is being strongly stressed for the holidays, the boxes being of a high novelty type. Envelopes in many instances are lined. While orders placed are said to be ahead of last year, confirmations have been coming in slowly.

To Ignore Medical Testimonials.

Attention is called by the National Wholesale Druggists' Association to one of the most important rulings on medicinal preparations that has been handed down for some time. Under this ruling, which has been promulgated by the Food and Drug Administration of the Department of Agriculture, an association bulletin says, "it is obvious that the department is prepared to ignore indorsements of physicians as to the therapeutic value of medicinal preparations and to deny the value of testimonials of persons who have used the preparations. In the last analysis, therefore, the therapeutic value of any given preparation will depend upon the opinions of the enforcing officers."

Fur Trade Getting More Orders.

Orders received in the local fur trade yesterday reflected to some extent the improvement in August sales around the country that resulted from the cooler weather of the past week. There is still some question, however, of the success these events are having in comparison with other years. From all accounts, the more moderate-price coats are selling best; that is, at retail prices running from $100 to $350. Recent better sales of manufactured furs have had a stimulating effect on the skin market, where dealers report a more active call for American opossum, mink, raccoon, beaver and skunk. Badger, wolf and silver fox are fairly active, and muskrats in general are being taken at reduced prices.

Gray Goods Start Slowly.

Gray goods trading got under way slowly here yesterday, with print-cloths again producing most of the limited business. Sales of these fabrics, all for prompt shipment, included 39-inch 68-72s at 5⅛ cents, 38½-inch 64-60s at 7½ cents, and 38½-inch 44-40s at 5 cents. Sheetings were not active, but sales were made in 36-inch 56-60 four-yards at 8½ cents and in 36-inch 5.50s at 6¾ cents. Spot business was put through in sateens on the basis of 9¾ cents for 37½-inch 4.70s, and there was trading in 100-80 carded broadcloths at 10½ cents. The rest of the market was lacking in interest.

SEVEN YEARS' WORK OF WORLD COURT

Harvard Legal Expert Considers Tribunal Has More Than Justified Expectations.

THIRTEEN JUDGMENTS GIVEN

Sixteen Advisory Opinions Also Handed Down in Controversies Among Nations.

Dr. Manley O. Hudson, Professor of International Law at Harvard, contributes to the American Bar Association Journal a review of the first seven years of the history of the Permanent Court of International Justice, which recently began its sixteenth session with four important cases on the docket.

"The significance of its early record is now beginning to be apparent, and throughout the world its work is being followed with great interest by the legal profession," said Dr. Hudson, who writes:

"In many ways the court represents a fruition of the efforts which began with the first Hague Conference in 1899. Before that time, the idea of establishing a tribunal to which States might carry their differences had been advanced, but it was too vague for official consideration. The establishment of the Permanent Court of Arbitration in 1899, as a panel of arbitrators who might be called upon, made it seem more possible to have a really permanent tribunal, and when the American delegates went to the second Hague Conference in 1907 they were instructed to work toward that end.

"The 1907 conference did draw a plan for a permanent tribunal, but as no agreement could be reached on the method of selecting the judges it remained only a plan.

War Furnished Opportunity.

"The end of the war in 1919 produced the atmosphere for more positive action. The Italian delegates wanted the Peace Conference to proceed to set up a court, but the task required time and the Peace Conference confided it to the Council of the League of Nations.

"Almost the first act of the Council was to set up a special committee of jurists for that purpose, and that committee took as a basis of its work the plan of 1907. The existence of the Council and Assembly of the League of Nations enabled that committee to solve the problem of a method for electing the judges which had baffled the second Hague Conference. As a result, the judges of the Permanent Court of International Justice are now nominated by the members of the Permanent Court of Arbitration set up in 1899, and they are elected by the Council and the Assembly of the League of Nations.

"The protocol giving life to the Statute of the Court has now been signed by fifty-two States, of which forty-one have ratified it. But the court is open to all States of the world, and on several occasions States not parties to the protocol have been interested in cases which have been submitted to the court.

"On its actual record, the court has more than justified the expectations which were entertained when it was created. The questions submitted have been more numerous and the solutions reached have been more acceptable than most lawyers had anticipated. Each year save one special (or extraordinary) sessions have been held, in addition to the regular annual session. Thirteen judgments and sixteen advisory opinions have been handed down, and we have begun to get a cumulating body of materials for the development of international law which cannot fail to be of permanent influence.

Court's Prestige Increases.

"Moreover, as an institution, the court has functioned very satisfactorily, though a few minor changes are now under consideration. The judges have worked together harmoniously, their rules and procedure have enhanced the respect due to them, and the court's prestige has increased each year. No questions of administration have arisen to thwart its progress. Its budget forms a part of the budget of the League of Nations, and at no time has any very serious question arisen with reference to it.

"An estimate of the place of the Court in the international life of our time must take account of the nature of the problems arising between States which are likely to be submitted to such a tribunal. Many States have bound themselves to submit all differences of a legal nature to the Court, and in numerous multipartite and even bipartite treaties concluded in recent years it is stipulated that differences of opinion as to their application or interpretation shall be referred to it.

"Yet it is evident that the questions susceptible of adjudication by a process of litigation leading to a judgment may not cover many of the more serious problems, the solutions of which condition our international peace. For this reason, the power of the Court to give advisory opinions to the Council of the League of Nations is very important, and the value of this provision has been very much appreciated during these seven years.

"To Anglo-American lawyers the exercise of this function by a strictly judicial tribunal presents no novelty, for courts in England, in Canada, in Alabama, Colorado, Massachusetts and others of our States have long had a similar power. In international affairs it is even more important than in national polity. A political dispute of the kind which comes before the Council of the League of Nations often has legal phases which the parties would be unwilling to submit for a judgment. But an authoritative advisory opinion which is not strictly binding may clear them away in such manner as to enable progress to be made by the body responsible for dealing with the political phases and for the maintenance of peace.

"It is in this way, probably more than in its process of adjudication, that the court's chief contribution is to be made to the peace of the world. The record of seven years warrants a hope that the contribution will be large and increasingly important."

BRICK INDUSTRY SLUMPS IN HAVERSTRAW YARDS

Old-Style Plants Believed Doomed—Hit by Foreign Competition.

Special to The New York Times.

HAVERSTRAW, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Competition of imported brick has resulted in the closing of many brick yards this season in Haverstraw, the brick manufacturing centre of the Hudson Valley, with little likelihood of their reopening. Of a total of nineteen yards only three are now operating and of these only one is the old open-type yard. The other two are modern factories, equipped with all mechanical and labor saving devices.

The present price of brick in the New York market is so low that even the modern yards have difficulty manufacturing at a profit. Imports of Belgian brick have sent the market down to less than $10 a thousand, and the cost of manufacturing in the old open yards is much greater than that amount. Local brick manufacturers are unable to load bricks on the docks here at the present market prices, much less ship them down the river and unload them at New York.

The construction of modern plants by the Excelsior Brick Company and the Denovelles Brick Company has reduced the cost of manufacturing and has made brickmaking a year-round industry instead of a seasonal job dependent to a great extent upon the weather.

It is thought that with the reduced cost of manufacturing, together with the proposed tariff on brick, local manufacturers will be able to compete with the low prices of foreign brick. However, the same features which permit modern yards to operate at a possible profit have sounded the death-knell of the old open yards.

In an old-time open yard about 200 men were employed to manufacture an average of 50,000 brick daily under favorable weather conditions. The newer manufacturing equipment enables the manufacturers to double production with one-third of the labor.

THE CUSTOMS COURT.

Old cotton rags, prepared for use in wiping machinery, constitute cotton waste advanced in value and therefore are subject to 5 per cent duty under paragraph 901 of the tariff act, the United States Customs Court ruled yesterday. The question, which, according to the court, has never been decided before, was raised by B. R. Anderson & Co. of Seattle in protesting against a levy of 10 per cent against the shipment, which was classified under paragraph 1457 as waste not specially provided for.

Silk umbrellas, equipped with a braided loop attached to the handle, were held dutiable at 90 per cent as articles in part of braid, in another decision by the court. The John Farwell Company of Chicago had protested against the assessment, claiming the umbrellas should have been taxed at 40 per cent as articles in chief value of silk.

GAME REFUGE IDEA GROWS.

Government's Efforts Are Supplemented by Many Land Owners.

The fact that sanctuary is one of the first essentials to maintaining a supply of game and bird life is coming to be generally realized, a bulletin of the American Game Protective Association says. Creation of refuges and sanctuaries by State and Federal authority is being supplemented by individuals as advocated by the association.

Many owners of large tracts of lands are establishing refuges on their properties. Throughout the Southern States tracts are being segregated as shooting preserves. Coincident with this is the establishment of sanctuaries where game will be fostered and preserved and encouraged to increase.

One outstanding example is the creation of a 60,000-acre game and fish preserve on Saint Simons Island, off the coast of Georgia, by Howard E. Coffin, automobile manufacturer of Detroit. Mr. Coffin is also the owner of Sapelo Island which he maintains as his personal estate.

It is Mr. Coffin's intention to create on Saint Simons Island a game preserve which will be without superior in the country. Breeding shelter and protection will be provided for all the native species of game and bird life, including deer, wild turkey, Bob-white quail, waterfowl, and experiments will be made in the introduction of the pheasant, pea fowl, and other exotic species.

The area selected for the sanctuary, lies twenty-seven miles south of the Sea Island Yacht Club on Saint Simons Island on the inland passage from New York to Florida. The entire tract is virtually a virgin wilderness. There are majestic pine groves interspersed with tangled thickets of palmetto and scrub oak. There are also numerous open spots which are being planted with game food. It is Mr. Coffin's intention to foster the increase of game in this sanctuary so that surrounding areas will be amply supplied for legitimate shooting purposes.

LUGGAGE SHOW OPENS.

Prominence Given Airplane Designs by Manufacturers.

Anticipating a record registration of buyers from all parts of the United States, 125 manufacturers of hand luggage and trunks opened the second national luggage and leather goods exposition yesterday at the Hotel Pennsylvania. The exposition will continue until Aug. 17.

The exhibits, which include articles from pocketbooks to steamer trunks, feature the latest designs for the coming season. Increased prominence is given this year to airplane luggage. Manufacturers who added this type to their line during the year claim the combined features of light weight and strength have appealed to many consumers outside the ranks of airplane travelers.

An innovation this year will be a special evening showing tonight at which luggage salesmen and their assistants from stores in the metropolitan district will be given an opportunity to inspect the new lines.

A business discussion tonight will precede a dinner of luggage manufacturers at which L. J. Fairchild of the Bureau of Standards of the Department of Commerce will be the principal speaker. Another dinner will be held tomorrow night at which Philip F. Gott of the Trade Association Department of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States will be the speaker. The annual banquet of exhibitors will be held on Thursday evening.

MOTORISTS TO DRIVE TO 'HOUSE OF THE SUN'

Hawaii Will Build New Road to World's Largest Extinct Crater, 10,000 Feet High.

Motorists on the Island of Maui, Territory of Hawaii, will be able to drive "in high" to the brink of the "House of the Sun," says a news letter from Honolulu telling of the recent survey made for a new road to the top of Haleakala, the world's largest extinct crater by the Territorial Department of Public Works. The road will lead to the highest rim of the giant sleeping crater, 10,000 feet above sea level. The "sun castle" has a circumference of twenty miles and is one of the main tourist attractions of the Island of Maui.

Haleakala is a part of the Hawaii National Park, the major portion of which is located on the Island of Hawaii. The road is to be built by the Territory with Federal aid to the boundaries of the park area, where the park service will take over construction of the top of the crater.

In its offering of gorgeous panoramas of great extent, the new highway will be unexcelled by any scenic drive in the world, in the opinion of road engineers here. From Puu Pahu, at 6,000 feet elevation, five islands of the Hawaiian chain will be visible, rising from the blue plain of the outstretched seas: West Maui, Molokai, Kahoolawe, Lanai and (in clear weather) distant Oahu. The Island of Hawaii is visible from the brink of Haleakala, also (on very rare occasions) the Island of Kauai.

At the present time there is an auto road to within ten miles of the crater rim, and the remainder of the trip is made on horseback or afoot.

The following announcement is made of a unique event in November:

"Hawaii's prettiest and best hula dancers will be brought together from all corners of the Island group to participate in the Festival of Pacific races to be held in Honolulu Nov. 7-11. In addition to the dancers, there will be choruses of singers from all the islands and a massed orchestra of Hawaiian instruments for the two main night programs of Hawaiian hula and music.

"Parades, novel sport contests and demonstrations by the various races represented in America's mid-Pacific melting pot will all be a part of the great November program being inaugurated this year as an annual Fall festival of entertainment. Sports events scheduled include a special game of the new Waikiki sport of surfboard polo, a championship football clash and a boxing program.

"These major parades and exhibitions will take place during the festival period. The most novel of these will be an illuminated parade of Pacific races, depicting native customs and holiday practices of the races in Hawaii. Among the races that will participate are Hawaiians, Chinese, Japanese, Filipinos, Samoans and Koreans.

"A moving flower garden, several miles long, will be presented in a motorists' floral parade, and on Armistice Day the many army and navy units stationed at America's greatest military outpost will stage a spectacular parade and demonstration."

UNTERMYER SENDS FOR KEY WITNESS

Asks Return of L. W. Prince, a Broker in Westchester's $948,000 Deal.

HEARINGS OPEN IN SECRET

Leading Figures in Transaction Are Examined by Governor's Investigator on First Day.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Samuel Untermyer's investigation of the transaction whereby the Westchester County Supervisors acquired for $948,000 a county building site here said to be worth only $561,000 struck a snag today because of the absence in Montana of L. Ward Prince, president of the realty firm of Prince & Ripley, one of the brokers in the transaction. Mr. Prince, who appraised the property at $948,000 before it was purchased, is regarded as a key witness. His business associates, it was said, were instructed to notify him to report here at once to give his testimony.

Mr. Untermyer, under the limitations of his appointment by Governor Roosevelt, has no power to compel Mr. Prince to return, but hopes that he will cut short whatever errand took him from the country and make himself available for questioning.

At the close of the first day of his investigation, conducted behind closed doors in the office of the clerk of the Board of Supervisors, Mr. Untermyer declared that his examination of several witnesses had disclosed sufficient evidence to warrant the beginning of public hearings next week. It was learned that he is also considering the advisability of asking Governor Roosevelt to order the calling of an extraordinary grand jury and that he has been assured that such a request would be granted if the preliminary investigation indicates that it is needed.

Hearing Behind Closed Doors.

Reporters were barred from the opening session of the investigation. Mr. Untermyer would only say for publication that he had examined witnesses and refused to furnish a list of those called before him. The following, however, were observed entering the investigators' chambers:

EDWARD P. HARRETT, chairman of the Committee on Budget and Appropriations, who remained with the investigator throughout the day's examination.

WILLIAM A. DAVIDSON, County Attorney, who handled the legal end of the transaction for the county and who was in Mr. Untermyer's office throughout the session.

CHARLES B. M. HILLEM, County Treasurer, whose office has charge of issuing the certificates of indebtedness in the transaction.

JAMES A. SULLIVAN, supervisor from Yonkers and minority leader in the board, who was responsible for the investigation through his denunciation of the deal as "suspicious" from the time it was first mentioned in the July meeting of the board.

JERE MILLEMAN, County Controller, who testified as to the routine of handling the claims.

CHARLES M. CARTER, assistant to County Attorney Davidson.

ALBERT W. LOCKYER, a partner in the Grand Court Realty Corporation, which received $400,000 for the largest item in the transaction. Sullivan considered this part of the deal particularly "suspicious," making it known that Lockyer is a business associate of Mr. Prince, who appraised the parcel at $400,000 for the county. Sullivan offered an "authoritative" appraisal which valued it at only $300,000.

AUSTIN K. GRIFFIN and H. ROSS CLARK, joint owners of probably the most disputed of the parcels, the plot at 13 Grand Street, about 50 by 104 feet in area, for which the county paid $100,000. Sullivan's appraiser put the value at $75,000.

Griffin Defends His Price.

"Sure it was a fair price," Griffin declared when he came from the investigator's chambers. Asked if he thought the assessment of the city, which placed the value at about 50 per cent of what he got, was near the true value, he declared:

"Are they ever? Will you sell me your property at what the city assesses it? I should say the assessments run to about 50 per cent of the value. Land is selling adjoining us for $2,000 a front foot. Why even over here on Grand Street, where the property seems less desirable they are asking as much as $1,700. If I had my property back I wouldn't sell it for what the county gave us."

It is believed that Mr. Untermyer now considers the assessments to be about right. William J. Weiss, tax assessor for the city of White Plains, declared that the property was assessed to 95 per cent of its sale value.

Mrs. Florence Devine, who acted as secretary in the hearing, is secretary to Fred Merritt, clerk to the Board of Supervisors in whose office the hearing is being conducted. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Gargan, who received $60,000 for one of the parcels purchased by the county.

The investigators expect that by the end of the week the preliminary hearings will have been completed. Then the hearings are to be conducted in public in the chambers of the Board of Supervisors. The Governor's agent is now busy collecting the information necessary to form a case. This, he believes, must be done in private, and one of those in chambers with Mr. Untermyer was at liberty to comment on the procedure.

The session commenced late this morning and adjourned about 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. Radcliffe Swinnerton, Mr. Untermyer's assistant, will be in charge tomorrow, Mr. Untermyer on alternate days.

With regard to competitive sites, a point which may develop into a major issue in the investigation, it is recalled that the committee mentioned another site adjoining the court house which the county has owned for several years. It was dismissed from further consideration, however, with the following explanation quoted from the resolution offered by the committee:

"Your committee would further report that in considering the purchase of the property above referred to (the property just purchased) and in making the recommendation for the purchase as aforesaid, they have taken into consideration the property now owned by the county and situated between Mamaroneck Avenue and Court Street, known as the Miles Building and the old schoolhouse property and are of the opinion that Mamaroneck Avenue property in the city of White Plains at the present time equals if it does not exceed the value of Main Street property, and that the property now owned by the County of Westchester and facing on Mamaroneck Avenue is too valuable for the purpose for which it was purchased and for the purposes for which the county will use it, and that the property which we recommend be acquired for county purposes is equally, if not better adapted for the uses of the county, and that in the opinion of your committee it is possible at the present time to dispose of the Mamaroneck Avenue frontage of the school site property which will be less than one-half of the area of the school site property, for a sum which will be sufficient to pay the entire cost of the property which we herein recommend to be purchased."

THREE BIG SALES ON THE WEST SIDE

Operators Figure Prominently in Transactions Reported Closed Yesterday.

CENTURY BLOCK IS RESOLD

Benjamin Benenson Buys Central Park West Block Front and Frank Pettit West End Av. Corner.

The outstanding feature in the real estate market yesterday was the announcement by H. I. & I. S. Chanin, builders of the Chanin Building, the Hotel Lincoln and other Manhattan skyscrapers, of the resale of the Century Theatre block, bounded by Sixty-second and Sixty-third Streets, Broadway and Central Park West, to French governmental agencies, as a site for a sixty-five-story hotel and commercial building. The project will involve about $50,000,000.

Another west side transaction was the sale of the block front on Central Park West between 102d and 103d Streets by Max Goldstein to Benjamin Benenson, operator. The parcel, which contains about 32,500 square feet, has a frontage of 200 feet on Central Park West, 168.6 feet on 103d Street and 154 feet on 102d Street.

The property, which was held at $2,000,000, is improved with seven apartment houses and has been in the possession of the seller for more than five years. The broker in the transaction was Saul L. Davis. M. Carl Levine represented the sellers.

Franklin Pettit, operator, completed the assembling of a plot 102.2 by 100 feet at the southwest corner of West End Avenue and Eighty-sixth Street, improved with five dwellings. The corner house, known as 539 West End Avenue, was acquired from Mrs. Mary Richards Braman and the dwelling at 533 from the Alwyn Corporation. The other structures comprising the plot, at 531, 535 and 537, have been owned by Mr. Pettit for a long period.

The 149 East Forty-seventh Street Corporation, Colonel Thomas Crimmins, president, purchased from Florence Tyler 147 East Forty-seventh Street, a three-story dwelling, 16.8 by 100.5 feet, as a light protector for its fifteen-story Buchanan apartment house, occupying the block front on the west side of Third Avenue, between Forty-seventh and Forty-eighth Street.

LOTS IN SEASIDE PARK SOLD

New Jersey Parcel Between Ocean and Bay Brings $54,200 at Auction.

Ninety-four lots in Seaside Park, N. J., between the Atlantic Ocean and Barnegat Bay, brought $54,200 at an auction last Saturday conducted by Joseph P. Day.

The southeast corner of West Central and Brighton avenues brought $900 from Lo Kojassar of Seaside Park, who also purchased the adjoining block front on West Central Avenue for $1,800, and the southeast corner of D Street and West Central Avenue for $900. Inside lots on Barnegat Avenue brought $500 each, while those on Brighton Avenue went for $475 apiece.

Henrietta Reynolds of Richmond Hill, N. Y., bought the northwest corner of Brighton and East Central Avenues for $1,550, the adjoining lots going for $750 apiece.

DETENTION CONTRACT LET.

City's House for Women to Be Built by Psaty & Fuhrman.

The contract for the erection of the House of Detention for Women at 108-18 West Tenth Street, 2-16 Greenwich Avenue and 105-13 Sixth Avenue has been awarded to Psaty & Fuhrman on a bid of $1,174,000, according to Brown's Letters, Inc., Construction Reports.

Plans for the building were prepared by Benjamin W. Levitan and Sloan & Robertson. The heating engineers are Hattenhof & Lou. Contract for the heating was awarded to Almirall & Co. and for the plumbing to the J. S. Murphy Company.

NATIONAL CITY BANK RENTS.

Plans Branch at Fifth Avenue and Thirteenth Street.

The National City Bank has leased for a long term from the Marinello Company the ground floor and basement in 72 Fifth Avenue, northwest corner of Thirteenth Street, for an additional banking and safe deposit office, according to Tankoos, Smith & Co., brokers in the deal.

The Marinello Company, which manufactures beauty preparations and conducts a parlor in the building, recently leased a floor in 74-76, adjoining, through Huberth & Huberth.

To Open a Retail Cutlery Store.

J. A. Henckels, Inc., cutlery importers, leased a storeroom in 730 Fifth Avenue, the Heckscher Building, for its first retail cutlery store in this country. The long-term lease involves an aggregate rental of about $400,000. Mosse, Inc., linen dealers, now occupying the store, will move to 750 Fifth Avenue. The Henckels company will open its store, after alterations, about Oct. 1. Cushman & Wakefield were the brokers in both leases.

REAL ESTATE NOTES.

Thoms & Flaunlacher, Inc., were brokers in the recent sixty-three-year lease of 32-34 East Fifty-seventh Street by Robert L. Stroman to the Joe Holding Corporation, Joseph E. Siegel, president.

The Charles H. Noyes Company arranged the lease of the building at 536 Fifth Avenue to the Touraine Glove Company.

The Centrum Corporation represented the Central Hanover Bank and Trust Company in its recent acquisition of the northeast corner of Franklin and Church Streets from the Becker estate.

Ada Beth Kellogg, broker, of 109 Fourth Avenue, has entered into a copartnership agreement with Mary C. Eddy, also a broker, to conduct a business under the name of Kellogg & Eddy, at the same address.

The strike of electrical workers has delayed opening of the Hotel Governor Clinton, at Seventh Avenue and Thirty-first Street, until next Monday. The hotel has 1,200 rooms, and plans for an 800-room addition have been filed. The Thompson-Starrett Company, builders, reports that this is one of the first buildings of its size to be erected without a major accident to any workman.

LEASEHOLD DEALS.

Apartment House in West 75th Street Leased.

Charles H. Astwood has leased for ten years the six-story elevator apartment house at 136 West Seventy-fifth Street, near Amsterdam Avenue, at an aggregate rental of about $200,000. The Ru-Clar Realty Corporation (Geisler and Kraker) is the lessor. Mr. Astwood, a former hotel owner in Miami, Fla., plans to operate the apartment house. He now is general manager of Del Sappenfield, Inc., which arranged the deal in conjunction with the Sanderson Realty Corporation.

The southeast corner of Tenth Avenue and Forty-first Street, 64 by 39 feet, was leased for use as a gasoline station by Joseph M. Garvey to the L. & S. Gas Stations, Inc., David Lind, president for twenty-one years from May 1, 1929. The annual rental, in addition to taxes and assessments, ranges from $4,500 for the first five years to $6,000 for the last six years. On Aug. 8 the L. & S. Gas Stations, Inc., sold this lease to the Hercules Gas Stations, Inc.

REALTY FINANCING.

Mortgage for $4,000,000 on Proctor Theatres Recently Sold.

The RKO Proctor Corporation, Hiram S. Brown, president, which recently bought various properties from the F. F. Proctor Holding Corporation, Clarence H. Wallen, president, has given a $4,000,000 mortgage to the latter covering in part the Palm Garden and Proctor's Fifty-eighth Street Theatre, upon which there are prior mortgages of $1,587,500, and Proctor's 125th Street Theatre, upon which is a prior lien of $117,500. The mortgage covers also buildings in Yonkers, Mount Vernon, Albany, Troy, Schenectady and Newark. The principal is due Feb. 1, 1949, at 5 per cent. It is to be amortized $50,000 semi-annually beginning Feb. 1, 1932.

Other recent financing includes the following:

Manhattan.

On the property just east of Kuyter Park, at the intersection of the Third Avenue Bridge approach with 129th Street, the Blue Diamond Holding Corporation, Vernon T. Baker, New Canaan, Conn., president, has given a purchase money mortgage for $53,845 to the Evmol Realty Corporation, Robert W. King, president. There is a first mortgage thereon for $242,745. The new mortgage comes due in five years at 6 per cent.

On the northwest corner of Wall and Front Streets, 42 by 60 feet, Helen Adele Weisman and Edith C. Iselin took back a purchase money mortgage for $200,000 from Financial District Realty, Inc., Patrick J. O'Connor, president, to whom they have just sold the piece. This mortgage, due Aug. 1 of next year, at 5½ per cent, is a first lien.

ROLLS ROYCE PLANS MOVE.

Automobile Company Leases in East 57th Street, Near Madison Avenue.

Rolls-Royce of America, Inc., plans to move from Eighth Avenue and Fifty-eighth Street to the twenty-story structure now being erected at 32-34 East Fifty-seventh Street, adjoining the American Art Association's building at the southeast corner of Madison Avenue, according to an announcement yesterday by Thoens & Flaunlacher, Inc., who arranged a lease for the automobile company in conjunction with Arthur Janes, Inc. The building, which the Jose Holding Corporation, Joseph E. Siegel, president, expects to complete by Jan. 1, will be named the Rolls-Royce Building.

The long-term lease covers the basement, ground floor, mezzanine and second floor. The basement space is to be laid out to simulate outdoor driving conditions, according to present plans.

PLANS BUILDING IN TRENTON

Wittemann Leases Site at Broad and State Streets From Bank.

Harold E. Wittemann, Brooklyn builder, has leased a corner at Broad and State Streets, Trenton, from the First Mechanics National Bank of Trenton and plans to erect there a five-story limestone building for occupancy next May 1. The intersection is said to be the city's busiest corner.

The lease is for twenty-one years at an aggregate rental of about $2,000,000. Nemerov & Nemerov acted as brokers in the deal.

Adds to Flower Hill Acreage.

John T. Snitzler of Flushing has bought a parcel adjoining on the west his holdings in Flower Hill, Nassau County. Upon his hillside plot of about three acres, which overlooks the North Hempstead Country Club, he plans to build a residence, according to L'Ecluse, Washburn & Co., the brokers.

START CLEARING SITE FOR BATTERY TOWER

Wreckers Razing Old Buildings to Make Way for Big Downtown Apartment House.

Wrecking operations on the site of Battery Tower, the forty-story $10,000,000 apartment hotel to be erected in the $50,000,000 Battery Town residential development to serve the Wall Street area, will be started today, according to Albert Mayer, president of Downtown Homes, Inc., the developers. The Greenhouse Company, Inc., will remove the four-story structures located on the site, 32 to 42 West Street, through to 56 to 66 Washington Street.

The demolition work will require from twenty-five to thirty days, according to Mr. Mayer, and immediately after the task is completed soundings will be taken for foundations and actual construction work begun with a view to having the structure ready for occupancy next Fall.

Thompson & Churchill, architects for the building, are completing plans, which call for the use of the five lower floors for offices and the upper thirty-five stories for residential suites. The plans include a series of terraces overlooking the Hudson River. Inquiries for space in this first unit of Battery Town have been heavy, according to Mr. Mayer.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 12.—The northeastern disturbance is north of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and pressure is relatively low along the Maryland Coast. Another disturbance is advancing eastward over Western Ontario. Pressure is relatively high in the upper lake region, over Eastern New Mexico and Northeastern Texas and over Montana.

During the last twenty-four hours showers and thunderstorms have occurred in the South Atlantic and East Gulf States, in North New England, along the Middle Atlantic Coast, in the Upper Mississippi Valley and in the upper lake region and in the north portion of the West Gulf States.

Temperatures have fallen slightly in the southern lake region and have risen over the Middle and Southern Plains States, the Missouri Valley and in Colorado.

The outlook is for thunder showers on Wednesday in the Atlantic States, for showers Tuesday night or Wednesday in the Ohio Valley and lower lake region and for showers Tuesday and Wednesday in Tennessee. Elsewhere the weather will be mostly fair Tuesday and Wednesday in the Washington forecast district, without material change in temperature.

SETS NEW RECORD FOR THIRD CLASS.

The I. M. M. Carried 12,113 Tourists in Thirteen Ships in Two Months.

MINNEKAHDA HEADS FLEET

Other Lines Report Increase in This Type of Travel—Better Service Now Provided.

All records for transportation of tourist third class passengers to Europe in the ships of the International Mercantile Marine Company were broken this Summer, it was announced yesterday by J. S. Mahood, passenger traffic manager. A total of 12,113 persons crossed in the thirteen ships of the company which serve that class, as compared with 9,683 in 1928, the best previous mark. The months of June and July alone are considered in the totals.

Several records for tourist third class transportation were broken by individual ships and some capacity figures were reported. The Minnekahda carried 809 passengers June 29, setting a new high mark for tourist third class traffic on a single trip for the entire fleet. The Majestic carried 712 when she sailed July 10 and the Olympic carried 436 when she sailed July 19, both ships beating their own previous high marks. The Belgenland, sailing July 29, carried 601 passengers and the Adriatic, sailing June 15, carried 414.

The Minnekahda carried 1,932 passengers in tourist third class in three sailings, a record for the fleet. The other ships and their totals follow in this order:

Majestic 1,805, Belgenland 1,373, Olympic 1,230, Homeric 1,078, Baltic 880, Minnesota 774, Albertic 750, Adriatic 737, Cedric 618, Lapland 380, Pennland 329, Arabic 227. These ships are owned by the White Star, Red Star and Atlantic Transport lines.

In the past year the steamship Arabic was remodeled, several of the old third class accommodations were abolished and tourist quarters were substituted. On the Belgenland second class quarters were entirely abolished and tourist quarters succeeded them. A more tolerant attitude toward travel in tourist quarters has developed, Mr. Mahool said. This, combined with elimination of steerage, which has made available much space, has given tourist quarters a new importance with ship lines.

"Accommodations that were not thought of in connection with tourist third class a few years ago," said Mr. Mahool, "are now taken for granted. The public rooms correspond with those of first class. These include the veranda café, smoking room and lounge. Dining tables accommodate groups of only two, four or six. Push bells in the passengers' quarters add to their service."

Other steamship companies report that tourist third-class travel has grown. Passengers no longer show aversion to it, shipping men say. They attribute much of the changed attitude to the improved quarters, which are made possible to some extent by the added incomes, traceable to the greater volume of travel on all lines.

OFFICIALS SEEK TAXES IN 'MYSTERY' BUSINESS

Summon Principals at Milwaukee to Tell of 26 Per Cent Investments, Newspaper Says.

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 12 (AP).—Federal and State officials today sought information regarding income tax reports of Elmer S. Huckins, aged 60, of Milwaukee and Chicago, and his son, George E. Huckins of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, who were reported to have received millions of dollars from investors.

The Milwaukee Journal, in a copyrighted story, today said the sudden wealth seemingly achieved by the two men has induced many residents of Wisconsin and other States to invest with them a sum estimated by the newspaper at $3,000,000.

The money is for use, the newspaper account said, at an annual interest rate of 26 per cent, in a business enterprise, the nature of which its sponsors have declined to announce publicly.

Officials also sought to discover the nature of the Huckins enterprises.

Last week the elder Huckings was served with a subpoena requiring him to appear at the Federal Building here for examination before the Internal Revenue Collector today.

Yesterday, accompanied by two Cedar Rapids attorneys, he obtained an adjournment until a date between Aug. 20 and 28.

When Huckins and his son appear before the tax officials they will be required to reveal the nature of their business, which, the paper said, has mystified bankers, the Wisconsin Railroad Commission, credit agencies and investigators for commercial associations.

ADMITS LOOTING AUTOS.

Salesman Held Without Bail for Taking Bag From Car.

Leroy Campbell, 38 years old, a salesman living at the Mills Hotel, Seventh Avenue and Thirty-sixth Street, was held without bail for the grand jury yesterday by Magistrate Goodman in Yorkville court. He is charged with the theft of two bags of clothing valued at $800 from an automobile belonging to Gerard C. Carroll, an attorney, of 2,922 Grand Concourse, the Bronx.

The bags were stolen while Mr. Carroll's car was parked near a restaurant in Forty-third Street, between Fifth and Madison Avenues, on Aug. 4.

The arrest of Campbell followed a chase through the theatre district on Saturday night.

When searched at the station Campbell's pockets yielded pawn tickets representing, the police declare, $10,000 worth of merchandise which the say he confessed he had stolen from various parked automobiles in the same district during the past few months.

WILL HELP TAXI STRIKERS.

Labor Council Officials to Take Hand—Operators See "Racket."

The New York Central Trades and Labor Council, a constituent member of the American Federation of Labor, will today take a hand in the Brooklyn taxicab strike situation when officials of the council address the striking drivers at 1 P. M. at strike headquarters, 430 Hopkinson Avenue, Brooklyn, Morris Schechter, secretary of Teamsters Local 810, said yesterday.

Among the officials expected are J. S. Marks, organizer of the A. F. of L., James C. Quinn, secretary of the council; Morris Schechter and other labor leaders.

At a conference yesterday at 1,808 Broadway in the offices of the Checker Cab Sales Corporation, twenty-six fleet operators affected by the strike in Williamsburg, East New York, and Brownsville agreed that under no circumstances would the strikers' association be recognized, on the ground that it was not a legitimate labor organization but merely another "racket."

Taxi service in Brownsville and East New York on the fourth day of the strike remained semi-paralyzed. Union officials claimed yesterday that 1,000 cabs were tied up and that 2,000 men were on strike.

The Yellow Taxi Cab Corporation and small fleet owners who have already settled with the union and a few of the large garages not yet affected by the strike did their customary business. Strikers continued to picket before garages, but there were no arrests last night.

ASKS FORD AID ON 'WRECKS'

Harvey Wants Help to Rid Lots and Roads of Abandoned Cars.

Borough President George U. Harvey of Queens made public yesterday a letter written Saturday to Henry Ford in which he seeks the automobile manufacturer's aid in ridding lots and highways of abandoned cars.

"As the most prolific producer of automotive equipment in the world I think your company should bear a large part of the responsibility for the elimination of the abandoned-car problem," it read. "It is in the hope that you may be able to devise some plan which can be placed in operation on a nation-wide scale to make use of abandoned automobiles through a system of salvage that I call this situation to your attention."

He went on to say that collecting the old cars in dumps defaced the landscape, and that 5,000 abandoned cars had been collected in this manner in the past five months by the Highway and Street Cleaning Bureaus of Queens.

Fire Routs Asbury Park Guests.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 12.—A fire in a café occupying a store on the grand floor of the Asbury Essex Hotel in Cookman Avenue, two blocks from the boardwalk here, routed seventy-five sleeping guests early this morning. S. H. Van Dyke of Asbury Park, who had been confined to his room for some time on account of illness, was carried down a ladder from the second floor to safety by a fireman. The blaze was extinguished before the damages amounted to $1,000.

Elmhurst Club Bolts Cox Ticket.

The Amerind Democratic Club of Elmhurst, one of the largest in Queens, last night adopted resolutions repudiating the ticket named by the Democratic executive committee, which is headed by County Clerk Cox for Borough President. The resolutions pledged the support of the club to the candidacies of Bernard M. Patten for Borough President and Municipal Court Justice John M. Cragen for Surrogate.

Honduran Ship Sinks Off Brazil.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 12 (AP).—The Honduran steamer San Luis sank yesterday in the port of Santos, Brazil, after a collision with the Argentine steamer Ibera. It was reported here that the crew had been saved.

DOUBTS POWER SALE WOULD PAY FOR CANAL

Col. Carrington Calls Sponsors of Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Plan Over-Enthusiastic.

The proposal to incorporate the Federal Ship Company, with a capital of $500,000,000, to finance a waterway between the Great Lakes and the Atlantic by using the St. Lawrence River and the New York State ship canals is valuable as a means of throwing open an important problem to public discussion, but its supporters are over-enthusiastic as to its possibilities, in the opinion of Colonel Edward C. Carrington, chairman of the Great Lakes-Hudson Waterways Association.

The organization, of which Colonel Carrington is the head, is sponsoring the linking of the Great Lakes and the Atlantic by an all-American route in opposition to the St. Lawrence route. In the plan now projected, which will be brought before Congress next Fall in a bill introduced by Representative Daniel A. Reed of New York, an international waterway would be created and the cost of the project would be amortized by the returns from hydroelectric power which would be developed from the Niagara and St. Lawrence Rivers. Millard F. Bowen is one of the sponsors and spokesman for the project.

Colonel Carrington said yesterday: "I have not seen a copy of the bill and am therefore not well prepared to commend or criticize it, but when Mr. Bowen figures on $65.35 a year return per horsepower, or a grand total of $160,000,000 per annum from power alone, I think he is over-enthusiastic. None of the engineers whom I have consulted about the two projected waterways ever indicated or believed that the water power would amortize the construction of the canal.

"Undoubtedly, if appropriate arrangements could be made with Canada, hydro-electric development of the Niagara and St. Lawrence Rivers would help pay the cost of construction and further the amortization of the construction cost. This project would require a treaty between the American and Canadian Governments and the consent of the Province of Quebec and the State of New York. I have never believed such a treaty could be negotiated, satisfactory to this country, respecting either the use of a common waterway or utilization of the power incident thereto."

COAST GUARDS SEARCH FOR TWO SMALL CRAFT

Yacht of New York Club Is Missing—Two Boys Adrift on Rhode Island Sloop.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Aug. 12 (AP).—All Coast Guard vessels along this section of the coast were ordered to keep a sharp outlook today for two boats reported missing. One is the twenty-one-foot auxiliary sloop Storm King, in which two 15-year-old boys named Billinghast and Madison left Saunderstown, R. I., Aug. 7 for a cruise and have not been heard from since.

The other is the yacht Merry Widow, which sailed with the New York Yacht Club from New Haven Saturday and has not been reported.

In view of the storm over the week-end fears are entertained for the safety of the crews of the sloop and yacht.

HAMBURG LINE CHIEF HOME.

J. P. Meyer Reports More Tourists Visiting Germany and Britain.

Julius P. Meyer, senior director of the Hamburg-American Line, arrived yesterday on the steamer Hamburg after a motor vacation in Central Europe with Mrs. Meyer. They were accompanied by Anton C. G. Hupfel, New York realty operator, who was host on the automobile tour through Germany, Hungary, Austria, Switzerland and France.

Mr. Meyer said he conferred with directors of the line in Hamburg before starting his motor tour, but added that there was nothing new planned for the company in shipbuilding. The program of reconditioning the Hamburg, the New York, the Deutschland and the Albert Ballin will begin in September and be completed by next Summer, he said.

Mr. Meyer said tourist travel was being diverted from France and more travelers were spending vacations in the British Isles and in Germany than ever before. French merchants and hotel men are feeling the effect of the change, he said.

Erich Ferdinand Laiesz, great-grandson of the founder of the Laiesz sailing ship line from Hamburg to the West Coast of South America, was another passenger on the Hamburg. He is an official delegate from the German Yachting Association to the Marblehead (Mass.) regatta.

The Laiesz family still maintains a vestige of the old sailing company, founded more than 100 years ago. It is one of the few sailing fleets of the seas.

It's COOL in Canada

IF a cool, pine-laden breeze blew down out of Canada to your hot city, would you follow it back to its northland home? A short train journey and then—you embark on a luxuriously appointed steamer to sail down the St. Lawrence River. All the historic grandeur of old French Canada is crowded upon its shores.

You see the jewelled Thousand Islands and shoot the series of eight roaring rapids to Montreal. This is a prelude to the sterner beauty of the rugged Laurentian Mountains that follow the river from Quebec City to thrust their stupendous, rocky heads into the black waters of the mysterious Saguenay.

Murray Bay, where the fashionable Manoir Richelieu operates its own superb golf links, and Tadoussac, with its comfortable hotel and trout fishing camps—are ports of call.

IMPORTANT:
Our ships sail from the head of the Great Lakes down the St. Lawrence River, through the Saguenay Canyon, nearly 2000 miles of beauty and grandeur. The river varies from roaring rapids to a vast expanse of blue water 10 miles wide. Steamers may be boarded at Lewiston, Rochester, Duluth or Detroit in the U.S.A., or at Quebec, Toronto, Montreal or Quebec in Canada.

DOCTOR IS ARRESTED IN PARK AV. CHASE

Crowd Sees Detective, Waving Pistol, Seize Suspect, Who Denies $13,000 Theft.

WOMAN PATIENT ACCUSER

Physician, Unlicensed Here, Admits Taking Money to Start Sanatorium, the Police Say.

After a two-block chase along Park Avenue early last evening, Dr. Paul Odeon Islin, 37 years old, of 1,000 Park Avenue, was arrested by Detective Joseph J. O'Connor on a charge of grand larceny made by Miss Eva G. Kimball, a school teacher of 518 West 136th Street.

Miss Kimball met Dr. Islin last April when she went to him for treatment, she told the police. He interested her in a project to open a private sanitarium, she said, and she turned over to him her life savings of $13,000 to be invested in the proposed institution. The transaction took place in the lobby of the Hotel Astor, according to Miss Kimball.

Since that time, according to Miss Kimball, she has been unable to obtain information from Dr. Islin as to the progress of the project, and recently he invariably has been out when she called at his office, at 1,000 Park Avenue. Yesterday she made an appointment to see him and took Detective O'Connor, to whom she had told the story, with her.

When they entered the office, shortly before 6 o'clock last evening, Dr. Islin made a hurried departure out a rear exit, according to Detective O'Connor. The latter followed Dr. Islin, shouting for him to stop as he pursued him to the corner of Park Avenue and Eighty-sixth Street. There, according to O'Connor, with drawn pistol he brought the dapper doctor to a halt.

The pursuit of the doctor, who was without a hat and wore white flannels, attracted a large crowd which grew as he indignantly expostulated with the detective. O'Connor took him to the East Sixty-seventh Street Station and then to the West Forty-seventh Street Station, as the alleged swindle took place in the latter station's territory.

There Dr. Islin admitted receiving the money from Miss Kimball, according to the police, but insisted that it was in a legitimate business transaction. He told the detectives that he had come here from Paris about a year ago. According to the police he has no license to practice medicine in New York.

HEATH HELD IN JAIL; $50,000 BAIL REQUIRED

Charged on Three Counts Before Commissioner at Detroit in Sandlands's Death.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Aug. 12.—John M. Heath was arraigned today on three charges in connection with the death of Richard J. Sandlands, Federal prohibition agent, before J. Stanley Hurd, Federal Commissioner. A plea of not guilty was entered for him.

At the request of David A. Wolff, Assistant District Attorney, Heath's bail was set at $50,000 with two sureties.

He was unable to make the bond and was returned to the county jail. The examination will be held Aug. 26.

The warrant, similar to the one on which Heath's wife was arraigned on Friday, charges Heath with assaulting, resisting and interfering with Sandlands in the performance of his duty, resisting his attempts to seize their boat and having used a dangerous weapon.

Mrs. Heath's examination was moved forward to Aug. 26 to coincide with her husband's. Her bond was set at $25,000. She is held in the Woman's Detention Home.

Heath's account of the death of Sandlands was revealed today by Gregory H. Frederick, Assistant District Attorney.

Heath said that while he was cruising with his wife in their boat on the night of Aug. 3, a boat drew up with one man in uniform and one in civilian clothes. The latter, Sandlands, boarded the Maxine and directed Heath to follow the other boat to shore.

At the dock the uniformed man, Milton Larson, got out to telephone for help.

Heath said he told Sandlands: "This looks like a hi-jacking. I'm not going to wait here till he comes back." He then shot his boat out into the river. Sandlands locked his right arm around his neck from the rear. Heath said he was forced to let go the wheel. He then struggled with Sandlands and both fell into the water.

2 HURT IN BLAST ON YACHT

Captain and Member of Crew Injured at Beverly, Mass.—Vessel Sinks.

Special to The New York Times.

BEVERLY, Mass., Aug. 12.—Captain Howard E. Bartlett of the yacht Aloma, owned by Dudley L. Pickman of Boston and Beverly Cove, and Ellsworth Hundley, a member of the crew, are at the Beverly Hospital recovering from injuries they sustained yesterday when the Aloma, a power cruiser, exploded in Beverly Harbor.

Acetylene gas is held responsible for the explosion, which blew Captain Bartlett through the roof of the galley while he was preparing breakfast. His head and right arm were injured.

He was momentarily stunned, and when he regained consciousness he found Hundley lying unconscious on the stern deck. The skipper placed the boy in the tender and rowed for shore. But in his half-stunned condition he rowed about in circles in the fog for some time before he found assistance.

The Aloma sank by the bow in twenty feet of water, the stern remaining above surface until late afternoon, when it disappeared.

Captain Bartlett and Hundley were alone on the yacht, which was moored off the Jubilee Yacht Club, Sandy Point, Beverly.

Pair Towed 5 Miles by Tuna; Show 340-Pound Fish in Jersey

Special to The New York Times.

SEABRIGHT, N. J., Aug. 12.—Captain John A. Morrison and William C. Davidson of North Beach came ashore today with a real fish story—and the fish, a 340-pound one, to back it up. It was a tuna, the first of the season, killed after it had towed the mariners an exciting five miles.

Morrison and Davidson, after good luck with small fish along the north beach, had cast their lines at the entrance to Ambrose Channel, but sharks drove off their game so today they put out in a skiff for deep-sea fishing with hook and line. Half a mile southeast of the Ledges the prize tuna struck the hook and put out for the open sea, trailing the skiff behind. Finally, after a five-mile run, the tuna weakened and was hauled in and dispatched with a harpoon. Then it was towed ashore.

Captain Alfred W. Applegate, an expert on tuna, said that the specimen was an unusual variety, usually found in Cuban waters.

VARE FACES BATTLE FOR PHILADELPHIA

J. F. Dugan Quits as Public Welfare Director to Fight Organization in Primaries.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 12.—A battle at the September primaries for control of the Vare Republican organization of Philadelphia appeared unavoidable today, the final day on which candidates for nomination for county offices could file their papers.

It was generally agreed that the only way a definite split in the organization could be prevented would be through the retirement of William F. Campbell, who is on the Vare ticket for renomination for Register of Wills. Friends of Mr. Campbell declared this to be out of the question.

John F. Dugan, Campbell's opponent, quit today as Director of Public Welfare in the Cabinet of Mayor Mackey in order to clear the way for a "finish fight!" for the Register of Wills nomination. In addition to receiving the Mayor's support he received the endorsement of the Republican League, a body of independents.

Colonel George E. Kemp, candidate on the Vare slate for City Treasurer, submitted his resignation as Postmaster of Philadelphia in Washington today.

Colonel Kemp, who resigned in deference to the desire of Postmaster General Walter F. Brown after the latter indicated that it would embarrass his department to have one of its officials running for office while holding his postal position, has been postmaster here since 1922.

He was appointed on the recommendation of the late Senator Boies Penrose and was endorsed also by Mr. Vare, who then was a member of the House of Representatives. His salary as postmaster has been $8,000. The City Treasurer's post pays $10,000 a year, with additional fees. Colonel Kemp's resignation is effective on Aug. 31.

As a result of today's developments, political observers foresee a fight between Senator-elect William S. Vare and those ward leaders who are still loyal to him, on one side, and the so-called Green-Field-Monaghan-Mackey group on the other, aided by the Republican League.

As a result of Director Dugan's resignation, the Mayor of Philadelphia has a woman Cabinet member for the first time. Mrs. Henry Hall Sinnamon was promoted to the post of Acting Director of Public Welfare.

RITCHIE STRIKES BACK AT ATTACK BY DRY

Says Crabbe Offered to Support Him in Maryland Race to Get State "Volstead" Law.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 12.—George Crabbe, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League in Maryland, had offered to support him for re-election in the next campaign if he would support a State dry act, Governor Albert C. Ritchie stated today. Mr. Crabbe made the proposition in writing to Joseph D. Baker of Frederick City, said the Governor, who explained that Mr. Baker was not a party to the proposal.

The Governor made his statement in answer to a speech delivered by the Anti-Saloon League leader at Mountain Lake park yesterday, in which he was reported as saying:

"What Maryland needs most is a sober Governor who will attend to the State's business. We should have a Governor who will quit talking State's rights and spend more time attending to the State's business."

Governor Ritchie's statement in attacking Mr. Crabbe's veracity said the dry "was willing to stop" if he, Mr. Ritchie, "would sell out by passing a State Volstead act, and thus become the tool of his organization, and put on the people of Maryland the cost and burden and the corruption which such an act would mean."

"Of course," the Governor added, "I refused to sell out my convictions at any price, but if I had been willing to do it, Crabbe would have been for me today instead of lying about me."

GREENFIELD IS INDICTED.

Chicago Broker Charged With Larceny in Stock Sales.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12 (AP).—True bills charging embezzlement and larceny were reported to have been voted by the grand jury today against J. B. Greenfield, Chicago broker, who is accused of failing to deliver $581,000 worth of trustee Standard Oil Company shares purchased from him by Michigan and Illinois investors.

The organization of Greenfield & Co., of which he was president, was placed in the hands of a receiver last week.

All Michigan investors will recover the $165,000 they entrusted to the broker for securities not delivered, and investors in Illinois, who paid $366,000 for stock they never received, will also probably recover their money, Assistant State's Attorney Arthur Carleton announced.

WISE ACT REPEALED; SUBSTITUTE PASSED

Jersey Legislature Eliminates Disputed Retroactive Feature of Original Measure.

SIMPSON DENOUNCES BILL

Urges Delay Until 1931 and Declares Public Service Corporation Gets Everything It Wanted.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 12.—Called into special session for the purpose by Governor Larson, the Legislature today repealed the Wise act, regulating the use by public utilities of bridges taken over by the State Highway Commission. It passed a bill which does not include the disputed retroactive feature of the original measure.

The Democrats in the Senate and House voted with the Republican majority for repeal of the Wise act, but opposed passage of the substitute bill at this time. The new measure was signed immediately by the Governor.

Senator Alexander Simpson of Hudson County led the attack on the substitute in the upper house, while Assemblyman Morris Barison, also of Hudson, made the fight against it in the lower house. It passed the Senate by a vote of 13 to 2 and the Assembly by 38 to 4. Senator Simpson said the new bill was a re-enactment in principle of the Wise act and that the Public Service Corporation is getting just what it wants after all. Both he and Mr. Barison argued that instead of passing the substitute now the situation should be studied until the 1931 Legislature meets.

Limitation on Charges Included.

The modified Wise act, besides eliminating the retroactive feature of the original legislation, provides that agreements now in force between the utility companies and county or municipal authorities continue as binding until new agreements are negotiated with the State Highway Commission. It further provides that the act "shall not relieve any such public utility from the payment of any sum now due or claimed to be due or accrued under any contract previously entered into by any such public utility for its use of any bridge or viaduct."

The bill presented on July 2 eliminated a provision that a utility be required to pay no more than an amount sufficient to compensate the State for the extra burden imposed by reason of its use of any bridge or viaduct, but the measure offered today contained such a limitation. Wise explained that the bill had been drawn by the Attorney General after conference with the State Highway Commission and that it embodied the wishes of the highway authorities.

Repeal of the original act and the adoption of a modified form was recommended by Governor Larson at a conference with Republican leaders during the day. He embodied his views in a message to the Legislature.

Senate Confirms Appointments.

In addition to the action on the Wise act, the Legislature corrected the bill permitting a merger of savings banks in Newark. The act was originally passed without a title. The Senate received the appointments from the Governor and voted confirmation. They were:

PERCIVAL CHURCHILL of High Bridge, to succeed the late Bloomfield H. Mioch of Bridgeton on the State Board of Conservation and Development.

LYMAN MOREHOUSE of Montclair to succeed Robert D. Cox of Montclair, resigned, on the State Board of Education.

JAMES P. LOGAN of Newark to succeed Bernard W. Terlinde of Newark on the Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission.

Senator Simpson came to Trenton with two resolutions for the creation of bank inquiry committees. One consisting of three members of the Senate and three of the House, would investigate "events connected with and surrounding the rise and fall of the New Jersey Bankers Securities Corporation." The other, comprised of six bankers, would study bank operations in the State and report to the 1930 session what, if any, additional laws are required.

"Fifteen thousand stockholders, many of small means, paid $7,000,000 to the New Jersey Bankers Securities for stock, believing that they were protected by the banking laws," said Senator Simpson. "This stock was sold as high as $18 a share. The price bid on Saturday last in the open market was $1.25 offered, $2 asked. One thing is certain, if the public can be drained of millions of dollars, the law is wrong or the people who enforce it are wrong. A recurrence of this financial episode should be impossible so far as our State is concerned."

No action was taken on the measures.

The Jersey City fusion candidates in the May municipal election, which was won by Mayor Frank Hague, petitioned the Legislature to take over and continue the recount of the ballots. Members of the Hudson County Election Board were charged with contempt and their impeachment asked. Republican members of the election board were accused of playing with the Democrats in the hope of receiving favors from the Hague machine. No action was taken on the petition.

NINE HURT IN CRASH OF TROLLEY AND TRUCK

Passengers in Panic When Car Is Derailed at Lexington Avenue and 112th Street.

Nine persons were injured when a heavy truck crashed into a surface car at Lexington Avenue and 112th Street late last evening, knocking it from the rails and smashing most of the windows. After treatment by ambulance surgeons, all except Matilda Alman of 1,620 Lexington Avenue were able to go home. She was taken to Beth David Hospital suffering from shock and internal injuries.

The truck, driven by Herman Young of 249 West 122d Street, made a left turn out of 112th Street into Lexington Avenue just as the one-man trolley car reached the corner on its way north.

There were about twenty passengers in the car, most of them women. They were thrown into panic at the collision and fought madly to get out. A large crowd was attracted to the scene by the crash, which could be heard for blocks, and reserves of the East 104th Street police station had to be summoned to control the spectators and assist the injured persons from the car.

Six of the injured were able to go home after treatment in a corner drug store, while Ella Perry of 122 West 123d Street and Ethel Ackerman of 153 West 142d Street were taken to Beth David for first-aid treatment for bruises and shock. They were then able to go to their homes.

GERMANY TO CALIFORNIA IN 6 DAYS by ZEPPELIN TRAIN PLANE

RICHARD J. BURKE

48-HOUR COAST TO COAST RAIL-AIR SERVICE helps establish new world's record on 8000-mile trip

RICHARD J. BURKE of California—Survey Engineer—arrived in New York Sunday, August 4. He had come by Zeppelin from Friedrichshafen, Germany, in 93 hours, 40 minutes!

Next evening, August 5, he boarded The Airway Limited—famous Pennsylvania train—at 6.05 P.M. (Standard Time) in New York.

48 hours later he was in Los Angeles!—having completed the whole trip from Germany to California in less than six days of actual traveling time!...

The success of the first 48-hour Coast to Coast Rail-Air Service—developed by the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc., and the Santa Fe Railway—is due to many months of scientific investigation and preparation under supervision of a staff of experts, headed by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

In short, everything possible has been done to ensure in this new enterprise the same high standards of speed, security, comfort, which characterize the operations of "the largest fleet of trains in America".

For rates, information, tel. Penn. 6000. C. C. Trush, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Pennsylvania Station, New York. H. W. Conner, Eastern Traffic Manager, Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc., 27 West 57th St., New York. Tel. Wickersham 2050.

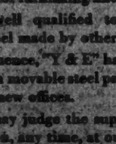
Chosen by those who "KNOW THEIR STEEL"



YAWMAN & ERBE, famous makers of office equipment, are past masters in the fabrication of steel for furnishing fine offices.

They are well qualified to judge products of steel made by others.

As a consequence, "Y & E" have chosen Hausermans movable steel partitions for their own new offices.

You, also, may judge the superiority of this partition, any time, at our interesting office planning exhibit.
